ARMY INCREASE BILL IS AT AMENDMENT STAGE IN HOUSE

SENATE MEASURE WILL BE TAKEN UP BY THAT BODY TOMORROW WITH ADMINISTRATION URGING ALL OTHER BUSINESS SIDETRACKED FOR THE TIME.

SENTIMENT FOR PREPAREDNESS

Interest Centers on Which of Two Measures Will Meet Nearest With President's Approval—Conference Committee Will Try to Reconcile Differences, Which Are Unimportant.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS.

Senate.

Report on Chamberlain army organization bill submitted.

Senator Hardwick spoke on national defense.

Adjourned at 4:53 p. m. to noon Monday.

House.

General debate on army bill resumed.

Adjourned at 4 p. m. to 11 a. m. Monday.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, March 18.—With virtually unanimous declarations for national preparedness the house army increase bill reached the amendment stage today after ten hours of one-sided general debate. The house will begin discussion of details in earnest Monday; but there are indications that opposition to the measure as a change in national policy has collapsed. No opponent appeared during the debate except Meyer London, the socialist representative from New York.

The senate's army bill also will come up Monday with the administration urging that the senate sidetrack all other business until it is disposed of. Interest centered tonight in President Wilson's attitude as between these two measures, which differ essentially.

Chairman Hay of the house military committee described the house bill during debate today as "the president's own bill." Republican Leader Mann questioned the accuracy of this description.

"Doubtless the president favors the best he can obtain," Mr. Mann said. "I have no doubt he favors it over existing law."

Tonight President Wilson let it be known that while he approves the general features of the Hay bill he has not committed himself to its details. Administration officials are looking to the conference committee which will adjust the house and senate bills after passage, to produce a measure which will have the president's full approval.

Speaker Clark closed the general debate in the house, expressing approval of the Hay bill and declaring it was satisfactory to the average American and as good as could be expected under the circumstances. The nation as a whole, he said, wished to hold a middle course.

"They want peace," he said, "but not peace at any price. They want peace with honor. They believe thoroughly that there are things worth fighting for. They are not willing to bankrupt the country on military and naval preparations, however, willing to spend all that is necessary for public defense."

Consideration of amendments began immediately on the close of the debate. The only change made today was to raise the rank of the chief of coast artillery from a brigadier to major general. An amendment by Representative Gardner, republican, of Massachusetts, to increase the committee's figures for additional men in the coast artillery corps from 17,000 to 22,000 was voted down without division, but after considerable argument.

When the house adjourned Representative Kahn had pending an amendment proposing a total authorized peace strength of 220,000 for the regular army instead of the committee's figure of 140,000. It will be taken up Monday and a test vote may come over its disposition.

CROWN PRINCE WILL BE HEROIC FIGURE IN GERMANY IF HE WINS VERDUN DRIVE

New picture of Crown Prince of Germany.

Should the Germans be victorious in their drive against the French at Verdun, Crown Prince Frederick Wilhelm, whose army is engaged in the attack, would become a heroic figure in Germany. On the other hand, should the drive prove a failure and scores of thousands of German lives be sacrificed without the capture of the French stronghold, the crown prince's popularity would suffer a great shock.

MINING MAN SAYS VILLA SAID WOULD FORCE INTERVENTION

El Paso, Texas, March 18.—Villa boasted three months ago that he would force intervention in Mexico by the United States, according to a story told here today by Harry Williams of Chihuahua, an American mining man. Williams asserted that he had heard Villa make the boast on December 13 last, when he was a prisoner of the bandit.

"I was one of thirty-nine Americans employed on the mining property of the Madera company," said Williams. "We were all arrested because the pay of the Mexicans working under us had not arrived from Chihuahua. It amounted to $17,000 and the company was afraid to send it because they were certain it would be confiscated.

"Villa brought us to Chihuahua and I have never seen him in an uglier mood. We did not know whether we were going to be shot, but we were not by any means optimistic.

"He told us, 'I am going to force intervention by the United States in three months. The United States has recognized Carranza and must pay for it.'

"He demanded $31,000 from the company. I do not know whether it was paid or not, but we were released the next day after being warned to keep off the streets.

"I planned to leave on the train that was made up to take out the men of the Cusi Mining company. Fortunately, I was ill and could not go. The next day I heard of the massacre of the eighteen Americans on the train at Santa Ysabel."

Mr. Williams has been seventeen years in Mexico, but says he is not anxious to return.

VILLA FINALLY LOCATED IN WESTERN CHIHUAHUA

CENSORSHIP ON BORDER IS TIGHTENED

Story Reported That Bandit Is Gathering Forces to Resist Pershing's Advance, but Consul Garcia Scouts Idea—Refugees from Torreon Give Thrilling Account of Experiences in Making Escape.

By the Associated Press.

El Paso, Texas, March 18.—The first phase of the American expedition into Mexico, the rush along Villa's dim trail to the endangered Mormon colonies, was an accomplished fact tonight—completed, according to reports reaching the Columbus base, without the firing of a hostile shot by the Americans.

The second phase already was beginning, it was indicated here, as the Americans turned somewhere from Casas Grandes to resume their night marches under the brilliant Mexican moonlight toward the rough mountain slopes where it is known Francisco Villa already has preceded them with more than 100 miles' start.

Warning that this second act in the chase might not pass without fighting against bandits was implied in a new and more stringent censorship imposed at Columbus. Further leakage of military movements, the censor said frankly to the American press, would be likely to cost soldiers' lives.

There was brief excitement today at Columbus. From across the hot, dusty Mexican border two soldiers on stretchers were brought into the camp. Both were cavalrymen. Excitement passed when it was learned that one had been thrown from his horse, injuring his leg, while the other, who at first was said to have been shot in the abdomen, was found to be suffering from a well known form of stomach trouble.

Will Not Occupy Cities.

When Washington announced the American columns did not intend to occupy cities a menace to Mexican national pride was removed. The Carranza garrisons which have been passed by the marching Americans and which therefore are in the Americans' rear on their flanks, continued tranquil, so reports to El Paso indicated.

General Gabriel Gavira at Juarez, commanding the territory through which for three days the Americans have been penetrating announced that for a time the situation as reported to him had been very delicate and even serious. With evident relief, he said, the crisis had passed. This crisis, it is believed, reached its height last night when couriers dashing into Casas Grandes announced with careless enthusiasm that the American troops would enter that city at midnight. General Gavira wired immediate orders to his troops not to permit this.

Dawn showed the long lines of cavalry horses just outside Colonia Dublan, their troopers dismounted and in camp at rest.

Villa Is Located.

Villa was located today with some degree of definiteness, if weight of evidence counts in pinning down his rapid shifts. From several sources, constitutionalists received messages all which placed him in approximately the same portion of Western Chihuahua. These dispatches had him nearly due south of the American column's present known positions and close to the Sierra Tarahumare mountains, so close to them, in fact, that if his reputation as a fox holds good during the American chase, he should be able to make a puzzling disappearance in these ranges with a very few hours' hard riding. By all accounts he is more than 100 miles ahead of the Americans, about the same distance he has been out of their reach for a week, but with one possibly important difference that while heretofore the Americans have been riding on a somewhat cold trail they are now nearing ground which Villa very recently passed over and where they may have practical opportunity to test the temper of the rural Mexicans from whom they might receive valuable information.

The story that Villa is gathering men and preparing to resist was revived in constitutionalist circles today and he was even said to have 10,000,000 rounds of cartridges and shells, many of home manufacture, secreted in the mountains where he was expected to make a stand. Doubt that Villa would do any such thing was expressed, however, by Andreas Garcia, the Mexican consul here, who claimed that Villa intends to make the American expeditionary force a joke. Mr. Garcia declared he was convinced that the bandit had no intention of fighting Americans.

Is Disbanding Army.

"One of my men," he said, "who returned from the Galeana district today brought me positive information that Villa was disbanding his men and intended to hide in the mountains with three or four of his trusted followers and defy the Americans to find him. An army might wander in that region

Resignation of Von Tirpitz Brings First German Crisis

By the Associated Press.

Berlin, March 17, Via London, March 18.—The Cologne Gazette says that the resignation of Admiral Von Tirpitz signalized the first serious crisis in Germany since the beginning of the war while in hostile countries have been several reorganizations of ministries.

The Gazette says the admiral's retirement does not signify abandonment of the submarine campaign which, as is shown by news dispatches of the last few weeks in regard to submarine activity, is in full swing.

It is not yet known publicly, the Gazette continues, whether or to what extent Admiral Tirpitz's resignation was connected with the submarine question but there appears incipient signs in the press, the Reichstag and Prussian chamber that an effort is being made to bring public opinion to see that submarines should not be used to such an extent or manner to subdue an enemy.

The newspaper argues that such an attempt to bring the pressure of public opinion to bear upon Germany's methods of conducting the war does not harmonize with German military traditions.

This argument is supported by a long diversion into the recent history of France, Italy and Russia to prove that public opinion drives the military authorities into disastrous strategy.

German Offensive Slackens All Along Western Front

The Associated Press summarizes the war situation as follows:

The German offensive in the Verdun region now nearing the end of its fourth week again has slackened decidedly, both Paris and Berlin reporting the continued absence of infantry operations by either side. The big guns here and there along the front in the vicinity of the fortress are intermittently pounding opposing positions, but the chief activity just at present seems to be by the airmen.

Numerous raids by the French aviators are reported by the Paris war office, the points bombarded including the railway stations of Conflans and Metz. The showers of heavy shells dropped are declared to have been effective in causing numerous explosions and fires.

Elsewhere on the western front artillery is the only military arm that has been busily occupied and even this has not displayed more than ordinary activity. In Russia there has been only sporadic fighting although there are signs of preparations for movements of probable importance, particularly along the northern end of the line.

The Austrians have turned on the Italians along the Isonzo where the initiative has recently been for the most part with General Cadorna's forces. Vienna announces a successful attack north of the Tolmino bridgehead in which Italian positions were captured together with nearly five hundred prisoners and three machine guns.

In Arabia the British report a defeat for a Turkish force which attacked an outpost near Aden.

London announces the torpedoing of the Dutch steamer Palembang, bound from Rotterdam to Java. The vessel met her fate off the Galloper light in the Thames estuary Saturday morning. All the members of the crew are reported saved.

Bowie County to Remain Dry

By The Associated Press.

Texarkana, Tex., March 18.—Bowie county, Texas, remains dry, following today's election in which prohibition won by a majority of 1,138, with but one small box to hear from, which can not materially change the result. The county has been dry for the past four years, but today's election was the result of anti-prohibition agitation. The complete vote was: For prohibition, 2,291; against, 1,153. Texarkana, the largest city, returned a majority of six for prohibition.

Only One Mexican Railroad in Shape to Help Americans

By the Associated Press.

El Paso, March 18.—Only one of the two Mexican railways penetrating the territory where the American punitive columns are operating is in shape to serve the Americans, if permission is granted. Both has terminals in Juarez. Villa, by burning a bridge on the Mexican Northwestern railway at Corralitos, effectively cut off communications by that line. It would require about two weeks to reconstruct this bridge after materials are shipped. The Mexican National line could probably supply all wants of the present columns, according to railroad men. They said tonight that within two or three days the Mexican National should be able to assemble sufficient rolling stock to care for the United States troops' needs.

Maj. Gen. George Bell Jr., in charge at El Paso, said tonight he had no information to give out as to the plans to send supplies by rail.

CONDITIONS BETTER IN TAMPICO CLAIMED

WASHINGTON ASKS FOR USE OF MEXICAN RAILWAY IN PRESENT MOVEMENTS.

De Facto Government Officials Believe Will Be Advice Against Action.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, March 18.—Reassuring advices came to both the state and war departments today from Mexico, where an American army is following the trail of Villa and his bandit followers. The official reports indicated that the American troops thus far had encountered no Villa followers though it was indicated a brush with them might be expected soon and consular dispatches told of quiet conditions elsewhere throughout Mexico.

State department advices which included a dispatch saying conditions were improving about Tampico were laid before President Wilson personally tonight by Acting Secretary Polk. Mr. Polk also conferred late in the day with Eliseo Arredondo, General Carranza's ambassador-designate, but neither official would discuss the subjects of their talk except to say that reference had been made to shipments of munitions which the de facto government is anxious to get to Vera Cruz from New York. General Funston's request that the American railways for permitted to use Mexican railways for troop transportation was forwarded late today to Consular Agent Rogers for presentation to General Carranza at Queretaro. Officials here closely associated with the de facto government are understood to believe that Carranza will be strongly advised by many of his followers against granting the request on grounds that to do so might arouse public sentiment against the de facto government seriously affecting the control it has established over the native population.

The report of better conditions at Tampico and in the adjacent oil fields where the situation for several days past has been a cause of some concern brought the information that previous apprehension had been caused by the failure of the military authorities to receive from the de facto government an understanding of why American troops had crossed the border. It was said that as soon as accurate information reached Tampico improvement in general conditions was apparent.

A development which was regarded in Mexican quarters here as likely to do much toward assuring continued co-operation between the de facto government and American troops was an announcement by the war department that the orders under which the punitive expedition ehtered Mexico did not authorize occupation of any Mexican cities. It was said the purposes of the expedition did not necessitate any such occupation which border dispatches have indicated might be misunderstood by the Mexican public.

Reports tonight from various points along the border particularly in the vicinity of El Paso told of efforts by some Americans and Mexicans in that territory to convey into interior Mexico an impression that the American expedition was the forerunner of intervention. Every effort to counteract the influence of such activity is being made by administration officials. Dispatchces are going forth constantly to consular offfcers with the

Unless Villa Makes Stand Pershing Will Change Plan

By the Associated Press.

San Antonio, March 18.—Failure by Francisco Villa, on whose trail more than 4,000 troops are marching, to make a stand and fight by the end of next week will radically alter the methods so far employed by the commander of the punitive expedition. What General Pershing's plan is, however, has not been revealed and will not be if General Funston can prevent it. Every effort will be made to keep secret the movements of troops if it becomes necessary to abandon the direct line of pursuit with the units of the little army practically in contact.

When General Pershing led the expeditionary force over the boundary line into Mexico, the juncture of troops which has taken place near Casas Grandes was planned with little expectation that Villa would be sighted before this time. It was realized that the only chance for the Americans to catch him at that stage of the operations was that he would gather his forces and resist their advance. Not only did he not do that but, according to General Funston's reports, not a shot was fired at the invaders.

General Pershing's scouts may have brought him information as to Villa's location, but such information as has been received at the general headquarters here makes an assertion on the subject little better than a guess. There is reason to believe that he has retreated as the Americans advanced and that now he is somewhere in the Galeana district south of Casas Grandes in the environs of which a cavalry force under Colonel Dodd rested today. Information received by General Funston from Chihuahua indicated that he was at Colonia Gracias but most of those reporting contented themselves by placing him "in the mountains from fifty to 100 miles south of Casas Grandes."

To force Villa to fight or to trap him in one of his many hiding places has now become the object of General Pershing's plan. Whether Villa will risk a fight or play out the role of a common fugitive is a subject for speculation.

Unofficial reports that General Pershing did not insist upon sending into Casas Grandes the advance cavalry force after General Gavira had intimated such entry would meet resistance, lowered the tension at General Funston's headquarters. General Funston was convinced that General Pershing would not pass his troops through any Mexican town unless he regarded it as a military necessity, but in case of such necessity he was prepared to endorse the action of the man on the spot.

General Pershing continued his reports of routine development of the plan, none of his reports dealing with any unexpected or unusual incident.

General Funston replied to thousands of petitioners from scores of towns in Texas where the inhabitants wanted troops for protection, that it would be impossible to grant their wishes. In all cases he suggested that if they felt the need of protection it might be well if they were to organize local defense forces.

Members of the local automobile club called a meeting for next week for the purpose of ascertaining how many members will promise to turn over their automobiles and provide drivers in case desired by the war department.

Unusual activity displayed by the de facto government of Mexico in adding to its stores of ammunition is shown in reports from customs officers at different border ports of entry. According to these reports and to information secured by army officers shipments of rifle ammunition in carload lots by express have become common in the last three weeks. This apparent haste was being shown before Villa raided Columbus. Much of the new ammunition entered at points on the New Mexico and Arizona border and was supposed to be intended for the troops in Sonora. Since the Columbus raid 3,000,000 rounds passed through the customs house at Laredo.

Far from being a shortage of ammunition in Mexico, army men estimate that there is more small-arm material there now than there has been for many years.

Consul C. A. Williams, who abandoned his post at Torreon and led a party of forty-six Americans from there into the United States, arrived here today, where he will await instructions from the state department. So far as Mr. Williams knows there are twenty-five Americans left in Torreon. Those who came out were employes of the Tlahualilo plantation, the Continental Rubber company and the Torreon smelter. They were accompanied by their children.

Mr. Williams said that when the news of the intention to dispatch a punitive expedition into Mexico reached Torreon he called together the Americans. It appeared generally that the lives of Americans would be rendered unsafe and the question of leaving was discussed. He was asked if he intended to leave. He told the Americans he would go if a majority of them voted to leave.

The information that General Funston received from Chihuahua relative to Villa's whereabouts placed the number of those actually accompanying him at 400.

Armored Motor Car Section Used in Egyptian Campaign

By the Associated Press.

London, March 18.—An armored car section under the command of the duke of Westminster played a leading part in the defeat and dispersal of tribesmen under command of Turkish officers on the western frontier of Egypt by the forces under command of Major General Peyton. After an aeroplane reconnaissance disclosed that Birwar had been evacuated, motorists were ordered to push forward with "reasonable boldness."

Ignoring the armed Bedouins who were proceeding westward the motorists dashed into the enemy's camp, 25 miles west of Sollum, says an official report issued tonight, shooting down the gun servers and scattering the hostile force. Ninety shipwrecked sailors who had landed on the Cyrenaica coast and had been seized by the Senussi, were rescued. The report concludes:

"In three weeks the force under Major General Peyton has captured the hostile commander, killed or captured about 50 per cent of the Turkish subordinate commanders, has driven and scattered the remnants of his force far beyond the Egyptian border and has taken all his artillery and machine guns."

MINING MAN SAYS VILLA SAID WOULD FORCE INTERVENTION

El Paso, Texas, March 18.—Villa boasted three months ago that he would force intervention in Mexico by the United States, according to a story told here today by Harry Williams of Chihuahua, an American mining man. Williams asserted that he had heard Villa make the boast on December 13 last, when he was a prisoner of the bandit.

"I was one of thirty-nine Americans employed on the mining property of the Madera company," said Williams. "We were all arrested because the pay of the Mexicans working under us had not arrived from Chihuahua. It amounted to $17,000 and the company was afraid to send it because they were certain it would be confiscated.

"Villa brought us to Chihuahua and I have never seen him in an uglier mood. We did not know whether we were going to be shot, but we were not by any means optimistic.

"He told us, 'I am going to force intervention by the United States in three months. The United States has recognized Carranza and must pay for it.'

"He demanded $31,000 from the company. I do not know whether it was paid or not, but we were released the next day after being warned to keep off the streets.

Bowie County to Remain Dry

By The Associated Press.

Texarkana, Tex., March 18.—Bowie county, Texas, remains dry, following today's election in which prohibition won by a majority of 1,138, with but one small box to hear from, which can not materially change the result. The county has been dry for the past four years, but today's election was the result of anti-prohibition agitation. The complete vote was: For prohibition, 2,291; against, 1,153. Texarkana, the largest city, returned a majority of six for prohibition.

Only One Mexican Railroad in Shape to Help Americans

By the Associated Press.

El Paso, March 18.—Only one of the two Mexican railways penetrating the territory where the American punitive columns are operating is in shape to serve the Americans, if permission is granted. Both has terminals in Juarez. Villa, by burning a bridge on the Mexican Northwestern railway at Corralitos, effectively cut off communications by that line. It would require about two weeks to reconstruct this bridge after materials are shipped. The Mexican National line could probably supply all wants of the present columns, according to railroad men. They said tonight that within two or three days the Mexican National should be able to assemble sufficient rolling stock to care for the United States troops' needs.

Maj. Gen. George Bell Jr., in charge at El Paso, said tonight he had no information to give out as to the plans to send supplies by rail.

WASHINGTON ASKS FOR USE OF MEXICAN RAILWAY IN PRESENT MOVEMENTS.

De Facto Government Officials Believe Will Be Advice Against Action.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, March 18.—Reassuring advices came to both the state and war departments today from Mexico, where an American army is following the trail of Villa and his bandit followers. The official reports indicated that the American troops thus far had encountered no Villa followers though it was indicated a brush with them might be expected soon and consular dispatches told of quiet conditions elsewhere throughout Mexico.

State department advices which included a dispatch saying conditions were improving about Tampico were laid before President Wilson personally tonight by Acting Secretary Polk. Mr. Polk also conferred late in the day with Eliseo Arredondo, General Carranza's ambassador-designate, but neither official would discuss the subjects of their talk except to say that reference had been made to shipments of munitions which the de facto government is anxious to get to Vera Cruz from New York. General Funston's request that the American forces be permitted to use Mexican railways for troop transportation was forwarded late today to Consular Agent Rogers for presentation to General Carranza at Queretaro. Officials here closely associated with the de facto government are understood to believe that Carranza will be strongly advised by many of his followers against granting the request on grounds that to do so might arouse public sentiment against the de facto government seriously affecting the control it has established over the native population.

The report of better conditions at Tampico and in the adjacent oil fields where the situation for several days past has been a cause of some concern brought the information that previous apprehension had been caused by the failure of the military authorities to receive from the de facto government an understanding of why American troops had crossed the border. It was said that as soon as accurate information reached Tampico improvement in general conditions was apparent.

A development which was regarded in Mexican quarters here as likely to do much toward assuring continued co-operation between the de facto government and American troops was an announcement by the war department that the orders under which the punitive expedition ehtered Mexico did not authorize occupation of any Mexican cities. It was said the purposes of the expedition did not necessitate any such occupation which border dispatches have indicated might be misunderstood by the Mexican public.

Reports tonight from various points along the border particularly in the vicinity of El Paso told of efforts by some Americans and Mexicans in that territory to convey into interior Mexico an impression that the American expedition was the forerunner of intervention. Every effort to counteract the influence of such activity is being made by administration officials. Dispatches are going forth constantly to consular offfcers with the

CENSORSHIP ON BORDER IS TIGHTENED

Story Reported That Bandit Is Gathering Forces to Resist Pershing's Advance, but Consul Garcia Scouts Idea—Refugees from Torreon Give Thrilling Account of Experiences in Making Escape.

By the Associated Press.

El Paso, Texas, March 18.—The first phase of the American expedition into Mexico, the rush along Villa's dim trail to the endangered Mormon colonies, was an accomplished fact tonight—completed, according to reports reaching the Columbus base, without the firing of a hostile shot by the Americans.

The second phase already was beginning, it was indicated here, as the Americans turned somewhere from Casas Grandes to resume their night marches under the brilliant Mexican moonlight toward the rough mountain slopes where it is known Francisco Villa already has preceded them with more than 100 miles' start.

Warning that this second act in the chase might not pass without fighting against bandits was implied in a new and more stringent censorship imposed at Columbus. Further leakage of military movements, the censor said frankly to the American press, would be likely to cost soldiers' lives.

There was brief excitement today at Columbus. From across the hot, dusty Mexican border two soldiers on stretchers were brought into the camp. Both were cavalrymen. Excitement passed when it was learned that one had been thrown from his horse, injuring his leg, while the other, who at first was said to have been shot in the abdomen, was found to be suffering from a well known form of stomach trouble.

Will Not Occupy Cities.

When Washington announced the American columns did not intend to occupy cities a menace to Mexican national pride was removed. The Carranza garrisons which have been passed by the marching Americans and which therefore are in the Americans' rear on their flanks, continued tranquil, so reports to El Paso indicated.

General Gabriel Gavira at Juarez, commanding the territory through which for three days the Americans have been penetrating announced that for a time the situation as reported to him had been very delicate and even serious. With evident relief, he said, the crisis had passed. This crisis, it is believed, reached its height last night when couriers dashing into Casas Grandes announced with careless enthusiasm that the American troops would enter that city at midnight. General Gavira wired immediate orders to his troops not to permit this.

Dawn showed the long lines of cavalry horses just outside Colonia Dublan, their troopers dismounted and in camp at rest.

Villa Is Located.

Villa was located today with some degree of definiteness, if weight of evidence counts in pinning down his rapid shifts. From several sources, constitutionalists received messages all which placed him in approximately the same portion of Western Chihuahua. These dispatches had him nearly due south of the American column's present known positions and close to the Sierra Tarahumare mountains, so close to them, in fact, that if his reputation as a fox holds good during the American chase, he should be able to make a puzzling disappearance in these ranges with a very few hours' hard riding. By all accounts he is more than 100 miles ahead of the Americans, about the same distance he has been out of their reach for a week, but with one possibly important difference that while heretofore the Americans have been riding on a somewhat cold trail they are now nearing ground which Villa very recently passed over and where they may have practical opportunity to test the temper of the rural Mexicans from whom they might receive valuable information.

The story that Villa is gathering men and preparing to resist was revived in constitutionalist circles today and he was even said to have 10,000,000 rounds of cartridges and shells, many of home manufacture, secreted in the mountains where he was expected to make a stand. Doubt that Villa would do any such thing was expressed, however, by Andreas Garcia, the Mexican consul here, who claimed that Villa intends to make the American expeditionary force a joke. Mr. Garcia declared he was convinced that the bandit had no intention of fighting Americans.

Is Disbanding Army.

"One of my men," he said, "who returned from the Galeana district today brought me positive information that Villa was disbanding his men and intended to hide in the mountains with three or four of his trusted followers and defy the Americans to find him. An army might wander in that region

Unless Villa Makes Stand Pershing Will Change Plan

By the Associated Press.

San Antonio, March 18.—Failure by Francisco Villa, on whose trail more than 4,000 troops are marching, to make a stand and fight by the end of next week will radically alter the methods so far employed by the commander of the punitive expedition. What General Pershing's plan is, however, has not been revealed and will not be if General Funston can prevent it. Every effort will be made to keep secret the movements of troops if it becomes necessary to abandon the direct line of pursuit with the units of the little army practically in contact.

When General Pershing led the expeditionary force over the boundary line into Mexico, the juncture of troops which has taken place near Casas Grandes was planned with little expectation that Villa would be sighted before this time. It was realized that the only chance for the Americans to catch him at that stage of the operations was that he would gather his forces and resist their advance. Not only did he not do that but, according to General Funston's reports, not a shot was fired at the invaders.

General Pershing's scouts may have brought him information as to Villa's location, but such information as has been received at the general headquarters here makes an assertion on the subject little better than a guess. There is reason to believe that he has retreated as the Americans advanced and that now he is somewhere in the Galeana district south of Casas Grandes in the environs of which a cavalry force under Colonel Dodd rested today. Information received by General Funston from Chihuahua indicated that he was at Colonia Gracias but most of those reporting contented themselves by placing him "in the mountains from fifty to 100 miles south of Casas Grandes."

To force Villa to fight or to trap him in one of his many hiding places has now become the object of General Pershing's plan. Whether Villa will risk a fight or play out the role of a common fugitive is a subject for speculation.

Unofficial reports that General Pershing did not insist upon sending into Casas Grandes the advance cavalry force after General Gavira had intimated such entry would meet resistance, lowered the tension at General Funston's headquarters. General Funston was convinced that General Pershing would not pass his troops through any Mexican town unless he regarded it as a military necessity, but in case of such necessity he was prepared to endorse the action of the man on the spot.

General Pershing continued his reports of routine development of the plan, none of his reports dealing with any unexpected or unusual incident.

General Funston replied to thousands of petitioners from scores of towns in Texas where the inhabitants wanted troops for protection, that it would be impossible to grant their wishes. In all cases he suggested that if they felt the need of protection it might be well if they were to organize local defense forces.

Members of the local automobile club called a meeting for next week for the purpose of ascertaining how many members will promise to turn over their automobiles and provide drivers in case desired by the war department.

Unusual activity displayed by the de facto government of Mexico in adding to its stores of ammunition is shown in reports from customs officers at different border ports of entry. According to these reports and to information secured by army officers shipments of rifle ammunition in carload lots by express have become common in the last three weeks. This apparent haste was being shown before Villa raided Columbus. Much of the new ammunition entered at points on the New Mexico and Arizona border and was supposed to be intended for the troops in Sonora. Since the Columbus raid 3,000,000 rounds passed through the customs house at Laredo.

Far from being a shortage of ammunition in Mexico, army men estimate that there is more small-arm material there now than there has been for many years.

Consul C. A. Williams, who abandoned his post at Torreon and led a party of forty-six Americans from there into the United States, arrived here today, where he will await instructions from the state department. So far as Mr. Williams knows there are twenty-five Americans left in Torreon. Those who came out were employes of the Tlahualilo plantation, the Continental Rubber company and the Torreon smelter. They were accompanied by their children.

Mr. Williams said that when the news of the intention to dispatch a punitive expedition into Mexico reached Torreon he called together the Americans. It appeared generally that the lives of Americans would be rendered unsafe and the question of leaving was discussed. He was asked if he intended to leave. He told the Americans he would go if a majority of them voted to leave.

The information that General Funston received from Chihuahua relative to Villa's whereabouts placed the number of those actually accompanying him at 400.

purpose of reassuring the Mexican people.

Most of the war department's dispatches today from the border were of a technical military nature and were not given out.

Secretary Baker left for Cleveland, Ohio, late in the day and Major General Scott, chief of staff and acting secretary, kept in touch with the department until a late hour tonight.

One dispatch from General Funston tonight said General Pershing had reported finding a supply of corn, alfalfa and beef at an unnamed point in Mexico. Whether the provisions had been abandoned by fleeing Villa troops or were purchased or requisitioned by the American commander was not stated. General Pershing also asked for some water carrying trucks and General Scott announced that twenty-seven trucks had been ordered from a private firm and would be forwarded to the expeditionary force as soon as possible.

Negro Convict at Angleton Hanged

By the Associated Press.

Angleton, Texas, March 18.—Chester Williams, a negro convict, already under life sentence for chopping off his wife's head after accusing her of accepting 5c worth of cake from another negro, was hanged here today for the murder of a fellow convict and negro, whose throat he slashed while the latter negro was getting a shave in his (Williams') chair. Williams was the barber on the convict farm.

Williams showed no sign of fear. In a fifteen minutes' talk on the scaffold he said he ought to have been hanged for his wife's murder. He advised others to profit by his experience.

PROTECTION PROMISED INNESES IN GEORGIA

GOVERNOR HARRIS DECLARES REPORTS OF POSSIBLE MOB VIOLENCE ARE ABSURD.

Man and Wife Acquitted of Murder Wanted on Larceny After Trust Charge.

By the Associated Press.

Atlanta, Ga., March 18.—Governor Harris of Georgia tonight declared that reports that Victor E. Innes and his wife might meet with mob violence if they were brought to Atlanta for trial on larceny charges were absurd.

"There never has been the slightest suggestion that the Inneses would be harmed here," said Governor Harris. "I shall telegraph Governor Ferguson of Texas at once that Innes and his wife will receive ample protection and a fair trial."

Governor Harris on his return to the capital today found a telegram from Governor Ferguson asserting that the Inneses had urged him not to honor Georgia requisition papers approved by Former Governor Colquitt. The Inneses said they had received anonymous letters from Marietta, Ga., threatening them with mob violence.

Victor E. Innes and his wife, who were acquitted in San Antonio of killing Mrs. Eloise Nelms Dennis and her sister, Miss Beatrice Nelms, are wanted here on charges of larceny after trust in connection with sums said to have been give nto Innes by Mrs. Dennis.

Ask Dismissal of Charges Against Lieut. J. R. Mort

By the Associated Press.

Brownsville, Texas, March 18.—Citizens of San Benito, this county, today sent telegrams to United States Senator Morris Sheppard and Congressman Jeff: McLemore and John N. Garner to request the war department to dismiss the charges against Lieut. John R. Mort, whose courtmartial is to be held Monday. Lieutenant Mort is charged with having led a party of American soldiers into Mexico last January to rescue other American soldiers who had been captured by Mexicans. All the other American soldiers and officers have been relieved of responsibility.

Habeas Corpus Writ Follows Granting Parker Requisition

By the Associated Press.

Austin, Tex., March 18.—Following the honoring by Governor Ferguson of a requisition by the governor of Pennsylvania for W. W. Parker, an insurance man of Houston, wanted in Philadelphia on a charge of wife desertion, Parker's release on $1,000 bond was secured through an application filed in the criminal district court for habeas corpus. The hearing was set for Wednesday. The requisition was contested and the governor granted it after a hearing in his office.

Military Training in Schools Urged

By the Associated Press.

Washington, March 18.—Senator Hardwick of Georgia today urged the senate to pass his bill extending military instruction in schools and colleges, saying it was the best solution for the creation of a military reserve.

The Hardwick bill would appropriate $20,000,000 to pay officers as instructors and for equipment for students. There are nearly two million boys over fifteen years of age in schools and colleges, he said, and their training would create a large intelligent reserve force.

COLUMBUS RAIDERS OUTLAWED BY MEXICO

By the Associated Press.

Mexico City, March 18.—The minister of war, General Obregon, issued a decree today declaring all participants in the Columbus raid outside the law. The decree gives the right to any citizen to apprehend and kill if necessary the followers of Villa who crossed the American frontier.

The first victim of this decree was summarily executed today in the city of Hermosillo, near which place he was captured by men who denounced him as one of the raiding party. The execution was carried out on direct orders of the minister of war, who personally sent instructions to Gen. P. Elias Calles, military governor of Sonora, to that effect.

Another suspect, Carlos Reza, a former reactionary leader, was taken into custody, but was not executed owing to lack of evidence. He will be taken to Saltillo, where he will be tried by courtmartial.

The authorities declare the efforts to run down the bandits will increase with time and that the government will not rest until all those guilty of the crime against the United States have been run to earth. General Pesqueira, assistant minister of war, has been in conference with his chief on the subject.

Enlisted Men May Be Permitted to Enter West Point

By the Associated Press.

Washington, March 18.—Radical modification of the entrance requirements at West Point so as to admit enlisted men was debated in the senate today during consideration of the house bill doubling the number of cadets at the academy. The measure provides for appointment of one enlisted man a year from each regiment. Senator Reed offered an amendment making the appointments five to a regiment and Senators Gallinger and Smith of Georgia declared the cadet personnel at the academy should be made up entirely of men from the regular army ranks.

On suggestion of Senator Hitchcock, Senator Reed modified his amendment so as to limit the number of appointments from the ranks to three hundred a year though he said he personally favored opening the academy to any soldier who could qualify. Senator James proposed five amendments a year from each regiment of the National Guard and Senator Cummins advocated decreasing the number of cadets appointed from civil life to give room for more appointments from the army.

Chairman Chamberlain of the military committee, in charge of the bill, said he was inclined to favor the Reed amendment but feared its acceptance would handicap prospects for an early agreement with the house on other features of the measure. The only vote taken was one accepting Senator James' amendment restricting congressional appointments to the state rather than to the congressional districts.

Obregon's Brother Killed at Navajoa

By the Associated Press.

Mexico City, March 18.—Francisco Obregon, brother of the minister of war, was killed in an automobile accident in the town of Navajoa, state of Sonora, when an explosion destroyed the car in which he was riding. Obregon was for two years a prisoner of Villa, who held him in hostage and wrote to Gen. Alvaro Obregon threatening the life of his brother unless the general met certain conditions unfavorable to the constitutionalist cause. Francisco Obregon was 56 years old.

Mexican Schools Will Be Modernized

By the Associated Press.

Mexico City, March 18.—The constitutionalist government today announced an active campaign to modernize the public school system of Mexico. Prof. Gomez Garduno was appointed a special commissioner to establish and equip secondary and high schools throughout the principal cities of the republic. A special train carrying the needed equipment will visit the various cities.

The first exhibition is now being shown at Queretaro. It will be shown later at Saltillo and for this purpose Gustavo Espino Mireles, governor of the state of Coahuila, today issued a decree increasing the school tax twenty per cent.

SHIP IS TORPEDOED IN THAMES ESTUARY

STEAMSHIP PALEMBANG, BOUND FOR JAVA, VICTIM OF SUBMARINE.

Members of Crew All Saved, Although Nine Are Injured by Explosion.

By the Associated Press.

London, March 18.—The steamship Palembang has been torpedoed. All the members of the crew were saved.

The Palembang was torpedoed at 10:30 o'clock this morning near Galloper light in the Thames estuary. She was bound from Rotterdam for Java.

A dispatch to Lloyd's Weekly News from Harwich says the fifty-five members of the crew of the Palembang and two Dutch passengers have been landed there. Nine members of the crew were injured by the explosion. No lives were lost.

Although the ship remained afloat only seven minutes the injured men were placed in boats with the remainder of the crew.

The passengers and several members of the crew declare the submarine fired three torpedoes.

Twenty members of the crew have reached the Sailors Home in the eastern district of London. One of them in a statement said nobody could say with certainty whether the vessel had been torpedoed or had struck a mine. Nobody, he said, saw a submarine or even a periscope.

There are two steamers of the name Palembang, both Dutch. The larger is a vessel of 6,674 tons gross. She is 430 feet long and was built in 1911. The smaller is owned by an Amsterdam oil company and is 241 feet long. She was built in 1905.

The announcement that the Palembang was bound for Java from Rotterdam apparently indicates that she was the larger one of the two steamers as it was this vessel that plied on the route in question.

Ship Movements Have No Concern With Mexico, Claim

By the Associated Press.

Washington, March 18.—Navy officials today continued to reiterate that movements of ships and marine had no concern with the Mexican situation.

They said the department was unadvised of the return of the battleship Kentucky to New Orleans after she had sailed for Vera Cruz and that they knew nothing of a report that the ship was going to Pensacola to load marines.

T. & P. Attorneys Object to Motion to Advance Case

By the Associated Press.

Washington, March 18.—Counsel for the Texas and Pacific railway today filed objections with the supreme court to a motion of counsel for the Bankers' Trust company requesting an early hearing to its appeal from the federal district court in Northern Texas, which dismissed its suit to put the Texas and Pacific in the hands of a receiver as being insolvent.

It was stated to the court that the case against the railroad was instituted at the request of the receiver of the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern railway, who is also receiver of the Missouri Pacific, as a part of a plan for the acquisition of the property of the Texas and Pacific in the interest of the Missouri Pacific, which acquisition would be in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Counsel argued that the effect of bringing the suit was libel on the credit of the Texas and Pacific, which, it was said, is meeting all its commercial obligations of every kind.

Many Turks Surrendering to Russians Beyond Erzerum

By the Associated Press.

Petrograd, via London, March 18.—After three weeks of suspended activity the main Russian forces around Erzerum, which have been waiting the development of operations on the Black sea and in the Lake Van region to make their position secure against possible flank attacks by the Turks, have again resumed their westward march toward Sivas.

Although the Russian advance is yielding a constantly growing number of Turkish prisoners, there is no reason to suppose that the Turks have begun to offer serious resistance to their pursuers. According to unofficial reports, the large number of prisoners is accounted for by the Turkish discontent with conditions prevailing i nthe Turkish army which has resulted in a growing disposition of the soldiers to surrender. In this connection it is interesting to note that an exceptionally high percentage of officers have been taken prisoner. Some of them say they were unable longer to tolerate German control of the army.

The capture of Mamahatun bridge shows that the Russian forces are within sixty miles of Erzinjan on the road to Sivas. Sivas probably will mark the first organized resistance of the Turkish armies.

Sulzberger & Sons Company to Pass Into Other Hands

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 18.—Control of the meat packing firm of Sulzberger & Sons company which was rested with the Sulzberger family for many years, will shortly pass into the hands of Wall street bankers, it was announced here today. It is said a majority of the $20,000,000 outstanding common stock will be purchased by a group consisting of the Guaranty Trust company, Hallgarten & Co., Wm. Salomon & Co., Thomas E. Wilson of Chicago, and others.

This change of control, according to the announcement will be attended by new financing which will refund the Sulzberger & Sons company's maturing obligations and leave additional cash for new working capital. The company must meet $4,100,000 six per cent sinking fund gold debentures on June 1, and it is probable that new debenture bonds will be offered.

Thomas E. Wilson, who has been president of Morris & Co., of Chicago, a competing firm of packers, will become president and will assume the management of the business. He has been connected with Morris & Co., for twenty-five years.

Cordial Reception Is Given to Rogers at Queretaro, Mex.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, March 18.—A telegram from Special Representative Rogers at Queretaro, dated March 17, states that he had been cordially received by the secretaries of foreign relations, of finance and of government. Mr. Rogers added that he expected to be received by Carranza today. He said everything was quiet at Queretaro.

The state department advices dated March 17 from the west coast assert that conditions are quiet at Guaymas and Topolobampo. Conditions are reported quiet at Tampico and Vera Cruz.

Order Prevails in Eastern Sonora

By the Associated Press.

Douglas, Ariz., March 18.—Confirmation of reports that order prevailed at Nacozari El Tigre, Campas and other towns in eastern Sonora were brought here today by arrivals from Nacozari.

E. O. Llano, superintendent of the Nacozari railroad, said the copper mines there were being operated by the Mexican employes in a satisfactory manner with no reduction in the amount of ore being shipped to the smelter at Douglas.

James Carr, a storekeeper at Esqueda, the nearest railroad point to El Tigre, said the Americans living at El Tigre, who number from twenty-five to thirty, do not fear any trouble.

CHILD GETS SICK, CROSS, FEVERISH IF CONSTIPATED

LOOK AT TONGUE! THEN GIVE FRUIT LAXATIVE FOR STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS.

"California Syrup of Figs" Can't Harm Children and They Love It.

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign the little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

The tablet form of this old reliable remedy makes it possible for you to check any illness at the very onset. URGES CONGRESS TO AID U. S. BUSINESS

R. G. Rhett.

R. G. Rhett, newly elected president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, has sent a letter to all members of the house of representatives urging greater appropriations for the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce for the support of American business abroad during the war. Mr. Rhett warns congress that if American business in Europe does not have greater aid from the government it will go on the rocks.

purpose of reassuring the Mexican people.

Most of the war department's dispatches today from the border were of a technical military nature and were not given out.

Secretary Baker left for Cleveland, Ohio, late in the day and Major General Scott, chief of staff and acting secretary, kept in touch with the department until a late hour tonight.

One dispatch from General Funston tonight said General Pershing had reported finding a supply of corn, alfalfa and beef at an unnamed point in Mexico. Whether the provisions had been abandoned by fleeing Villa troops or were purchased or requisitioned by the American commander was not stated. General Pershing also asked for some water carrying trucks and General Scott announced that twenty-seven trucks had been ordered from a private firm and would be forwarded to the expeditionary force as soon as possible.

Negro Convict at Angleton Hanged

By the Associated Press.

Angleton, Texas, March 18.—Chester Williams, a negro convict, already under life sentence for chopping off his wife's head after accusing her of accepting 5c worth of cake from another negro, was hanged here today for the murder of a fellow convict and negro, whose throat he slashed while the latter negro was getting a shave in his (Williams') chair. Williams was the barber on the convict farm.

Williams showed no sign of fear. In a fifteen minutes' talk on the scaffold he said he ought to have been hanged for his wife's murder. He advised others to profit by his experience.

Changes in Forestry Service.

By the Associated Press.

Harrison, Ark., March 18.—Francis Kiefer, superintendent of the Ozark forest reserve, said to be the largest hardwood forest in the world, has been transferred to the district forester's office in Washington, according to advices received here today. His place will be taken by E. V. Clark, superintendent of the Georgia forestry service at Blue Ridge, Ga., the communication said.

PROTECTION PROMISED INNESES IN GEORGIA

GOVERNOR HARRIS DECLARES REPORTS OF POSSIBLE MOB VIOLENCE ARE ABSURD.

Man and Wife Acquitted of Murder Wanted on Larceny After Trust Charge.

By the Associated Press.

Atlanta, Ga., March 18.—Governor Harris of Georgia tonight declared that reports that Victor E. Innes and his wife might meet with mob violence if they were brought to Atlanta for trial on larceny charges were absurd.

"There never has been the slightest suggestion that the Inneses would be harmed here," said Governor Harris. "I shall telegraph Governor Ferguson of Texas at once that Innes and his wife will receive ample protection and a fair trial."

Governor Harris on his return to the capital today found a telegram from Governor Ferguson asserting that the Inneses had urged him not to honor Georgia requisition papers approved by Former Governor Colquitt. The Inneses said they had received anonymous letters from Marietta, Ga., threatening them with mob violence.

Victor E. Innes and his wife, who were acquitted in San Antonio of killing Mrs. Eloise Nelms Dennis and her sister, Miss Beatrice Nelms, are wanted here on charges of larceny after trust in connection with sums said to have been give nto Innes by Mrs. Dennis.

Ask Dismissal of Charges Against Lieut. J. R. Mort

By the Associated Press.

Brownsville, Texas, March 18.—Citizens of San Benito, this county, today sent telegrams to United States Senator Morris Sheppard and Congressman Jeff: McLemore and John N. Garner to request the war department to dismiss the charges against Lieut. John R. Mort, whose courtmartial is to be held Monday. Lieutenant Mort is charged with having led a party of American soldiers into Mexico last January to rescue other American soldiers who had been captured by Mexicans. All the other American soldiers and officers have been relieved of responsibility.

Habeas Corpus Writ Follows Granting Parker Requisition

By the Associated Press.

Austin, Tex., March 18.—Following the honoring by Governor Ferguson of a requisition by the governor of Pennsylvania for W. W. Parker, an insurance man of Houston, wanted in Philadelphia on a charge of wife desertion, Parker's release on $1,000 bond was secured through an application filed in the criminal district court for habeas corpus. The hearing was set for Wednesday. The requisition was contested and the governor granted it after a hearing in his office.

Military Training in Schools Urged

By the Associated Press.

Washington, March 18.—Senator Hardwick of Georgia today urged the senate to pass his bill extending military instruction in schools and colleges, saying it was the best solution for the creation of a military reserve.

The Hardwick bill would appropriate $20,000,000 to pay officers as instructors and for equipment for students. There are nearly two million boys over fifteen years of age in schools and colleges, he said, and their training would create a large intelligent reserve force.

Cole Younger Not Expected to Live

By the Associated Press.

Lees Summit, Mo., March 18.—Cole Younger, former bandit, but of late years a devout church attendant, who is dangerously ill at his home here, was conscious only part of the time today and attendants said he gradually was growing weaker. His physicians announced that toxemia poisoning had developed, which they said greatly reduced his chance for recovery.

COLUMBUS RAIDERS OUTLAWED BY MEXICO

By the Associated Press.

Mexico City, March 18.—The minister of war, General Obregon, issued a decree today declaring all participants in the Columbus raid outside the law. The decree gives the right to any citizen to apprehend and kill if necessary the followers of Villa who crossed the American frontier.

The first victim of this decree was summarily executed today in the city of Hermosillo, near which place he was captured by men who denounced him as one of the raiding party. The execution was carried out on direct orders of the minister of war, who personally sent instructions to Gen. P. Elias Calles, military governor of Sonora, to that effect.

Another suspect, Carlos Reza, a former reactionary leader, was taken into custody, but was not executed owing to lack of evidence. He will be taken to Saltillo, where he will be tried by courtmartial.

The authorities declare the efforts to run down the bandits will increase with time and that the government will not rest until all those guilty of the crime against the United States have been run to earth. General Pesqueira, assistant minister of war, has been in conference with his chief on the subject.

Enlisted Men May Be Permitted to Enter West Point

By the Associated Press.

Washington, March 18.—Radical modification of the entrance requirements at West Point so as to admit enlisted men was debated in the senate today during consideration of the house bill doubling the number of cadets at the academy. The measure provides for appointment of one enlisted man a year from each regiment. Senator Reed offered an amendment making the appointments five to a regiment and Senators Gallinger and Smith of Georgia declared the cadet personnel at the academy should be made up entirely of men from the regular army ranks.

On suggestion of Senator Hitchcock, Senator Reed modified his amendment so as to limit the number of appointments from the ranks to three hundred a year though he said he personally favored opening the academy to any soldier who could qualify. Senator James proposed five amendments a year from each regiment of the National Guard and Senator Cummins advocated decreasing the number of cadets appointed from civil life to give room for more appointments from the army.

Chairman Chamberlain of the military committee, in charge of the bill, said he was inclined to favor the Reed amendment but feared its acceptance would handicap prospects for an early agreement with the house on other features of the measure. The only vote taken was one accepting Senator James' amendment restricting congressional appointments to the state rather than to the congressional districts.

Obregon's Brother Killed at Navajoa

By the Associated Press.

Mexico City, March 18.—Francisco Obregon, brother of the minister of war, was killed in an automobile accident in the town of Navajoa, state of Sonora, when an explosion destroyed the car in which he was riding. Obregon was for two years a prisoner of Villa, who held him in hostage and wrote to Gen. Alvaro Obregon threatening the life of his brother unless the general met certain conditions unfavorable to the constitutionalist cause. Francisco Obregon was 56 years old.

Mexican Schools Will Be Modernized

By the Associated Press.

Mexico City, March 18.—The constitutionalist government today announced an active campaign to modernize the public school system of Mexico. Prof. Gomez Garduno was appointed a special commissioner to establish and equip secondary and high schools throughout the principal cities of the republic. A special train carrying the needed equipment will visit the various cities.

The first exhibition is now being shown at Queretaro. It will be shown later at Saltillo and for this purpose Gustavo Espino Mireles, governor of the state of Coahuila, today issued a decree increasing the school tax twenty per cent.

SHIP IS TORPEDOED IN THAMES ESTUARY

STEAMSHIP PALEMBANG, BOUND FOR JAVA, VICTIM OF SUBMARINE.

Members of Crew All Saved, Although Nine Are Injured by Explosion.

By the Associated Press.

London, March 18.—The steamship Palembang has been torpedoed. All the members of the crew were saved.

The Palembang was torpedoed at 10:30 o'clock this morning near Galloper light in the Thames estuary. She was bound from Rotterdam for Java.

A dispatch to Lloyd's Weekly News from Harwich says the fifty-five members of the crew of the Palembang and two Dutch passengers have been landed there. Nine members of the crew were injured by the explosion. No lives were lost.

Although the ship remained afloat only seven minutes the injured men were placed in boats with the remainder of the crew.

The passengers and several members of the crew declare the submarine fired three torpedoes.

Twenty members of the crew have reached the Sailors Home in the eastern district of London. One of them in a statement said nobody could say with certainty whether the vessel had been torpedoed or had struck a mine. Nobody, he said, saw a submarine or even a periscope.

There are two steamers of the name Palembang, both Dutch. The larger is a vessel of 6,674 tons gross. She is 430 feet long and was built in 1911. The smaller is owned by an Amsterdam oil company and is 241 feet long. She was built in 1905.

The announcement that the Palembang was bound for Java from Rotterdam apparently indicates that she was the larger one of the two steamers as it was this vessel that plied on the route in question.

Ship Movements Have No Concern With Mexico, Claim

By the Associated Press.

Washington, March 18.—Navy officials today continued to reiterate that movements of ships and marine had no concern with the Mexican situation.

They said the department was unadvised of the return of the battleship Kentucky to New Orleans after she had sailed for Vera Cruz and that they knew nothing of a report that the ship was going to Pensacola to load marines.

The naval transport Hancock is loading marines at Philadelphia for Pensacola.

T. & P. Attorneys Object to Motion to Advance Case

By the Associated Press.

Washington, March 18.—Counsel for the Texas and Pacific railway today filed objections with the supreme court to a motion of counsel for the Bankers' Trust company requesting an early hearing to its appeal from the federal district court in Northern Texas, which dismissed its suit to put the Texas and Pacific in the hands of a receiver as being insolvent.

It was stated to the court that the case against the railroad was instituted at the request of the receiver of the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern railway, who is also receiver of the Missouri Pacific, as a part of a plan for the acquisition of the property of the Texas and Pacific in the interest of the Missouri Pacific, which acquisition would be in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Counsel argued that the effect of bringing the suit was libel on the credit of the Texas and Pacific, which, it was said, is meeting all its commercial obligations of every kind.

Many Turks Surrendering to Russians Beyond Erzerum

By the Associated Press.

Petrograd, via London, March 18.—After three weeks of suspended activity the main Russian forces around Erzerum, which have been waiting the development of operations on the Black sea and in the Lake Van region to make their position secure against possible flank attacks by the Turks, have again resumed their westward march toward Sivas.

Although the Russian advance is yielding a constantly growing number of Turkish prisoners, there is no reason to suppose that the Turks have begun to offer serious resistance to their pursuers. According to unofficial reports, the large number of prisoners is accounted for by the Turkish discontent with conditions prevailing in the Turkish army which has resulted in a growing disposition of the soldiers to surrender. In this connection it is interesting to note that an exceptionally high percentage of officers have been taken prisoner. Some of them say they were unable longer to tolerate German control of the army.

The capture of Mamahatun bridge shows that the Russian forces are within sixty miles of Erzinjan on the road to Sivas. Sivas probably will mark the first organized resistance of the Turkish armies.

Third Generation of Morris Family Will Take Control

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, March 18.—The third generation of the Morris family will come into control of the $35,000,000 packing company with its 150 branch offices scattered in America, Europe and Asia, it was announced today within two weeks when a formal meeting for the purpose will be held.

Nelson Morris, twenty-four years old, will be elected chairman of the board of directors of Morris & Co. Edward Morris, Jr., twenty-three years old, at the same time will become president of the company.

Liquor Interests Said to Be Back of D. C. Referendum

By the Associated Press.

Washington, March 18.—Senator Jones charged in the senate today that liquor interests had intimidated business men here to secure support of a movement for a prohibition referendum in the District of Columbia. The campaign, he said, was calculated to keep congress from acting on the Sheppard bill for prohibition in the District.

Sulzberger & Sons Company to Pass Into Other Hands

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 18.—Control of the meat packing firm of Sulzberger & Sons company which was rested with the Sulzberger family for many years, will shortly pass into the hands of Wall street bankers, it was announced here today. It is said a majority of the $20,000,000 outstanding common stock will be purchased by a group consisting of the Guaranty Trust company, Hallgarten & Co., Wm. Salomon & Co., Thomas E. Wilson of Chicago, and others.

This change of control, according to the announcement will be attended by new financing which will refund the Sulzberger & Sons company's maturing obligations and leave additional cash for new working capital. The company must meet $4,100,000 six per cent sinking fund gold debentures on June 1, and it is probable that new debenture bonds will be offered.

Thomas E. Wilson, who has been president of Morris & Co., of Chicago, a competing firm of packers, will become president and will assume the management of the business. He has been connected with Morris & Co., for twenty-five years.

VILLA FINALLY LOCATED IN WESTERN CHIHUAHUA

for years and never find a man like Villa, who knows every foot of the ground.

"I am convinced that Villa intends to play hide-and-seek with the American soldiers with the intention of making their expedition ridiculous. He may make raids on communication lines or something like that, but he will never risk a real battle."

The rewards which have been offered for Villa alive or dead, in Mr. Garcia's opinion, are the best hope of ending the bandit's career.

Rewards Best Hope.

"The news of these rewards will flash through the region," he said, "and I should be very much surprised if they do not bring some result."

The Carrancista consul has a plan of his own which he believes is the best way to capture Villa.

"General Gutierrez," he said, "told me that he expected to have 15,000 men on Villa's trail within a week. Then there are 4,000 to 5,000 American troops. I do not believe that all these thousands of men with all their equipment is needed. What is needed is about five columns of 500 picked men apiece, all well mounted and carrying the least possible amount of equipment. These columns should be in sufficiently close touch to be able to render assistance to any one of them Villa might attack.

"If they moved fast and were the right men they would have a good chance to lay Villa by the heels."

Mr. Garcia denied emphatically the repeated statements that the people of Guerrero and Galeana are in sympathy with the fugitive.

"Many of them are afraid of him, of course," he said, "because of the reign of terror he inaugurated there, but it must be remembered that the Villa of today is not the Villa of five years ago. In the early part of his career he was very liberal with the people about him. If he got $500, say in a raid, he would give half of it away. But when he began to gather power he seized everything for himself. Those people among who he is now have a long history of murders and attacks upon their women to avenge. The only hold he has on them is fear."

North Central Mexico, in the neighborhood of the former Villa stronghold of Torreon and about Durango furnished reports of a battle between small bands of outlaws and constitutionalist troops. One of these bandit organizations in the fight near Torreon was credited with being a Villa organization. Nothing was available tonight upon the outcome of this fight.

Hardships Are Related.

Americans who said they dared not permit the use of their names arrived here today with details of the hardships of their exodus.

"We met last Sunday," said one of these Americans, "in a hotel room in Torreon. Twenty of the Americans decided to stay behind and take their chances. Some of this number said they would have to remain until they could put their business into some sort of shape.

"On Monday there was no train. We became very anxious. The officers of the commandancia were not discourteous but there was a feeling of resentment among the soldiers that we did not like. On Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock we succeeded in making up a train in which the employes and their families from the Tlahualilo plantation had one box car; the employes of the Continental Rubber company of Torreon another and the third box car was occupied by the employes of the Torreon smelter.

"Without any accommodations whatever and sitting on the floor and our baggage, we made the journey northeast. At Pantano we had to wait for some twenty hours to make connection with the train to Eagle Pass while the majority of the refugeees went up a few hours earlier by the Laredo route.

Feared Intervention.

"We left Torreon because to us it looked as though intervention had come. We felt that if the constitutionalists retaliated we would be made prisoners and we knew that if Villa or his many sympathizers in Torreon were to take the city or murder the small garrison we would all be massacred. Taking everything into consideration we felt that there was only one thing to do and that was to come out and wait until the country was restored to order.

"The food supply in Torreon is very scant and the lower classes have little if anything. They have no work to enable them to earn money and the supply of corn and beans is much drawn upon. The people with money can buy pretty much what they wish but it takes money. I should not hesitate to say that there are ten thousand unemployed men in Torreon.

"It is lack of work that makes Mexicans of the lower classes follow soldiering at all. I know them well enough to know they would much rather be engaged in peaceful pursuits. The middle classes in Torreon as well as in all Mexico are responsible for the state of anarchy and naturally they are fighting, not for any principles, but for their own protection.

Met Other Refugees.

"In the party that came up from Torreon we had some forty-two men, women and children. Of this number twenty-two were Americans, the remainder being Germans, French and English. At the junction point where one train went to Eagle Pass and the other to Laredo, we met coaches full of Americans and foreigners coming out of Mexico City and San Luis Potosi. All told the same story—they thought intervention had come and that it was better to be out of the country.

"As to Torreon, it has only a small garrison and it is difficult to say how many of the men are Villistas. Villa is said to have told persons coming into Torreon that he would take that city by March 25 and if he wanted to, it would be a very simple proposition."

Mrs. Leroy S. Davis, wife of an American cattle man who has been missing since last October, today sought aid of the British consul at Tepic, Mexico, to search for her husband. Her letters to him have come back to her with the words across the face, "Cannot be found."

Lull at Columbus.

The Columbus camp was enjoying a lull today. Certain troops have been despatched "somewhere" and certain others "have arrived" and taken the places of those who have gone into the sand waste lying south of the railway track. The aeroplanes have been tested out and seem to be waiting transport. The big motor trucks used with the aeroplanes to follow their flights are just now busy with the more prosaic duties of carrying fodder, provisions and other supplies. The number of motor trucks will be materially increased soon, according to reports around the camp.

This morning reveille was blown at 5 o'clock in the cavalry camp, but when the people of Columbus turned out of bed they found nothing but footprints and littered sand in what had been a populous corner of the camp. There still were plenty of soldiers on hand and Columbus billiard rooms and soft drink places—the town is dry—daily take in enough to pay the city debt.

An automobile record between Denver and El Paso, a run of 880 miles, was made by Lieut. A. M. Graham of the Eleventh cavalry in answering the call to be with his regiment in Columbus by Thursday. He was on the road fifty-five hours with seven hours' sleep. He made the run alone.

The correspondents who have gone into Mexico with the expedition remained silent today on account of the censorship. It was said that most of them were politely corraled along toward the rear with the infantry. While this could not be verified, it was a fact that the only members of the correspondents' party whose presence has been definitely reported were far behind the vanguard at last reports. If any newspaper observers are among the leading columns the censor has succeeded in hiding their movements more effectively than he has cloaked the position of the troops.

GAVIRA SAYS MEXICO TRUSTS CARRANZA

FACT THAT NO RESISTANCE OFFERED AMERICANS CITED AS PROOF.

People Know Fatherland Will Not Be Bartered Away, Is Declared.

By the Associated Press.

El Paso, March 18.—General Gavira today issued a formal statement to the Associated Press at his headquarters at Juarez in which he interpreted the fact that no resistance had been offered to the American forces crossing the border as proof of the faith of the Mexican people in Carranza. The statement follows:

"The constitutionalist army, formed by men of liberal thought and by armed citizens to fight oppression, has shown its force to the world by breaking the reactionary efforts of Diaz, Huerta and Villa.

"The American government, almost always poorly informed, did not understand either our aspirations for liberty or our internal conditions. To decide in our favor by recognizing us as the de facto government it was necessary for the secretary of state and the representatives of the A. B. C. to establish an unanswerable proof of our cohesion and discipline in a series of answers that from distant points and without previous agreement were sent them by the numerous liberal chiefs. These answers were set forth in the note that we all know.

"Now American troops have just crossed to our side of the line without protest or difficulties. To what then it is to be attributed that the Mexican public, so scrupulous and extremely sensitive in all that concerns its sovereignty, has not protested in the vigorous form it knows well how to make?

"It is because the people of Mexico have faith in the United States; because they know well the patriotism and the sense of honor of the first chief and of the higher officers, military and civil, who are in control. They know that such men would not barter away the fatherland. Could the American people wish a better proof of the power of the constitutionalist army than has been constituted by the men of the army?"

NEW YORK LAWYER IS KILLED BY WIFE

SON OF AUTHOR OF "BEN BOLT" MEETS DEATH AT FREDERICK, MARYLAND.

Coroner's Jury Exonerates Woman Who Makes Clear Case of Self Defense.

By the Associated Press.

Frederick, Md., March 18.—Mrs. Eloise Young English shot and killed her husband, Arthur E. English, a lawyer of New York, at their home near here today. The shooting was done in the presence of their 6-year-old daughter and is said to have occurred during a quarrel. English was the son of Thomas Dunn English, a former congressman from New Jersey and the author of the song, "Ben Bolt."

Mrs. English claimed that she shot in self-defense when her husband in a fit of anger pointed a revolver at her. An examination of the body of English showed that a bullet had gone through the heart and that four other bullets had taken effect.

Mrs. English was exonerated from blame for the killing of her husband by a coroner's jury here tonight after she and three of her children had testified as to English's alleged brutality and frequent threats to kill her.

The young woman testified that while their two sons were cutting wood this morning she requested her husband to permit the elder boy to quit on account of illness. She said this angered her husband, who began to smash dishes and furniture in his rage. Mrs. English obtained a revolver, hid it in her dress and later when her husband took his revolver and threatened to kill her, she testified, she emptied the five chambers of her revolver into his body.

Mrs. English was the daughter of the late McClintock Young, a Frederick inventor, many of whose devices are used by large corporations. She was one of the most attractive members of the younger social set of Frederick at the time of her marriage to Mr. English, sixteen years ago.

FIGURES confirm what we have repeatedly told you:—That Goodyear users far outnumber the users of any other brand of tires.

Out of 353,859 tires counted in 71 principal cities, 75,631 were Goodyear.

This shows a Goodyear preference of 21 per cent—with close to 200 tire brands for buyers to choose from.

What else can it mean except that Goodyear users have found—as you will find—that Goodyear Tires cost less because they go farther, and last longer, and give less trouble?

VILLA FINALLY LOCATED IN WESTERN CHIHUAHUA

for years and never find a man like Villa, who knows every foot of the ground.

"I am convinced that Villa intends to play hide-and-seek with the American soldiers with the intention of making their expedition ridiculous. He may make raids on communication lines or something like that, but he will never risk a real battle."

The rewards which have been offered for Villa alive or dead, in Mr. Garcia's opinion, are the best hope of ending the bandit's career.

Rewards Best Hope.

"The news of these rewards will flash through the region," he said, "and I should be very much surprised if they do not bring some result."

The Carrancista consul has a plan of his own which he believes is the best way to capture Villa.

"General Gutierrez," he said, "told me that he expected to have 15,000 men on Villa's trail within a week. Then there are 4,000 to 5,000 American troops. I do not believe that all these thousands of men with all their equipment is needed. What is needed is about five columns of 500 picked men apiece, all well mounted and carrying the least possible amount of equipment. These columns should be in sufficiently close touch to be able to render assistance to any one of them Villa might attack.

"If they moved fast and were the right men they would have a good chance to lay Villa by the heels."

Mr. Garcia denied emphatically the repeated statements that the people of Guerrero and Galeana are in sympathy with the fugitive.

"Many of them are afraid of him, of course," he said, "because of the reign of terror he inaugurated there, but it must be remembered that the Villa of today is not the Villa of five years ago. In the early part of his career he was very liberal with the people about him. If he got $500, say in a raid, he would give half of it away. But when he began to gather power he seized everything for himself. Those people among who he is now have a long history of murders and attacks upon their women to avenge. The only hold he has on them is fear."

North Central Mexico, in the neighborhood of the former Villa stronghold of Torreon and about Durango furnished reports of a battle between small bands of outlaws and constitutionalist troops. One of these bandit organizations in the fight near Torreon was credited with being a Villa organization. Nothing was available tonight upon the outcome of this fight.

Hardships Are Related.

Americans who said they dared not permit the use of their names arrived here today with details of the hardships of their exodus.

"We met last Sunday," said one of these Americans, "in a hotel room in Torreon. Twenty of the Americans decided to stay behind and take their chances. Some of this number said they would have to remain until they could put their business into some sort of shape.

"On Monday there was no train. We became very anxious. The officers of the commandancia were not discourteous but there was a feeling of resentment among the soldiers that we did not like. On Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock we succeeded in making up a train in which the employes and their families from the Tlahualilo plantation had one box car; the employes of the Continental Rubber company of Torreon another and the third box car was occupied by the employes of the Torreon smelter.

"Without any accommodations whatever and sitting on the floor and our baggage, we made the journey northeast.

At Pantano we had to wait for some twenty hours to make connection with the train to Eagle Pass while the majority of the refugeees went up a few hours earlier by the Laredo route.

Feared Intervention.

"We left Torreon because to us it looked as though intervention had come. We felt that if the constitutionalists retallated we would be made prisoners and we knew that if Villa or his many sympathizers in Torreon were to take the city or murder the small garrison we would all be massacred. Taking everything into consideration we felt that there was only one thing to do and that was to come out and wait until the country was restored to order.

"The food supply in Torreon is very scant and the lower classes have little if anything. They have no work to enable them to earn money and the supply of corn and beans is much drawn upon. The people with money can buy pretty much what they wish but it takes money. I should not hesitate to say that there are ten thousand unemployed men in Torreon.

"It is lack of work that makes Mexicans of the lower classes follow soldiering at all. I know them well enough to know they would much rather be engaged in peaceful pursuits. The middle classes in Torreon as well as in all Mexico are responsible for the state of anarchy and naturally they are fighting, not for any principles, but for their own protection.

Met Other Refugees.

"In the party that came up from Torreon we had some forty-two men, women and children. Of this number twenty-two were Americans, the remainder being Germans, French and English. At the junction point where one train went to Eagle Pass and the other to Laredo, we met coaches full of Americans and foreigners coming out of Mexico City and San Luis Potosi. All told the same story—they thought intervention had come and that it was better to be out of the country.

"As to Torreon, it has only a small garrison and it is difficult to say how many of the men are Villistas. Villa is said to have told persons coming into Torreon that he would take that city by March 25 and if he wanted to, it would be a very simple proposition."

Mrs. Leroy S. Davis, wife of an American cattle man who has been missing since last October, today sought aid of the British consul at Tepic, Mexico, to search for her husband. Her letters to him have come back to her with the words across the face, "Cannot be found."

Lull at Columbus.

The Columbus camp was enjoying a lull today. Certain troops have been despatched "somewhere" and certain others "have arrived" and taken the places of those who have gone into the sand waste lying south of the railway track. The aeroplanes have been tested out and seem to be waiting transport. The big motor trucks used with the aeroplanes to follow their flights are just now busy with the more prosaic duties of carrying fodder, provisions and other supplies. The number of motor trucks will be materially increased soon, according to reports around the camp.

This morning reveille was blown at 5 o'clock in the cavalry camp, but when the people of Columbus turned out of bed they found nothing but footprints and littered sand in what had been a populous corner of the camp. There still were plenty of soldiers on hand and Columbus billiard rooms and soft drink places—the town is dry—daily take in enough to pay the city debt.

An automobile record between Denver and El Paso, a run of 880 miles, was made by Lieut. A. M. Graham of the Eleventh cavalry in answering the call to be with his regiment in Columbus by Thursday. He was on the road fifty-five hours with seven hours' sleep. He made the run alone.

The correspondents who have gone into Mexico with the expedition remained silent today on account of the censorship. It was said that most of them were politely corraled along toward the rear with the infantry. While this could not be verified, it was a fact that the only members of the correspondents' party whose presence has been definitely reported were far behind the vanguard at last reports. If any newspaper observers are among the leading columns the censor has succeeded in hiding their movements more effectively than he has cloaked the position of the troops.

Deming, N. M., was today included in the Columbus censorship area. Heretofore many correspondents whose dispatches were censored in Columbus have taken an hour's run to Deming evading the censor. The price of this run jumped from five dollars to fifteen dollars on account of the patronage.

Several additional scouts left El Paso today for Columbus to report to the military commander there.

THE COW A CIVILIZER.

Use of milk is one of the measures of progress, informs the Country Gentleman. The cow is a civilizer. It may even be argued that the world's war madness is due to a lack of milk. Germans are poor milk makers. They have only about a third the number of cows, in proportion to population, that the United States has, and the German cows have suffered much from foot and mouth outbreaks. Thus Germany has been putting into its system liquids that have not the millifying influence of good milk. Great Britain is also shy on the milk diet. In contrast behold Holland, the home of good milk, growing rich faster than a Pittsburg mill owner.

Living on milk alone is a recognized form of treatment in obstinate hysteria—and if there is any form of hysteria worse than war we do not know its name. Living on milk alone is not to be recommended to everybody, but if you will read Benjamin Franklin's autobiography you will find this: "For instance, my breakfast was a long time bread and milk (no tea) and I ate it out of a twopenny earthen porringer with a pewter spoon." Then he tells how much better he got through the day than did his fellow workmen. Here we have the meal upon which was built the finest example of self-made success in the eighteenth century; furthermore, Franklin was just about the wisest and most useful citizen of his day and generation. This nation would not be what it is today if it had not been for Franklin's milk breakfast.

Our doctors and food experts are swinging back more strongly to milk. One reason is the great improvement in the product. So there is hope of health as well as of peace in our twenty million cows and the billion dollars' worth of milk and cream they annually furnish.

It is costing the United States $72,000 a day to hunt Villa. But he must be taken if it requires several times this much daily for a year's time, which it won't.

Some of Senator Gore's constituents have come to the conclusion, since the senator's recent performances in Washington on the submarine resolution, that he is losing his mental and political as well as his physical sight.

In the congressional election next November the American public is going to decorate some members of congress with the order of the White Feather, says the New Orleans States. And it may rob some of them of their goat, too.

Now that the republicans and the progressives are trying to get together in Texas and throughout the nation it is about time the democrats of the country were cutting out their tomfoolery and composing their differences if they expect to retain their seats at the pie counter during the next four years.

DESERVED TRIBUTE TO A DESERVING WOMAN.

When representatives of practically every women's organization in the city of San Antonio came together there a few days ago to celebrate the eightieth birthday of Miss M. Eleanor Brackenridge a modest and deserved tribute was paid to one of the most valuable women which this large state of useful women affords.

As an organizer of women along lines of useful endeavor the state has had no equal, perhaps. As a friend of deserving girls none has worked more diligently or given more freely of her time and means. As a helper of mothers in the rearing of their children she has been a power for good, though her modesty in this, as in other instances, has prevented the true nature of her work becoming generally known. Highly cultured, broadly sympathetic, intensely patriotic in her service of her fellow women and the young girls of today who will be the women of tomorrow, Miss Brackenridge has contributed freely of her large means in the promotion of those movements that looked toward the constructive betterment of those who needed help, rather than those things which sought only temporary relief.

Nor has she confined her labors to those fields in which the average club woman works, though she has been identified with as many clubs and organizations, perhaps, as any other Texas woman. She has served since the beginning of that institution as a director of the College of Industrial Arts at Denton and one of the buildings there bears her name; she has taken an active interest in the Girls' Home Economic clubs for the country girls, and has provided free scholarships and funds for the winning girls in the College of Industrial Arts; she has made loans to a number of deserving girls that they might complete their courses in this institution. She has helped support educational work among the negroes along those lines that she felt were most helpful for them. And she has enabled the girl who drifts into the large cities to have a better chance to steer clear of moral pitfalls by contributing to and helping direct the work of the traveler's aid and the police matrons.

And all this has been done by a woman who has not enjoyed good health for many years. A woman of lower ideals and purposes and less courage and will power would have lain down and died long ago. But no voluntary surrender to lack of physical strength for Miss Brackenridge. From her bed where she has been compelled to spend much of her time she has given counsel and direction to her work and her interest in that work has buoyed her up much more effectively than any mere medicine could ever have done.

Miss Brackenridge is independently wealthy, but she has the good sense and the feeling of social obligation that have enabled her to apply her wealth to worthy ends and she is infinitely happier in her advanced age than she could possibly have been had she confined her investments to mercantile establishments, stocks and bonds and lands instead of making them in human lives and human happiness, as she has so consistently done. She is eminently worthy of all the nice things her fellow workers said about her at the luncheon and we are mentioning the matter here, not so much as a compliment to Miss Brackenridge as in the hope that her example will prove an inspiration to others who have means and that still larger number who have only opportunity to do good as they go along.

It begins to appear that in Texas, at least, the republican lambs and the Lyons will lie down together, but it will take more than a little child to lead them to victory.

Those Fort Worth high school cadets are a serious-minded lot of youngsters. They refused an invitation to meet William Jennings Bryan at the train, on the occasion of his visit to that city, because the Peerless One is opposed to preparedness and the cadets are strongly in favor of it. They are consistent, to say the least.

General Slocum was not sent in person after Villa, but his offer of $50,000 for Villa, dead or alive, is likely to be fully as instrumental in the capture of that bandit leader as the invasion of the army under General Pershing. And had we been possessed of a fortune the size of General Slocum's we would have beaten him to placing a cash premium on the villain's head.

Our congratulations to the residents of Waco Vista upon their organization of a social center. They will become better acquainted not only with the various needs of that portion of the city, and supply those needs, but they will become better acquainted with each other. And having become better neihbors they will become happier citizens. The movement is a good one in every way.

Baltimore had fifty-seven varieties of weather last Wednesday, according to the Baltimore Sun. Billy Sunday's hot shots must have been having some effect on the atmosphere.

A Sunday Morning Message to Men

By Rev. J. J. Grier

TO THE MAN OF UNCLEAN LIFE.

Text: "Have mercy on me, O God! Wash me from mine iniquity, and cleanse me from my sin."—King David, after his great sin.

Of course you understand the particular kind of uncleanness I have in mind, and I would like to indulge the hope that you are free from its taint. Every day I feel like thanking God for that great company of clean-living men whose very cleanness of life speaks so well for the nobility of the race, just as they show to us what fine men all men could be if they only would.

Unfortunately, all men are not so. Many men, of whom we would naturally expect better thnigs are soiled. And I do not say that unguardedly or rashly. It is really a very mild thing to say, in the face of the facts. For I have talked with many eminent physicians and they have astonished me by their sober conclusions on this subject. Needless to say I am not going to tell you what they said, and why should I? Don't you know quite enough about it already? Neither do I intend to give a repulsive recital of the things that have come under the range of my observation. But what reliable and intelligent physicians have told me, and I never waste my time on any other sort, together with what I have seen with my own eyes and heard from the lips of confession—these things, I say, have compelled me to do some very serious, distressed thinking, and I have come to two or three conclusions which I want you to go over with me. And I want you to tell me if I am wrong; for I want nothing so much as I want to see the truth, and I appreciate no friendship so much as that which sets me right.

The conclusions, then:

Conclusion one: An alarming proportion of men are living unclean lives, and some of these men are in our churches and some of them—most of them, I'm sure—are outside the churches, and some of them are married and some of them are not married. It hurts me terribly to admit the truth of some parts of that sentence, and I want to ask you the direct question: Are you unclean? Is your name on a church roll anywhere in the world? Are you married? Can you define the word decency?

Conclusion two: Here is the unsuspected cause of much of the unhappiness in our homes. I am not referring to those wretched cases where the home is broken up or to those where ugly living has become notorious and is known to all men. Such cases require no comment to make the truth evident. I am speaking of cases like your own. You are a respectable man, perhaps well thought of, and, so far as the world knows you, you are a very decent sort of man; but your home life is not happy. That does not mean that you are a brute and beat your wife. It may be that there are not even scenes and ugly clashes of any sort. And yet your home is not a happy one. You see the lines of heart-hunger in the face across the table from you, and you hear the tones of that same hunger in her voice as she speaks to you; and, may be, at times you are a little exasperated at the plaintive, dismal note in her speech. You can plainly feel, even if you cannot see, that there is something wrong. Let me tell you what it could be. I do not say this is it; but it might be that there is a secret in your life, not a dead one, but a living secret. Do you see what I mean? She does not know what I mean. She only knows that there is some cloud holding back the light and the warmth of love from her life, and she feels it in spite of your caresses and little kindnesses, though she could not, for the life of her, explain it. May be the trouble is that the atmosphere in which love thrives and finds happiness is darkened by a little dark spot in your life. If that is so, let me beg you to get that dark spot out of your life. Will you do that?

Conclusion three: There are countless numbers of men whose indifference to the claims of religion is induced by this very thing that I am talking about. They are not atheists, nor even agnostics. They do not even dispute the great things claimed for religion, much less sneer at Christianity, and they are ready enough to admit the truth of what we say about these secred things; but they simply will not put themselves in the way of religion and its teachings.

Now, I do not deny that there are a thousand things that do produce this attitude of indifference, but I know of no single thing that is as sure to do it as the thing I have been discussing. I haven't a doubt that personal uncleanness keeps more men hardened to the appeals of religion than any other one thing. Am I right about that? Give yourself a thorough going over, and see if you can find whether or not it is true with you. If not, I am not talking to you. But I do not want even you to forget that this sin has in it something that is more hardening to the moral sensibilities and that can resist more stubbornly, and without any sense of shame the softening persuasions of the truth than almost any other form of sin. Suppose you read that again. You are a thoughtful man. Need I say more?

Conclusion four: It fills me with shame to make this last observation. I wish I could get around it without being open to the charge of being uncandid. I say it because I feel very deeply that it ought to be said and in an earnest hope that some men will be induced to stop and think. The thing I regret so much to say is that this very evil, this horribly ugly evil of uncleanness of life, is hurting the church and the cause of religion, hurting them terribly, because there are guilty men inside the church. That is a hard thing to say, I know, but if the mere saying it shall provoke even one man to stop and consider, and to mend his ways, it is worth it. Such men can have no religious power; the influence of their lives is on the other side, and they rob the church of its power. What then should they do? Get out of the church? No, by no means. And if you should be guilty, my dear man, do what David did; confess your sin to God and ask for His mercy, and get it.

Are any of these conclusions wrong? If so, set me right, and I shall be glad you did, and thank you for doing it.

EUGENICS' BIG JOB.

There are some who are prone to think of the eugenists as consisting mostly of bachelors, old maids, college professors and childless married women who are willing to study the child problem from a theoretical standpoint, but who are unwilling to share the responsibility and burden of child rearing themselves. It is true that there are some single men and women who are interested in the better baby movement, but they are interested in it because they are interested in the general development of the race and the fact that they have not assumed family responsibilities is doubtless due to the fact that they have not met the other women and men with whom they felt they would be properly mated for the rearing of a family, or some other sufficient reason.

Nor is there anything to indicate that all the childless married women who advocate eugenics or champion the cause of better babies are without children by their own design, and there is no reason why any man or woman, regardless of whether he or she be a parent, should not contribute something to the general cause of humanity by promoting those conditions which will give that portion of humanity which is to come on in the next generation the largest possible chance to develop as it ought along physical, mental, moral and economic lines.

Fortunately, however, the eugenists are not confined to unmarried persons and childless married women. Their most enthusiastic devotees to the cause of racial advancement are those who have children and thus realizing fully the need of those children coming into the world in the possession of that greatest of all rights, that of being well born, they are lending their efforts unreservedly to that end.

Commenting upon this phase of the matter, A. E. Hamilton says, in a recent issue of Good Health:

"This, then, is the major problem of eugenics: to make the home, the family, parenthood and child culture dominating interests in life. This will be done, not so much through further research into hereditary laws, or the passing of immigration bills, or the segregating of defectives, as through our human catylisers.

"There are men and women in the world, and there always have been, who have put their children first. 'These are my jewels,' mothers have said since old Roman times and before.

"But now these men and women are getting together to do team work. They are beginning to seize those instruments for molding public opinion that are already working and powerful. They see in our very cities, means that have never been ours before for the promotion of new world-old ideals.

"For though our cities suck in our best stock, and though they make it hard for any but the rich to marry and raise children for the home and for the race—yet cities have given us the public press, and opportunities for exchanging ideas in groups and masses, and for influencing thought through the drama and the movies and in a thousand ways undreamed of before."

"Gasoline up again?" inquires a headline in the Baltimore Sun. No, not again, just more.

R. H. Gray filled an honorable and useful place in the business and social life of this community, and while he had attained the ripe old age of four-score years there is genuine regret at his passing.

One of the most beautiful and impressive features of the suspended sentence law is that generally when it is a white mankiller they suspend the law, and when it is a black they suspend the "nigger." But civilization must have its joys and comforts, remarks George Bailey of the Houston Post.

Boys of the manual training department of the public schools in Houston are making and placing street signs there without cost to the city. A thousand boys are making two signs each, and are getting a valuable experience in useful service as well as practical work. The witnessing of their work will be an inspiration to them to do other things for their community, and the money saved to the city is an item not to be ignored.

The Union Standard, the local labor organ, has recently grown into an eight-page paper and Eaton Williams, editor and manager, is wearing the smile that won't come off. He took charge of the paper two years ago when it was only a six-column, four-page sheet and has deevloped it into its present size of eight pages of seven columns each. Hard, intelligent work has enabled him to put the paper on its feet, financially, and we rejoice in his prosperity.

The Senatorial Race

Seven Guesses Available.
(Troy Enterprise.)
We have at least seven guesses for United States senator.

Appropriate Opening Date.
(Rosebud News.)
Bob Henry, candidate for senator, will open his campaign at Moody on April 4th. What's the matter with April 1?

Announcement Helped His Health.
(Waxahachie Light.)
The announcement of Senator Culberson as a candidate for re-election has improved his health wonderfully. He is now in his seat every day.

No Thrillers From Riddle.
(Houston Post.)
George W. Riddle has opened his campaign for the senate. There is nothing in it to please or offend the public, not even a thrill, throb or twinge. But the people would have laughed if they had known how ridiculous it was.

Surprise to Texas Papers.
(Kilgore Chronicle.)
Senator Culberson occupied his seat in the senate the other day for the first time during the present session of congress. Texas daily papers were so surprised that they ran the item under a three-deck scare head.

Will History Repeat Itself?
(Lott Tribune.)
Bob Henry will open his senatorial campaign at Moody. Twenty years ago he opened his first campaign for congress in that little city. He was successful in that race and has been successful ever since. Will history repeat itself?

Will Arouse Some Interest.
(Dallas Democrat.)
Judge George W. Riddle, the well-known Dallas banker, is to formally open his campaign for the democratic nomination for United States senator in a speech at Waxahachie today. Whether he shall win or lose, Judge Riddle is a forceful campaigner and will make the race interesting for the other seven candidates.

Prohibition and Suffrage in Good Standing.
(Hamilton Herald.)
The question of national prohibition and national woman suffrage will be one of the leading issues in the Texas senatorial campaign this year. Well, the last state democratic convention, led by James E. Ferguson, refused to condemn the principle and thus gave its advocates a clean bill of health, politically.

All Candidates Are Busy.
(Honey Grove Signal.)
The senatorial runners are now on the track applying the whip. Mr. Brooks is speaking in east Texas, Mr. Riddle will start a speaking campaign next week, Mr. Davis will open up at Paris April 1, Mr. Colquitt is writing letters, Mr. Henry is writing his speech, Mr. Campbell is chewing his tobacco and Mr. Culberson is in the hands of his friends.

Brooks Will Reach People's Hearts.
(Kosse Cyclone.)
Dr. Brooks made the opening speech of his campaign for the United States senate in Marshall last Thursday addressing a very large audience. While there are several other candidates in the race, we doubt if any of them will came nearer reaching the hearts of the people than that of the eminent educator and Christian gentleman. In this speech he stated that he would spend only his own money in making the race, and he also indicated that he would not spend any great sum of money, which means that he will be eliminated in the first race. Other candidates are now spending their thousands, and the candidate with little or no money will realize before the day of election that money counts, even in elections.

The High Men in the Race.
(Hamilton Herald.)
Our guess is that the senatorial race will be between either Brooks and Henry or Brooks and Colquitt. The others will be listed as also rans.—Waco Times-Herald.

And our guess is that the race will be between Brooks and Culberson or Brooks and Colquitt, though both Campbell and Riddle are to be reckoned with among the prohibitionists, any may develop much strength as the campaign progresses. Either Culberson or Colquitt, though, will get the bulk of the anti-prohibition vote and will also get the votes of many prohibition democrats who stand with President Wilson in opposing national prohibition and national woman suffrage, and who are friends to one of the other of these men. Both Culberson and Colquitt are pronounced antis, but they are first of all democrats, and there are thousands of prohibitionists who are true democrats and who favor the preservation of the ancient doctrine of state rights as advocated by the great leaders of the democratic party.

As Boy Scouts See It

At the recent public meeting of the local Boy Scouts Council two addresses made by members of the local Boy Scouts organization were so full of valuable suggestions for other boys that the Morning News decided to reproduce them. Horace Atchison spoke on "The Effect of Alcohol and Tobacco on the Growing Boy" and Nash Oliver spoke on "The Value of Sleeping in the Open."

Horace Atchison spoke as follows:

"My subject tonight is 'The Effect That Alcohol and Tobacco Has on Growing Boys.

"There are not many young boys who go so far as to use alcohol, but there are many young boys who go so far as to use tobacco. There is nothing more disgusting than to see a boy going down the street with a cigarette in his mouth or with a mouth full of tobacco. Most boys who use tobacco or alcohol use it because they think they are doing something smart, and do not realize how they are injuring their health.

"Athletics appeals to every boy, but the fellow who always gets out in baseball, the one who always loses out in a foot race, or in any other athletic game, is generally a user of alcohol or tobacco."

Value of Sleep in the Open.

Nash Oliver spoke as follows:

"One thing a growing boy should have is plenty of sleep, and yet he is apt to be careless about it. It is during sleep that a boy grows most. Every move that he makes during the hours that he is awake tears down some tissue. When he goes to sleep this tissue is built up again. Good, sound, and sufficient sleep is essential to growth, strength and endurance. A boy in his teens should have at least nine or ten hours of sleep out of every twenty-four. Sleep is a wonderful restorative.

"Where you sleep is just as important as how long you sleep. You will find sleeping out of doors a wonderful help. If you don't sleep out of doors you should at least open all the windows in your sleeping room. Avoid drafts. In the winter open your windows and it will prepare you for camping out in summer. Good, fresh, cool air is a splendid tonic. Come out to the club house and try it.' '

U. S. Postoffice Department Has the Biggest Payroll on Earth

BY ROBERT F. WILSON.

Special to the Morning News.

Washington, March 18.—When a departmental employe recently told a house appropriation committee that the postoffice department maintains the biggest payroll on earth, some of the members of the committee looked surprised. The employe then went on to tell about the 140,000 postoffice employes who draw their regular pay checks from Uncle Sam, the total payroll amounting to something like $200,000,000 a year.

I went through the postoffice department trying to find the paymaster who takes care of this vast roll. I had a visionary idea of blank checks spread out in great sheets, while the paymaster signed them, perhaps, several hundred at a time by means of the telautograph instrument used in certain other government offices where many checks have to be signed.

But the biggest payroll on earth is not paid off in this fashion. Instead of a single paymaster there are 56,111 paymasters, that being the number of postmasters holding commissions on March 8, 1916. Each postmaster is practically an independent business man, meeting the expenses of his own office out of its receipts and returning the profits, if any, to the department together with his accounts for auditing.

It is in the auditing that Washington here handles the gigantic postoffice payroll, but it is the treasury department which handles it. Three whole floors and part of a fourth in the ten-story postoffice department building are given over to the auditors who are direct employes of the treasury department. The postoffice department has about 1,500 employes in Washington, but it takes 560 treasury employes to audit the books of the postoffice department.

Each postmaster is virtually his own boss in managing the finances of his own office, except that he can employ only authorized help and that he must submit his accounts for auditing every month. The postmaster pays his office clerks and mail clerks and mail carriers. Thus in several of the largest cities the postoffice payroll ranks with those of the largest local industries. There are 39,792 office clerks and mail clerks in our postoffices, all being paid by their local postmasters. In addition there are 33,000 city carriers, making the total postoffice payroll for the local mail delivery number about 73,000 names.

Then there is another large branch of the service—the railway mail service. The railway mail clerks, too, are paid by postmasters. For the railway mail service the country is divided into districts, and the clerks are assigned to certain large postoffices in each district for their pay. There are 19,000 railway mail clerks.

The largest division of postoffice employes is made up of the rural mail carriers, 44,000 of them, or a third more rural carriers than city carriers.

Postmaster General Burleson.

Their pay checks, too, come from postmasters, but not from their local postmasters. In each state one city is designated as the paying station for the rural carriers. To this office all the other postoffices of the state send their excess receipts, and from these funds the postmaster in the designated city pays all the rural carriers of the state with his official checks. The New York postmaster pays all the rural letter carriers in New York state, Philadelphia for Pennsylvania, Cincinnati for Ohio, Chicago for Illinois, Milwaukee for Wisconsin, etc.

Thus a large share of the postoffice receipts never reach Washington, but are paid out locally in salaries to the postoffice employes. The principal work here is auditing the payroll. For this purpose the auditors maintain a card index system, with a card for each of the 140,000 employes, giving his name, date of appointment and rate of pay. Each month the total payroll is checked over name by name, and every three months the auditors strike the balance sheet.

The postoffice has no top-heavy salaries, nor any very small ones. Perhaps no business institution on earth has its payroll so evenly balanced in this respect. Exclusive of watchmen and scrub women, the smallest salary paid is $800 a year. The postmaster general draws the largest salary—$12,000. If the postoffice were a private corporation its president would easily draw $50,000 a year, while his assistants and divisional managers would get salaries ranging from $10,000 to $25,000. On the other hand, the clerks in this private institution would probably not average $800 a year, let alone having as the minimum salary.

THE COW A CIVILIZER.

Use of milk is one of the measures of progress, informs the Country Gentleman. The cow is a civilizer. It may even be argued that the world's war madness is due to a lack of milk. Germans are poor milk makers. They have only about a third the number of cows, in proportion to population, that the United States has, and the German cows have suffered much from foot and mouth outbreaks. Thus Germany has been putting into its system liquids that have not the millifying influence of good milk. Great Britain is also shy on the milk diet. In contrast behold Holland, the home of good milk, growing rich faster than a Pittsburg mill owner.

Living on milk alone is a recognized form of treatment in obstinate hysteria—and if there is any form of hysteria worse than war we do not know its name. Living on milk alone is not to be recommended to everybody, but if you will read Benjamin Franklin's autobiography you will find this: "For instance, my breakfast was a long time bread and milk (no tea) and I ate it out of a twopenny earthen porringer with a pewter spoon." Then he tells how much better he got through the day than did his fellow workmen. Here we have the meal upon which was built the finest example of self-made success in the eighteenth century; furthermore, Franklin was just about the wisest and most useful citizen of his day and generation. This nation would not be what it is today if it had not been for Franklin's milk breakfast.

Our doctors and food experts are swinging back more strongly to milk. One reason is the great improvement in the product. So there is hope of health as well as of peace in our twenty million cows and the billion dollars' worth of milk and cream they annually furnish.

It is costing the United States $72,000 a day to hunt Villa. But he must be taken if it requires several times this much daily for a year's time, which it won't.

Some of Senator Gore's constituents have come to the conclusion, since the senator's recent performances in Washington on the submarine resolution, that he is losing his mental and political as well as his physical sight.

In the congressional election next November the American public is going to decorate some members of congress with the order of the White Feather, says the New Orleans States. And it may rob some of them of their goat, too.

Now that the republicans and the progressives are trying to get together in Texas and throughout the nation it is about time the democrats of the country were cutting out their tomfoolery and composing their differences if they expect to retain their seats at the pie counter during the next four years.

DESERVED TRIBUTE TO A DESERVING WOMAN.

When representatives of practically every women's organization in the city of San Antonio came together there a few days ago to celebrate the eightieth birthday of Miss M. Eleanor Brackenridge a modest and deserved tribute was paid to one of the most valuable women which this large state of useful women affords.

As an organizer of women along lines of useful endeavor the state has had no equal, perhaps. As a friend of deserving girls none has worked more diligently or given more freely of her time and means. As a helper of mothers in the rearing of their children she has been a power for good, though her modesty in this, as in other instances, has prevented the true nature of her work becoming generally known. Highly cultured, broadly sympathetic, intensely patriotic in her service of her fellow women and the young girls of today who will be the women of tomorrow, Miss Brackenridge has contributed freely of her large means in the promotion of those movements that looked toward the constructive betterment of those who needed help, rather than those things which sought only temporary relief.

Nor has she confined her labors to those fields in which the average club woman works, though she has been identified with as many clubs and organizations, perhaps, as any other Texas woman. She has served since the beginning of that institution as a director of the College of Industrial Arts at Denton and one of the buildings there bears her name; she has taken an active interest in the Girls' Home Economic clubs for the country girls, and has provided free scholarships and funds for the winning girls in the College of Industrial Arts; she has made loans to a number of deserving girls that they might complete their courses in this institution. She has helped support educational work among the negroes along those lines that she felt were most helpful for them. And she has enabled the girl who drifts into the large cities to have a better chance to steer clear of moral pitfalls by contributing to and helping direct the work of the traveler's aid and the police matrons.

And all this has been done by a woman who has not enjoyed good health for many years. A woman of lower ideals and purposes and less courage and will power would have lain down and died long ago. But no voluntary surrender to lack of physical strength for Miss Brackenridge. From her bed where she has been compelled to spend much of her time she has given counsel and direction to her work and her interest in that work has buoyed her up much more effectively than any mere medicine could ever have done.

Miss Brackenridge is independently wealthy, but she has the good sense and the feeling of social obligation that have enabled her to apply her wealth to worthy ends and she is infinitely happier in her advanced age than she could possibly have been had she confined her investments to mercantile establishments, stocks and bonds and lands instead of making them in human lives and human happiness, as she has so consistently done. She is eminently worthy of all the nice things her fellow workers said about her at the luncheon and we are mentioning the matter here, not so much as a compliment to Miss Brackenridge as in the hope that her example will prove an inspiration to others who have means and that still larger number who have only opportunity to do good as they go along.

It begins to appear that in Texas, at least, the republican lambs and the Lyons will lie down together, but it will take more than a little child to lead them to victory.

Those Fort Worth high school cadets are a serious-minded lot of youngsters. They refused an invitation to meet William Jennings Bryan at the train, on the occasion of his visit to that city, because the Peerless One is opposed to preparedness and the cadets are strongly in favor of it. They are consistent, to say the least.

General Slocum was not sent in person after Villa, but his offer of $50,000 for Villa, dead or alive, is likely to be fully as instrumental in the capture of that bandit leader as the invasion of the army under General Pershing. And had we been possessed of a fortune the size of General Slocum's we would have beaten him to placing a cash premium on the villain's head.

Our congratulations to the residents of Waco Vista upon their organization of a social center. They will become better acquainted not only with the various needs of that portion of the city, and supply those needs, but they will become better acquainted with each other. And having become better neihbors they will become happier citizens. The movement is a good one in every way.

Baltimore had fifty-seven varieties of weather last Wednesday, according to the Baltimore Sun. Billy Sunday's hot shots must have been having some effect on the atmosphere.

A Sunday Morning Message to Men

By Rev. J. J. Grier

TO THE MAN OF UNCLEAN LIFE.

Text: "Have mercy on me, O God! Wash me from mine iniquity, and cleanse me from my sin."—King David, after his great sin.

Of course you understand the particular kind of uncleanness I have in mind, and I would like to indulge the hope that you are free from its taint. Every day I feel like thanking God for that great company of clean-living men whose very cleanness of life speaks so well for the nobility of the race, just as they show to us what fine men all men could be if they only would.

Unfortunately, all men are not so. Many men, of whom we would naturally expect better things are soiled. And I do not say that unguardedly or rashly. It is really a very mild thing to say, in the face of the facts. For I have talked with many eminent physicians and they have astonished me by their sober conclusions on this subject. Needless to say I am not going to tell you what they said, and why should I? Don't you know quite enough about it already? Neither do I intend to give a repulsive recital of the things that have come under the range of my observation. But what reliable and intelligent physicians have told me, and I never waste my time on any other sort, together with what I have seen with my own eyes and heard from the lips of confession—these things, I say, have compelled me to do some very serious, distressed thinking, and I have come to two or three conclusions which I want you to go over with me. And I want you to tell me if I am wrong; for I want nothing so much as I want to see the truth, and I appreciate no friendship so much as that which sets me right.

The conclusions, then:

Conclusion one: An alarming proportion of men are living unclean lives, and some of these men are in our churches and some of them—most of them, I'm sure—are outside the churches, and some of them are married and some of them are not married. It hurts me terribly to admit the truth of some parts of that sentence, and I want to ask you the direct question: Are you unclean? Is your name on a church roll anywhere in the world? Are you married? Can you define the word decency?

Conclusion two: Here is the unsuspected cause of much of the unhappiness in our homes. I am not referring to those wretched cases where the home is broken up or to those where ugly living has become notorious and is known to all men. Such cases require no comment to make the truth evident. I am speaking of cases like your own. You are a respectable man, perhaps well thought of, and, so far as the world knows you, you are a very decent sort of man; but your home life is not happy. That does not mean that you are a brute and beat your wife. It may be that there are not even scenes and ugly clashes of any sort. And yet your home is not a happy one. You see the lines of heart-hunger in the face across the table from you and you hear the tones of that same hunger in her voice as she speaks to you; and, may be, at times you are a little exasperated at the plaintive, dismal note in her speech. You can plainly feel, even if you cannot see, that there is something wrong. Let me tell you what it could be. I do not say this is it; but it might be that there is a secret in your life, not a dead one, but a living secret. Do you see what I mean? She does not know what I mean. She only knows that there is some cloud holding back the light and the warmth of love from her life, and she feels it in spite of your caresses and little kindnesses, though she could not, for the life of her, explain it. May be the trouble is that the atmosphere in which love thrives and finds happiness is darkened by a little dark spot in your life. If that is so, let me beg you to get that dark spot out of your life. Will you do that?

Conclusion three: There are countless numbers of men whose indifference to the claims of religion is induced by this very thing that I am talking about. They are not atheists, nor even agnostics. They do not even dispute the great things claimed for religion, much less sneer at Christianity, and they are ready enough to admit the truth of what we say about these secred things; but they simply will not put themselves in the way of religion and its teachings.

Now, I do not deny that there are a thousand things that do produce this attitude of indifference, but I know of no single thing that is as sure to do it as the thing I have been discussing. I haven't a doubt that personal uncleanness keeps more men hardened to the appeals of religion than any other one thing. Am I right about that? Give yourself a thorough going over, and see if you can find whether or not it is true with you. If not, I am not talking to you. But I do not want even you to forget that this sin has in it something that is more hardening to the moral sensibilities and that can resist more stubbornly, and without any sense of shame the softening persuasions of the truth than almost any other form of sin. Suppose you read that again. You are a thoughtful man. Need I say more?

Conclusion four: It fills me with shame to make this last observation. I wish I could get around it without being open to the charge of being uncandid. I say it because I feel very deeply that it ought to be said and in an earnest hope that some men will be induced to stop and think. The thing I regret so much to say is that this very evil, this horribly ugly evil of uncleanness of life, is hurting the church and the cause of religion, hurting them terribly, because there are guilty men inside the church. That is a hard thing to say, I know, but if the mere saying it shall provoke even one man to stop and consider, and to mend his ways, it is worth it. Such men can have no religious power; the influence of their lives is on the other side, and they rob the church of its power. What then should they do? Get out of the church? No, by no means. And if you should be guilty, my dear man, do what David did; confess your sin to God and ask for His mercy, and get it.

Are any of these conclusions wrong? If so, set me right, and I shall be glad you did, and thank you for doing it.

EUGENICS' BIG JOB.

There are some who are prone to think of the eugenists as consisting mostly of bachelors, old maids, college professors and childless married women who are willing to study the child problem from a theoretical standpoint, but who are unwilling to share the responsibility and burden of child rearing themselves. It is true that there are some single men and women who are interested in the better baby movement, but they are interested in it because they are interested in the general development of the race and the fact that they have not assumed family responsibilities is doubtless due to the fact that they have not met the other women and men with whom they felt they would be properly mated for the rearing of a family, or some other sufficient reason.

Nor is there anything to indicate that all the childless married women who advocate eugenics or champion the cause of better babies are without children by their own design, and there is no reason why any man or woman, regardless of whether he or she be a parent, should not contribute something to the general cause of humanity by promoting those conditions which will give that portion of humanity which is to come on in the next generation the largest possible chance to develop as it ought along physical, mental, moral and economic lines.

Fortunately, however, the eugenists are not confined to unmarried persons and childless married women. Their most enthusiastic devotees to the cause of racial advancement are those who have children and thus realizing fully the need of those children coming into the world in the possession of that greatest of all rights, that of being well born, they are lending their efforts unreservedly to that end.

Commenting upon this phase of the matter, A. E. Hamilton says, in a recent issue of Good Health:

"This, then, is the major problem of eugenics: to make the home, the family, parenthood and child culture dominating interests in life. This will be done, not so much through further research into hereditary laws, or the passing of immigration bills, or the segregating of defectives, as through our human catylisers.

"There are men and women in the world, and there always have been, who have put their children first. 'These are my jewels,' mothers have said since old Roman times and before.

"But now these men and women are getting together to do team work. They are beginning to seize those instruments for molding public opinion that are already working and powerful. They see in our very cities, means that have never been ours before for the promotion of new world-old ideals.

"For though our cities suck in our best stock, and though they make it hard for any but the rich to marry and raise children for the home and for the race—yet cities have given us the public press, and opportunities for exchanging ideas in groups and masses, and for influencing thought through the drama and the movies and in a thousand ways undreamed of before."

"Gasoline up again?" inquires a headline in the Baltimore Sun. No, not again, just more.

R. H. Gray filled an honorable and useful place in the business and social life of this community, and while he had attained the ripe old age of four-score years there is genuine regret at his passing.

One of the most beautiful and impressive features of the suspended sentence law is that generally when it is a white mankiller they suspend the law, and when it is a black they suspend the "nigger." But civilization must have its joys and comforts, remarks George Bailey of the Houston Post.

Boys of the manual training department of the public schools in Houston are making and placing street signs there without cost to the city. A thousand boys are making two signs each, and are getting a valuable experience in useful service as well as practical work. The witnessing of their work will be an inspiration to them to do other things for their community, and the money saved to the city is an item not to be ignored.

The Union Standard, the local labor organ, has recently grown into an eight-page paper and Eaton Williams, editor and manager, is wearing the smile that won't come off. He took charge of the paper two years ago when it was only a six-column, four-page sheet and has deevloped it into its present size of eight pages of seven columns each. Hard, intelligent work has enabled him to put the paper on its feet, financially, and we rejoice in his prosperity.

The Senatorial Race

Seven Guesses Available.
(Troy Enterprise.)

We have at least seven guesses for United States senator.

Appropriate Opening Date.
(Rosebud News.)

Bob Henry, candidate for senator, will open his campaign at Moody on April 4th. What's the matter with April 1?

Announcement Helped His Health.
(Waxahachie Light.)

The announcement of Senator Culberson as a candidate for re-election has improved his health wonderfully. He is now in his seat every day.

No Thrillers From Riddle.
(Houston Post.)

George W. Riddle has opened his campaign for the senate. There is nothing in it to please or offend the public, not even a thrill, throb or twinge. But the people would have laughed if they had known how ridiculous it was.

Surprise to Texas Papers.
(Kilgore Chronicle.)

Senator Culberson occupied his seat in the senate the other day for the first time during the present session of congress. Texas daily papers were so surprised that they ran the item under a three-deck scare head.

Will History Repeat Itself?
(Lott Tribune.)

Bob Henry will open his senatorial campaign at Moody. Twenty years ago he opened his first campaign for congress in that little city. He was successful in that race and has been successful ever since. Will history repeat itself?

Will Arouse Some Interest.
(Dallas Democrat.)

Judge George W. Riddle, the well-known Dallas banker, is to formally open his campaign for the democratic nomination for United States senator in a speech at Waxahachie today. Whether he shall win or lose, Judge Riddle is a forceful campaigner and will make the race interesting for the other seven candidates.

Prohibition and Suffrage in Good Standing.
(Hamilton Herald.)

The question of national prohibition and national woman suffrage will be one of the leading issues in the Texas senatorial campaign this year. Well, the last state democratic convention, led by James E. Ferguson, refused to condemn the principle and thus gave its advocates a clean bill of health, politically.

All Candidates Are Busy.
(Honey Grove Signal.)

The senatorial runners are now on the track applying the whip. Mr. Brooks is speaking in east Texas, Mr. Riddle will start a speaking campaign next week, Mr. Davis will open up at Paris April 1, Mr. Colquitt is writing letters, Mr. Henry is writing his speech, Mr. Campbell is chewing his tobacco and Mr. Culberson is in the hands of his friends.

Brooks Will Reach People's Hearts.
(Kosse Cyclone.)

Dr. Brooks made the opening speech of his campaign for the United States senate in Marshall last Thursday addressing a very large audience. While there are several other candidates in the race, we doubt if any of them will came nearer reaching the hearts of the people than that of the eminent educator and Christian gentleman. In this speech he stated that he would spend only his own money in making the race, and he also indicated that he would not spend any great sum of money, which means that he will be eliminated in the first race. Other candidates are now spending their thousands, and the candidate with little or no money will realize before the day of election that money counts, even in elections.

The High Men in the Race.
(Hamilton Herald.)

Our guess is that the senatorial race will be between either Brooks and Henry or Brooks and Colquitt. The others will be listed as also rans.—Waco Times-Herald.

And our guess is that the race will be between Brooks and Culberson or Brooks and Colquitt, though both Campbell and Riddle are to be reckoned with among the prohibitionists, any may develop much strength as the campaign progresses. Either Culberson or Colquitt, though, will get the bulk of the anti-prohibition vote and will also get the votes of many prohibition democrats who stand with President Wilson in opposing national prohibition and national woman suffrage, and who are friends to one of the other of these men. Both Culberson and Colquitt are pronounced antis, but they are first of all democrats, and there are thousands of prohibitionists who are true democrats and who favor the preservation of the ancient doctrine of state rights as advocated by the great leaders of the democratic party.

As Boy Scouts See It

At the recent public meeting of the local Boy Scouts Council two addresses made by members of the local Boy Scouts organization were so full of valuable suggestions for other boys that the Morning News decided to reproduce them. Horace Atchison spoke on "The Effect of Alcohol and Tobacco on the Growing Boy" and Nash Oliver spoke on "The Value of Sleeping in the Open."

Horace Atchison spoke as follows:

"My subject tonight is 'The Effect That Alcohol and Tobacco Has on Growing Boys.

"There are not many young boys who go so far as to use alcohol, but there are many young boys who go so far as to use tobacco. There is nothing more disgusting than to see a boy going down the street with a cigarette in his mouth or with a mouth full of tobacco. Most boys who use tobacco or alcohol use it because they think they are doing something smart, and do not realize how they are injuring their health.

"Athletics appeals to every boy, but the fellow who always gets out in baseball, the one who always loses out in a foot race, or in any other athletic game, is generally a user of alcohol or tobacco."

Value of Sleep in the Open.

Nash Oliver spoke as follows:

"One thing a growing boy should have is plenty of sleep, and yet he is apt to be careless about it. It is during sleep that a boy grows most. Every move that he makes during the hours that he is awake tears down some tissue. When he goes to sleep this tissue is built up again. Good, sound, and sufficient sleep is essential to growth, strength and endurance. A boy in his teens should have at least nine or ten hours of sleep out of every twenty-four. Sleep is a wonderful restorative.

"Where you sleep is just as important as how long you sleep. You will find sleeping out of doors a wonderful help. If you don't sleep out of doors you should at least open all the windows in your sleeping room. Avoid drafts. In the winter open your windows and it will prepare you for camping out in summer. Good, fresh, cool air is a splendid tonic. Come out to the club house and try it.' "

U. S. Postoffice Department Has the Biggest Payroll on Earth

BY ROBERT F. WILSON.

Special to the Morning News.

Washington, March 18.—When a departmental employe recently told a house appropriation committee that the postoffice department maintains the biggest payroll on earth, some of the members of the committee looked surprised. The employe then went on to tell about the 140,000 postoffice employes who draw their regular pay checks from Uncle Sam, the total payroll amounting to something like $200,000,000 a year.

I went through the postoffice department trying to find the paymaster who takes care of this vast roll. I had a visionary idea of blank checks spread out in great sheets, while the paymaster signed them, perhaps, several hundred at a time by means of the telautograph instrument used in certain other government offices where many checks have to be signed.

But the biggest payroll on earth is not paid off in this fashion. Instead of a single paymaster there are 56,111 paymasters, that being the number of postmasters holding commissions on March 8, 1916. Each postmaster is practically an independent business man, meeting the expenses of his own office out of its receipts and returning the profits, if any, to the department together with his accounts for auditing.

It is in the auditing that Washington here handles the gigantic postoffice payroll, but it is the treasury department which handles it. Three whole floors and part of a fourth in the ten-story postoffice department building are given over to the auditors who are direct employes of the treasury department. The postoffice department has about 1,500 employes in Washington, but it takes 560 treasury employes to audit the books of the postoffice department.

Each postmaster is virtually his own boss in managing the finances of his own office, except that he can employ only authorized help and that he must submit his accounts for auditing every month. The postmaster pays his office clerks and mail clerks and mail carriers. Thus in several of the largest cities the postoffice payroll ranks with those of the largest local industries. There are 39,792 office clerks and mail clerks in our postoffices, all being paid by their local postmasters. In addition there are 33,000 city carriers, making the total postoffice payroll for the local mail delivery number about 73,000 names.

Then there is another large branch of the service—the railway mail service. The railway mail clerks, too, are paid by postmasters. For the railway mail service the country is divided into districts, and the clerks are assigned to certain large postoffices in each district for their pay. There are 19,000 railway mail clerks.

The largest division of postoffice employes is made up of the rural mail carriers, 44,000 of them, or a third more rural carriers than city carriers.

Postmaster General Burleson.

Their pay checks, too, come from postmasters, but not from their local postmasters. In each state one city is designated as the paying station for the rural carriers. To this office all the other postoffices of the state send their excess receipts, and from these funds the postmaster in the designated city pays all the rural carriers of the state with his official checks. The New York postmaster pays all the rural letter carriers in New York state, Philadelphia for Pennsylvania, Cincinnati for Ohio, Chicago for Illinois, Milwaukee for Wisconsin, etc.

Thus a large share of the postoffice receipts never reach Washington, but are paid out locally in salaries to the postoffice employes. The principal work here is auditing the payroll. For this purpose the auditors maintain a card index system, with a card for each of the 140,000 employes, giving his name, date of appointment and rate of pay. Each month the total payroll is checked over name by name, and every three months the auditors strike the balance sheet.

The postoffice has no top-heavy salaries, nor any very small ones. Perhaps no business institution on earth has its payroll so evenly balanced in this respect. Exclusive of watchmen and scrub women, the smallest salary paid is $800 a year. The postmaster general draws the largest salary—$12,000. If the postoffice were a private corporation its president would easily draw $50,000 a year, while his assistants and divisional managers would get salaries ranging from $10,000 to $25,000. On the other hand, the clerks in this private institution would probably not average $800 a year, let alone having as the minimum salary.

SPECIAL CALL IS MADE FOR MISSIONARY SOCIETY

Members of the Missionary society, First Presbyterian church, who note their call in this morning's News calendar, are reminded that this is the meeting for election of officers, hence a meeting which should find every member present.

INVITATIONS ARE GIVEN BY MRS. A. E. MOORE

The last invitations of the week were extended by Mrs. A. E. Moore, who, on Saturday, requested presence for a christening to hospitality of her new apartment. This comes in the form of a bridge matinee next Thursday afternoon.

BAYLOR ROUND TABLE MEETS FOR BIRTHDAY PARTY

At the University Cafeteria, members of the Baylor Round Table with their husbands assembled for dual celebration, the Round Table Birthday and patronage of Saint Patrick. In all, about fifty were present, all merry as the proverbial marriage bell. The men happy because shrouded in the silence of a good dinner, and the assurance that the women would do all the talking; the women in their own assurance that the men would not interfere with their program. Special provision for the Saint Patrick touches in table greenery, shamrock place cards, and the Irish flag, all these were added to the cafeteria service. It was all enjoyable, and very jolly. First of all, Mrs. A. J. Armstrong introduced the business feature in a long and a strong petition from the husbands praying that they should make no speeches. The petition was granted with all due Round Table formality. Next, Mrs. A. P. Hickson called the roll. Responses were Irish jokes, and some of them were exceedingly clever. Mrs. W. P. Lewis read a special delivery letter from an absent couple stating that the husband hurried the wife out of the city in the fear that he was to be called upon for a speech. Mrs. Lewis was instructed to reply and show the gentleman the error of his way. Mrs. J. W. Downer's toast was to the silent partners; Mrs. J. G. Kendall spoke to the "Full Man on an Empty Purse" (the women being purse bearers of this occasion); Mrs. S. P. Brooks toasted the Baylor "Cafe and Mrs. Collins." Mrs. J. E. Hawkins, president of the Round Table, presided. The tables followed the outline of a "U."

Founded as it was in March, the Round Table annually observes a founders' day. The date is movable. This was an occasion, not only up to former standards, but beyond, in its amount of jolly good time engendered, and clever plan for entertainment.

USE OF THE LIBRARY COURSE OF LESSONS

Miss Pauline McCauley has inaugurated a course of lessons for the convenience of library patrons. This course includes four lessons:

First. The arrangement of books in classes on the shelves.

Second. How to use the catalog.

Third. The use of reference books and index to magazines.

Fourth. General review of three preceding lessons.

The children are taught in groups of fifteen, these being high school students who are excused for a study period. Miss McCauley offered this privilege to the Eighth grade; seventy-six have joined the class. This is voluntary upon the part of the students, which is evidence of their interest in library patronage.

FLOWERS ARE PRESENTED TO THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

During the spring planting, the public library has not been forgotten. Several firms have remembered the library with rose roots and lawn shrubs this season. It is needless to say that, not only the library staff, but all Waco, for we all feel personal ownership in the library, are appreciative.

HIGH NOON WEDDING IN HOME SERVICE

On Saturday at high noon in the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. H. A. Weddington, Seventeenth and Blair, Miss Tennie Griffis of Rosenthal became the bride of Vivien Westbrook of Alta Vista. The day of ceremony was hastened, hence no formal invitations. Immediate families and friends, numbering more than seventy, were present. There were no attendants. The service was conducted by Rev. Whitehurst, presiding elder of this conference. As prelude to the ceremony, Howell James with Joseph Evans at the piano, gave the ante nuptial song. The home had been converted into a spring bower, and the bride wore first among the spring suits a going away coat costume, in gray, completed with a spring mode hat. Mr. and Mrs. Westbrook were off at once for Fort Worth. They return within a few days, to make their home at Alta Vista. While quietly celebrated, this event is one of social note, owing to social prominence of families involved, through this county.

WOMEN IN SHOPPING SHOULD BE INTELLIGENT

The average woman does not have the slightest idea what she does when she stands before a shop counter. Centered in self, she has never inquired what the system of that shop may be. She never seeks to understand intelligently what transpires between her purchase and the delivery of her goods. She heeds not, she inquires not, and yet she is loud in complaint if one delay or mistake is made in regard to her bundle. Often it is her own carelessness which causes the delay. Every woman should come to realize that a down town shop is a complex system. There must be system else business can not proceed. The girl behind the counter acts under instructions as a part of that system, and milady of Self Center has no right to ask any favors. Rather, if she be the well bred woman, she will inquire what that rule is, so that she may conform. Every woman knows what it means for her household to be set awry; how much more confusion if a vast army of hundreds of workers are disorganized. On the other hand, every merchant is eager to please individual customers. Every friend means hundreds of dollars annually, to say nothing of influence upon other customers. So, when the woman is denied what she considers her privilege, it is because she has demanded something altogether impossible.

We know one woman in Waco who has studied every utility with which she deals. She has visited the telephone office to see just what transpires between the time she takes down her receiver and rehangs it. She has inquired the passage of a bundle in the department store from the counter where she buys to her door. She understands just what the system of delivery from her grocer is. In this way she can be an intelligent patron, and it is the exception when one bit of friction occurs with her shop patronage. Can not other women do the same? They owe it to themselves and they owe it to the men with whom they deal.

MRS. ROBERT LEE HENRY WITH MRS. O. L. STRIBLING

Society's patronage of Saint Patrick's day was given in the home of Mrs. Oscar Stribling who honored the return from Washington City of Mrs. Robert Lee Henry in paying this friendship courtesy, Mrs. Stribling selected Saint Patrick's day, so that she could not only honor the shamrock and the Irish harp, but because she could be the first of the season's hostesses in a pretty luncheon. Engaged to entertain during the luncheon service was Huaco club orchestra who gave program and accompaniment to several sweet Irish songs from Miss Eldora Stanford; also, accompaniment to an Irish ballad from Mrs. J. W. Hale. The service was given at small tables, each seating eight. The Misses Eleanor Blair, Enrique Smith and Anne Risher, each in her jaunty little green cap and apron, were maids. All through her five courses, Mrs. Stribling thrust the bit of green, in shamrock spray on cake, in color of ice, and elsewhere. On each table was the "Harp that once through Tara's Hall" made with string and frame of natural smilax. At each plate a Paddy satin hat held the nut. Shamrock mints were offered. Nor was the 'Erin go Braugh" flag forgotten. It was all a pretty spring picture, one for which Mrs. Stribling received many compliments. This was the first ensemble meeting with Mrs. Henry from her extended absence. Guests were the Mesdames H. P. Parmelee, W. O. Wilkes, Lee Neblett, Frank Forman, A. V. Cross, Allan Sanford, Peyton Randle, J. W. Bass, Smith of Chicago, J. W. Hale, Charles Boynton, Edward Rotan, Thomas Padgitt, Robert Dupree, Marie Holway, C. E. Smith, William Neale, George McLendon, Sidney Burrows, H. C. Risher, Richard Munroe, James Sturgis, John Sleeper, H. K. Brewer, Nelson Smith, Walter Lacy, J. D. Williamson, W. B. Hays, Frank Miller.

MISSES JAYNES AND ARD FOR MISS IVOR HOPKINS

Again has Miss Ivor Hopkins as the bride of next Wednesday has been honoree. In this the Misses Leta Jaynes and Irene Ard were hostesses in the home of Miss Jaynes. Their courtesy took form of a kitchen shower, while their pastime for the hour took form of contest over naming articles in a hope chest. For this, Miss Fay Hopkins scored high and Mrs. Munger low.

COLUMBUS SCHOOL MOTHERS REMINDED OF MEETING

As announced in the calendar this morning, mothers of Columbus street are urgently requested to be present at the school building on Monday afternoon. The several schools of the city have organized or revived flourishing mothers' clubs. The East Side and Bell's Hill are the last. Only two in all the city are now without mothers banded for welfare of the children. Therefore, the call is made for a meeting with renewed enthusiasm for Columbus street. Mrs. W. O. Wilkes as general president will be present. Other active mothers will attend this meeting. It is hoped that no less than fifty will be ready to resume the work and lay plans for something well done for the children in this ward.

WEEKLY DINNER AND DANCE OUT AT THE HUACO CLUB

Lenten retirement is telling perceptibly upon the Friday night dance and dinner assemblies out at the Huaco club. Not sufficiently, however, to banish the good time. Quite a pleasant little party was out this week, some to dine; others to join the dinner guests for the dance.

The largest party found sixteen guests to meet Mrs. Thomas Lee of San Antonio. Invitations were given by Mr. and Mrs. B. G. McKie.

Mrs. Woodson White of Havana, the Misses Marian Duncan, Katherine Raynolds and Anne Risher were out with escorts.

SAINT PAUL'S MISSION BEGINS WITH TODAY

Today's services at Saint Paul's church begins a week's mission in addition to the Lenten daily attendance at church already in progress. A powerful speaker in Bishop Winchester and special music, choir and solo, at each service, are features for the week.

Easy Way to Romove Freckles and Eruptions

Some women have spin of such texture they occasionally are annoyed by the sudden appearance of freckles, slight eruptions or fine lines. March winds usually play havoc with skins of that kind. In such cases if one will procure an ounce of common mercolized wax at any drug store, apply a little of it before retiring, like cold cream, she can easily overcome the trouble. When the wax is washed off next morning, flaky skin particles come with it. The entire outer cuticle is removed in this way in a week or so, with all its defects. No bleach could so effectually remove freckles or blemshes. The new surface is smooth, clear, fresh looking. No pain or inconvenience accompanies this simple treatment.

In case of wrinkles which sink beneath the outer skin, a solution of powdered saxolite, 1 oz., dissolved in ½ pt. witch hazel, makes a face bath which is wonderfully effective

$24.50 Suit and Dress Week at Goldstein-Migel

Demonstrating the Delightful Variety and Amazing Values of Our Splendid Garments at this Popular Price

"Truth Sunday"

TODAY has been designated "Truth Sunday" by the Associated Advertising Clubs of Texas, with which this store is affiliated.

The purpose is to call to the attention of the reading public to the fact that TRUTH is the fundamental principle of all really successful advertising, just as HONOR is the fundamental principle of successful business.

Today—and every day—Goldstein-Migel advertising speaks the TRUTH. A word in a Goldstein-Migel advertisement means the same as it does in the dictionary—no more and no less.

Goldstein-Migel advertising, the Goldstein-Migel merchandise and Goldstein-Migel service can always be DEPENDED UPON.

More Style, more Value, more Variety than you have ever before seen at so modest a price as $24.50. Really a most notable event.

Women's Tailored Suits

Featuring All the New Modes

It is truly wonderful when you realize that $24.50 will buy such splendid Suits as these—a fact that is made possible by Goldstein-Migel's excellent buying-facilities. Every one of these Suits would be an extra good value at a considerably higher price.

Elegant models in the latest short-flare and Spanish Belt styles—Taffeta Suits, Taffeta-and-Serge Suits, Wool Poplins, Men's Serges, Gabardines and smart checks—every garment perfectly tailored and every line and trimming strictly correct. The range of styles and colors leaves nothing to be wished for that is not here.

$24.50

This "$24.50 Week" will emphasize more strongly than ever the leadership of Goldstein-Migel in smart fashions and better values.

Charming New Dresses

A Genuine Surprise in Values.

In planning this exhibit and sale of beautiful Silk Dresses at $24.50, it has been our determination to make it so impressive that every woman who attends it will be absolutely convinced of Goldstein-Migel supremacy in value-giving. We invite your careful consideration and comparison.

The assemblage includes the choicest Chiffon Taffetas and Georgette combinations, in all leading Spring shades—fashioned with an artistic conception of style and beauty which makes each dress a distinctive creation.

SPECIAL CALL IS MADE FOR MISSIONARY SOCIETY

Members of the Missionary society, First Presbyterian church, who note their call in this morning's News calendar, are reminded that this is the meeting for election of officers, hence a meeting which should find every member present.

INVITATIONS ARE GIVEN BY MRS. A. E. MOORE

The last invitations of the week were extended by Mrs. A. E. Moore, who, on Saturday, requested presence for a christening to hospitality of her new apartment. This comes in the form of a bridge matinee next Thursday afternoon.

BAYLOR ROUND TABLE MEETS FOR BIRTHDAY PARTY

At the University Cafeteria, members of the Baylor Round Table with their husbands assembled for dual celebration, the Round Table Birthday and patronage of Saint Patrick. In all, about fifty were present, all merry as the proverbial marriage bell. The men happy because shrouded in the silence of a good dinner, and the assurance that the women would do all the talking; the women in their own assurance that the men would not interfere with their program. Special provision for the Saint Patrick touches in table greenery, shamrock place cards, and the Irish flag, all these were added to the cafeteria service. It was all enjoyable, and very jolly. First of all, Mrs. A. J. Armstrong introduced the business feature in a long and a strong petition from the husbands praying that they should make no speeches. The petition was granted with all due Round Table formality. Next, Mrs. A. P. Hickson called the roll. Responses were Irish jokes, and some of them were exceedingly clever. Mrs. W. P. Lewis read a special delivery letter from an absent couple stating that the husband hurried the wife out of the city in the fear that he was to be called upon for a speech. Mrs. Lewis was instructed to reply and show the gentleman the error of his way. Mrs. J. W. Downer's toast was to the silent partners; Mrs. J. G. Kendall spoke to the "Full Man on an Empty Purse" (the women being purse bearers of this occasion); Mrs. S. P. Brooks toasted the Baylor "Cafe and Mrs. Collins." Mrs. J. E. Hawkins, president of the Round Table, presided. The tables followed the outline of a "U."

Founded as it was in March, the Round Table annually observes a founders' day. The date is movable. This was an occasion, not only up to former standards, but beyond, in its amount of jolly good time engendered, and clever plan for entertainment.

USE OF THE LIBRARY COURSE OF LESSONS

Miss Pauline McCauley has inaugurated a course of lessons for the convenience of library patrons. This course includes four lessons:

First. The arrangement of books in classes on the shelves.

Second. How to use the catalog.

Third. The use of reference books and index to magazines.

Fourth. General review of three preceding lessons.

The children are taught in groups of fifteen, these being high school students who are excused for a study period. Miss McCauley offered this privilege to the Eighth grade; seventy-six have joined the class. This is voluntary upon the part of the students, which is evidence of their interest in library patronage

FLOWERS ARE PRESENTED TO THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

During the spring planting, the public library has not been forgotten. Several firms have remembered the library with rose roots and lawn shrubs this season. It is needless to say that, not only the library staff, but all Waco, for we all feel personal ownership in the library, are appreciative.

HIGH NOON WEDDING IN HOME SERVICE

On Saturday at high noon in the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. H. A. Weddington, Seventeenth and Blair, Miss Tennie Griffis of Rosenthal became the bride of Vivien Westbrook of Alta Vista. The day of ceremony was hastened, hence no formal invitations. Immediate families and friends, numbering more than seventy, were present. There were no attendants. The service was conducted by Rev. Whitehurst, presiding elder of this conference. As prelude to the ceremony, Howell James with Joseph Evans at the piano, gave the ante nuptial song. The home had been converted into a spring bower, and the bride wore first among the spring suits a going away coat costume, in gray, completed with a spring mode hat. Mr. and Mrs. Westbrook were off at once for Fort Worth. They return within a few days, to make their home at Alta Vista. While quietly celebrated, this event is one of social note, owing to social prominence of families involved, through this county.

WOMEN IN SHOPPING SHOULD BE INTELLIGENT

The average woman does not have the slightest idea what she does when she stands before a shop counter. Centered in self, she has never inquired what the system of that shop may be. She never seeks to understand intelligently what transpires between her purchase and the delivery of her goods. She heeds not, she inquires not, and yet she is loud in complaint if one delay or mistake is made in regard to her bundle. Often it is her own carelessness which causes the delay. Every woman should come to realize that a down town shop is a complex system. There must be system else business can not proceed. The girl behind the counter acts under instructions as a part of that system, and milady of Self Center has no right to ask any favors. Rather, if she be the well bred woman, she will inquire what that rule is, so that she may conform. Every woman knows what it means for her household to be set awry; how much more confusion if a vast army of hundreds of workers are disorganized. On the other hand, every merchant is eager to please individual customers. Every friend means hundreds of dollars annually, to say nothing of influence upon other customers. So, when the woman is denied what she considers her privilege, it is because she has demanded something altogether impossible.

We know one woman in Waco who has studied every utility with which she deals. She has visited the telephone office to see just what transpires between the time she takes down her receiver and rehangs it. She has inquired the passage of a bundle in the department store from the counter where she buys to her door. She understands just what the system of delivery from her grocer is. In this way she can be an intelligent patron, and it is the exception when one bit of friction occurs with her shop patronage. Can not other women do the same? They owe it to themselves and they owe it to the men with whom they deal.

MRS. ROBERT LEE HENRY WITH MRS. O. L. STRIBLING

Society's patronage of Saint Patrick's day was given in the home of Mrs. Oscar Stribling who honored the return from Washington City of Mrs. Robert Lee Henry In paying this friendship courtesy, Mrs. Stribling selected Saint Patrick's day, so that she could not only honor the shamrock and the Irish harp, but because she could be the first of the season's hostesses in a pretty luncheon. To Those Who Are Interested in Sanitation—Especially for Grocery, Delicatessen and Market Stores.

Only Friday last we were visited by a committee who were interested in "matters sanitary," such committee representing Waco's newest organization, "The Waco Welfare League."

This committee was headed by Mrs. Llewellyn Aubrey, accompanied by Mrs. W. C. Zahm and Dr. Hodges, city food inspector. After having thoroughly inspected our store, this is what they said:

"We tried to find an unclean spot, but could not."—Mrs. Aubrey.

"Very, very nice."—Mrs. Zahm.

"A 100 point score, which is excellent."—Dr. Hodges.

Could anyone expect more of a grocery? Could a better criterion than this committee visit us?

We want to thank this committee for visiting us, likewise invite them to call again, and to say that our place of business is open for inspection by all of the ladies, the committees and the public in general.

Lyric Soprano of Wide Reputation at the Hippodrome

Madame Suzanne Lehmann, the famous lyric soprano, who starts a week's engagement at the Hippodrome tomorrow, is by no means a stranger in Texas. On more than one occasion, she has delighted the public by her songs and the band of which she is manager, the famous Don Phillipi band of seventy-five pieces. Madame Lehmann, who is the wife of Don Phillippi, has the honor of being the only woman manager and leader of a famous band.

Madame Lehmann is the possessor of a wonderful voice, clear, sweet and of marvelous power and resonance. Her fame as a singer is known from one end of the United States to the other, and one great secret of her success in gaining the whole-hearted affection of the hearers is her wide repertory. The beautiful classic, "Tosca's Good-bye," which has been made popular and familiar to the Texas public by Suzanna Lehmann. Another of her famous favorites is "I Hear You Calling Me." And this sweet-voiced singer brings tender memories to the heart and tears to the eyes by her rendition of "My Old Kentucky Home" and the other old melodies so dear to the hearts of the south.

Madame Lehmann will sing about five times a day after the completion of each picture program at the Hippodrome, beginning tomorrow.

Boy Scout Leader to Address Members Working Boys' S. S.

H. M. Butler of New York and Prof. de Heck of Baylor University will be on the program at the working boys' Sunday school this afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Butler, who is here in the interest of the local Boy Scout movement, is an excellent speaker and knows how to talk to boys.

Professor de Heck, an instructor at Baylor in voice, one of the best in his profession, will render a tenor solo. Mrs. B. B. Reynolds also will render a vocal solo.

The boys already have shown an interest in this meeting and a full attendance is promised.

turning to New York City to resume her voice study.

Society Notes

After Monday Miss Esther Webber of Texarkana will be guest of Miss Ethel Foster.

Now that the outdoor season is arriving why not some of the women who must make money, have an old fashioned "County Fair?" This form of entertainment is being revived.

Now that the door knocker is seen on so many Waco doors, let us recall that inimitable character, "I am the Monarch of the Sea, Commander of the K. C. B., who polished up the handles on the big front door." The bombastic commander continues to say he polished up that handle so carefully, that now he is the ruler of the Queen's Navy. Today, on English doors, those knockers fairly shine. Over here no girl need take out her "vanity" to see how her face appears. Waco, if she is to have the knocker, must also have the polish.

No more real holidays until the Fourth of July. Somehow we Texans are always too wilted to put much enthusiasm into this, one of our greatest holidays.

And who is that to be next announced a bride? A Waco bride and a Waco groom, surely this makes an interesting note.

Study with each purchase for the home to impart individually. Bear in mind all the time, what suits your neighbor's room, may not appear well in yours. Size of room, exposure, woodwork, all these are factors for individual treatment.

Again, women of Waco, assist the Rotarians, by giving your own attention to your husband's vacant lot. Let all unite in making our city deserve its claim to be the Beauty Spot of all Texas.

Mrs. Homer C. Wilson of North Twelfth street has had distressing news in the death of her brother, ex-Governor Thornton, of Santa Fe, New Mexico.

Within the next few days Mrs. Baker Hoskins will be matron in her new home, the former Hoehn residence, on West Austin.

Mrs. Bland Brown and Miss Maud Brown now receive their friends in apartment with Mrs. Robert Hatten, West Washington street.

With the Crawford apartment building which means several additions to the neighborhood, also Mrs. Baker Hoskins removing to permanent residence in the Hoehn place, and Mrs. Bart Moore now matron of the Hengst cottage, West Austin is quite active in anticipation of the proverbial May day moving.

The Monday Bridge club has decided upon a change of program. Alternate games will be played with the husbands in the evening.

Already mention is made in advance of several bridal courtesies for Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Gillespie who are due to arrive on Sunday next.

With the Henry Downs chapter making ready for a boulder in Old Spring park, the Shakspere club developing one of the picturesque spots on Riverside drive, prospect for action on a memorial bridge to replace the temporary structure on Riverside, and the ultimate placing of Mrs. Edward Rotan's boulder at entrance to Riverside, does not all this say much for immediate beautification of our already beautiful city? Who next?

Mrs. Arthur Ruhman who for several months was with her mother, Mrs. Robert Gribble, is again in her own cottage, Sanger avenue.

The past few weeks has found Mrs. Edwin Jurney in her new home, 2315 Sanger avenue.

There is the pleasing intimation that Mrs. Frank Burkett Baird may be down from Buffalo for two weeks among her old home friends, at an early day.

Suppose we get ahead of the Rotarians and make a beauty spot of our husband's vacant lot.

It occurs to us that a few adults might take advantage of Miss McCauley's classes on how to use the public library. It is the fewest number of us who can go to the library today and secure what we want without assistance from the librarian.

The Blue Bonnets have decided upon their Saturday early morning breakfast next week. The Misses Wheatly and Agnes Arbuckle have been invited to chaperon.

The visitor who arrives to spend the week with Mrs. Charles Gooch, North Twelfth street, Miss Evelyn Bailey, is an army girl. She made her debut at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, one of the large military posts of the country, last winter.

The good work prospers, that of mothers uniting for the welfare of the school. Every school in Waco now has a flourishing Parent-Teacher association except Brook avenue and North Fourth street. Mrs. W. O. Wilkes, in her administration as president, has stressed this organization.

Some one has defined Friendship as "A volume of sympathy bound in cloth."

Forest Goodman as director suggests a new entrance for Cotton Palace park. The women say so be it, Mr. Goodman.

Special Notice!

To Those Who Are Interested in Sanitation—Especially for Grocery, Delicatessen and Market Stores.

Only Friday last we were visited by a committee who were interested in "matters sanitary," such committee representing Waco's newest organization, "The Waco Welfare League."

This committee was headed by Mrs. Llewellyn Aubrey, accompanied by Mrs. W. C. Zahm and Dr. Hodges, city food inspector. After having thoroughly inspected our store, this is what they said:

"We tried to find an unclean spot, but could not."—Mrs. Aubrey.

"Very, very nice."—Mrs. Zahm.

"A 100 point score, which is excellent."—Dr. Hodges.

Could anyone expect more of a grocery? Could a better criterion than this committee visit us?

We want to thank this committee for visiting us, likewise invite them to call again, and to say that our place of business is open for inspection by all of the ladies, the committees and the public in general.

Lyric Soprano of Wide Reputation at the Hippodrome

Madame Suzanne Lehmann, the famous lyric soprano, who starts a week's engagement at the Hippodrome tomorrow, is by no means a stranger in Texas. On more than one occasion, she has delighted the public by her songs and the band of which she is manager, the famous Don Phillipi band of seventy-five pieces. Madame Lehmann, who is the wife of Don Phillippi, has the honor of being the only woman manager and leader of a famous band.

Madame Lehmann is the possessor of a wonderful voice, clear, sweet and of marvelous power and resonance. Her fame as a singer is known from one end of the United States to the other, and one great secret of her success in gaining the whole-hearted affection of the hearers is her wide repertory. The beautiful classic, "Tosca's Good-bye," which has been made popular and familiar to the Texas public by Suzanna Lehmann. Another of her famous favorites is "I Hear You Calling Me." And this sweet-voiced singer brings tender memories to the heart and tears to the eyes by her rendition of "My Old Kentucky Home" and the other old melodies so dear to the hearts of the south.

Madame Lehmann will sing about five times a day after the completion of each picture program at the Hippodrome, beginning tomorrow.

Boy Scout Leader to Address Members Working Boys' S. S.

H. M. Butler of New York and Prof. de Heck of Baylor University will be on the program at the working boys' Sunday school this afternoon at the Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Butler, who is here in the interest of the local Boy Scout movement, is an excellent speaker and knows how to talk to boys.

Professor de Heck, an instructor at Baylor in voice, one of the best in his profession, will render a tenor solo. Mrs. B. B. Reynolds also will render a vocal solo.

The boys already have shown an interest in this meeting and a full attendance is promised.

turning to New York City to resume her voice study.

Society Notes

After Monday Miss Esther Webber of Texarkana will be guest of Miss Ethel Foster.

Now that the outdoor season is arriving why not some of the women who must make money, have an old fashioned "County Fair?" This form of entertainment is being revived.

Now that the door knocker is seen on so many Waco doors, let us recall that inimitable character, "I am the Monarch of the Sea, Commander of the K. C. B., who polished up the handles on the big front door." The bombastic commander continues to say he polished up that handle so carefully, that now he is the ruler of the Queen's Navy. Today, on English doors, those knockers fairly shine. Over here no girl need take out her "vanity" to see how her face appears. Waco, if she is to have the knocker, must also have the polish.

No more real holidays until the Fourth of July. Somehow we Texans are always too wilted to put much enthusiasm into this, one of our greatest holidays.

And who is that to be next announced a bride? A Waco bride and a Waco groom, surely this makes an interesting note.

Study with each purchase for the home to impart individually. Bear in mind all the time, what suits your neighbor's room, may not appear well in yours. Size of room, exposure, woodwork, all these are factors for individual treatment.

Again, women of Waco, assist the Rotarians, by giving your own attention to your husband's vacant lot. Let all unite in making our city deserve its claim to be the Beauty Spot of all Texas.

Mrs. Homer C. Wilson of North Twelfth street has had distressing news in the death of her brother, ex-Governor Thornton, of Santa Fe, New Mexico.

Within the next few days Mrs. Baker Hoskins will be matron in her new home, the former Hoehn residence, on West Austin.

Mrs. Bland Brown and Miss Maud Brown now receive their friends in apartment with Mrs. Robert Hatten, West Washington street.

With the Crawford apartment building which means several additions to the neighborhood, also Mrs. Baker Hoskins removing to permanent residence in the Hoehn place, and Mrs. Bart Moore now matron of the Hengst cottage, West Austin is quite active in anticipation of the proverbial May day moving.

The Monday Bridge club has decided upon a change of program. Alternate games will be played with the husbands in the evening.

Already mention is made in advance of several bridal courtesies for Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Gillespie who are due to arrive on Sunday next.

With the Henry Downs chapter making ready for a boulder in Old Spring park, the Shakspere club developing one of the picturesque spots on Riverside drive, prospect for action on a memorial bridge to replace the temporary structure on Riverside, and the ultimate placing of Mrs. Edward Rotan's boulder at entrance to Riverside, does not all this say much for immediate beautification of our already beautiful city? Who next?

Mrs. Arthur Ruhman who for several months was with her mother, Mrs. Robert Gribble, is again in her own cottage, Sanger avenue.

The past few weeks has found Mrs. Edwin Jurney in her new home, 2315 Sanger avenue.

There is the pleasing intimation that Mrs. Frank Burkett Baird may be down from Buffalo for two weeks among her old home friends, at an early day.

Suppose we get ahead of the Rotarians and make a beauty spot of our husband's vacant lot.

It occurs to us that a few adults might take advantage of Miss McCauley's classes on how to use the public library. It is the fewest number of us who can go to the library today and secure what we want without assistance from the librarian.

The Blue Bonnets have decided upon their Saturday early morning breakfast next week. The Misses Wheatly and Agnes Arbuckle have been invited to chaperon.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

What They Are Doing in Various Phases of Their Work in Texas

Reported Weekly in The Waco Morning News by Miss Kate Friend, Editor, 525 Terrace Row, Waco, Texas.

TWENTIETH BIRTHDAY FOR STATE FEDERATION

At the meeting in Sherman, the State Federation of Women's clubs will be ready for invitation for their twentieth birthday party. It has come to be the consensus among the club women that, every ten years they are to return to the home of their birth, Waco, for a birthday party. While the subject is premature, it is more than likely that Waco women will extend the invitation and thus be birthday hostess for the third time.

TWENTY THOUSAND WOMEN SUPPORT TEXAS CANDIDATE

On Thursday, Dallas sent forth the news that twenty thousand women in Texas will support the candidacy of C. H. Morris, for democratic governor of Texas. This was done formally by the Equal Franchise society of Dallas. The announcement is based, the dispatch stated, because Mr. Morris favors suffrage for women. This brings an interesting element into the politics of the state. Miss Elizabeth Freeman, national organizer from New York, reports wonderful interest and numerous clubs in Dallas, city and county.

WAR ORPHANS SUCCEED HELPLESS WAR BABIES

The past week has brought a new phase into the lives of the "war babies" about which so much has been said. The Associated Press sent out news from University of Chicago to the effect that each fraternity and sorority would have opportunity to adopt a French war orphan. Some fraternities have already taken steps in this direction, also four of the sororities have done the same. The idea is, that the children so adopted remain in France. The fraternity agrees to defray half the expense of education, the French government defraying the other half. The University of Chicago has adopted twenty-seven of these children. It remains now to see if other American universities follow this lead.

MISS BRACKENRIDGE IS VERY APPRECIATIVE

Truly the birthday luncheon for Miss M. Eleanor Brackenridge of San Antonio was an event worth second mention. This commemorated the eightieth birthday of Miss Brackenridge by a formal demonstration from her home friends who know her best. From the state at large notes and letters marked the day. Miss Brackenridge surely deserves every tribute the women of Texas can pay her. Her personal life means much and her munificence to the state means more. In reply to her notes of congratulation, Miss Brackenridge shows that she is deeply affected. She already refers to her "Friendship Day," and she says the lesson which she retains is acknowledgment of the "Fatherhood of God and the Sisterhood of Woman."

DUTY OF EVERY CLUB SHOULD HE HEEDED AT ONCE

Appeal through the press, and personal appeal by letter; in some cases the second letter, still finds many clubs derelict in sending names of president and corresponding secretary, together with number of club, and course of study. Again does the state president, seconded by all the district chairmen, urge, that these names be furnished at once. The Federation yearbook, a most necessary adjunct to the work, awaits this roster. Confusion all along the line is the result if this roster is not accurate. Only attention from each club secretary can bring this accuracy.

At once, every club should elect officers for next year, if this has not been done already. The secretary of each club should at once send name of president and corresponding secretary to secretary of district, giving name of club, names of the two officers, number of members, course of study, and public work. Each club should immediately elect delegate to the district meeting and an alternate; at once should these be sent to the district secretary, also to the chairman of homes committee in town which entertains the district. Still again, these clubs who have membership in the General Federation should read carefully and heed instructions given by Mrs. Henry Fall, General Federation secretary, in this morning's letter.

MRS. HENRY B. FALL APPEALS FOR MEMBERSHIP

Dear Friends of the Federation:

Remember! Clubs wishing to affiliate with the General Federation of Women's clubs have only ten days in which to send in applications. No applications will be received after the 24th of March.

The annual dues of clubs shall be paid not later than April 1st. "Clubs that fail to pay their dues before May 1st of the same year shall be declared delinquent and a penalty of fifty cents added to the dues. Tae dues of any organization elected to membership after the first of January, shall be credited as the dues for the year beginning the first day of April next following." (Extracts from Article VII By-Laws, General Federation of Women's clubs).

New clubs wishing to join the General Federation will write direct to me, as secretary of the General Federation, for information. Clubs belonging to the General Federation will send dues direct to the treasurer, Mrs. William B. Williams, 75 Main street, Lapeer, Michigan.

All clubs belonging to the General Federation will be entitled to send a delegate to the Biennial, which meets in New York, Mary 23rd. It will not be our privilege again for many years to witness a Texas woman presiding over the General Federation of Women's clubs, numbering two million women. Our patriotism and our loyalty should champion a large delegation on this occasion.

For further information, write at once to Mrs. Henry B. Fall, state secretary to General Federation of Women's clubs, 43 Savoy, Houston, Texas.

STATE CIVIC COMMITTE ANNOUNCES PUBLIC CONTEST

Mrs. Florence C. Floore of Cleburne, state chairman of civic committee, State Federation of Women's clubs, has inaugurated a state contest among court houses, sanitation and beautification. She has sent to the president of each club as well as open letter through the press:

Dear President:

A solid silver cup has been given to the civics committee of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs by Mr. Arthur A. Everts of Dallas. It is to be awarded each year to the court house which is most sanitary and has best-kept grounds.

The plan is as follows: Any federated club in the state may enter the court house in its town or city by sending name to the district civics chairman. This club must inspect and score the house any grounds and have photographs made of them twice a year, in June and October. Rating must be made as follows:

1—Interior of Building.

(a) Cleanliness—Condition of floors and walls; condition of windows; condition of cuspidors.

(b) Sanistation—Toilets; lavatories, drinking fountains; other drinking facilities.

(c) Ventilation.

2—Grounds.

(a) The plan on which the ground is laid out.

(b) Tthe harmony of its features as to form and color.

(c)The general upkeep of walks, beds, turf, building.

With a maximum of ten points each.

The cup is to be a perpetual trophy to be contested for each year until one court house has won it for five successive years, when it will become the property of this court house.

Hoping your club will enter its court house.

HOME ECONOMICS REPORT BY WACO DELEGATE

Continuing her excellent report from Home Economics Week, Mrs. Mary West Beaty of Waco told her literary and Parent-Teachers' clubs of the wonderful inspiration the lectures at State university were to her.

Speaking of city planning as discussed by the lecturer, Mrs. Beaty refers to the aesthetic side in this work. First, of course, the business phase must receive attention. The bridges, the entering roads, the railroad stations, all these are important in giving first impressions to the stranger. These should receive careful plan, and be made as beautiful as utility will permit. Each city depends upon something individual for its importance; for instance, Austin depends upon presence of students and lawmakers, Galveston for shipping and what pertains thereto, San Antonio, for the winter tourist; so, Galveston's first care should be her water front, San Antonio her public drives and parks. Every city should plan streets of sufficient width to take care of increased traffic. Some city plans plead for an even sky line. Placing wires underground adds to safety first, and beauty next. The American city has yet to make such practice uniform. Boston stands example of neglect in planning for the future. The congestion in her wholesale section demands many hours of lost time to shippers. The thing to guard against is the entrance of several streets into one single street, too narrow to accommodate the influx.

Danger Line Noted.

The speaker warned that city planning is generally done by the individual or the corporation with a section of land to unload on the prospective buyers. These are widely advertised as "additions." The owner naturally makes the streets as narrow as possible in order to sell more lots. The downtown merchant sends his delivery truck out to the additions, and loses time, sometimes money, from collisions, because of insufficient public highway.

Beauty and utility can be combined. If the store is to be built, why not accept an attractive exterior? If a factory is to be established, why not make it the thing of beauty as well? Dayton, Ohio, is world-wide for the beauty of the cash register factory. It is advertised th most practical, beautiful and sanitary place of business in the world. American merchants are awakening to the fact that the cash register policy pays.

Women in Sanitation.

One of the speakers insisted that women and women's organizations must keep in touch with sanitary departments of city government if they expect food supplies to keep up to standard. In Dallas record is kept at the city hall, giving result of inspection for each place of business which sells food. Housekeepers telephone there to know how the place where they trade is rated before starting their accounts. The city does not shield a derelict merchant. The suggestion was given that, where a city does not yet keep such record, that a committee of women be appointed to do their own inspection and make their own record. This committee should make report to the organization, and individual members agree to withhold trade for one month from the firm reported insanitary, in order that conditions might be improved.

A second visit from the committee should be the means of relieving the embargo of no trade.

Plea Made for Music.

Another of the interesting lectures plead for music in the public school. The plea was not for "tunes," but ear training in real rhythm and melody. Home talent bands for park concerts and recreation were cited in many American cities. This means training to those musicians as well as pleasure to those who listen. Municipal concerts, Sunday afternoon programs from women's music clubs, free band concerts under city patronage, these are some of the cultural music possibilities, to say nothing of women working for music supervisor in their public school.

Mrs. Carson on Dress.

As speaker on woman and her dress, Mrs. Ruth Butts Carson insists that women should taboo such terms as "fashionable," and stylish" and substitute "beautiful" and "harmonious" and "suitable." She argues that beauty in clothes means simplicity and suitability. By suitability she means appropriateness to figure and complexion of wearer as well as to the purse, and, above all, to the time and place of wearing. Mrs. Carson advocates one color for a season, in order that hats, shoes, gloves and accessories may be chosen to harmonize, at the same time indulge economy. Blue is the most satisfactory color, ranging from light to dark shades. Mrs. Carson is consistent that good lines are the foundation of good clothes. The well cut, well hung dress is good form for more than one season. One of the acceptable ideas is for women to keep young in regard to choice of color. The idea that advancing years requires black is all exploded. Mrs. Carson suggests that, on rainy days, women wear bright colors, on days when things go all adry and they are nervous, they wear a soothing white. She is member of a Dress Reform league. This league has four winter lectures, all on practical dress ideas. The lectures can be had by extension plan for any who join the league.

BAD DREAMS ARE SYMPTOMS

Ill Health the Cause—Many Alarming Symptoms of Women's Ailments—How Cured.

Paterson, N.J.—"I thank you for the Lydia E. Pinkham remedies as they have made me feel happy and healthy. Sometime ago I felt so run down, had pains in my back and side, was very irregular, tired, nervous, had such bad dreams, did not feel like eating and had short breath. I read your advertisement in the newspapers and decided to try a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It worked from the first bottle, so I took a second and a third, also a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Purifier, and now I am just as well as any other woman. I advise every woman, single or married, who is troubled with any of the aforesaid ailments, to try your wonderful Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier and I am sure they will help her to get rid of her troubles."—Mrs. ELSIE J. AUTOMOBILE NEWS

Waco With Its Miles of Paved Streets and McLennan County With Million and a Half Dollars Good Roads is a Convincing Argument That You Should Own a Car. Here's Automobile Information That Will Help You Decide Which Car it Shall Be.

THE PRESTIGE OF A Motor Car no longer depends upon a mere name, surrounded by a fictitious atmosphere of aristocracy.

The only aristocracy in motor cars, now, is an aristocracy of merit.

It is true that the ownership of a Cadillac carries a distinct social value in every community.

But it is the character of the car which sheds lustre on the Cadillac name—not the name which confers lustre on the car.

Intent upon the more serious purpose of making the Cadillac as good as a motor car can be made, this company has paid scant attention to any other aspect of the case.

Social distinction came to the Cadillac as an after-result. It was conferred by the owners themselves—as an appreciation of its more sterling qualities.

Each year the number of those amply able to pay more, but who prefer the Cadillac because of what the Cadillac is, has rapidly increased.

Each year the lure of a mere name has grown less.

It is the age-old process at work.

Neither a man, nor a motor car, can live on a name alone.

The world demands deeds from the one, and performance from the other

In the working out of that process, the world has bestowed greater and greater distinction upon the Cadillac.

GREAT DEVELOPMENT MADE IN AUTOMOBILE

MORNING NEWS WILL GIVE TO ITS READERS LIVE NEWS OF THE MOTOR CAR.

CAR NEARS PREFECTION STAGE

European Struggle Cripples Output of That Country Which Had Previously Taken the Lead.

With the arrival of the spring weather and the hundreds of good road movements on foot throughout the country wider attention is being paid to the now king of the road—the motor car. It was with great enthusiasm and a spirit of optimism that automobile dealers greeted 1916, the year which will no doubt shatter all motor car sales records, not excluding the successful 1915. In view of the fact of the increasing number of automobiles in Central Texas and the recognizing of the motor car manufacturing as being one of the world's greatest industries, the Morning News will give to its readers a live, weekly automobile page which will be of unlimited benefit to the automobile dealers, the automobile owners and prospective owners and the public in general interested in the automobile and its development.

Valuable and interesting information will be found in the automobile columns of The News, the first of which appears in this edition. To those contemplating purchasing a car the necessary facts to guide you in making your selection will be found in the advertisements and the news columns. Interesting and novel stories will also be printed from time to time.

The development of the automobile has soared above the heads of the most hopeful mechanic of years ago. It is nearing the stage of perfection in appearance, speed, durability and economy. With the European struggle in full sway the automobile industry has been greatly crippled in that country which had heretofore taken the lead in the output. It is up to the United States to supply the vast demands which have started an era of prosperity. Waco will share in the prosperity. Waco with its many miles of paved streets and McLennan county with its half million dollars of highways is being recognized as one of the state's automobile centers. To further extend the interests of the automobile in this community and to stimulate the interest a section devoted to the automobile should prove of great value.

SPENCER AND CARROLL ARE BACK FROM EAST

SENIOR MEMBER OF FIRM TELLS OF ATTENDING MEETING IN NEW YORK.

Things Look Good, He Declares, and Great Business Is Anticipated for 1916.

H. E. Spencer of the Spencer-Carroll company, has just returned from a trip to New York City and other eastern points and while there bought what he considers the most complete line of automobile supplies for his company in Waco.

"I attended the National Association of Auto Accessory Jobbers at New York while there," he said, "and I found out a lot about the automobile business that has led me to believe that we are on the beginning of the greatest development along this line we have yet known. The association is comparatively a young one, yet there were 155 new members taken in at the meeting and many things done for the good of general business.

"I am sure that many accessories to automobiles are bound to take a leap in price, on account of the shortage of material in which brass, copper and steel is used and the continued raise in price of such material. Notwithstanding, I see nothing that can keep business from being good from now on and I anticipate a great business in 1916."

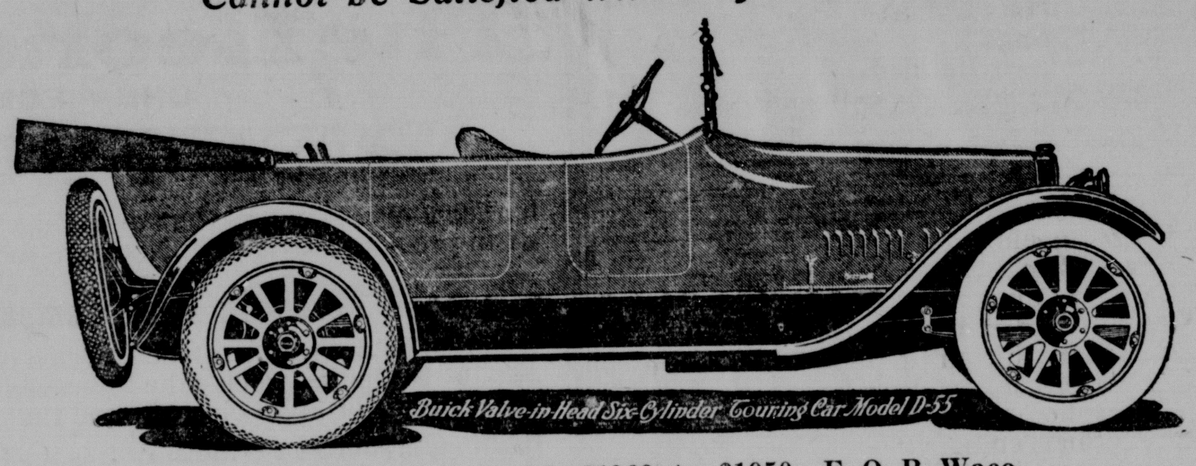
M. W. Carroll of the firm has recently returned from Chicago where he attended the auto show. Harry Knight accompanied Mr. Carroll on this trip and they are both sold to the conclusion that business is good and that Texas automobile people are in an era of prosperity the like of which they have never seen.

There is a thundering lot of things besides fun attached to an automobile, some folks say, but say, man, these bright, warm, spring days make a fellow work hard enough to make the extra cost. Besides, the old horse has to be fed, you know.

If you like the Automobile News Section, put it in the advertising columns the next issue, it costs.

It's a lot of fun to make a dust in front of the other fellow, but it usually makes the hind man sore.

Once You Have Used a Buick "Valve-in-Head" Motor, You Cannot be Satisfied with Any Other Type



Price $1585—Other Models $1060 to $1950—F. O. B. Waco.

Long before the end of the 1916 season Buick purchasers will possess upwards of 80,000 Nineteen Sixteen Valve-in-Head Sixes. Meritorious performances of past Buicks will have sold many of them. Buick power and Buick beauty will have sold others.

The buyer of a Valve-in-Head Buick has the experience of over 250,000 owners to confirm his selection of a Buick car. He has the satisfaction of knowing that in the building of this car, Buick engineers have followed the same time-proved principle that has distinguished Buick cars for fourteen years.

Never wavering, never deviating, absolutely sure of their ground, Buick engineers have developed the Valve-in-Head motor until today in the Nineteen Sixteen Buick you get a power, a smoothness, an ease of control not surpassed in any car.

Buick cars are manufactured in a variety of body types—Roadsters, Touring Cars, Coupes, Inside-drive Sedans. In body design, finish and upholstery they fully measure up to the high mechanical standard of the well-proved Buick chassis. Everything that the motorist could wish in the way of accessories or equipment is furnished with Buick cars, including speedometer, electric horn, ammeter, oil and gasoline gauges, latest type rain vision windshield, one man genuine mohair top with self-contained curtains, electric lights throughout, electric trouble lamp—in fact they are furnished complete even to the smallest detail. And despite a lower price, we guarantee 1916 Buicks contain more drop forgings, better upholstery, better paint and finish, better quality throughout than any previous models ever manufactured by the Buick Motor Company.

"Regardless of the Car You Buy or the Price You Pay, Nowhere Can You Get as Great Value as in the Buick Valve-in-Head Six."

J. M. NASH HAPPY IN NEW DODGE HOME AT 927 AUSTIN AVE.

J. M. Nash, manager of the Waco branch of the Dodge Brothers car—the Central Motor company—is settling down to business in his new home at 927 Austin avenue. Mr. Nash says that business is good and that conditions are getting better and that another few days will put him in good shape to do business in his new home.

The Dodge Brothers car is not a two-year-old as yet, but it has met with unusual favor from the general public and in Mr. Nash's own words: "We have just started to sell automobiles." The Dodge company has a solid train load of automobiles coming in the near future and plans are being made to give the public an opportunity to become better acquainted with the Dodge automobile as well as find out in fact that the demand for them is growing.

In next week's issue of the News' Auto Section there will be some information that will interest every auto owner in Texas. Send in that ad or some news for it.

Yes, sir, the Automobile News Section is a good advertising medium. Try it out.

WASHAM COMPANY WILL MOVE SHORTLY TO NEW LOCATION

The V. M. Washam Motor company, who handles the Maxwell car, will move in a short time to their new home at 712 Austin avenue. The place is being completely renovated, made modern in every respect and will afford a much greater floor space than their present location.

After July 1, the Washam company will take on some new territory as well as assuming additional obligations as distributors for this section of the state.

"We expect to handle more than 300 cars this year," Harry L. Smith said. "The Maxwell people are building more than 250 cars per day now, which fact is due to their progressive assembling platform and we don't anticipate running short of cars."

Mr. Smith reports good business from every section of his territory and like others in close touch with automobile conditions is looking for a greater rush for cars as the summer days make the call for outdoor life.

Percy Willis Company Received Many Orders

According to Percy Willis, manager of the Percy Willis Automobile company, the demands for the Overland have been so great in the last few months that the factory is having a hard time manufacturing enough cars. The Overland has proven very popular in North Texas and has long been recognized as one of the best cars on the market. The Percy Willis company also handles the famous Hudson cars. The latest Hudson model of the Super Six startled the motor world when it was presented.

M. V. Self, assistant manager of the Willis company is putting forth every effort to have Waco orders filled and it is expected that special arrangements will be made with the factories to have a number of cars shipped immediately.

What does a man mean who has a fat bank account, seven hundred acres of good land and doesn't own a car? Possibly, after reading the New Auto Section, though, he will get right; who knows.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

Waco With Its Miles of Paved Streets and McLennan County With Million and a Half Dollars Good Roads is a Convincing Argument That You Should Own a Car. Here's Automobile Information That Will Help You Decide Which Car it Shall Be.

THE PRESTIGE OF A Motor Car no longer depends upon a mere name, surrounded by a fictitious atmosphere of aristocracy.

The only aristocracy in motor cars, now, is an aristocracy of merit.

It is true that the ownership of a Cadillac carries a distinct social value in every community.

But it is the character of the car which sheds lustre on the Cadillac name—not the name which confers lustre on the car.

Intent upon the more serious purpose of making the Cadillac as good as a motor car can be made, this company has paid scant attention to any other aspect of the case.

AMONG THE BOYS

News and Facts and General Round-up from Among the Boys Who Get the Orders—Patronize It Next Sunday.

When a man sells you an automobile, he's doing you a favor. The chances are you've needed one for several years.

E. H. Borden, salesman for the Spencer-Carroll company, reports business fine from East Texas the last several weeks.

I didn't begin with askings,
I took the job and stuck;
And I took the chance they wouldn't,
And now they're calling it luck.

W. G. Fuller, who recently arrived from Kansas and has joined the Percy Willis sales force, is delivering the goods just like a native Texan.

It's springtime and likewise painting time. Right now is a mighty good time to get to the shop with her and let them "make a new one" out of her.

When have you given the old boat a good wash, anyway? She probably needs it, and it don't cost much, besides, it will add a hundred dollars to her appearance.

Jicks—You say you was in the automobile business and advertising drove you to bankruptcy? I didn't know you ever advertised.

Skiggs—I didn't advertise. My competitor did the advertising.

Ted O'Neil and the Super Six still holds the record from Dallas to Waco, some salesman and some man. Go your best, Ted; this weather even makes yours truly want to drive about.

Jack Oates, one of the live automobile salesmen for the Super Six, brought in the bacon the past week that made the boss smile, the report comes in. Mr. Oates has a special line of talk that fits the occasion, it seems, and he makes it convenient to find plenty of occasion. Go to it, boy.

C. L. Pardue drove out a brand-new Haines car Thursday of this week which he will use in the rent service. Yours truly will vouch that it is a good rider, because Mr. Pardue kindly extended the first privilege, without charges. Here's my best wishes for good business and public thanks for your kindness, Mr. Pardue.

Randolph Williams, special "Fried Chicken" man and likewise salesman for the Overland car, brings in some orders and a report of things looking good from a recent trip over his territory. "Country life for me," says Williams. "I like the country and I like the town, but I like to sell Overlands on my rounds around."

"When they built a car I know pretty well, they put as much automobile into that much space as is possible to do," is a pet saying of R. C. Russell, salesman for the Chrevolet car, but he seems to be able to make others feel right on the subject, he having just closed a big week's record the last week.

"I am certainly glad to see The News starting an auto section to its Sunday paper. We have needed it a long time and I am sure it will be a great success," came from George P. Nettles, inside manager for the B. C. Nettles Automobile company. "We hope to break all past records this year in selling Cadillacs and Studebakers," he continued.

C. E. Bird, one of the Dadge sales force, has recently moved here from Hico, Texas, where for the last eight years he has had charge of the sales force for the Ford Motor company. Mr. Bird is optimistic over a squint of the future and tells me that "he's going to have a trainload of Dodges in town soon that he don't want any auto prospect to dodge seeing."

J. W. Chapman, a Florida man, is completely domiciled in his new surroundings at the Nettles automobile works. "In many ways, Waco is the best town in the United States," Mr. Chapman gave out as his initial statement. "I find even a greater appreciation, if possible, here of the Cadillac and Studebaker cars than exists in Florida and I am surely glad of the change I made."

A. K. Weymouth, salesman for the Chrevolet car, spent the last two days in Rosebud, where he delivered six cars. "Things look mighty good where I have been," Mr. Weymouth reports, "and if we can get a rain within the next week, there is going to be a car shortage in this neck of the woods. People are buying cars regardless of war stories."

Wallace Bradley, formerly with the Ford Motor company and who has just gone through the Dodge service at the Dodge plant and who is now in charge of the service department of the Central Motor company, is as happy these days in the brand-new location, in his brand-new work as any Dodge man has a right to be. Mr. Bradley tells me that in his estimation "people have just started to buy cars in this section of the country."

Harry L. Knight, salesman for the Spencer-Carroll company, with West Texas as his territory, expects to start out in the near future with a view of covering every inch of the ground. Here's hoping you'll find things good in West Texas, Harry. They say dollars have been growing on trees out there the last two years. Mr. Knight was formerly connected with the Electrical Appliance company, out of Dallas.

Notice.—No social calls will be made by the automobile editor after 1 o'clock night time. Special arrangements can be made, however, for Sunday engagements, before Sunday school, after church, before league meeting, just before evening church services and after church services, but in no event will trips of over 700 miles be made in new cars or at a greater speed than 90 miles an hour. No exceptions to the general rule, unless, of course, it is insisted upon.

Breathes there a man with soul so dead
Who never to his wife has said,
At some time, somewhere or in bed,
"Some day, my girl, we buy ourselves a car?"

Whose heart within him oft has burned,
As he the promise forgot and spurned,
And she got wise when from neighbors she learned,
That things were not as bad as pictured 'bout the war?

If such there breathe, go mark him quick,
For auto salesmen will to him stick.
"The war" is old; such talk's not slick.
Read up 'bout things; that's what this page is for.

Frank C. Bradford, an old-timer in Waco, but who recently has come back after quite an absence, has accepted a position with the Spencer-Carroll company and will look after the South Texas territory from this on. "I am anxious to get out," Mr. Bradford expresses it. "I hear that business is good down my way and I am anxious to be getting my share."

W. S. Kyte, salesman for the Stevens & Co. of New York, spent the latter part of the week calling on customers and incidentally getting acquainted with the people in this section of the state. This is Mr. Kyte's first visit here and in his own language "I am greatly surprised at business down here and was completely dumfounded to find the city that you have here. I am in love with Waco."

W. H. Zinke, traveling representative for the Zinke company of Chicago, Ill., selling automobile and gas engine material, spent a week-end calling on new customers in his line in Waco. "I didn't know that Waco was on the map until last week," said Mr. Zinke, "but I see that my people have been overlooking one of the best cities in the South. I like Waco very much and my business here is very satisfactory."

DODGE BROTHERS
MOTOR CAR
We Want You to See
That Solid Trainload of DODGE CARS

That will be on the track this week. One year ago you hardly knew the name, yet now the name is not only familiar, but it represents a standard of value in the automobile world as though it had years of production behind it.

MORE THAN FORTY THOUSAND MADE AND SOLD IN THE FIRST YEAR AND NOT A SINGLE FAULT OR WEAKNESS TO BE CORRECTED OR OVERCOME.

A GOOD SHARE OF THIS SHIPMENT WE WANT YOU TO SEE IS ALREADY SOLD, AND IF YOU EXPECT TO BE A DODGE OWNER THIS YEAR IT WILL PAY YOU TO GET IN TOUCH WITH ONE OF OUR DEALERS AT ONCE.

We've already wired the factory begging for more cars, but we know they can't produce enough cars to fill the demand.

It will pay you to visit our show rooms and make a thorough investigation of the Dodge Car

The Central Motor Company

J. F. HOPKINS' PLANT HAS PLENTY OF WORK

With a force of twenty-five men, plenty of work to keep them busy, John B. Hopkins, manager of the J. F. Hopkins plant, is feeling good and predicts "something doing in the automobile business this year." The J. F. Hopkins shop makes a specialty of commercial bodies, especially Fords, auto tops and auto painting.

This shop has a thirty-five year record behind it and a visit through the plant gives evidence that these years have not been spent in vain. There are three floors to the establishment, one of which is a dust proof varnish room. They buy specially picked lumber by the car and enjoy a patronage from many cities outside of Waco.

"Business is fine and dandy," Mr. Hopkins says, with "And I expect to see it better as the weeks roll by."

Autoists Should Stay Clean.

The person around a motor car really has less excuse than any other for unsightly spots and stains, for is not that supply of gasoline ever ready. Grease spots and many others can be removed by its use. Merely make a pad of several thicknesses of white cloth, place this under the spot and rub with a sponge or cloth dipped in gasoline. Work from the outside of the stain to the center, to prevent leaving a ring.

Wet paint can be removed with flannel dipped in turpentine, but if it has dried apply alcohol and turpentine mixed in equal parts, removing with benzine any stain which may remain.

PAT HOPKINS BUSY BUT CONSERVATIVE

"There is one thing that I try to do and that is to deliver the goods without making any boast about it," would just about cover the situation if Pat Hopkins were called upon to give out an interview. Mr. Hopkins is an old timer in his line of business in Waco, believes in his town, puts his dead level best in his work and as a result he is enjoying a prosperous business. He reports that conditions point to splendid business in his line. Pat is known far and near and has customers not only in Waco but throughout the state.

AMONG THE BOYS

News and Facts and General Round-up from Among the Boys Who Get the Orders—Patronize It Next Sunday.

When a man sells you an automobile, he's doing you a favor. The chances are you've needed one for several years.

E. H. Borden, salesman for the Spencer-Carroll company, reports business fine from East Texas the last several weeks.

I didn't begin with askings,
I took the job and stuck;
And I took the chance they wouldn't,
And now they're calling it luck.

W. G. Fuller, who recently arrived from Kansas and has joined the Percy Willis sales force, is delivering the goods just like a native Texan.

It's springtime and likewise painting time. Right now is a mighty good time to get to the shop with her and let them "make a new one" out of her.

When have you given the old boat a good wash, anyway? She probably needs it, and it don't cost much, besides, it will add a hundred dollars to her appearance.

Jicks—You say you was in the automobile business and advertising drove you to bankruptcy? I didn't know you ever advertised.

Skiggs—I didn't advertise. My competitor did the advertising.

Ted O'Neil and the Super Six still holds the record from Dallas to Waco, some salesman and some man. Go your best, Ted; this weather even makes yours truly want to drive about.

Jack Oates, one of the live automobile salesmen for the Super Six, brought in the bacon the past week that made the boss smile, the report comes in. Mr. Oates has a special line of talk that fits the occasion, it seems, and he makes it convenient to find plenty of occasion. Go to it, boy.

C. L. Pardue drove out a brand-new Haines car Thursday of this week which he will use in the rent service. Yours truly will vouch that it is a good rider, because Mr. Pardue kindly extended the first privilege, without charges. Here's my best wishes for good business and public thanks for your kindness, Mr. Pardue.

Randolph Williams, special "Fried Chicken" man and likewise salesman for the Overland car, brings in some orders and a report of things looking good from a recent trip over his territory. "Country life for me," says Williams. "I like the country and I like the town, but I like to sell Overlands on my rounds around."

"When they built a car I know pretty well, they put as much automobile into that much space as is possible to do," is a pet saying of R. C. Russell, salesman for the Chrevolet car, but he seems to be able to make others feel right on the subject, he having just closed a big week's record the last week.

"I am certainly glad to see The News starting an auto section to its Sunday paper. We have needed it a long time and I am sure it will be a great success," came from George P. Nettles, inside manager for the B. C. Nettles Automobile company. "We hope to break all past records this year in selling Cadillacs and Studebakers," he continued.

C. E. Bird, one of the Dadge sales force, has recently moved here from Hico, Texas, where for the last eight years he has had charge of the sales force for the Ford Motor company. Mr. Bird is optimistic over a squint of the future and tells me that "he's going to have a trainload of Dodges in town soon that he don't want any auto prospect to dodge seeing."

J. W. Chapman, a Florida man, is completely domiciled in his new surroundings at the Nettles automobile works. "In many ways, Waco is the best town in the United States," Mr. Chapman gave out as his initial statement. "I find even a greater appreciation, if possible, here of the Cadillac and Studebaker cars than exists in Florida and I am surely glad of the change I made."

A. K. Weymouth, salesman for the Chrevolet car, spent the last two days in Rosebud, where he delivered six cars. "Things look mighty good where I have been," Mr. Weymouth reports, "and if we can get a rain within the next week, there is going to be a car shortage in this neck of the woods. People are buying cars regardless of war stories."

Wallace Bradley, formerly with the Ford Motor company and who has just gone through the Dodge service at the Dodge plant and who is now in charge of the service department of the Central Motor company, is as happy these days in the brand-new location, in his brand-new work as any Dodge man has a right to be. Mr. Bradley tells me that in his estimation "people have just started to buy cars in this section of the country."

Harry L. Knight, salesman for the Spencer-Carroll company, with West Texas as his territory, expects to start out in the near future with a view of covering every inch of the ground. Here's hoping you'll find things good in West Texas, Harry. They say dollars have been growing on trees out there the last two years. Mr. Knight was formerly connected with the Electrical Appliance company, out of Dallas.

Notice.—No social calls will be made by the automobile editor after 1 o'clock night time. Special arrangements can be made, however, for Sunday engagements, before Sunday school, after church, before league meeting, just before evening church services and after church services, but in no event will trips of over 700 miles be made in new cars or at a greater speed than 90 miles an hour. No exceptions to the general rule, unless, of course, it is insisted upon.

Breathes there a man with soul so dead
Who never to his wife has said,
At some time, somewhere or in bed,
"Some day, my girl, we buy ourselves a car?"

Whose heart within him oft has burned,
As he the promise forgot and spurned,
And she got wise when from neighbors she learned,
That things were not as bad as pictured 'bout the war?

If such there breathe, go mark him quick,
For auto salesmen will to him stick.
"The war" is old; such talk's not slick.
Read up 'bout things; that's what this page is for.

Frank C. Bradford, an old-timer in Waco, but who recently has come back after quite an absence, has accepted a position with the Spencer-Carroll company and will look after the South Texas territory from this on. "I am anxious to get out," Mr. Bradford expresses it. "I hear that business is good down my way and I am anxious to be getting my share."

W. S. Kyte, salesman for the Stevens & Co. of New York, spent the latter part of the week calling on customers and incidentally getting acquainted with the people in this section of the state. This is Mr. Kyte's first visit here and in his own language "I am greatly surprised at business down here and was completely dumfounded to find the city that you have here. I am in love with Waco."

W. H. Zinke, traveling representative for the Zinke company of Chicago, Ill., selling automobile and gas engine material, spent a week-end calling on new customers in his line in Waco. "I didn't know that Waco was on the map until last week," said Mr. Zinke, "but I see that my people have been overlooking one of the best cities in the South. I like Waco very much and my business here is very satisfactory."

DODGE BROTHERS
MOTOR CAR
We Want You to See
That Solid Trainload of DODGE CARS

That will be on the track this week. One year ago you hardly knew the name, yet now the name is not only familiar, but it represents a standard of value in the automobile world as though it had years of production behind it.

MORE THAN FORTY THOUSAND MADE AND SOLD IN THE FIRST YEAR AND NOT A SINGLE FAULT OR WEAKNESS TO BE CORRECTED OR OVERCOME.

A GOOD SHARE OF THIS SHIPMENT WE WANT YOU TO SEE IS ALREADY SOLD, AND IF YOU EXPECT TO BE A DODGE OWNER THIS YEAR IT WILL PAY YOU TO GET IN TOUCH WITH ONE OF OUR DEALERS AT ONCE.

We've already wired the factory begging for more cars, but we know they can't produce enough cars to fill the demand.

It will pay you to visit our show rooms and make a thorough investigation of the Dodge Car

The Central Motor Company

J. F. HOPKINS' PLANT HAS PLENTY OF WORK

With a force of twenty-five men, plenty of work to keep them busy, John B. Hopkins, manager of the J. F. Hopkins plant, is feeling good and predicts "something doing in the automobile business this year." The J. F. Hopkins shop makes a specialty of commercial bodies, especially Fords, auto tops and auto painting.

This shop has a thirty-five year record behind it and a visit through the plant gives evidence that these years have not been spent in vain. There are three floors to the establishment, one of which is a dust proof varnish room. They buy specially picked lumber by the car and enjoy a patronage from many cities outside of Waco.

"Business is fine and dandy," Mr. Hopkins says, with "And I expect to see it better as the weeks roll by."

Autoists Should Stay Clean.

The person around a motor car really has less excuse than any other for unsightly spots and stains, for is not that supply of gasoline ever ready. Grease spots and many others can be removed by its use. Merely make a pad of several thicknesses of white cloth, place this under the spot and rub with a sponge or cloth dipped in gasoline. Work from the outside of the stain to the center, to prevent leaving a ring.

Wet paint can be removed with flannel dipped in turpentine, but if it has dried apply alcohol and turpentine mixed in equal parts, removing with benzine any stain which may remain.

PAT HOPKINS BUSY BUT CONSERVATIVE

"There is one thing that I try to do and that is to deliver the goods without making any boast about it," would just about cover the situation if Pat Hopkins were called upon to give out an interview. Mr. Hopkins is an old timer in his line of business in Waco, believes in his town, puts his dead level best in his work and as a result he is enjoying a prosperous business. He reports that conditions point to splendid business in his line. Pat is known far and near and has customers not only in Waco but throughout the state.

Facts, Information and Public Discussion About Things That Pertain to An Auto

Note: Under this head each week there will be a general free for all discussion of anything that pertains to an auto, its parts, questions asked and answered without charge. Limit your questions, discussions, etc., to two hundred words, but come, you're as welcome as the flowers in May. Address all communications to Automobile Editor, Waco Morning News:

Motoring Department, the News: Have Ford car. Recently I screwed up finger clutches, as motor would not take in high speed. Now I can not reverse car, as it stops motor as soon as pressure is put on reverse lever. Kindly state cause and remedy in your next issue.—A Reader.

When making adjustment to finger clutches only a slight adjustment at each point is necessary. Undoubtedly you have turned the nuts too far. Care should be taken to adjust each an equal amount to effect uniform action. To obtain the rest results it is often necessary to make a slight adjustment and then try for results. In this manner the transmission may be placed in much better working order.

Motoring Department, The News: Can you tell me if there is any way to connect an electric horn to a high-tension magneto instead of using batteries?—A Subscriber.

The magneto is an alternating current generator, giving from two to four impulses per revolution of the armature and can be used for ignition purposes only.

Motoring Department, The News: Will you kindly advise through your paper how to stop a leak in the gasoline feed line where it joins the carburetor; also can drain cocks be tightened so they will not leak? If so, how?—A Reader.

Small leaks in the gasoline feed line and pet cocks may be stopped by painting threads with shellac. This acts as a seal against leakage, and will last for some time.

The tall, fidgety man hurriedly entered the depot, and, addressing a bystander asked:

"Do you think I can catch the flyer for Chicago?"

The man addressed casually surveyed the other's long legs and, slowly removing the cigar from between his lips, replied:

"Well, it looks like you ought to, but you'd better hurry, for she's been gone half an hour."—Judge.

R. L. Cameron, North Texas distributor for Oakland automobiles, during the last week enjoyed the unusual experience of seeing still in service one of the earlier cars marketed by his factory. To be precise, it was a two-cylinder machine, made in 1908, the sixteenth car built by the factory.

Another unusual thing is that the car is in good condition, although the owner, George E. Farlow of Panhandle City, says that it has traveled than 277,000 miles, the longest trip having beeen to the state of Washington and return.

Mr. Marlow is a thorough convert to properly caring for his machine. If this is done, he says, and the worn parts replaced before further damage is done, the average life of all automobiles could be materially increased.

"I have often been asked what becomes of the old cars," Mr. Cameron commented. "There is one good answer," and he pointed to this ancient model.

FACTS ABOUT CARS

How Ball Bearings Are Manufactured.

The manufacture of the ball commences with the annealing of the steel wire which is performed in large furnaces so that the coil of wire is heated evenly and also protected from the atmosphere or other scale-forming gases. The next operation is to draw the wire, so reducing its diameter slightly and consolidating the steel.

From this moment the making of the ball is automatic. Special machines automatically cut off "slugs" from the coil of wire, and each slug is dropped between a pair of cup dies which stamp it into a roughly spherical form. Although the dies which do the stamping make the ball roughly there is left a fin or ragged edge of metal round the junction of the dies, and this is removed by a rough grinding process before the balls go to the heat-treating furnaces.

Returning to the heat-treating plant, the balls are poured into iron trays and placed in a gas-filled furnace, where they are raised to a very exact temperature before hardening.

After hardening the balls are fairly round, but have a black exterior, so there remains a good deal of metal to be removed. The way in which this is done and the ball brought finally to within a ten-thousandth of an inch of correct size is by causing the balls to roll in a vee groove in the presence of an abrasive material. In the ball finishing shop are rows of machines with horizontal spindles bearing the grinding plates, and these plates have spiral vee grooves cut in their faces so that balls may be fed to the center of the plate and taken from the outside continuously. The process is automatic since the balls leave the bottom of a hopper, pass through the grinding groove and return to the hopper; every now and then a man takes a ball from the machines and checks it on a gauge to see what progress is being made, but the steel is so hard that it takes hours to bring an average hopper full of balls down to finished dimensions.

Finally the balls are polished by putting in tubs mounted on shafts at about 45 degrees to the horizontal and mixed with small bits of leather. As the tubs are revolved the balls roll over against each other in their efforts to keep to the bottom of the tub, and this continued friction against the leather puts on the high polish.

How Oversize Tires Are Calculated.

The relation between standard and oversize tires is very easy to remember providing the principle is understood. For example, the oversize of a 34x4 is 35x4½, Fig. 1; this particular oversize was decided upon because it has the same inside diameter as the 34x4, namely 26 inches. In other words, an oversize tire must fit the same rim as the standard size it displaces; hence the reason for requiring the inside diameter to be the same.

Never wash the car in the bright sunlight. The sun dries the water too rapidly and causes streaks in the finish.

A Tip From a Veteran.

Horses and cattle in the fields never face the cold wind. They stand with their backs to it. Thus they keep their noses in the lee of their own bodies, where it is several degrees warmer. Chauffeurs of the well-rounded type that is at home in all circumstances and equal to all situations apply the same principle to their cars, when possible.

At a golf club recently a driver had a terrible time starting, almost exhausting the storage battery before getting a single explosion. The wind blew, and it was bitterly cold.

"Why didn't you back up into the wind?" asked another chauffeur who had done so. "You've been sitting on the top of this hill for two hours with the wind coming right at you. No wonder you can't start. If you'd turned around the other way, your blanket over the radiator would have been some good. There ain't nothing to freeze in the rear axle, is there?"—Exchange.

Maxwell
The "Wonder Car"

The After-Cost

When you buy an automobile, you expect to use it not only this year and next year, but four, or five, or six years, or even longer. So, while the first cost is always important, it is not nearly as important as the after-cost.

This question of operating expense is one that some people overlook, but it is the operating expense that makes a car either a good investmnt, a health and pleasure-giving investment—or a burdensome annoyance and financial drag.

The World's Motor Non-stop Mileage Record, established last January by a Maxwell stock touring car, offers some interesting facts. Not claims or beliefs or opinions, but facts—facts that are supported and vouched for by The American Automobile Association, the supreme court of the automobile industry.

In the first place, the record-breaking Maxwell car ran over town and country roads for 44 consecutive days and nights, averaging more than 500 miles per day. During this time—1056 hours—the engine never stopped and the car stopped only long enough to take on gasoline, oil, water and a fresh driver. The ability of any car to run 22,000 miles in 44 days without stopping the engine is conclusive proof of its genuine merit and quality throughout.

But this is not all. Not only did the Maxwell prove its sturdiness, its wonderful endurance powers, but it established an average gasoline consumption of nearly 22 miles to the gallon. This is truly remarkable in view of the fact that this was primarily a Motor Non-Stop Endurance test and that no effort was made to save fuel at the risk of stopping the engine.

In addition, the champion Maxwell stock car used only one gallon of oil to every 400 miles of its journey, and it went the whole distance of 22,000 miles on two and one-half sets of tires. We have never heard of anything that could compare, in the smallest degree, with these figures, the accuracy of which is officially and indisputably established.

Every Maxwell touring car turned out of our big Detroit factory is an exact duplicate of this car. The price of $655.00 is made possible by intensive manufacturing methods and the great number of cars we build during the year. If value, service and economy are of any importance to you, do not fail to inspect and test the Maxwell before making your selection.

Letting Cars Get Dirty Is Mighty Poor Business

It is poor business to let your car get dirty, to get it covered with mud and leave it for several days without being washed. Perhaps you keep the car in your private garage and you have no facilities to wash it. Perhaps you store it with your garage-man for $6 a month and only have it washed occasionally. It makes no difference what the conditions are, the fact remains that it is generally money out of your pocket to keep a dirty car.

First: A dirty car is a poor advertisement to any business man, to any farmer, to anybody. None of us likes to wear dirty collars. We are not proud of dirty cuffs. We get our hair cut when it gets a little ragged at the back. We shave every day because our whiskers are black and we are not conducive to a good business appearance. We like to keep our homes well painted. We take a pride in keeping the grass well cut on the front lawn. We are proud of our wife because she has the reputation for being the cleanest housekeeper in the community.

Second: Why not keep the car clean? There is no legitimate reason why you should not. If it costs you $40 to get the car painted, and that without having the old paint burned off, then it is good business to get the car washed more often so it will not be necessary to get the painting done each year. There are plenty of cars that are washed regularly and that are not painted oftener than once in three or four years. With that treatment they look much better than some cars not three months old that rarely see the wash rack. Personal appearance pays. We all believe it does. Then apply it to your car. Wash up more for 1916 than you did for 1915.

Third: Dirt hides defects, broken parts and keeps you from seeing the exact condition of your car. One car owner acknowledged that he did not know there was a grease cup on the swivel joint of the speedometer until after the flexible shaft had broken and he had to buy a new shaft and a new swivel joint. Dirt was the reason. Only recently a car was seen in a garage in which the outside bearing in the rear axle had broken, due to lack of lubrication. There was a grease cup to oil the bearing, but it was covered with dirt. The owner had forgotten about it. New bushings in radius rods are often necessary because there is so much dirt on the chassis that many of the grease cups are neglected.

Fourth: There is a danger element in not keeping the parts of the chassis clean. You cannot afford to have the steering parts so coated in dirt that you cannot regularly inspect them to see if any parts are working loose, or if any defects are exhibiting themselves. You may have a cracked spring leaf that cannot be detected because of the dirt. Later this cracked leaf may lead to breaking all of the leaves.

Lastly: As a business man with money enough to own a car, we gravely question if you can afford to ride in a dirty machine. Surely your wife does not care to. Your daughters do not. For $52 you can have it washed every week in the year. It is worth while.—Motor Print.

Better Seat Cover Material Is Used in Latest Models

"The recent refinements that have been made in the production of seat cover material for automobiles is a typical example of the many small improvements that transpire yearly for the comfort and well being of the motorist," W. M. Oden, distributor for the Haynes "Light Six," said yesterday.

"The better grade seat covers today are water proof and dust proof. The first covers that a New England textile manufacturer devised were made of a thin grey cloth, with appearance as their sole end. It was found that the soft toned greys and browns went together well with the heavier body and top colors, and that the patterns of seat covers could be altered to meet the individual requirements of the car and owner. Their use became more general when it was found that seat covers aided in keeping dust and water away from the leather.

"The use of the first water proof materials was not attended by perfect success. It is almost inevitable that grease spots will appear in any cloth that is constantly close to an automobile, and the first aid in such cases is gasoline.

Reclaiming of Farms With Motor Trucks.

In the recently drained areas of Louisiana, where the earth crust is too thin to support a steam tractor and where the going is so heavy that mules, though able to travel, cannot pull, the broad-tired truck is being used to plow and grade. Vast areas of these lands are being reclaimed by the big southern land companies. While under reclamation they are a paradise for duck hunters, but no place for a truck, to all appearances. However, appearances have been set at naught on the 130,000 acre estate of the Phillips Land company by the use of a truck to build roads and prepare the land for cultivation.

The truck was first used to make a road across the track to the pumping station, which was done by cutting a shallow ditch at each side of the roadbed and grading it until there was a crowned surface and the highway had been built up enough to stand ordinary traffic. This was across land that had been under water only ninety days before and over which no other machine except a caterpillar had been able to pass.

A test of the truck after the road had been built was putting it into a field which had not been cultivated within the memory of the oldest inhabitant, where there has been no plowing for generations, and where the weeds stood waist high. In this field the truck hauled a five blade gang plow with the blades in to the limit, cutting furrows eight to ten inches deep.

Similar use was made of another truck of this type at Brunswick, Tenn., by the Bolton College Agricultural school. There the truck plowed twenty acres in eight hours. In places the field was too wet to be plowed and the whole surface was heavy and miry. The truck extricated itself from mudholes without assistance.

The lowest known temperature ever observed by competent scientists was at Werchojausk, Siberia, January 15, 1885, when a minimum reading of minus 93.4 degrees Fahrenheit was registered. The monthly mean temperature for January at Jakutz, Siberia, is minus 43.8 degrees.

All residents of Byers, Kan., have united in a pledge not to drink, smoke or chew for one year. It is suspected that this year's crop of cheerful liars in this town is going to be a record-breaker.

Loyalty to England does not prevent the richer classes of India from preferring automobiles of American make.

W. E. BROWN MAKING THINGS HUM ON SQUARE

MANAGER OF HERRICK AUTO DEPARTMENT IS PROSPEROUS AS WELL AS HAPPY.

"Automobile Business in This Section Really Just Started," He Declares.

W. E. Brown, manager of the automobile department of the Herrick Hardware company, is making things hum on the square and new names are being added to the dotted line for cars as a result of his work.

"I never saw a greater demand for cars," Mr. Brown tells us and goes further by stating: "I don't blame them, because they are bound to go up, if material continues to advance."

Mr. Brown is a Missourian by birth, but has been completely shown, since coming to Waco, that there, even more so than his native state, is possible that Waco people appreciate a good line of products, and are able to own the good things of life.

As a booster for his home town, he has won a distinction and as an automobile man he has won his spurs. "The automobile business in this section of the country is really just started," Mr. Brown thinks and "the war being one doesn't seem to keep people from buying cars."

The Herrick Hardware company does a large automobile business throughout this section of the country and Mr. Brown as the head of the automobile department has done a great deal toward making the business assume its present proportions.

The annual mineral output of British Columbia aggregates about $30,000,000.

"Well, it looks like you ought to, but you'd better hurry, for she's been gone half an hour."—Judge.

R. L. Cameron, North Texas distributor for Oakland automobiles, during the last week enjoyed the unusual experience of seeing still in service one of the earlier cars marketed by his factory. To be precise, it was a two-cylinder machine, made in 1908, the sixteenth car built by the factory.

Another unusual thing is that the car is in good condition, although the owner, George E. Farlow of Panhandle City, says that it has traveled than 277,000 miles, the longest trip having beeen to the state of Washington and return.

Mr. Marlow is a thorough convert to properly caring for his machine. If this is done, he says, and the worn parts replaced before further damage is done, the average life of all automobiles could be materially increased.

"I have often been asked what becomes of the old cars," Mr. Cameron commented. "There is one good answer," and he pointed to this ancient model.

FACTS ABOUT CARS

How Ball Bearings Are Manufactured.

The manufacture of the ball commences with the annealing of the steel wire which is performed in large furnaces so that the coil of wire is heated evenly and also protected from the atmosphere or other scale-forming gases. The next operation is to draw the wire, so reducing its diameter slightly and consolidating the steel.

From this moment the making of the ball is automatic. Special machines automatically cut off "slugs" from the coil of wire, and each slug is dropped between a pair of cup dies which stamp it into a roughly spherical form. Although the dies which do the stamping make the ball roughly there is left a fin or ragged edge of metal round the junction of the dies, and this is removed by a rough grinding process before the balls go to the heat-treating furnaces.

Returning to the heat-treating plant, the balls are poured into iron trays and placed in a gas-filled furnace, where they are raised to a very exact temperature before hardening.

After hardening the balls are fairly round, but have a black exterior, so there remains a good deal of metal to be removed. The way in which this is done and the ball brought finally to within a ten-thousandth of an inch of correct size is by causing the balls to roll in a vee groove in the presence of an abrasive material. In the ball finishing shop are rows of machines with horizontal spindles bearing the grinding plates, and these plates have spiral vee grooves cut in their faces so that balls may be fed to the center of the plate and taken from the outside continuously. The process is automatic since the balls leave the bottom of a hopper, pass through the grinding groove and return to the hopper; every now and then a man takes a ball from the machines and checks it on a gauge to see what progress is being made, but the steel is so hard that it takes hours to bring an average hopper full of balls down to finished dimensions.

Finally the balls are polished by putting in tubs mounted on shafts at about 45 degrees to the horizontal and mixed with small bits of leather. As the tubs are revolved the balls roll over against each other in their efforts to keep to the bottom of the tub, and this continued friction against the leather puts on the high polish.

How Oversize Tires Are Calculated.

The relation between standard and oversize tires is very easy to remember providing the principle is understood. For example, the oversize of a 34x4 is 35x4½. Fig. 1; this particular oversize was decided upon because it has the same inside diameter as the 34x4, namely 26 inches. In other words, an oversize tire must fit the same rim as the standard size it displaces; hence the reason for requiring the inside diameter to be the same.

Never wash the car in the bright sunlight. The sun dries the water too rapidly and causes streaks in the finish.

A Tip From a Veteran.

Horses and cattle in the fields never face the cold wind. They stand with their backs to it. Thus they keep their noses in the lee of their own bodies, where it is several degrees warmer. Chauffeurs of the well-rounded type that is at home in all circumstances and equal to all situations apply the same principle to their cars, when possible.

At a golf club recently a driver had a terrible time starting, almost exhausting the storage battery before getting a single explosion. The wind blew, and it was bitterly cold.

"Why didn't you back up into the wind?" asked another chauffeur who had done so. "You've been sitting on the top of this hill for two hours with the wind coming right at you. No wonder you can't start. If you'd turned around the other way, your blanket over the radiator would have been some good. There ain't nothing to freeze in the rear axle, is there?"—Exchange.

Maxwell
"The Wonder Car"

The After-Cost

When you buy an automobile, you expect to use it not only this year and next year, but four, or five, or six years, or even longer. So, while the first cost is always important, it is not nearly as important as the after-cost.

This question of operating expense is one that some people overlook, but it is the operating expense that makes a car either a good investmnt, a health and pleasure-giving investment—or a burdensome annoyance and financial drag.

The World's Motor Non-stop Mileage Record, established last January by a Maxwell stock touring car, offers some interesting facts. Not claims or beliefs or opinions, but facts—facts that are supported and vouched for by The American Automobile Association, the supreme court of the automobile industry.

In the first place, the record-breaking Maxwell car ran over town and country roads for 44 consecutive days and nights, averaging more than 500 miles per day. During this time—1056 hours—the engine never stopped and the car stopped only long enough to take on gasoline, oil, water and a fresh driver. The ability of any car to run 22,000 miles in 44 days without stopping the engine is conclusive proof of its genuine merit and quality throughout.

But this is not all. Not only did the Maxwell prove its sturdiness, its wonderful endurance powers, but it established an average gasoline consumption of nearly 22 miles to the gallon. This is truly remarkable in view of the fact that this was primarily a Motor Non-Stop Endurance test and that no effort was made to save fuel at the risk of stopping the engine.

In addition, the champion Maxwell stock car used only one gallon of oil to every 400 miles of its journey, and it went the whole distance of 22,000 miles on two and one-half sets of tires. We have never heard of anything that could compare, in the smallest degree, with these figures, the accuracy of which is officially and indisputably established.

Every Maxwell touring car turned out of our big Detroit factory is an exact duplicate of this car. The price of $655.00 is made possible by intensive manufacturing methods and the great number of cars we build during the year. If value, service and economy are of any importance to you, do not fail to inspect and test the Maxwell before making your selection.

Letting Cars Get Dirty Is Mighty Poor Business

It is poor business to let your car get dirty, to get it covered with mud and leave it for several days without being washed. Perhaps you keep the car in your private garage and you have no facilities to wash it. Perhaps you store it with your garage-man for $6 a month and only have it washed occasionally. It makes no difference what the conditions are, the fact remains that it is generally money out of your pocket to keep a dirty car.

First: A dirty car is a poor advertisement to any business man, to any farmer, to anybody. None of us likes to wear dirty collars. We are not proud of dirty cuffs. We get our hair cut when it gets a little ragged at the back. We shave every day because our whiskers are black and we are not conducive to a good business appearance. We like to keep our homes well painted. We take a pride in keeping the grass well cut on the front lawn. We are proud of our wife because she has the reputation for being the cleanest housekeeper in the community.

Second: Why not keep the car clean? There is no legitimate reason why you should not. If it costs you $40 to get the car painted, and that without having the old paint burned off, then it is good business to get the car washed more often so it will not be necessary to get the painting done each year. There are plenty of cars that are washed regularly and that are not painted oftener than once in three or four years. With that treatment they look much better than some cars not three months old that rarely see the wash rack. Personal appearance pays. We all believe it does. Then apply it to your car. Wash up more for 1916 than you did for 1915.

Third: Dirt hides defects, broken parts and keeps you from seeing the exact condition of your car. One car owner acknowledged that he did not know there was a grease cup on the swivel joint of the speedometer until after the flexible shaft had broken and he had to buy a new shaft and a new swivel joint. Dirt was the reason. Only recently a car was seen in a garage in which the outside bearing in the rear axle had broken, due to lack of lubrication. There was a grease cup to oil the bearing, but it was covered with dirt. The owner had forgotten about it. New bushings in radius rods are often necessary because there is so much dirt on the chassis that many of the grease cups are neglected.

Fourth: There is a danger element in not keeping the parts of the chassis clean. You cannot afford to have the steering parts so coated in dirt that you cannot regularly inspect them to see if any parts are working loose, or if any defects are exhibiting themselves. You may have a cracked spring leaf that cannot be detected because of the dirt. Later this cracked leaf may lead to breaking all of the leaves.

Lastly: As a business man with money enough to own a car, we gravely question if you can afford to ride in a dirty machine. Surely your wife does not care to. Your daughters do not. For $52 you can have it washed every week in the year. It is worth while.—Motor Print.

Better Seat Cover Material Is Used in Latest Models

"The recent refinements that have been made in the production of seat cover material for automobiles is a typical example of the many small improvements that transpire yearly for the comfort and well being of the motorist," W. M. Oden, distributor for the Haynes "Light Six," said yesterday.

"The better grade seat covers today are water proof and dust proof. The first covers that a New England textile manufacturer devised were made of a thin grey cloth, with appearance as their sole end. It was found that the soft toned greys and browns went together well with the heavier body and top colors, and that the patterns of seat covers could be altered to meet the individual requirements of the car and owner. Their use became more general when it was found that seat covers aided in keeping dust and water away from the leather.

"The use of the first water proof materials was not attended by perfect success. It is almost inevitable that grease spots will appear in any cloth that is constantly close to an automobile, and the first aid in such cases is gasoline.

Reclaiming of Farms With Motor Trucks.

In the recently drained areas of Louisiana, where the earth crust is too thin to support a steam tractor and where the going is so heavy that mules, though able to travel, cannot pull, the broad-tired truck is being used to plow and grade. Vast areas of these lands are being reclaimed by the big southern land companies. While under reclamation they are a paradise for duck hunters, but no place for a truck, to all appearances. However, appearances have been set at naught on the 130,000 acre estate of the Phillips Land company by the use of a truck to build roads and prepare the land for cultivation.

The truck was first used to make a road across the track to the pumping station, which was done by cutting a shallow ditch at each side of the roadbed and grading it until there was a crowned surface and the highway had been built up enough to stand ordinary traffic. This was across land that had been under water only ninety days before and over which no other machine except a caterpillar had been able to pass.

A test of the truck after the road had been built was putting it into a field which had not been cultivated within the memory of the oldest inhabitant, where there has been no plowing for generations, and where the weeds stood waist high. In this field the truck hauled a five blade gang plow with the blades in to the limit, cutting furrows eight to ten inches deep.

Similar use was made of another truck of this type at Brunswick, Tenn., by the Bolton College Agricultural school. There the truck plowed twenty acres in eight hours. In places the field was too wet to be plowed and the whole surface was heavy and miry. The truck extricated itself from mudholes without assistance.

The lowest known temperature ever observed by competent scientists was at Werchojausk, Siberia, January 15, 1885, when a minimum reading of minus 93.4 degrees Fahrenheit was registered. The monthly mean temperature for January at Jakutz, Siberia, is minus 43.8 degrees.

All residents of Byers, Kan., have united in a pledge not to drink, smoke or chew for one year. It is suspected that this year's crop of cheerful liars in this town is going to be a record-breaker.

W. E. BROWN MAKING THINGS HUM ON SQUARE

MANAGER OF HERRICK AUTO DEPARTMENT IS PROSPEROUS AS WELL AS HAPPY.

"Automobile Business in This Section Really Just Started," He Declares.

W. E. Brown, manager of the automobile department of the Herrick Hardware company, is making things hum on the square and new names are being added to the dotted line for cars as a result of his work.

"I never saw a greater demand for cars," Mr. Brown tells us and goes further by stating: "I don't blame them, because they are bound to go up, if material continues to advance."

Mr. Brown is a Missourian by birth, but has been completely shown, since coming to Waco, that there, even more so than his native state, is possible that Waco people appreciate a good line of products, and are able to own the good things of life.

As a booster for his home town, he has won a distinction and as an automobile man he has won his spurs. "The automobile business in this section of the country is really just started," Mr. Brown thinks and "the war being one doesn't seem to keep people from buying cars."

The Herrick Hardware company does a large automobile business throughout this section of the country and Mr. Brown as the head of the automobile department has done a great deal toward making the business assume its present proportions.

The annual mineral output of British Columbia aggregates about $30,000,000.

NOVEL ASSEMBLY SYSTEM.

Maxwell Company's Secret of Big Production Solved.

The Maxwell company at one of its Detroit plants has recently completed the installation of a moving assembly that is typical of the type in which the entire work is done on one floor and one track.

The chassis is carried along on a conveyor truck which runs on a track stretching the length of the building. Along the floor in the center of the track is a heavy chain that is powerful enough to pull all the chassis that are in the different stages of completion. The conveyor truck has a hook which is slipped into a link of the heavy chain, and the growth of the chassis begins. Stationed along the track are the various parts that must be assembled to the chassis, and each man has a special thing to do or a part or accessory to put on.

Monorail Handles Heavy Parts.

The heavier units such as motors, axles, bodies, etc., must be put in place without stopping the procession. Pneumatic and electric hoists in conjunction with monorail carriers overhead assist the men who put on these important components, and as soon as one is installed they get another ready to drop in place the minute the next chassis reaches the right point.

At the present time Maxwell is building 250 cars in 9½ hours on its single moving track. Another is in the process of completion, when the output can be doubled if necessary. The conveyor is 800 feet long and there is room for 100 cars on it at any one time. From the moment the frame first begins to move at the starting end until the completed car is driven off under its own power, about 3 hours and 15 minutes are consumed.

NOVEL ASSEMBLY SYSTEM.

Maxwell Company's Secret of Big Production Solved.

The Maxwell company at one of its Detroit plants has recently completed the installation of a moving assembly that is typical of the type on which the entire work is done on one floor and one track.

The chassis is carried along on a conveyor truck which runs on a track stretching the length of the building. Along the floor in the center of the track is a heavy chain that is powerful enough to pull all the chassis that are in the different stages of completion. The conveyor truck has a hook which is slipped into a link of the heavy chain, and the growth of the chassis begins. Stationed along the track are the various parts that must be assembled to the chassis, and each man has a special thing to do or a part or accessory to put on.

Monorail Handles Heavy Parts.

The heavier units such as motors, axles, bodies, etc., must be put in place without stopping the procession. Pneumatic and electric hoists in conjunction with monorail carriers overhead assist the men who put on these important components, and as soon as one is installed they get another ready to drop in place the minute the next chassis reaches the right point.

At the present time Maxwell is building 250 cars in 9½ hours on its single moving track. Another is in the process of completion, when the output can be doubled if necessary. The conveyor is 800 feet long and there is room for 100 cars on it at any one time. From the moment the frame first begins to move at the starting end until the completed car is driven off under its own power, about 3 hours and 15 minutes are consumed.

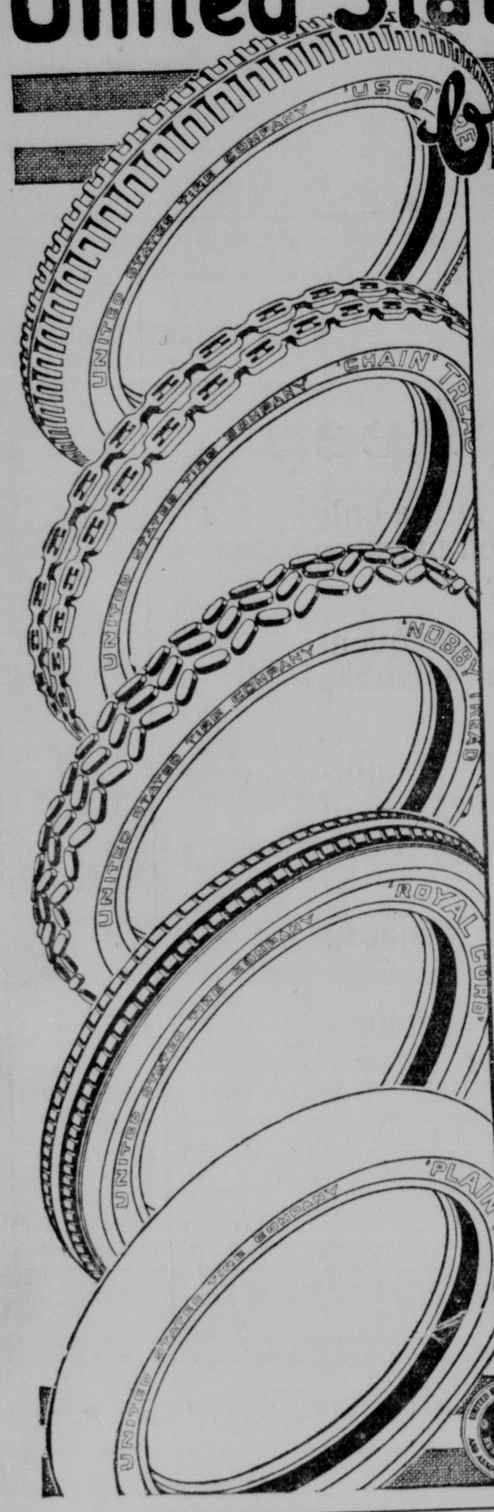
United States 'Balanced' Tires



At Last—— the 'Balanced' Tire

The greatest forward step ever made in pneumatic tires

On January 8th, in the Saturday Evening Post, we announced that at last we had made pneumatic rubber tires more like other dependable articles of merchandise.

Stop and analyze this statement—"more like other dependable articles of merchandise."

Unless backed up by results, it would be almost commercial suicide for a tire manufacturer to make such a statement.

Now we are ready to tell you the reason for this fearless confidence in our tires—the reason for the gigantic sales increases in our tires since September last.

Many months ago we finally worked out and began producing the completely 'balanced' pneumatic tire—the heretofore unattainable goal of every tire manufacturer.

To be 100 per cent. efficient, a tire must be absolutely 'balanced'—that is, the rubber tread and the fabric carcass of the tire must give equal wear.

'Balance' the tire maker's goal

To have perfect 'balance' the rubber tread must have enough resiliency to absorb road shocks that tend to disintegrate the fabric, and still must have the toughness to give long wear.

Too much toughness reduces resiliency; too much resiliency sacrifices toughness.

Problem: find the 'balance.'

Full rubber-tread efficiency demands a 50-50 'balance' of resiliency and toughness.

Full fabric-carcass efficiency demands a 50-50 'balance' of fabric layers and rubber—a union that will make tread-separation impossible.

Full, complete tire efficiency demands a 50-50 'balance' of the rubber tread and the fabric carcass—neither may be stronger nor weaker than the other.

This is the goal we have reached

By producing this complete 'balance' between resiliency and toughness in the tread, and between fabric and rubber in the carcass, we have secured 100 per cent. efficiency in United States Individualized Tires, or absolute 'balance' of wearing quality in both rubber tread and fabric carcass.

By September last, these absolutely 'balanced' United States Tires began to be "felt on the market."

Since September, sales have increased steadily month by month up to the recent highest increase of 354 per cent.—this tells the story.

SIX CARLOADS OF CHEVROLET CARS SENT TO TEXAS POINTS IN LAST MONTH.

Efforts of W. C. Durant Giving People Up-to-date Auto at Reasonable Price.

A. L. McLarty of the Herrick Automobile company, agent for the Chevrolet car, is really and truly an optimist. He believes in his car, believes in the public and is making good with both.

"We have shipped six car loads recently to points in Texas within the past thirty days," Mr. McLarty tells us and, "this is only a beginning, if conditions keep up as they now promise."

Mr. McLarty is a warm personal friend of W. C. Durant, president and the largest controlling stockholder in the Chevrolet car concern—the General Motors company—and he thinks that the efforts of Mr. Durant is proving to the world that an up-to-date car, with all of the upt-o-date appliances can be manufactured and sold to the consumer at a price within reach of everyone.

Mr. McLarty devotes only a part of his time to the automobile business, but he makes things count when he is in the harness.

Waco-Dallas Trip Shows Economy of Chalmers "Six-30"

D. C. Ryburn, head of the automobile department of the McLendon Hardware company, has recently returned from Dallas, the trip being made in one of the Chalmers Six-30 blue machine. According to Mr. Ryburn the trip was made on high gear and the car consumed practically the same amount as was consumed in a trip to Dallas about a week ago which was between seven and eight gallons. The two Dallas trips were made over different routes, the first one going through Hill county and the other via Brandon which is the better road.

En route to Dallas Mr. Ryburn stopped at Waxahachie and Hillsboro, where he conferred with automobile men of these cities who were optimistic over the coming motor car season. While in Dallas Mr. Ryburn learned that a new record had been set for January in the shipment of Chalmers cars. During this month the Chalmers people report that they shipped twelve times as many cars as in January of 1915, making the biggest January in the history of the Chalmers.

The McLendon company recently completed arrangements for representing the Chalmers in this city and a number of demonstration cars are now on the floor.

Progress Made in Improvements for Memorial Park

Work is progressing splendidly on the improvements of the C. M. Seley memorial park. Plans for setting out the trees, grass and arranging the flower beds and walks have been made and the park promises to be one of the city's real beauty spots. The plans call for a total of 416 trees to be planted, a number of flower beds, walks and also two sections to be left for play grounds. The latter will be sodded and later grass planted. In time playground equipment will be installed.

GASOLINE SURE SOARS ACROSS THE POND

LONDON MOTORISTS NOW PAYING 45 CENTS PER AMERICAN GALLON.

Prices Almost as High in Paris, the Only Difference Being in the Tax.

Special to the Morning News.

Paris, France, March 18.—Gasoline has taken another leap in both France and England. In London district it is now selling at forty-five cents per American gallon. This is the highest price in the history of England, and the highest price in European countries, Germany excepted. The direct result of this increase has been a curtailment of motoring; the use of cars for any other than ultilitarian purposes is very small indeed.

As, however, the use of motor cars in Great Britain for business and professional purposes is very extensive, the high cost of gasoline has called forth loud voiced protests. Before the war and before the government put a tax on gasoline, it was selling in England at about twenty cents per gallon, thus the price has more than doubled in a period of three years.

French Price Up.

France has also had to stand for a rise in the price of gasoline, the refiners recently have decided to put $1 per hundred litres on gasoline and sixty cents on kerosene. The retail price averages 42.5 to 44 cents per American gollon. This excludes the city of Paris, where there is a special local tax artificially increasing the price of gasoline. For the first time in the history of motordom, gasoline is cheaper in France than it is in England. This is partly explained by the fact that in England a government tax has been placed on gasoline, while in France the tax has undergone no change.

Moorman-Brown.

On Thursday evening last at the Second Presbyterian manse, W. D. Moorman and Miss Thelma Brown, both of Waco, were quietly married, Rev. J. J. Grier officiating. Both of these young people are well and favorably known to large circles of friends here who are extending their congratulations and bespeaking for them the happiest of married life.

Mr. and Mrs. Moorman will be located for the present at 802 North Thirteenth street.

"Courtesy First" Latest of Popular Watchwords

"Courtesy first" is taking its place beside "Safety first," as the motorists realize that courtesy is one of the most valuable lubricants in the world, and that, in addition, it is no more than a careful regard to the rights of others, given freely and as a matter of course. Here are "Courtesy first" rules as drafted by the Wolverine Automobile club, Detroit:

BE COURTEOUS.

First, do not hog the middle of the street. Give the other fellow room to go by and when he attempts to pass you do not speed up and perhaps crowd him into a safety zone. Be courteous.

Keep out of the safety zones. They are for the pedestrian. It is up to you to make them safe. Be courteous.

When a fellow comes in from a side street give him room to turn the corner; do not crowd. When you park behind another car, remember he may wish to leave before you do. Give him room to get out; don't crowd. When you expect to stop or turn do not keep your intentions secret; think of the fellow behind. Be courteous.

Do not dodge in and around cars in line in traffic. Remember they were there first, and have just as great a desire to get through as you have. Be courteous.

Do not presume too much when you have the right of way. Perhaps the other fellow does not know it. Be courteous.

Do not cut in front of a street car. Remember the motorman is human and most of them will learn all the courtesy you will teach them. Be courteous.

When you get the "Go" signal from a traffic officer remember to give the pedestrian time to get out of the way. Be courteous.

When you see people on the curb trying to reach a car or vice versa, slow up, stop if necessary, but let them cross without danger. This is one of the courtesies that will pay the motoring public best. Be courteous.

When a pedestrian does not or will not pay any attention to your horn it is well to remember that the deaf, hundreds of them, use the streets as well as you. Be courteous.

When you have an insane desire to speed remember the other fellows you are passing have just as much right to break the law as you have. Think of the sentiment you are creating against motoring by your mania. Think of the accidents that may happen by your hitting some other driver coming in from a side street, or pedestrian who does not see you coming. Think of the people in your own car, perhaps, who have a fear of speeding and are trying to be game and not let you know it. It is not sport to drive fast in the city; it is the utmost discourtesy to your fellow motorists and fellow citizens. Be courteous.

When a pedestrian sees you coming and deliberately pays no attention to you, remember that some are mentally deficient and you cannot tell them from the clothes they wear. Be courteous.

When you see a child on a curb, slow up. Remember the child can start quicker than you can stop. Be courteous.

Do not open your cutout on the streets during the day. Remember there are many sick people and people on their deathbeds, whom such a sound greatly disturbs. Do not open your cutout at night, for you probably remember some night when you were disturbed when trying to sleep by some fool whose greatest claim to fame was his noise. Be courteous.

And remember that your horn is just a few times worse than your cutout. Be courteous.

Be courteous to police officials and they will more than repay it. And if you feel like swearing at the ordinances, or if you do not like the traffic arrangements, remember that perhaps you may be wrong, as most cities of the United States today have identical arrangements and ordinances.

The Wolverine club also has made this definition: "Courtesy in motor driving is the recognition of the rights of all others, either motoring or pedestrian. It is that and more—it is the willingness to yield certain recognized rights of your own." The rules are being copied in various parts of the country by other clubs, and are being given wide circulation.—Auto Topics.

IN A TOWN OF WHITE LILAC.

The Perfume of Flowers Lingers Above a Holland Village.

A town of white lilac. Do not the words evoke a vision of blue skies and balmy airs, of sunshine and summer? A town where lilac blooms in December surely must lie on some southern shore, sheltered from the cold winds of winter, the frosts and fogs.

The town of which I write is not such a town as that; yet it is one where you may walk for hours amid flowers and perfume, until, becoming oblivious of Germans and war and the other ugly facts of life, you almost surrender to the illusion that all the world's a garden, and all the men and women merely gardeners. For, indeed, that would seem to be the case in the liattle village of Aalsmeer.

Aalsmeer is a small town in North Holland, about half an hour by rail from Amsterdam. At all times a town of flowers, it is just now essentially a town of white lilac. Other flowers are grown there, it is true. As you pass through the streets your eye is arrested by the bright colors of chrysanthemums or tulips, but it is lilac, and in the main white lilac, that absorbs the attention of the town. Of course you do not see it growing out of doors. Aalsmeer is too far north for that; but the lilac is there all the same, and it is difficult to imagine a more beautiful sight than the long rows of lilac bushes charged with their frail and delicate burden of bloom in the innumerable glasshouses of the town.

It is a quaint little town, of the kind that the old Dutch artists loved. Its roads and streets are paved with cabble stones and bordered with formal trees. Canals traverse the town, and barges laden with flowers for the markets pass sedately and silently along the canals. It is quite a restful picture that meets the eye in Aalsmeer. And facing the station itself you can see a whole garden full of artificially trained box and ye wtrees.

There are peacocks and dogs and birds on pedestals—even a Teddy bear and a baby in a both. The garden is a nursery belonging to a leading flower exporter of Aalsmeer who was kind enough to act as my guide, and who pointed with pride to the fact that at the International Horticultural Show held in London in May, 1912, the cut lilac of Aalsmeer obtained the highest awards. For we always came back to lilac.

There are about 400 nurserymen and florists in Aalsmeer, most of them engaged in the trade in cut flowers. When you come to the Uiterweg, as one of the caanals of the town is called, you are told that nurserymen's houses line the banks on either side and that you can walk for half an hour without coming to the end of them. Behind are the hothouses in which they force their market produce. I visited one of the principal nurserymen of the town and was courteously shown over his houses. Clean shaven and wearind a blue shirt and baggy trousers, he was a typical Dutch gardiener, a practical man with all the characteristics of the shrewd, successful peasant. I was told afterword that his lilac enjoys so good a reputation as to be bought at auction on the strength of his name.—London Times.

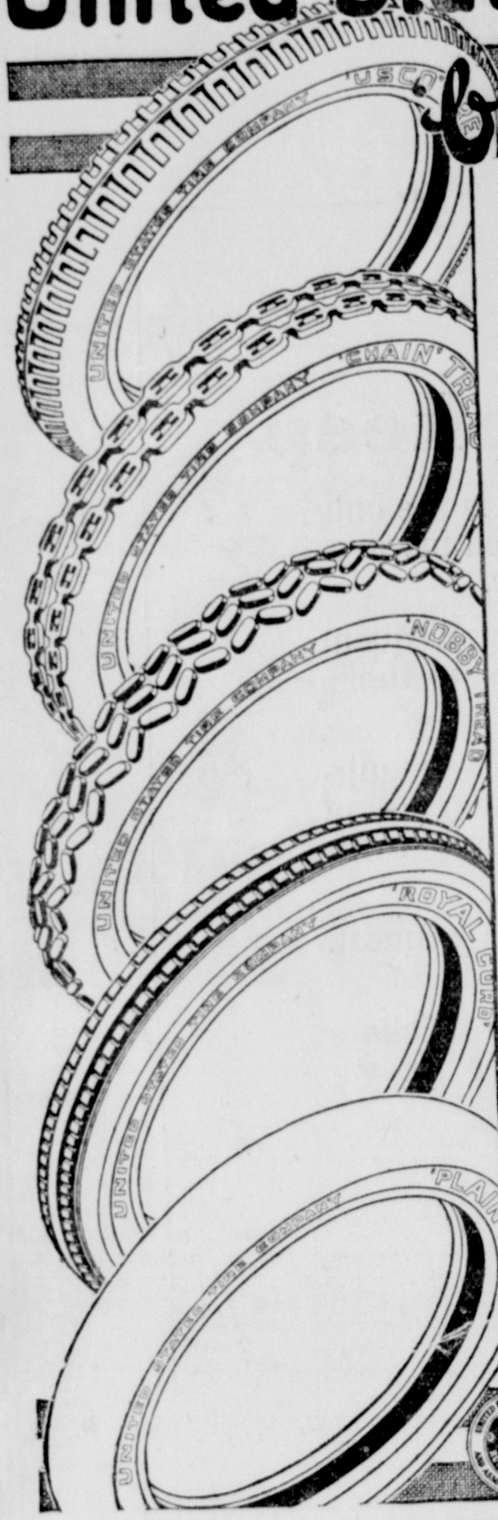
Waco's Showing of Modern Autos Unsurpassed for Size of City

United States 'Balanced' Tires



At Last—— the 'Balanced' Tire

The greatest forward step ever made in pneumatic tires

On January 8th, in the Saturday Evening Post, we announced that at last we had made pneumatic rubber tires more like other dependable articles of merchandise.

Stop and analyze this statement—"more like other dependable articles of merchandise."

Unless backed up by results, it would be almost commercial suicide for a tire manufacturer to make such a statement.

Now we are ready to tell you the reason for this fearless confidence in our tires—the reason for the gigantic sales increases in our tires since September last.

Many months ago we finally worked out and began producing the completely 'balanced' pneumatic tire—the heretofore unattainable goal of every tire manufacturer.

To be 100 per cent. efficient, a tire must be absolutely 'balanced'—that is, the rubber tread and the fabric carcass of the tire must give equal wear.

'Balance' the tire maker's goal

To have perfect 'balance' the rubber tread must have enough resiliency to absorb road shocks that tend to disintegrate the fabric, and still must have the toughness to give long wear.

Too much toughness reduces resiliency; too much resiliency sacrifices toughness.

Problem: find the 'balance.'

Full rubber-tread efficiency demands a 50-50 'balance' of resiliency and toughness.

Full fabric-carcass efficiency demands a 50-50 'balance' of fabric layers and rubber—a union that will make tread-separation impossible.

Full, complete tire efficiency demands a 50-50 'balance' of the rubber tread and the fabric carcass—neither may be stronger nor weaker than the other.

This is the goal we have reached

By producing this complete 'balance' between resiliency and toughness in the tread, and between fabric and rubber in the carcass, we have secured 100 per cent. efficiency in United States Individualized Tires, or absolute 'balance' of wearing quality in both rubber tread and fabric carcass.

By September last, these absolutely 'balanced' United States Tires began to be "felt on the market."

Since September, sales have increased steadily month by month up to the recent highest increase of 354 per cent.—this tells the story.

Interesting Facts About New York Philharmonic Orchestra.

Josef Stransky, the brilliant young director of the New York Philharmonic society, which will be brought here by Euterpean club May 3, in Cotton Palace coliseum, is today an international figure in the musical world and is recognized as one of the first greatest directors living.

Long before his call to America all Europe had become interested in the young musician, who exhibited such commanding qualities as a director and conductor. In Prague he led the orchestra of the Royal theatre for five years, and then went to Hamburg, where for seven years he was the favorite as well as the chief conductor of the Royal opera house. An organizer and a builder by nature, he left Hamburg to take up the leadership of the Bleuthner orchestra in Berlin, which had threatened to become extinct from lack of patronage. In two years of work at the head of this organization he succeeded in not only lifting its artistic standard to the highest plane, but made it a paying institution financially.

When the death of Gustav Mahler necessitated the engaging of a new conductor for the New York Philharmonic society, Josef Stransky was invited to assume charge of America's oldest and most highly endowed orchestral organization. His work in this country has done much to further develop the public taste for symphonic music.

Members of Baylor Music Faculty to Give Historical Recital.

On Tuesday, March 21, members of Baylor music faculty will celebrate the anniversary of the birth of John Sebastian Bach by giving a program of Bach compositions. This is one of the biggest things yet undertaken by Baylor musicians. The works of Bach are extremely difficult and the entire program has been most carefully prepared.

The program follows:

Prelude, B minor, for Organ .....
Mr. Rudolf Hoffmann.
Siciliano Air (on G string), for Violin .....
Mr. Anton Navratil.
Aria, "Komm in mein Herzenshaus," for Tenor .....
Mr. John de Heck.
Gigue—Gavotte (Saint Saens), for Pianoforte .....
Miss Eschol Taylor.
Adagio, Toccata and Fugue, C major, for Organ .....
Mr. Hoffmann.
Sonata, B minor, for Violin and Pianoforte—Adagio, Allegro, Andante, Allegro .....
Mr. Navratil and Mr. Hoffmann.
Chorus and Tenor Solo, from the "Passion Music According to St. Matthews"—

I would beside my Lord be watching
That evil draw me not astray.
For my sake He to die will undertake,
His sorrow joy for me secureth.
The griefs that He for us endureth,
How bitter yet how sweet are they.

Mr. de Heck and his Choral Class.

Special to the Morning News.

Washington, March 18.—The call of the woman's section of the Navy league, "Patriotism, Americanism and National Defense," has brought to its standard women from all over the United States. It has a branch in every state in the Union and a membership of 315,000. The members are pledged to think, talk and work for patriotism, Americanism and sufficient national defenses to keep the horrors of war from America's homes and shores forever; to do their share to awaken the lawmakers to the danger of the country's present undefended condition; to make their homes centers of American ideals and patriotism, and to instil into the hearts of their children reverence for the country and its history and the determination to uphold its honor and fair repute.

Comes now the National Service school, sponsored by the Navy league, where girls and young women may be trained along the lines of the instruction which the Plattsburg military instruction camp afforded their brothers. The camp, which is to be established on the outskirts of Washington, will open on May 1, to continue four weeks at least, perhaps longer. If the experiment proves successful branches of the National Service school will be established in important cities all over the country.

Plans for Curriculum.

Plans are now complete and details of the comprehensive and interesting curriculum are being arranged under the direction of the National Service School committee. Mrs. George Dewey, wife of the admiral; Mrs. Hugh L. Scott, wife of the chief of staff, United States army, and Mrs. G. Barnett, wife of the commandant of the marine corps, are serving on this committee, likewise Mrs. Henry F. Ashurst, Mrs. Gibson Fahnestock, Mrs. Frank G. Odenheimer, Mrs. C. L. Hussey, Mrs. John Callan O'Loughlin, Mrs. James H. Oliver, Mrs. Richard Wainwright, Mrs. Sidney Ballou, Mrs. Mary Logan Tucker, Mrs. Edward McCauley Jr., Mrs. Vylla Wilson Poe and Mrs. Spencer Wood. Miss Elizabeth Ellicott Poe is chairman. These are names to conjure with from a social point of view, and they are borne by women of vision and executive ability who have turned their undoubted talents to account in mapping out a thoroughly interesting and practical venture.

The National Service school of the woman's section of the Navy league will be located on a ten-acre tract in Chevy Chase, Md., just over the border from the District, the use of which has been given by Senator Francis Newlands of Nevada. It is accessible to the street car lines and within easy reach of town by automobile. Moreover, the property is improved, with sewerage, water and lighting facilities, all ready for the pitching of the tents.

Army Tents Supplied.

Army tents have been requisitioned for the use of the resident pupils and the camp will be conducted along regulation military lines, with set schedules of classes, drills, etc., for resident and day pupils. The main object of the school is to give an opportunity to American women to acquire sufficient special training to be of use in time of war or national calamity. To this end and in order that the National Service school at the capital—the first of its kind in the world—may inspire the founding of other schools where women may fit themselves for the part they must play in the national service of good citizenship and patriotism, delegates will be sent from the different states to make a study of the work of the school. Conferences will be arranged for them to be held during the afternoon hours and they will also have access to the lectures on the topics discussed, who will take up questions of national defense, food conservation, American history, and the Americatization of the foreign-born, as a feature of the program. These will also be given in the afternoons and will be open to the general public. The regular classes and special courses will be held in the mornings and only regularly enrolled students may attend.

No student will be enrolled for less than two weeks, and plans are being made to accommodate 500 girls, 200 resident students and 300 day pupils each fortnight. The school will be open to all native-born women over 18 years of age, whose applications are acceptable to the committee in charge and who are members, or intend to become members, of the woman's section of the Navy league. However, no student will be permitted to live at the camp unless she can present a certificate from her physician that she is physically able to endure the out-of-door life and camp routine. The routine will be strict and the recruits will be put through a stiff course, but every precaution for their health and comfort will be taken. A physician and trained nurses will be in residence and a Red Cross relief station will be set up in the camp grounds. Picked men from the local police force will do the actual guarding of the camp at night, but resident students will be called upon for guard and inspection duty, after the manner of their brothers at Plattsburg. Officers of the day will be in direct charge of the school and camp and the regulations laid down by them under the direction of experts must be obeyed with military promptness.

Complexion Beyond Compare and the Secret

Months of Time Are Now Eliminated in the Acquirement of Beauty, Says Valeska Surratt, America's Famous Self-Made Beauty-Actress.

BY MISS VALESKA SURRATT

IF every woman who reads this will make up her mind to use the following complexion formula, she will soon experience one of the greatest surprises in her search for beauty. The skin responds with great rapidity when the proper means are used. Use this and see how every red spot, every freckle and blemish will vanish and leave in its stead a lily-like purity and tint like that of the most beautiful faces you have ever seen. Mix two tablespoonfuls of glycerine in half pint of water and add one ounce of zintone. This will form a satiny cream. Use liberally every day. Any drug store will supply you with the zintone. This is a real skin rejuvenator. How tired the average woman is using the old-style creams, constantly massaging with little result! Here now you may be assured of those very results which you have so long cherished and worked for. Every woman in the land should use this formula.

* * *

MISS PHYLLIS—A quick, absolutely sure way to get rid of blackheads is to sprinkle some neroxin on a sponge, wet with hot water. This, rubbed on the blackheads, will remove them all, big and little, in a few moments. It also leaves the skin with a ruddy glow, vigorous and refreshed. The entire face should be rubbed as stated above, then bathed with cold water. In this way you will be sure to remove every blackhead.

* * *

ETTA W. F.—There is only one superfluous hair remover I know of that will not cause a burn or spot on the skin. This is sulfo solution. It dissolves away every hair evenly and completely without burning it off, as is the case with ordinary depilatories. It is wonderful to see how easily and uniquely it works. It leaves the skin soft and beautiful and never fails. It can be used safely on the tenderest skin, anywhere on the body.

* * *

MRS. F. G. S.—If you will use my own hair-growing formula, you will find it easy to have glorious hair. This formula is a sure and quick destroyer of dandruff, a wonderful forcer of hair growth and stops hair falling absolutely. Mix half a pint of alcohol (or take a full pint of imported bay rum if preferred) and add one ounce of beta-quinol, which can be obtained at any drug store. This makes the most economical and effective hair treatment you can ever obtain.

* * *

BERNARDINE—You will agree that for a head wash nothing surpasses eggol. This is a cleanser more effective than any soap or other shampoo. It removes every particle of scurf, dirt and skin scale from hair and scalp. Use a teaspoonful of eggol in half a cup of hot water and use as a shampoo. It is very economical, for you can get enough at a moderate cost to produce a dozen or more luxuriant shampoos.

* * *

MISS O. T. H.—Even deep wrinkles can be removed quickly by using my sure wrinkle formula. To a half pint of hot water add two ounces of eptol, which can be obtained at any drug store. This will produce an astonishing difference in a short time, and wrinkles, crow's feet and deep lines will gradually disappear, making the skin plump, vigorous and youthful. It never fails.

* * *

DISAPPOINTED—I'm sorry you were not able to get the beta-quinol at the drug store. If you will simply write, addressing "Secretary to Valeska Surratt, Thompson Bldg., Chicago," enclosing fifty cents, you will be supplied by return mail.

* * *

LES MISERABLES—If you will simply use hydrolized talc, the great discomforts of armpit perspiration can be controlled. This brings the secretions in the armpits to normal, the profuse perspiration is checked, and your gowns will not become wet and fade as a result. Hydrolized talc is excellent for perspiring feet, or for excessive perspiration. It also destroys all odors quickly and completely. Hydrolized talc is a necessity to every woman's toilet.

* * *

BEREFT—Development of the bust is never assured, though the following formula has brought about very satisfactory results. Mix together two ounces of ruetone, half a cup of sugar and half a pint of cold water and take two teaspoonfuls after each meal and at bedtime. This is perfectly safe. Avoid the use of instruments.

* * *

Miss P. S. G.—I want you to try my blood cleanser and pimple remover. It never fails to produce results quickly. It is a mixture of twelve ounces of sugar and one ounce of sarsene in a pint of water. Dissolve thoroughly and take one or two teaspoonfuls after each meal. Get the sarsene in the original package, by the ounce, at any drug store.

WORLD'S GREATEST LADY HOCKEY STAR

Miss Albertine Lapansee.

Miss Albertine Lapansee is the world's greatest lady hockey player. She is captain of a woman's hockey team of Cornwall, Canada, and is famed for her great speed, stick-handling and shooting ability. She holds the scoring record of fifteen goals in one game, and is regarded as the superior of many male stars in Canada.

What Two Million Working Men Say About the Sabbath

(By Mrs. C. A. Westbrook.)

Samuel Gompers, writing to the secretary of the Federation of the Sunday Rest Association of America, said: "May I take the opportunity of conveying to you my hearty commendation of the principles and purposes of the association which you represent? Not only am I personally in hearty accord with any movement which has for its object the preservation of one day's rest in seven, but the American Federation of Labor representing over two million working men and women has emphatically declared itself in favor of the Sunday rest day, and it has done as much, if not more, than any other organization of men and women to enforce the observance of the Sunday rest day."

These men had listened to the sympathetic appeals of the pretended friends of the working men. They told them that an open Sunday was a necessity for the working man, who had no other time for amusement and who should have this time to visit picture shows and beer gardens with his family, to go on short excursions to visit or participate in ball games and to go to concerts and theatres, etc. These working men and women soon found that avarice and greed were at the bottom of their gilded sophistry. Like the beautiful apples of the Dead sea, it only contained bitter ashes, for the Sunday holiday was soon turned into a Sunday work day. The thousands of railroad men say, "Give us back our Sabbath," yet the engines continue to whistle defiance to the laws of God and of our state. The working men and and women should have recreation and if their employers act right, they will give it to them. When the manager of a clothing manufacturing company remarked that he would not employ any one who would desecrate the Sabbath by attending the Cotton Palace or picture shows on the Lord's day, he added that time was given them on Saturdays for recreation, and that every one employed by the company were Christians. Fifty of these girls supported a missionary in China.

When I looked into their bright, happy faces and heard them sing songs of praise, I thanked God that such men as their employers lived in Waco, and by their actions proved that they were indeed friends of the working class. Like Samuel Gompers, they believe in keeping the Lord's day holy, and to influence others to do so.

For years I have known this little verse to prove true:

"A Sabbath well spent brings a week of content
And rest for the toils of tomorrow;
But a Sabbath profaned, whatever is gained,
Is a certain forerunner of sorrow."

Interesting Facts About New York Philharmonic Orchestra.

Josef Stransky, the brilliant young director of the New York Philharmonic society, which will be brought here by Euterpean club May 3, in Cotton Palace coliseum, is today an international figure in the musical world and is recognized as one of the first greatest directors living.

Long before his call to America all Europe had become interested in the young musician, who exhibited such commanding qualities as a director and conductor. In Prague he led the orchestra of the Royal theatre for five years, and then went to Hamburg, where for seven years he was the favorite as well as the chief conductor of the Royal opera house. An organizer and a builder by nature, he left Hamburg to take up the leadership of the Bleuthner orchestra in Berlin, which had threatened to become extinct from lack of patronage. In two years of work at the head of this organization he succeeded in not only lifting its artistic standard to the highest plane, but made it a paying institution financially.

When the death of Gustav Mahler necessitated the engaging of a new conductor for the New York Philharmonic society, Josef Stransky was invited to assume charge of America's oldest and most highly endowed orchestral organization. His work in this country has done much to further develop the public taste for symphonic music.

Members of Baylor Music Faculty to Give Historical Recital.

On Tuesday, March 21, members of Baylor music faculty will celebrate the anniversary of the birth of John Sebastian Bach by giving a program of Bach compositions. This is one of the biggest things yet undertaken by Baylor musicians. The works of Bach are extremely difficult and the entire program has been most carefully prepared.

The program follows:

Prelude, B minor, for Organ ..... Mr. Rudolf Hoffmann.
Siciliano Air (on G string), for Violin ..... Mr. Anton Navratil.
Aria, "Komm in mein Herzenshaus," for Tenor ..... Mr. John de Heck.
Gigue—Gavotte (Saint Saens), for Pianoforte ..... Miss Eschol Taylor.
Adagio, Toccata and Fugue, C major, for Organ ..... Mr. Hoffmann.
Sonata, B minor, for Violin and Pianoforte—Adagio, Allegro, Andante, Allegro ..... Mr. Navratil and Mr. Hoffmann.
Chorus and Tenor Solo, from the "Passion Music According to St. Matthews"—

I would beside my Lord be watching
That evil draw me not astray.
For my sake He to die will undertake,
His sorrow joy for me secureth.
The griefs that He for us endureth,
How bitter yet how sweet are they.

AMERICAN MAIDS AND MATRONS TO BE "PREPARED"; SCHOOL OF INSTRUCTION IN WAR DUTIES TO BE ESTABLISHED AT CAPITAL

Special to the Morning News.

Washington, March 18.—The call of the woman's section of the Navy league, "Patriotism, Americanism and National Defense," has brought to its standard women from all over the United States. It has a branch in every state in the Union and a membership of 315,000. The members are pledged to think, talk and work for patriotism, Americanism and sufficient national defenses to keep the horrors of war from America's homes and shores forever; to do their share to awaken the lawmakers to the danger of the country's present undefended condition; to make their homes centers of American ideals and patriotism, and to instil into the hearts of their children reverence for the country and its history and the determination to uphold its honor and fair repute.

Comes now the National Service school, sponsored by the Navy league, where girls and young women may be trained along the lines of the instruction which the Plattsburg military instruction camp afforded their brothers. The camp, which is to be established on the outskirts of Washington, will open on May 1, to continue four weeks at least, perhaps longer. If the experiment proves successful branches of the National Service school will be established in important cities all over the country.

Plans for Curriculum.

Plans are now complete and details of the comprehensive and interesting curriculum are being arranged under the direction of the National Service School committee. Mrs. George Dewey, wife of the admiral; Mrs. Hugh L. Scott, wife of the chief of staff, United States army, and Mrs. G. Barnett, wife of the commandant of the marine corps, are serving on this committee, likewise Mrs. Henry F. Ashurst, Mrs. Gibson Fahnestock, Mrs. Frank G. Odenheimer, Mrs. C. L. Hussey, Mrs. John Callan O'Loughlin, Mrs. James H. Oliver, Mrs. Richard Wainwright, Mrs. Sidney Ballou, Mrs. Mary Logan Tucker, Mrs. Edward McCauley Jr., Mrs. Vylla Wilson Poe and Mrs. Spencer Wood. Miss Elizabeth Ellicott Poe is chairman. These are names to conjure with from a social point of view, and they are borne by women of vision and executive ability who have turned their undoubted talents to account in mapping out a thoroughly interesting and practical venture.

The National Service school of the woman's section of the Navy league will be located on a ten-acre tract in Chevy Chase, Md., just over the border from the District, the use of which has been given by Senator Francis Newlands of Nevada. It is accessible to the street car lines and within easy reach of town by automobile. Moreover, the property is improved, with sewerage, water and lighting facilities, all ready for the pitching of the tents.

Army Tents Supplied.

Army tents have been requisitioned for the use of the resident pupils and the camp will be conducted along regulation military lines, with set schedules of classes, drills, etc., for resident and day pupils. The main object of the school is to give an opportunity to American women to acquire sufficient special training to be of use in time of war or national calamity. To this end and in order that the National Service school at the capital—the first of its kind in the world—may inspire the founding of other schools where women may fit themselves for the part they must play in the national service of good citizenship and patriotism, delegates will be sent from the different states to make a study of the work of the school. Conferences will be arranged for them to be held during the afternoon hours and they will also have access to the lectures on the topics discussed, who will take up questions of national defense, food conservation, American history, and the Americatization of the foreign-born, as a feature of the program. These will also be given in the afternoons and will be open to the general public. The regular classes and special courses will be held in the mornings and only regularly enrolled students may attend.

No student will be enrolled for less than two weeks, and plans are being made to accommodate 500 girls, 200 resident students and 300 day pupils each fortnight. The school will be open to all native-born women over 18 years of age, whose applications are acceptable to the committee in charge and who are members, or intend to become members, of the woman's section of the Navy league. However, no student will be permitted to live at the camp unless she can present a certificate from her physician that she is physically able to endure the out-of-door life and camp routine. The routine will be strict and the recruits will be put through a stiff course, but every precaution for their health and comfort will be taken. A physician and trained nurses will be in residence and a Red Cross relief station will be set up in the camp grounds. Picked men from the local police force will do the actual guarding of the camp at night, but resident students will be called upon for guard and inspection duty, after the manner of their brothers at Plattsburg. Officers of the day will be in direct charge of the school and camp and the regulations laid down by them under the direction of experts must be obeyed with military promptness.

Complexion Beyond Compare and the Secret

Months of Time Are Now Eliminated in the Acquirement of Beauty, Says Valeska Surratt, America's Famous Self-Made Beauty-Actress.

BY MISS VALESKA SURRATT

IF every woman who reads this will make up her mind to use the following complexion formula, she will soon experience one of the greatest surprises in her search for beauty. The skin responds with great rapidity when the proper means are used. Use this and see how every red spot, every freckle and blemish will vanish and leave in its stead a lily-like purity and tint like that of the most beautiful faces you have ever seen. Mix two tablespoonfuls of glycerine in half pint of water and add one ounce of zintone. This will form a satiny cream. Use liberally every day. Any drug store will supply you with the zintone. This is a real skin rejuvenator. How tired the average woman is using the old-style creams, constantly massaging with little result! Here now you may be assured of those very results which you have so long cherished and worked for. Every woman in the land should use this formula.

* * *

MISS PHYLLIS—A quick, absolutely sure way to get rid of blackheads is to sprinkle some neroxin on a sponge, wet with hot water. This, rubbed on the blackheads, will remove them all, big and little, in a few moments. It also leaves the skin with a ruddy glow, vigorous and refreshed. The entire face should be rubbed as stated above, then bathed with cold water. In this way you will be sure to remove every blackhead.

* * *

ETTA W. F.—There is only one superfluous hair remover I know of that will not cause a burn or spot on the skin. This is sulfo solution. It dissolves away every hair evenly and completely without burning it off, as is the case with ordinary depilatories. It is wonderful to see how easily and uniquely it works. It leaves the skin soft and beautiful and never fails. It can be used safely on the tenderest skin, anywhere on the body.

* * *

MRS. F. G. S.—If you will use my own hair-growing formula, you will find it easy to have glorious hair. This formula is a sure and quick destroyer of dandruff, a wonderful forcer of hair growth and stops hair falling absolutely. Mix half a pint of alcohol (or take a full pint of imported bay rum if preferred) and add one ounce of beta-quinol, which can be obtained at any drug store. This makes the most economical and effective hair treatment you can ever obtain.

* * *

BERNARDINE—You will agree that for a head wash nothing surpasses eggol. This is a cleanser more effective than any soap or other shampoo. It removes every particle of scurf, dirt and skin scale from hair and scalp. Use a teaspoonful of eggol in half a cup of hot water and use as a shampoo. It is very economical, for you can get enough at a moderate cost to produce a dozen or more luxuriant shampoos.

* * *

MISS O. T. H.—Even deep wrinkles can be removed quickly by using my sure wrinkle formula. To a half pint of hot water add two ounces of eptol, which can be obtained at any drug store. This will produce an astonishing difference in a short time, and wrinkles, crow's feet and deep lines will gradually disappear, making the skin plump, vigorous and youthful. It never fails.

* * *

DISAPPOINTED—I'm sorry you were not able to get the beta-quinol at the drug store. If you will simply write, addressing "Secretary to Valeska Suratt, Thompson Bldg., Chicago," enclosing fifty cents, you will be supplied by return mail.

* * *

LES MISERABLES—If you will simply use hydrolized talc, the great discomforts of armpit perspiration can be controlled. This brings the secretions in the armpits to normal, the profuse perspiration is checked, and your gowns will not become wet and fade as a result. Hydrolized talc is excellent for perspiring feet, or for excessive perspiration. It also destroys all odors quickly and completely. Hydrolized talc is a necessity to every woman's toilet.

* * *

BEREFT—Development of the bust is never assured, though the following formula has brought about very satisfactory results. Mix together two ounces of ruetone, half a cup of sugar and half a pint of cold water and take two teaspoonfuls after each meal and at bedtime. This is perfectly safe. Avoid the use of instruments.

* * *

Miss P. S. G.—I want you to try my blood cleanser and pimple remover. It never fails to produce results quickly. It is a mixture of twelve ounces of sugar and one ounce of sarsene in a pint of water. Dissolve thoroughly and take one or two teaspoonfuls after each meal. Get the sarsene in the original package, by the ounce, at any drug store.

What Two Million Working Men Say About the Sabbath

(By Mrs. C. A. Westbrook.)

Samuel Gompers, writing to the secretary of the Federation of the Sunday Rest Association of America, said: "May I take the opportunity of conveying to you my hearty commendation of the principles and purposes of the association which you represent? Not only am I personally in hearty accord with any movement which has for its object the preservation of one day's rest in seven, but the American Federation of Labor representing over two million working men and women has emphatically declared itself in favor of the Sunday rest day, and it has done as much, if not more, than any other organization of men and women to enforce the observance of the Sunday rest day."

These men had listened to the sympathetic appeals of the pretended friends of the working men. They told them that an open Sunday was a necessity for the working man, who had no other time for amusement and who should have this time to visit picture shows and beer gardens with his family, to go on short excursions to visit or participate in ball games and to go to concerts and theatres, etc. These working men and women soon found that avarice and greed were at the bottom of their gilded sophistry. Like the beautiful apples of the Dead sea, it only contained bitter ashes, for the Sunday holiday was soon turned into a Sunday work day. The thousands of railroad men say, "Give us back our Sabbath," yet the engines continue to whistle defiance to the laws of God and of our state. The working men and and women should have recreation and if their employers act right, they will give it to them. When the manager of a clothing manufacturing company remarked that he would not employ any one who would desecrate the Sabbath by attending the Cotton Palace or picture shows on the Lord's day, he added that time was given them on Saturdays for recreation, and that every one employed by the company were Christians. Fifty of these girls supported a missionary in China.

When I looked into their bright, happy faces and heard them sing songs of praise, I thanked God that such men as their employers lived in Waco, and by their actions proved that they were indeed friends of the working class. Like Samuel Gompers, they believe in keeping the Lord's day holy, and to influence others to do so.

For years I have known this little verse to prove true:

"A Sabbath well spent brings a week of content
And rest for the toils of tomorrow;
But a Sabbath profaned, whatever is gained,
Is a certain forerunner of sorrow."

Program for Week.

Sunday, Monday and Tuesday—"The Flying Torpedo," D. W. Griffith's Triangle play; also "The Village Blacksmith," Triangle Keystone with Hank Mann.

Wednesday and Thursday—Frank Mills and an all-star cast in the Thomas H. Ince production, "The Moral Fabric," on same program with a new Keystone comedy, "The Village Vampire." Bessie Barriscale in "Bullets and Brown Eyes," Thos. H. Ince Triangle play.

Friday and Saturday—William Farnum in "The Bondman," Hall Caine's story made into a de luxe William Fox six-reel feature; also "Perils of the Park," Keystone with Harry McCoy.

Extra Monday and balance of the week—Madame Suzanne Lehmann, lyric soprano soloist, late star and manager of Don Philippini's band will sing at every performance after 2 p. m.

"The Flying Torpedo."

"The Flying Torpedo," a wondrous and imaginary picture, taken from the story of Robert M. Baker and John Emerson and produced by the Fine Arts Triangle Film company under the personal supervision of David Griffith, has caused a sensation everywhere it has been shown in California and New York, and has attracted the army officers from all over the United States because of its timeliness and its thrills and its presentation of a new and entirely imaginary method of warfare. "The Flying Torpedo" will show at the Hippodrome today. The first showing of this picture was in a Los Angeles house where was present David Griffith, Mack Sennett and Thomas H. Ince, and many other picture magnets, and in addition to these a hundred or more army officers quartered at that city. These last expressed themselves as astounded by the plot and the action of the story and the wonderful invention that is illustrated and the new, even if imaginary, means of war that are demonstrated. John Emerson himself is starred in this picture, and makes of the strange old professor a very likable man in spite of his eccentricities. Bessie Love, a very young actress of the Fine Arts studios, jumps into prominence in this picture. Others in the cast are Spottiswoode Aitken, William E. Lawrence, Fred J. Butler, Viola Barry, Lucille Young, Ralph Lewis and Raymond Wells.

This story is of a war waged in 1921, when the coast of California is invaded by a hostile army and fleet, wherein a flying torpedo which fully illustrated, proves its great and powerful efficiency in times of war under the direction of skilled army officers. And yet the picture is not one of exceeding fighting. The first part of the story concerns an old professor who writes senational stories and his very plain, big-footed awkward Norwegian servant girl. It is a tale of interest and splendid humor of the delightful, subtle Griffith mind, and of thrills and surprises that cannot be described. "The Flying Torpedo" will play at the Hippodrome today, tomorrow and Tuesday.

"The Bondsman."

There are two reasons why the picture version of Hall Caine's great masterpiece, "The Bondsman," as filmed by Fox and showing at the Hippodrome Friday and Saturday, is an excellent one. In the first place the story works up to tense, absorbing situations; in the second the star and his supporting actors are fully capable of enacting these climaxes to decidedly good effect. A third reason is that the screen has succeeded in showing a psychological change in the nature of Jason Orry, making the external reasons clearly apparent to the spectators, even while Jason himself is not fully conscious of the reasons for his sacrifice and noble act. William Farnum in his dual role, first as the profligate Icelander who is father to both the half-brothers, then as Jason, the son born in Ireland, and who is the principal figure of the story, is well suited to the part. His virile person and his masterful facial expressions have won Mr. Farnum a high place among screen artists.

Dorothy Bernard as Greeba, whom both brothers love and Doris Wooldridge as Jason's mother, Rachel give intelligent and sensitive interpretations of their roles, and several of the "character" impersonations are wonderfully handled. The scenic setting, the coast of Maine, representing Iceland, and the Isle of Man is vigorous and vividly beautiful.

The story of "The Bondsman" is familiar to most readers of fiction and is regarded by some as Hall Caine's greatest work. It deals with Jason Orry, who sets out to find his father and kill him in revenge for his mother's wrong. Cheated by fate and death, he then determines to seek his half-brother. But again chance and destiny step in. "The Bondsman" is a great psychological play and the screen version is wonderfully effective in its delicate treatment. Among the scenes that deserve especial mention are those showing the prowess of William Farnum. "The Bondsman" is a wonderful picture.

CRYSTAL.

"The Pool of Flame," Today.

The last of the Terence O'Rourke stories! How we shall miss them! But, unless Louis Joseph Vance can be persuaded to reconsider his decision and write a few more, this one will be definitely the last. It is perhaps some slight compensation that the last is the best of all. In it the delightful colonel comes into a fortune and wins his princess, all at the same time, so that our last view of him leaves him with the prospect of being as happy as any one can manage to be on this mundane sphere.

The role of Terence O'Rourke is one of the most sympathetic that J. Warren Kerrigan has ever had, and fits his personality like the proverbial glove. It is little wonder that he is sorry to say good-by to it. But the whole cast is particularly well selected. Miss Lois Wilson, who plays the Princess Beatrix, will be remembered as the Alabama entrant of the Universal beauty contest. Her rise to "leading-ladyhood" has been as rapid as it is well deserved. Only a year ago her only acquaintance with moving pictures was from the point of view of the audience, and now she is playing leads for one of the most popular of all motion picture stars, and bids fair to attain a very large measure of popularity of her own. She called herself in a recent interview "the luckiest girl in the world," and spoke of her work at Universal City with all the enthusiasm of a novice, but her acting marke her as well out of the novice class.

The duke, having laid his plans so that the jewel is almost within his grasp, through an informant in the telegraph office, learns that Beatrix will arrive. He sends his man to her hotel to kidnap her before she can see O'Rourke. The duke goes to Karan's home, accompanied by one of his men, who is impersonating an English officer, and in a fight in which he drowns the servant in the fountain, escapes with the jewel. In the meantime, his men have kidnaped Beatrix and taken her to an East Indian dive. Danny, O'Rourke's valet, by chance, sees this and follows, returning to O'Rourke and telling him of the affair. O'Rourke calls his friends at the club, men who were brother officers to him in India, and asks their help to rescue Beatrix. They are eager to go. The duke arrives, shows Beatrix the stone, and warns her that her marriage to him is to take place at once.

"The Pool of Flame," besides being the last of the Terence O'Rourke stories, is the last picture which Mr. Kerrigan will make under the direction of Otis Turner. Mr. Turner has taken over the direction of Carter De Haven, and Mr. Kerrigan will now be directed by Harry Carter, under the supervision of Mr. Turner.

"Orders Is Orders," a Tonsorial Classic.

Once in a great while a real comedy comes out of the West. This Victor two-reeler was written and produced by Francis Ford, and with 200 raring-tearing college boys from Leland Stanford and the University of California to put "pep" into the scenes, there isn't a moment of dullness in the whole picture. What these college boys don't do to the police force of the town in which they go to school isn't worth telling. They tear up every barber pole in the town and the police are powerless to stop them.

The story of the play follows:

It is the day before the big football game and the air is charged with tenseness. The boys, overflowing with enthusiasm, parade up and down the streets singing and shouting in their exuberance. Joe is captain of the Yale team and he and Mina, the mayor's daughter, are very fond of each other. During the celebration the quarterback begins to get too noisy and is accordingly taken to jail. The captain, as a deterrent to other offenders, gives him thirty days in jail.

Of course, when the news gets out there is a mighty uproar in college, for with the quarterback missing they will have small chance to win the game the next day. The wisest heads on the ground get together planning the release of their quarterback, but all in vain, and it remains for the wise captain, Joe, to find a way out of their difficulties. Spurred on by Grace, he works out a little scheme and it proves successful. He buys a barber pole and goes down the street very conspicuously. But he had received a receipt for the pole and while he is arrested many times, the receipt always results in his release. Finally the police captain gets tired of seeing Joe continually brought in and issues a general order to all patrolmen that they must not arrest a student carrying a barber pole under penalty of losing their jobs. They learn this at the college and the boys go wild. Scattering over the town, they proceed to gather in the barber poles and the result of their haul looks like a woodpile. Of course, the cops see them carrying off poles, but are in fear of the order, so they allow them to escape.

Next morning things begin to hum. The police captain's office overflows with barbers—all of them filled with rage. The authorities are impotent, however, and the mayor informs the captain that unless the poles are restored by noon there will be a new face in his office. The college boys now come forward with their proposition. If the quarterback is liberated they agree to return all the poles in good shape, and the police are forced to agree to this.

AUDITORIUM.

Howe's Travel Festival.

The "litlte nonsense now and then" which is relished not alone "by the best of men"—but by everybody, and which always forms such a delightful diversion in Howe's Travel Festival, will be as much in evidence as ever on the forthcoming engagement at the Auditorium theatre on Saturday matinee and night, March 25. Without a doubt these clever comedy conceptions largely explain why Howe's productions are educational without the terrors implied by that grave adjective. Among the features of the new program may be mentioned a pictorial excursion to the Firth of Forth bridge, Scotland; to France, Italy, Holland, Madeira, Switzerland, Glacier National Park and an aeroplane ride above the clouds during which the spectators experience the unique sensation not only of an aerial flight, but also of peering through rifts in the clouds to vistas of great stretches of terra firma far below. Besides there will be some distinct novelties which at the same time prove the possibilities latent in cinematography. A marvelous example of this class shows animals moving at a speed eight times slower than normal. The result is weird and uncanny yet of absorbing interest because it shows details of these movements which the human eye never has or could detect. Another film curiosity that is equally instructive shows the curious formations of metals during crystallization. Of marine scenes there is a visualization showing the rigors and dangers to which a torpedo boat is exposed during a terrific gale on the high seas. Its bow is repeatedly submerged and huge waves sweep over the entire length of the decks.

The wonderful story of Southern commercial achievement in recent years and the present state of stable prosperity and the greater development that is sure to come on the solid basis of an enormous solid store of untouched resources is being strikingly presented to business America in a series of big-space, paid advertisements.

These articles are the result of a great deal of close study, and are composed for the most part of a splendid collection of facts and figures, tersely put, that are surprising, even to native Southerners, and certainly give to business men of other sections an entirely new insight into the possibilities of the Southern field.

They give the figures to prove that Southern deposits in the national banks are greater than those of New England; that 55 per cent of the nation's lumber supply is Southern cut; that the South mines 55 of the 57 useful minerals used in the United States, and derives therefrom approximately a half billion dollars annually; that Southern manufacturers have the astonishing annual value of four billion dollars, exceeding the value of the farm products by over one billion dollars.

Cotton's Sway Questioned.

Moreover, they emphatically stress the fact that the dominancy of cotton is no longer a reality, that it constitutes but a small percentage of the total value of the Southern farm products; that diversification has evolved from a preachment to a practice, and that the annual value of grain is already more than that of cotton.

These and many other interesting facts are being submitted to the executives of the greatest firms in America, through double-page spreads in Printers' Ink, one of the greatest sales exponents in the United States. Its columns are thoroughly studied under the most advantageous circumstances, and the educational value of these Southern commercial lessons cannot be overestimated.

This campaign is the result of an admirable co-operative effort to advance the South as a whole, voluntarily donated by certain progressive Southern dailies, as members of the Southern Newspaper Publishers' association.

The advertisements, too, are being prepared absolutely gratis in the interest of Southern development by the Massengale Advertising agency of Atlanta, through the generosity of St. Elmo Massengale, whose constructive publicity efforts through a period of over twenty years has been a potent factor in the upbuilding of the new commercial Southern states.

Sure to Have Effect.

Another group of Southern daily newspapers are running a series of full-page and double-page advertisements in the Literary Digest, a national weekly with nearly half a million subscribers. These advertisements, costing $30,000 and over, are also being prepared by the Massengale Advertising agency and are creating a favorable impression throughout the country. This great publicity work is sure to have a fine effect in hastening the inevitable national realization that the South is essentially the coming section of the United States. The newspapers that are so liberally contributing to this campaign are the Birmingham Age-Herald, Gadsden Times-News, Mobile Item, Jacksonville Metropolis, Tampa Times, Albany Herald, Athens Herald, Augusta Herald, Macon Telegraph, Savannah Morning News, Waycross Journal, Asheville Gazette-News, Charlotte News, Charlotte Observer, Greensboro News, Raleigh Times, Winston-Salem Sentinel, Anderson Daily Mail, Charleston News and Courier, Charleston Post, Columbia Record, Columbia State, Greenville News, Spartanburg Herald, Spartanburg Journal, Bristol Herald-Courier, Chattanooga News, Knoxville Sentinel, Nashville Tennessecan, Atlanta Constitution and the Atlanta Georgian-American.

Program for Week.

Sunday, Monday and Tuesday—"The Flying Torpedo," D. W. Griffith's Triangle play; also "The Village Blacksmith," Triangle Keystone with Hank Mann.

Wednesday and Thursday—Frank Mills and an all-star cast in the Thomas H. Ince production, "The Moral Fabric," on same program with a new Keystone comedy, "The Village Vampire." Bessie Barriscale in "Bullets and Brown Eyes," Thos. H. Ince Triangle play.

Friday and Saturday—William Farnum in "The Bondman," Hall Caine's story made into a de luxe William Fox six-reel feature; also "Perils of the Park," Keystone with Harry McCoy.

Extra Monday and balance of the week—Madame Suzanne Lehmann, lyric soprano soloist, late star and manager of Don Philippini's band will sing at every performance after 2 p. m.

"The Flying Torpedo."

"The Flying Torpedo," a wondrous and imaginary picture, taken from the story of Robert M. Baker and John Emerson and produced by the Fine Arts Triangle Film company under the personal supervision of David Griffith, has caused a sensation everywhere it has been shown in California and New York, and has attracted the army officers from all over the United States because of its timeliness and its thrills and its presentation of a new and entirely imaginary method of warfare. "The Flying Torpedo" will show at the Hippodrome today. The first showing of this picture was in a Los Angeles house where was present David Griffith, Mack Sennett and Thomas H. Ince, and many other picture magnets, and in addition to these a hundred or more army officers quartered at that city. These last expressed themselves as astounded by the plot and the action of the story and the wonderful invention that is illustrated and the new, even if imaginary, means of war that are demonstrated. John Emerson himself is starred in this picture, and makes of the strange old professor a very likable man in spite of his eccentricities. Bessie Love, a very young actress of the Fine Arts studios, jumps into prominence in this picture. Others in the cast are Spottiswoode Aitken, William E. Lawrence, Fred J. Butler, Viola Barry, Lucille Young, Ralph Lewis and Raymond Wells.

This story is of a war waged in 1921, when the coast of California is invaded by a hostile army and fleet, wherein a flying torpedo which fully illustrated, proves its great and powerful efficiency in times of war under the direction of skilled army officers. And yet the picture is not one of exceeding fighting. The first part of the story concerns an old professor who writes senational stories and his very plain, big-footed awkward Norwegian servant girl. It is a tale of interest and splendid humor of the delightful, subtle Griffith mind, and of thrills and surprises that cannot be described. "The Flying Torpedo" will play at the Hippodrome today, tomorrow and Tuesday.

"The Bondsman."

There are two reasons why the picture version of Hall Caine's great masterpiece, "The Bondsman," as filmed by Fox and showing at the Hippodrome Friday and Saturday, is an excellent one. In the first place the story works up to tense, absorbing situations; in the second the star and his supporting actors are fully capable of enacting these climaxes to decidedly good effect. A third reason is that the screen has succeeded in showing a psychological change in the nature of Jason Orry, making the external reasons clearly apparent to the spectators, even while Jason himself is not fully conscious of the reasons for his sacrifice and noble act. William Farnum in his dual role, first as the profligate Icelander who is father to both the half-brothers, then as Jason, the son born in Ireland, and who is the principal figure of the story, is well suited to the part. His virile personality and his masterful facial expressions have won Mr. Farnum a high place among screen artists.

Dorothy Bernard as Greeba, whom both brothers love and Doris Wooldridge as Jason's mother, Rachel give intelligent and sensitive interpretations of their roles, and several of the "character" impersonations are wonderfully handled. The scenic setting, the coast of Maine, representing Iceland, and the Isle of Man is vigorous and vividly beautiful.

The story of "The Bondsman" is familiar to most readers of fiction and is regarded by some as Hall Caine's greatest work. It deals with Jason Orry, who sets out to find his father and kill him in revenge for his mother's wrong. Cheated by fate and death, he then determines to seek his half-brother. But again chance and destiny step in. "The Bondsman" is a great psychological play and the screen version is wonderfully effective in its delicate treatment. Among the scenes that deserve especial mention are those showing the prowess of William Farnum. "The Bondsman" is a wonderful picture.

"The Pool of Flame," Today.

The last of the Terence O'Rourke stories! How we shall miss them! But, unless Louis Joseph Vance can be persuaded to reconsider his decision and write a few more, this one will be definitely the last. It is perhaps some slight compensation that the last is the best of all. In it the delightful colonel comes into a fortune and wins his princess, all at the same time, so that our last view of him leaves him with the prospect of being as happy as any one can manage to be on this mundane sphere.

The role of Terence O'Rourke is one of the most sympathetic that J. Warren Kerrigan has ever had, and fits his personality like the proverbial glove. It is little wonder that he is sorry to say good-by to it. But the whole cast is particularly well selected. Miss Lois Wilson, who plays the Princess Beatrix, will be remembered as the Alabama entrant of the Universal beauty contest. Her rise to "leading-ladyhood" has been as rapid as it is well deserved. Only a year ago her only acquaintance with moving pictures was from the point of view of the audience, and now she is playing leads for one of the most popular of all motion picture stars, and bids fair to attain a very large measure of popularity of her own. She called herself in a recent interview "the luckiest girl in the world," and spoke of her work at Universal City with all the enthusiasm of a novice, but her acting marks her as well out of the novice class.

The duke, having laid his plans so that the jewel is almost within his grasp, through an informant in the telegraph office, learns that Beatrix will arrive. He sends his man to her hotel to kidnap her before she can see O'Rourke. The duke goes to Karan's home, accompanied by one of his men, who is impersonating an English officer, and in a fight in which he drowns the servant in the fountain, escapes with the jewel. In the meantime, his men have kidnaped Beatrix and taken her to an East Indian dive. Danny, O'Rourke's valet, by chance, sees this and follows, returning to O'Rourke and telling him of the affair. O'Rourke calls his friends at the club, men who were brother officers to him in India, and asks their help to rescue Beatrix. They are eager to go. The duke arrives, shows Beatrix the stone, and warns her that her marriage to him is to take place at once.

"The Pool of Flame," besides being the last of the Terence O'Rourke stories, is the last picture which Mr. Kerrigan will make under the direction of Otis Turner. Mr. Turner has taken over the direction of Carter De Haven, and Mr. Kerrigan will now be directed by Harry Carter, under the supervision of Mr. Turner.

"Orders Is Orders," a Tonsorial Classic.

Once in a great while a real comedy comes out of the West. This Victor two-reeler was written and produced by Francis Ford, and with 200 raring-tearing college boys from Leland Stanford and the University of California to put "pep" into the scenes, there isn't a moment of dullness in the whole picture. What these college boys don't do to the police force of the town in which they go to school isn't worth telling. They tear up every barber pole in the town and the police are powerless to stop them.

The story of the play follows:

It is the day before the big football game and the air is charged with tenseness. The boys, overflowing with enthusiasm, parade up and down the streets singing and shouting in their exuberance. Joe is captain of the Yale team and he and Mina, the mayor's daughter, are very fond of each other. During the celebration the quarterback begins to get too noisy and is accordingly taken to jail. The captain, as a deterrent to other offenders, gives him thirty days in jail.

Of course, when the news gets out there is a mighty uproar in college, for with the quarterback missing they will have small chance to win the game the next day. The wisest heads on the ground get together planning the release of their quarterback, but all in vain, and it remains for the wise captain, Joe, to find a way out of their difficulties. Spurred on by Grace, he works out a little scheme and it proves successful. He buys a barber pole and goes down the street very conspicuously. But he had received a receipt for the pole and while he is arrested many times, the receipt always results in his release. Finally the police captain gets tired of seeing Joe continually brought in and issues a general order to all patrolmen that they must not arrest a student carrying a barber pole under penalty of losing their jobs. They learn this at the college and the boys go wild. Scattering over the town, they proceed to gather in the barber poles and the result of their haul looks like a woodpile. Of course, the cops see them carrying off poles, but are in fear of the order, so they allow them to escape.

Next morning things begin to hum. The police captain's office overflows with barbers—all of them filled with rage. The authorities are impotent, however, and the mayor informs the captain that unless the poles are restored by noon there will be a new face in his office. The college boys now come forward with their proposition. If the quarterback is liberated they agree to return all the poles in good shape, and the police are forced to agree to this.

AUDITORIUM.

Howe's Travel Festival.

The "litite nonsense now and then" which is relished not alone "by the best of men"—but by everybody, and which always forms such a delightful diversion in Howe's Travel Festival, will be as much in evidence as ever on the forthcoming engagement at the Auditorium theatre on Saturday matinee and night, March 25. Without a doubt these clever comedy conceptions largely explain why Howe's productions are educational without the terrors implied by that grave adjective. Among the features of the new program may be mentioned a pictorial excursion to the Firth of Forth bridge, Scotland; to France, Italy, Holland, Madeira, Switzerland, Glacier National park and an aeroplane ride above the clouds during which the spectators experience the unique sensation not only of an aerial flight, but also of peering through rifts in the clouds to vistas of great stretches of terra firma far below. Besides there will be some distinct novelties which at the same time prove the possibilities latent in cinematography. A marvelous example of this class shows animals moving at a speed eight times slower than normal. The result is weird and uncanny yet of absorbing interest because it shows details of these movements which the human eye never has or could detect. Another film curiosity that is equally instructive shows the curious formations of metals during crystallization. Of marine scenes there is a visualization showing the rigors and dangers to which a torpedo boat is exposed during a terrific gale on the high seas. Its bow is repeatedly submerged and huge waves sweep over the entire length of the decks.

Fantastic Excuses Fail to Bring Exemptions for Single Men of England

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

London, March 18.—Military service tribunals, consisting of anywhere from seven to twenty members, are sitting throughout England, hearing applications for exemption from men eligible at the front. Many complaints have begun to go up over the leniency of the tribunals to single men who have offered rather fantastic reasons for evading service in the army. Complete exemption has been granted in comparatively few cases, but postponements have been most frequent, and the tribunals are now being warned that every single man excused means the earlier calling out of the groups of married men attested under the Derby plan.

There is every indication that it will not be long after April 1 next when the first of the married men will be called to the colors. Thus far the married men in the army have gone only through voluntary enlistment. The compulsory service act does not apply to them as yet, but thousands have attested their readiness to serve when the supply of single men is exhausted.

Many single men, with mothers or sisters dependent upon them are making the claim that their domestic duties are just as sacred and just as deserving of the nation's consideration as those of the married men. They make the further plea that their family obligations were imposed upon them through no act of their own, whereas the married man assumed liability for others through voluntary choice.

"If I am to be called away from the support of my widowed mother and three dependent sisters," said one young clerk, "I will be followed by the thought that they must eventually go to the workhouse, and I am sure that under the circumstances I would not make a very good soldier for the king."

The tribunal thought otherwise.

Exemptions are sought upon the theory that the applicant is "indispensable" to the conduct of the business in which he is engaged. Often the pleas are made by the employer who himself is beyond military age.

"This clerk manages my entire business and is absolutely indispensable," said one employer to the tribunal at Lewisham.

"And what do you pay him?" asked the chairman.

"Seventeen shillings, sixpense a week."

The tribunal held that "absolute indispensability was worth a higher consideration than four dollars a week and the clerk was swept into the army.

One employer appealed for the exemption of an "artistic sign painter."

"In such a time of stress as this I think the country can get along with inartistic signs," ruled the chairman.

At Liverpool an undertaker claimed he was truly indispensable. The tribunal told him to "R. I. P." for six months. After that he must join the army, where there is much to be done by those skilled in the burial of the dead.

The lord mayor of London, who is an enthusiastic worker for recruits, applied to the London tribunal for the exemption of a footman at the Mansion House. The application said it was in the national interest that Mansion House arrangements for recruiting the public work generally should not be disturbed. Sir Vezey Strong, the chairman, thought a postponement of one month sufficient to allow he lord mayor to make other arrangements.

A widow of Penge obtained a three months' respite for her eligible son on the ground that he was indispensable to the conduct of her small laundry.

"He calls for and distributes the laundry," said she, "and does more ironing than any two women."

The tribunals face their greatest difficulty in dealing with the agricultural districts. Some farmers have gone to the extent of threatening to abandon their farms entirely if not allowed sufficient help. The tribunals now have adopted the policy of allowing three men to each 100 acres of farm land. In the meantime hundreds of thousands of women are being recruited for farm work.

One young man unsuccessfully quoted from the speech of the prime minister, Mr. Asquith, in the house of commons, in seeking exemption on the ground that he was the sole support of a widowed mother. He quoted Mr. Asquith to the effect that the taking away of the sole support of a widow would be "monstrous." The application was refused when it was shown that there were other relatives with whom his mother might live.

Another young man told the tribunal it was condemning his mother to death in sending him to the war.

"If I were alone in the world, I should have gone long ago," he said. It appeared, however, the financial condition of the family was sufficient.

A theatrical manager was granted three months' grace when he explained that if there were no amusements "the people would have nowhere to go."

A cartoonist thought himself indispensable because his drawings amused the soldiers at the front; "the champion clog dancer of the world" thought his superiority in that art should not be endangered; "the best violin player in England" felt he was needed at home; a popular "nut" of the music halls felt that London's indispensable revues would be failures without him; a buyer of silks, an "expert sausage cutter," a warehouse "Samson" with remarkable lifting ability, a Bible packer—all these made pleas, but found exemptions for brief periods only.

The plea of conscientious scruples against war is heard infrequently before the tribunals. The possessor of such scruples generally comes in for a very severe grilling.

The Pall Mall Gazette says: "It is notorious that the net yield from the single classes has been very disappointing. . . . Married men and married women, too, have shown that they are prepared to discharge to the full every claim that their country possesses. But they will not tolerate a more lenient regime for those who have lighter responsibilities than themselves, and the exemptions which have been granted to some bachelors make one wonder how the tribunals are going to justify themselves in calling up any head of a family for service."

The Union Printers Home and the Fight Against Tuberculosis

BY LOUIS H. HICKS.

The Union Printers' Home is an institution situated at Colorado Springs, Colo., contiguous to Pike's Peak, and in a country enjoying a reputation that is world-wide for the salubrity and curative quality of its climate.

The building was erected and furnished in 1892 at a cost of $70,000. A hospital annex was erected at a cost of $40,000 at a later date; then a library addition, laundry and boiler plant, superintendent's cottage, greenhouse, lawns, etc., were added. In 1912 a tubercular pavilion, accommodating twenty patients, and costing, with furnishings, $10,000 was added to the sanatorium. The home is situated on eighty acres of land donated by the citizens of Colorado Springs. The property is now set down by conservative Colorado real estate men as being worth at least $1,000,000.

Addition to Be Erected.

The International Typgraphical Union has expended in nineteen years in building and maintaining the Union Printers' Home more than $1,250,000. The membership of the union by referendum vote recently increased the general per capita tax so that soon it will be possible to erect a $25,000 addition to the home. This will be done to provide for tuberculosis patients, applications from whom have been more numerous than could be accepted.

In addition to its home and tuberculosis sanatorium at Colorado Springs, the International Typographical Union has been in the forefront of the battle against tuberculosis that is being waged for the elimination of this curse on the white race.

Local unions of the International Typographical Union, of which there are more than 700, are working through tuberculosis committees and these committees aim to get before the local members the great danger of working in filthy and poorly ventilated composing rooms, and also to urge upon employers the necessity for reforms in this respect. Where employers refuse to act, the local unions are advised to instruct their tuberculosis committees to go direct to the boards of health and insist on action by these official bureaus. As a result the physical character of the composing rooms is improving, and employers are realizing that healthy workmen are a good business asset. This may be a selfish view, but if selfishness will accomplish the object sought, it will all redound to the benefit of the wage worker, in that it will secure for him healthy, pleasant and comfortable quarters in which to earn his livelihood.

Tuberculosis Is Curable.

The book of rules of the Union Printers' Home contains many wise recommendations to those afflicted with tuberculosis which, if adopted, would do much to restore health to these ones, even if they are unable to enter a sanatorium. Some of these recommendations are:

"Tuberculosis is an infectious disease, due to the introduction into the system of the eubercle bacillus, a micro-organism belonging to the vegetable kingdom. This germ gains entrance to the human body in one of three ways: Through either inoculation, contaminated air or infected food. However, the question of paramount importance now is, not how you acquired this disease, but how you shall proceed in order to get rid of it. It is a proved fact that tuberculosis is curable, and the probability of cure is in direct proportion to the effort put forth by the individual. It is a fight for life, in which one's allies are good food, fresh air, sunshine and rest. If to the fight are brought courage, a cheerful, contented mind, and the determination to get well, the possibility of recovery is enhanced an hundredfold. Second only in importance is a strict attention to all the details of the daily life; and, lastly, the faith that can await with patience the passing of days, weeks and months for an ultimate cure.

Lung Expansion Important.

"Dress according to the season, day, and time of day. All clothing should be as light, loose and comfortable as possible, and yet give the maximum of warmth for the colder weather of winter. The clothing should in no way prevent the easy expansion of the lungs. Never wear chest protectors, and avoid heavy underwear. A light, soft felt hat or cap should be worn in preference to stiff hats. On winter nights, especially if sleeping in a tent, a night-cap of light flannel will be found necessary.

"The length of your stay in a sanatorium or the length of time required to cure or arrest your disease, will be in inverse proportion to the number of hours you spend in the open air. Night air is not harmful, and your room should never, even when you are dressing or disrobing, be entirely closed.

"Learn to rest thoroughly, completely, and during the prescribed hours of rest, relaxing every muscle in the body. These definite hours of prescribed rest are for a purpose. Before meals, the body, relaxed by the quiet and release of tension on the nerves, gains the opportunity to repair the loss sustained by previous exertions. Tuberculosis is a disease that exhausts vital energy, and only by persistence is it possible to overcome the debilitating effects of the poison with which the system becomes charged. No other one means of arresting the disease is so beneficial as that of absolute relaxation and rest, for both mind and body. For this reason an early retiring hour is advisable. Never rest with the arms over the head.

Sputum Should Be Burnt.

"Avoid all violent or exciting amusements and any recreation that will keep you indoors. Primarily, you are not in a sanatorium to be amused, and since all amusements demand more or less energy, mental as well as physical, it is advisable to get along with as little as is consistent with your content of mind. Those persons who demand consistent entertainment seldom accomplish the best results. It is well, however, to keep the mind occupied, and there are numerous quiet ocupations and amusements which can be indulged in out of doors in moderation.

The cause of the disease is a living germ, a minute plant, called the bacillus of tuberculosis. This bacillus causes destrouction of tissue with gradual wasting away, and finally death, if the disease be not checked.

Deep Breathing Essential.

Some splendid suggestions have been offered on how to keep well, and thus prevent tuberculosis, as well as other diseases, which follow:

Keep clean.

Live a regular life.

Get plenty of sleep.

Keep your teeth clean and in good order.

Wear clean clothes and keep the feet dry.

Always wash your hands and face before meals.

If you wear custom-made clothes, be particular to learn where and by whom the clothes are made—the character of the workroom—and whether or not the workmen are clean. Do not wear clothes made in a dark, dirty workroom or by unclean workers. The union label is the best guarantee of cleanliness.

Bathe frequently, if possible every morning. A warm bath with soap once or twice a week is desirable with a cold bath each morning, following by a rub-down with a coarse towel.

Practice deep breathing regularly. Each morning when you get up, take twelve deep, long ,full breaths, and the same before you retire at night. During the day, whenever you have opportunity to go to a door or window, or go out of doors, practice deep breathing. Do not breathe through the mouth. Do not practice deep breathing indoors.

Join the "anti-spit" crusade. Advocate the enactment and enforcement of laws prohibiting spitting on sidewalks, or crossings, or floors, or in the street cars or other conveyances.

Avoid mouth breathing. Breathe through your nose.

Do not moisten your finger or thumb with your tongue when you turn the leaves of a book or handle money or papers.

Do not bite a chew of tobacco from another man's plug, and do not permit others to bite yours.

Open Aid Beneficial.

Do not be afraid of the fresh air. Become an "open air crank." Live out of doors as much as possible. Find all of your recreation in the open air.

Walk two or three miles daily, if it does not overtire you. If possible, make it a point to take at least two weeks off each year and spend them in the open air, night and day.

Insist upon cleanliness in your surroundings, whether in home, office, shop or factory. Tuberculosis thrives upon dirt.

Relation of Society to Movement.

The duty of employers to help in the effort to wipe out tuberculosis is strikingly set forth in the following extract from a letter to the Indianapolis Star:

"We must not stop until every trade, every business and every occupation has been made as sanitary as is possible to make them. It is money well invested by the employer which provides abundance of pure air and sunshine to the employed, because more and better work will be obtained thereby.

"If capitalists would recognize the importance of health and happiness of employes as well as they recognize the importance of organization in their work they would contribute liberally to the fight against the spread of consumption. The skillful man in any occupation or business is a loss to the community when he is deprived of his ability to continue work. If a skillful individual is a necessary coefficient in a business it certainly is the duty of that business to protect his health so far as is consistent and possible.

"When society in general recognizes this as an asset then it will have given the anti-tuberculosis movement a great impetus forward. In addition to these elementary necessities for the protection of the health of employes they should establish some means to care for the individuals who have already become infected and enable them to continue in a livelihood without endangering the health of their associates."

Fantastic Excuses Fail to Bring Exemptions for Single Men of England

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

London, March 18.—Military service tribunals, consisting of anywhere from seven to twenty members, are sitting throughout England, hearing applications for exemption from men eligible at the front. Many complaints have begun to go up over the leniency of the tribunals to single men who have offered rather fantastic reasons for evading service in the army. Complete exemption has been granted in comparatively few cases, but postponements have been most frequent, and the tribunals are now being warned that every single man excused means the earlier calling out of the groups of married men attested under the Derby plan.

There is every indication that it will not be long after April 1 next when the first of the married men will be called to the colors. Thus far the married men in the army have gone only through voluntary enlistment. The compulsory service act does not apply to them as yet, but thousands have attested their readiness to serve when the supply of single men is exhausted.

Many single men, with mothers or sisters dependent upon them are making the claim that their domestic duties are just as sacred and just as deserving of the nation's consideration as those of the married men. They make the further plea that their family obligations were imposed upon them through no act of their own, whereas the married man assumed liability for others through voluntary choice.

"If I am to be called away from the support of my widowed mother and three dependent sisters," said one young clerk, "I will be followed by the thought that they must eventually go to the workhouse, and I am sure that under the circumstances I would not make a very good soldier for the king."

The tribunal thought otherwise.

Exemptions are sought upon the theory that the applicant is "indispensable" to the conduct of the business in which he is engaged. Often the pleas are made by the employer who himself is beyond military age.

"This clerk manages my entire business and is absolutely indispensable," said one employer to the tribunal at Lewisham.

"And what do you pay him?" asked the chairman.

"Seventeen shillings, sixpense a week."

The tribunal held that "absolute indispensability was worth a higher consideration than four dollars a week and the clerk was swept into the army.

One employer appealed for the exemption of an "artistic sign painter."

"In such a time of stress as this I think the country can get along with inartistic signs," ruled the chairman.

At Liverpool an undertaker claimed he was truly indispensable. The tribunal told him to "R. I. P." for six months. After that he must join the army, where there is much to be done by those skilled in the burial of the dead.

The lord mayor of London, who is an enthusiastic worker for recruits, applied to the London tribunal for the exemption of a footman at the Mansion House. The application said it was in the national interest that Mansion House arrangements for recruiting the public work generally should not be disturbed. Sir Vezey Strong, the chairman, thought a postponement of one month sufficient to allow he lord mayor to make other arrangements.

A widow of Penge obtained a three months' respite for her eligible son on the ground that he was indispensable to the conduct of her small laundry.

"He calls for and distributes the laundry," said she, "and does more ironing than any two women."

The tribunals face their greatest difficulty in dealing with the agricultural districts. Some farmers have gone to the extent of threatening to abandon their farms entirely if not allowed sufficient help. The tribunals now have adopted the policy of allowing three men to each 100 acres of farm land. In the meantime hundreds of thousands of women are being recruited for farm work.

One young man unsuccessfully quoted from the speech of the prime minister, Mr. Asquith, in the house of commons, in seeking exemption on the ground that he was the sole support of a widowed mother. He quoted Mr. Asquith to the effect that the taking away of the sole support of a widow would be "monstrous." The application was refused when it was shown that there were other relatives with whom his mother might live.

Another young man told the tribunal it was condemning his mother to death in sending him to the war.

"If I were alone in the world, I should have gone long ago," he said. It appeared, however, the financial condition of the family was sufficient.

A theatrical manager was granted three months' grace when he explained that if there were no amusements "the people would have nowhere to go."

A cartoonist thought himself indispensable because his drawings amused the soldiers at the front; "the champion clog dancer of the world" thought his superiority in that art should not be endangered; "the best violin player in England" felt he was needed at home; a popular "nut" of the music halls felt that London's indispensable revues would be failures without him; a buyer of silks, an "expert sausage cutter," a warehouse "Samson" with remarkable lifting ability, a Bible packer—all these made pleas, but found exemptions for brief periods only.

The plea of conscientious scruples against war is heard infrequently before the tribunals. The possessor of such scruples generally comes in for a very severe grilling.

The Pall Mall Gazette says: "It is notorious that the net yield from the single classes has been very disappointing. . . . Married men and married women, too, have shown that they are prepared to discharge to the full every claim that their country possesses. But they will not tolerate a more lenient regime for those who have lighter responsibilities than themselves, and the exemptions which have been granted to some bachelors make one wonder how the tribunals are going to justify themselves in calling up any head of a family for service."

The Union Printers Home and the Fight Against Tuberculosis

BY LOUIS H. HICKS.

The Union Printers' Home is an institution situated at Colorado Springs, Colo., contiguous to Pike's Peak, and in a country enjoying a reputation that is world-wide for the salubrity and curative quality of its climate.

The building was erected and furnished in 1892 at a cost of $70,000. A hospital annex was erected at a cost of $40,000 at a later date; then a library addition, laundry and boiler plant, superintendent's cottage, greenhouse, lawns, etc., were added. In 1912 a tubercular pavilion, accommodating twenty patients, and costing, with furnishings, $10,000 was added to the sanatorium. The home is situated on eighty acres of land donated by the citizens of Colorado Springs. The property is now set down by conservative Colorado real estate men as being worth at least $1,000,000.

Addition to Be Erected.

The International Typgraphical Union has expended in nineteen years in building and maintaining the Union Printers' Home more than $1,250,000. The membership of the union by referendum vote recently increased the general per capita tax so that soon it will be possible to erect a $25,000 addition to the home. This will be done to provide for tuberculosis patients, applications from whom have been more numerous than could be accepted.

In addition to its home and tuberculosis sanatorium at Colorado Springs, the International Typographical Union has been in the forefront of the battle against tuberculosis that is being waged for the elimination of this curse on the white race.

Local unions of the International Typographical Union, of which there are more than 700, are working through tuberculosis committees and these committees aim to get before the local members the great danger of working in filthy and poorly ventilated composing rooms, and also to urge upon employers the necessity for reforms in this respect. Where employers refuse to act, the local unions are advised to instruct their tuberculosis committees to go direct to the boards of health and insist on action by these official bureaus. As a result the physical character of the composing rooms is improving, and employers are realizing that healtny workmen are a good business asset. This may be a selfish view, but if selfishness will accomplish the object sought, it will all redound to the benefit of the wage worker, in that it will secure for him healthy, pleasant and comfortable quarters in which to earn his livelihood.

Tuberculosis Is Curable.

The book of rules of the Union Printers' Home contains many wise recommendations to those afflicted with tuberculosis which, if adopted, would do much to restore health to these ones, even if they are unable to enter a sanatorium. Some of these recommendations are:

"Tuberculosis is an infectious disease, due to the introduction into the system of the eubercle bacillus, a micro-organism belonging to the vegetable kingdom. This germ gains entrance to the human body in one of three ways: Through either inoculation, contaminated air or infected food. However, the question of paramount importance now is, not how you acquired this disease, but how you shall proceed in order to get rid of it. It is a proved fact that tuberculosis is curable, and the probability of cure is in direct proportion to the effort put forth by the individual. It is a fight for life, in which one's allies are good food, fresh air, sunshine and rest. If to the fight are brought courage, a cheerful, contented mind, and the determination to get well, the possibility of recovery is enhanced an hundredfold. Second only in importance is a strict attention to all the details of the daily life; and, lastly, the faith that can await with patience the passing of days, weeks and months for an ultimate cure.

Lung Expansion Important.

"Dress according to the season, day, and time of day. All clothing should be as light, loose and comfortable as possible, and yet give the maximum of warmth for the colder weather of winter. The clothing should in no way prevent the easy expansion of the lungs. Never wear chest protectors, and avoid heavy underwear. A light, soft felt hat or cap should be worn in preference to stiff hats. On winter nights, especially if sleeping in a tent, a night-cap of light flannel will be found necessary.

"The length of your stay in a sanatorium or the length of time required to cure or arrest your disease, will be in inverse proportion to the number of hours you spend in the open air. Night air is not harmful, and your room should never, even when you are dressing or disrobing, be entirely closed.

"Learn to rest thoroughly, completely, and during the prescribed hours of rest, relaxing every muscle in the body. These definite hours of prescribed rest are for a purpose. Before meals, the body, relaxed by the quiet and release of tension on the nerves, gains the opportunity to repair the loss sustained by previous exertions. Tuberculosis is a disease that exhausts vital energy, and only by persistence is it possible to overcome the debilitating effects of the poison with which the system becomes charged. No other one means of arresting the disease is so beneficial as that of absolute relaxation and rest, for both mind and body. For this reason an early retiring hour is advisable. Never rest with the arms over the head.

Sputum Should Be Burnt.

"Avoid all violent or exciting amusements and any recreation that will keep you indoors. Primarily, you are not in a sanatorium to be amused, and since all amusements demand more or less energy, mental as well as physical, it is advisable to get along with as little as is consistent with your content of mind. Those persons who demand consistent entertainment seldom accomplish the best results. It is well, however, to keep the mind occupied, and there are numerous quiet ocupations and amusements which can be indulged in out of doors in moderation.

The cause of the disease is a living germ, a minute plant, called the bacillus of tuberculosis. This bacillus causes destrouction of tissue with gradual wasting away, and finally death, if the disease be not checked.

Deep Breathing Essential.

Some splendid suggestions have been offered on how to keep well, and thus prevent tuberculosis, as well as other diseases, which follow:

Keep clean.

Live a regular life.

Get plenty of sleep.

Keep your teeth clean and in good order.

Wear clean clothes and keep the feet dry.

Always wash your hands and face before meals.

If you wear custom-made clothes, be particular to learn where and by whom the clothes are made—the character of the workroom—and whether or not the workmen are clean. Do not wear clothes made in a dark, dirty workroom or by unclean workers. The union label is the best guarantee of cleanliness.

Bathe frequently, if possible every morning. A warm bath with soap once or twice a week is desirable with a cold bath each morning, following by a rub-down with a coarse towel.

Practice deep breathing regularly. Each morning when you get up, take twelve deep, long ,full breaths, and the same before you retire at night. During the day, whenever you have opportunity to go to a door or window, or go out of doors, practice deep breathing. Do not breathe through the mouth. Do not practice deep breathing indoors.

Join the "anti-spit" crusade. Advocate the enactment and enforcement of laws prohibiting spitting on sidewalks, or crossings, or floors, or in the street cars or other conveyances.

Avoid mouth breathing. Breathe through your nose.

Do not moisten your finger or thumb with your tongue when you turn the leaves of a book or handle money or papers.

Do not bite a chew of tobacco from another man's plug, and do not permit others to bite yours.

Open Aid Beneficial.

Do not be afraid of the fresh air. Become an "open air crank." Live out of doors as much as possible. Find all of your recreation in the open air.

Walk two or three miles daily, if it does not overtire you. If possible, make it a point to take at least two weeks off each year and spend them in the open air, night and day.

Insist upon cleanliness in your surroundings, whether in home, office, shop or factory. Tuberculosis thrives upon dirt.

Relation of Society to Movement.

The duty of employers to help in the effort to wipe out tuberculosis is strikingly set forth in the following extract from a letter to the Indianapolis Star:

"We must not stop until every trade, every business and every occupation has been made as sanitary as is possible to make them. It is money well invested by the employer which provides abundance of pure air and sunshine to the employed, because more and better work will be obtained thereby.

"If capitalists would recognize the importance of health and happiness of employes as well as they recognize the importance of organization in their work they would contribute liberally to the fight against the spread of consumption. The skillful man in any occupation or business is a loss to the community when he is deprived of his ability to continue work. If a skillful individual is a necessary coefficient in a business it certainly is the duty of that business to protect his health so far as is consistent and possible.

"When society in general recognizes this as an asset then it will have given the anti-tuberculosis movement a great impetus forward. In addition to these elementary necessities for the protection of the health of employes they should establish some means to care for the individuals who have already become infected and enable them to continue in a livelihood without endangering the health of their associates."

PERSHING, WHO LEADS IN VILLA HUNT, HOLDS RECORD IN ARMY ADVANCEMENT

Gen. John J. Pershing.

Special to the Morning News.

Washington, March 18.—Ever since he came out of West Point in 1886 as senior cadet captain, the highest honor there, Brig. Gen. John J. Pershing, who is in command of the punitive expedition into Mexico, has been living and fighting battles that fit him pre-eminently to deal with Villa and his followers.

General Pershing was ten years in the southwest, fighting Geronimo and the Apaches. He was in the Spanish war with a negro regiment and was called by his colonel the bravest and coolest man under fire he had ever seen, and he accomplished the extraordinarily difficult task of subjugating the Moros in the Philippines.

It was for all of these things probably, but chiefly for his work in the Philippines, that President Roosevelt in September, 1906, promoted Captain Pershing to the rank of brigadier general, jumping him over the heads of 862 other officers—the record jump in the history of the army.

In January, 1914, General Pershing left the island of Mindanao and four months later he left San Francisco for the Mexican border in command of the Eighth brigade. On August 27 of last year his wife, who was Frances Warren, daughter of United States Senator Francis E. Warren of Wyoming, and three of their little children were burned to death in the fire at the Presidio in San Francisco.

General Pershing's first duty after being graduated from West Point, where his rank as senior cadet captain stamped him as the nearest of his classmates to the ideal of a soldier, was to plunge into the campaigns that destroyed the power of Geronimo and opened the Southwest to a tardy civilization.

Wins Praise from General Miles.

He was assigned to the old Sixth cavalry, and in August of 1887, scarcely a year from school, he was complimented by General Miles for "marching his troop, with pack train, over rough country, 140 miles in forty-six hours, bringing in every animal and man in good condition."

In 1889 Lieutenant Pershing rescued a party of horse thieves and cowboys who were besieged by hostile Zunis without firing a shot, for which he was "highly recommended for discretion" by General Carr. There were other recommendations which he won during the ten years of service in the department of Arizona during the desperate clashes there.

His next post was back at West Point as tactical officer, but in 1898 at his own request he rejoined his regiment, the Tenth cavalry, and went to the Spanish war. He was promoted for gallantry at the battle of El Caney in Cuba and returned from Santiago to Washington to solve problems as the head of the division of customs and insular affairs.

It was in September, 1899, that he was assigned to duty in the Philippines, again at his own request, and he became adjutant general, executive officer, of the department of Mindanao and Jolo. There he studied the "Moro problem," and in June, 1901, he was sent out single-handed to cope with the old problem which Spain had shirked and which revolved about Lake Lanao in the island of Mindanao, where a horde of murderous farmers, Mohammedans, were engaged in the work of killing infidels.

Subjugates Filipinos.

These natives, commanded by their dattos, or warlords, who in turn were led by their sultans, increased the number of raids on coast towns when the American soldiers arrived, and their first check was received in the fight at Bayan, a brilliant, tactical victory for Pershing.

When the sultan of Bacolod would not be conciliated Pershing, in command of a battalion of infantry, a squadron of cavalry and a section of guns, warned him that Bacolod would be destroyed. In two days the fort in which the sultan dreamed of perpetual security was only a memory and Pershing's men had received on their bayonets the charge of a hundred maddened Malays. The casualty list for the United States soldiers consisted of two slightly wounded men.

Then other strongholds of the Moros were demolished, one after another, until forty forts were destroyed and the island of Mindanao was placed under subjection, while only two Americans were killed.

Pershing became the military governor of the island; he became the friend of the subjugated natives, was elected a datto by them and sat as judge over their disputes.

In 1903 he was relieved of the command of the Lanao expedition because of illness. Later he led commands against rebellious Moros under the sultan of Jolo and over them his victory was also complete.

In 1906 he became a brigadier general. Under the law President Roosevelt could not have bestowed the rank of colonel upon Captain Pershing, so the president gave him the record promotion.

Hulsey Says Hippodrome May Soon Offer Wacoans High Class Vaudeville

A moving picture magnate is in our midst, E. H. Hulsey, the genial general manager and operator of the web of leading moving picture theatres in Texas of which the Hippodrome of this city is the hub, is making a flying trip to the best town in which he does business, and was caught on the run yesterday for an interview, which was not really an interview at all, but is quite interesting information that covers a wide field, both as to landscape and also as to range of subjects.

High-class vaudeville from the Majestic circuit may be shown two or three days a week at the Hippodrome in the near future. Mr. Hulsey says his recent business in New York was largely in regard to the Hippodrome and that he hoped to be able soon to announce that the vaudeville had been secured. The programs would be the same as that shown in the leading vaudeville theatres at Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston.

Mr. Hulsey comes here almost directly from New York and, as he put it, is "chuck-full" of news of the picture business, theatrical business and business as a whole. He is also optimistic. "Hard times are a thing of the past," said Mr. Hulsey, and he talked from facts rather than from fancy. "In the East there is more work than there are men. Theatres are crowded; factories are working night shifts and laboring men are smoking 10c cigars. This wave of prosperity has, of course, spread to Texas, and Dallas, Waco, Houston and Galveston are enjoying more than their share. Waco, especially, looks good. This city shows new strides, it seems, between each visit I pay here. Am very proud to say that the Hippodrome theatre is on a paying basis. It took almost a year of united efforts on the part of the public, the press and the management, pulling steadily, but surely, to the goal of success, and you can tell your readers that the management will redouble its efforts toward still further improvement. The success of the local theatre is due naturally indirectly to the thrift of Waco theatregoers. They know the best and appreciate the best. I have found that the plays that make a big hit in New York are the plays that make a big hit in Waco, and we have exerted every effort to keep mediocre productions out of the Hippodrome.

"I dare say there is not a theatre in any city of the United States that will show three attractions of equal merit to the coming program at the Hippodrome for the week beginning Sunday. 'The Flying Torpedo,' a Griffith subject, which plays three days, starting Sunday, has caused nationwide discussion. 'The Moral Fabric,' the second offering of the week, is probably most novel and unusual picture that has ever played here. 'The Bondsman,' Hall Caine's story made into a de luxe William Fox photoplay in six reels, booked here for the last of the week, is, in the opinion of many, a bigger and better production than 'The Eternal City' or 'The Christian.' Of course, there will be a Keystone on the program daily in addition to the feature."

Mr. Hulsey was then asked if his recent trip to New York resulted in any especial good news for moving picture fans in Waco. He said, "Yes and no. I hope to be able to consummate a deal to bring Charley Chaplin pictures to the Hippodrome. It is, of course, generally known that Chaplin received nearly $750,000 for signing the contract to appear for one year in Mutual films. The rental of the films after they are made will be so much as to be prohibitive at small theatres. I have made an offer of $30,000 for first showing of Charley Chaplin films in Waco, Dallas and Houston for a period of one year. The offer has neither been accepted nor rejected. I hope to be able to announce something definite in a few days.

"Griffith, Ince and Sennett are performing the wonders of the age with their Triangle plays. A review of the late Triangle plays is ample proof. After seeing productions like 'Hell's Hinges,' 'Peggy' and those coming in the near future, and many others which I saw while in New York, you will understand better what I mean. Apparently Griffith and Sennett are months, if not years, ahead of other producers. Five months of experience of high tension in meeting the insistent demands for better pictures and bigger pictures—plays with the deep human note presented with distinction—have had a marked effect. One example of their distinction is in the subtitles of the Ince productions. The artistic work of these titles show appropriateness and they hold a fascination independent of the play itself and is one of the exclusive features of the program. Some of these plays can be seen the third and fourth time with new interest each time. Triangle stories are getting stronger. Take the Hart plays, for example. Some of you have seen 'The Disciple;' some have seen 'Hell's Hinges.' Mr. Hart's third picture is 'The Aryan.' They all follow a steadily rising scale of intensity and spectacular improvement. Frankly, I do not see how they do it, but they do do it. These directors are 'upon their toes.' They are looking ahead. From investigation, I find that Griffith, Ince and Sennett are planning a year or more in advance, anticipating the terrific features both in heart interest and in spectacular feats that will be necessary to hold the American public in suspense one year hence and I count on them to deliver the goods.

"The Keystone companies, of which there are eleven, under the supervision of Mack Sennett, are keeping up a rapid pace and are living up to their name as leading funmakers of the day. Mack Sennett's band of comedians probably have done more toward making the world laugh than any organization or number of organizations in any sphere of comedy work. Every Keystone comedy has at least one novel feature or strikes some new note. Mack Sennett's record of the last six months emphatically bears this out and is indeed a record of successive triumphs."

TODAY'S AID TO BEAUTY

An especially fine shampoo for this weather can be easily made at trifling expense by simply dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox in a cup of hot water. Pour slowly on scalp and massage briskly. This creates a soothing, cooling lather that dissolves and removes all dandruff, excess oil and dirt. Rinsing leaves the scalp spotlessly clean, soft and pliant, while the hair takes on a glossy richness of natural color, also a fluffiness which makes it seem very much heavier than it is. After a canthrox shampoo arranging the hair is a pleasure.

PERSHING, WHO LEADS IN VILLA HUNT, HOLDS RECORD IN ARMY ADVANCEMENT

Gen. John J. Pershing.

Special to the Morning News.

Washington, March 18.—Ever since he came out of West Point in 1886 as senior cadet captain, the highest honor there, Brig. Gen. John J. Pershing, who is in command of the punitive expedition into Mexico, has been living and fighting battles that fit him pre-eminently to deal with Villa and his followers.

General Pershing was ten years in the southwest, fighting Geronimo and the Apaches. He was in the Spanish war with a negro regiment and was called by his colonel the bravest and coolest man under fire he had ever seen, and he accomplished the extraordinarily difficult task of subjugating the Moros in the Philippines.

It was for all of these things probably, but chiefly for his work in the Philippines, that President Roosevelt in September, 1906, promoted Captain Pershing to the rank of brigadier general, jumping him over the heads of 862 other officers—the record jump in the history of the army.

In January, 1914, General Pershing left the island of Mindanao and four months later he left San Francisco for the Mexican border in command of the Eighth brigade. On August 27 of last year his wife, who was Frances Warren, daughter of United States Senator Francis E. Warren of Wyoming, and three of their little children were burned to death in the fire at the Presidio in San Francisco.

General Pershing's first duty after being graduated from West Point, where his rank as senior cadet captain stamped him as the nearest of his classmates to the ideal of a soldier, was to plunge into the campaigns that destroyed the power of Geronimo and opened the Southwest to a tardy civilization.

Wins Praise from General Miles.

He was assigned to the old Sixth cavalry, and in August of 1887, scarcely a year from school, he was complimented by General Miles for "marching his troop, with pack train, over rough country, 140 miles in forty-six hours, bringing in every animal and man in good condition."

In 1889 Lieutenant Pershing rescued a party of horse thieves and cowboys who were besieged by hostile Zunis without firing a shot, for which he was "highly recommended for discretion" by General Carr. There were other recommendations which he won during the ten years of service in the department of Arizona during the desperate clashes there.

His next post was back at West Point as tactical officer, but in 1898 at his own request he rejoined his regiment, the Tenth cavalry, and went to the Spanish war. He was promoted for gallantry at the battle of El Caney in Cuba and returned from Santiago to Washington to solve problems as the head of the division of customs and insular affairs.

It was in September, 1899, that he was assigned to duty in the Philippines, again at his own request, and he became adjutant general, executive officer, of the department of Mindanao and Jolo. There he studied the "Moro problem," and in June, 1901, he was sent out single-handed to cope with the old problem which Spain had shirked and which revolved about Lake Lanao in the island of Mindanao, where a horde of murderous farmers, Mohammedans, were engaged in the work of killing infidels.

Subjugates Filipinos.

These natives, commanded by their dattos, or warlords, who in turn were led by their sultans, increased the number of raids on coast towns when the American soldiers arrived, and their first check was received in the fight at Bayan, a brilliant, tactical victory for Pershing.

When the sultan of Bacolod would not be conciliated Pershing, in command of a battalion of infantry, a squadron of cavalry and a section of guns, warned him that Bacolod would be destroyed. In two days the fort in which the sultan dreamed of perpetual security was only a memory and Pershing's men had received on their bayonets the charge of a hundred maddened Malays. The casualty list for the United States soldiers consisted of two slightly wounded men.

Then other strongholds of the Moros were demolished, one after another, until forty forts were destroyed and the island of Mindanao was placed under subjection, while only two Americans were killed.

Pershing became the military governor of the island; he became the friend of the subjugated natives, was elected a datto by them and sat as judge over their disputes.

In 1903 he was relieved of the command of the Lanao expedition because of illness. Later he led commands against rebellious Moros under the sultan of Jolo and over them his victory was also complete.

In 1906 he became a brigadier general. Under the law President Roosevelt could not have bestowed the rank of colonel upon Captain Pershing, so the president gave him the record promotion.

Hulsey Says Hippodrome May Soon Offer Wacoans High Class Vaudeville

A moving picture magnate is in our midst, E. H. Hulsey, the genial general manager and operator of the web of leading moving picture theatres in Texas of which the Hippodrome of this city is the hub, is making a flying trip to the best town in which he does business, and was caught on the run yesterday for an interview, which was not really an interview at all, but is quite interesting information that covers a wide field, both as to landscape and also as to range of subjects.

High-class vaudeville from the Majestic circuit may be shown two or three days a week at the Hippodrome in the near future. Mr. Hulsey says his recent business in New York was largely in regard to the Hippodrome and that he hoped to be able soon to announce that the vaudeville had been secured. The programs would be the same as that shown in the leading vaudeville theatres at Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston.

Mr. Hulsey comes here almost directly from New York and, as he put it, is "chuck-full" of news of the picture business, theatrical business and business as a whole. He is also optimistic. "Hard times are a thing of the past," said Mr. Hulsey, and he talked from facts rather than from fancy. "In the East there is more work than there are men. Theatres are crowded; factories are working night shifts and laboring men are smoking 10c cigars. This wave of prosperity has, of course, spread to Texas, and Dallas, Waco, Houston and Galveston are enjoying more than their share. Waco, especially, looks good. This city shows new strides, it seems, between each visit I pay here. Am very proud to say that the Hippodrome theatre is on a paying basis. It took almost a year of united efforts on the part of the public, the press and the management, pulling steadily, but surely, to the goal of success, and you can tell your readers that the management will redouble its efforts toward still further improvement. The success of the local theatre is due naturally indirectly to the thrift of Waco theatregoers. They know the best and appreciate the best. I have found that the plays that make a big hit in New York are the plays that make a big hit in Waco, and we have exerted every effort to keep mediocre productions out of the Hippodrome.

"I dare say there is not a theatre in any city of the United States that will show three attractions of equal merit to the coming program at the Hippodrome for the week beginning Sunday. 'The Flying Torpedo,' a Griffith subject, which plays three days, starting Sunday, has caused nationwide discussion. 'The Moral Fabric,' the second offering of the week, is probably most novel and unusual picture that has ever played here. 'The Bondsman,' Hall Caine's story made into a de luxe William Fox photoplay in six reels, booked here for the last of the week, is, in the opinion of many, a bigger and better production than 'The Eternal City' or 'The Christian.' Of course, there will be a Keystone on the program daily in addition to the feature."

Mr. Hulsey was then asked if his recent trip to New York resulted in any especial good news for moving picture fans in Waco. He said, "Yes and no. I hope to be able to consummate a deal to bring Charley Chaplin pictures to the Hippodrome. It is, of course, generally known that Chaplin received nearly $750,000 for signing the contract to appear for one year in Mutual films. The rental of the films after they are made will be so much as to be prohibitive at small theatres. I have made an offer of $30,000 for first showing of Charley Chaplin films in Waco, Dallas and Houston for a period of one year. The offer has neither been accepted nor rejected. I hope to be able to announce something definite in a few days.

"Griffith, Ince and Sennett are performing the wonders of the age with their Triangle plays. A review of the late Triangle plays is ample proof. After seeing productions like 'Hell's Hinges,' 'Peggy' and those coming in the near future, and many others which I saw while in New York, you will understand better what I mean. Apparently Griffith and Sennett are months, if not years, ahead of other producers. Five months of experience of high tension in meeting the insistent demands for better pictures and bigger pictures—plays with the deep human note presented with distinction—have had a marked effect. One example of their distinction is in the subtitles of the Ince productions. The artistic work of these titles show appropriateness and they hold a fascination independent of the play itself and is one of the exclusive features of the program. Some of these plays can be seen the third and fourth time with new interest each time. Triangle stories are getting stronger. Take the Hart plays, for example. Some of you have seen 'The Disciple;' some have seen 'Hell's Hinges.' Mr. Hart's third picture is 'The Aryan.' They all follow a steadily rising scale of intensity and spectacular improvement. From investigation, I find that Griffith, Ince and Sennett are planning a year or more in advance, anticipating the terrific features both in heart interest and in spectacular feats that will be necessary to hold the American public in suspense one year hence and I count on them to deliver the goods.

"The Keystone companies, of which there are eleven, under the supervision of Mack Sennett, are keeping up a rapid pace and are living up to their name as leading funmakers of the day. Mack Sennett's band of comedians probably have done more toward making the world laugh than any organization or number of organizations in any sphere of comedy work. Every Keystone comedy has at least one novel feature or strikes some new note. Mack Sennett's record of the last six months emphatically bears this out and is indeed a record of successive triumphs."

GOOD ROADS MEAN MUCH IMROVEMENT

BETTER FARMS AND BETTER CITIZENS FOLLOW IN THEIR PATH, SAYS M'NAUGHTON.

Particular Attention Called to Meridian Road and Its Route Through This State.

Special to the Morning News.

San Marcos, Texas, March 18.—Early, for a fact, was the day when I first observed that, when a community is thoroughly imbued with practical good roads enthusiasm, it always means a great deal more. It means better bridges better culverts, better byways, better fences, better farms—and better citizens. Just like the story of putting the beautiful flower in the outcast's shack—he commenced to strive after better and bigger ideals. That's the way it was when the Post road was built from Austin to San Antonio; that's the way it was in the adjoining county of Williamson; and McLennan county, and Bell county, and Tarrant county; and all other counties that have striven after a particular highway. It was all in getting started.

Of course, it was not altogether the construction, but the maintenance that was the ever present trouble. We say "was," for we now know that when any certain road construction is now proposed, maintenance will be figured on just the same basis as the primary construction; and if the maintenance fund is not in sight, the work will not be started until the money is forthcoming. On this same Post road above referred to "maintenance," like Banquo's Ghost, will not down. One good citizen has proposed a tax of contribution of five dollars from every owner of an automobile; but so far the "gasoline burners" have proved very forgetful. The only sure way is as above stated—plan and pay for the tarviating or other top dressing when the road is built, and maintenance will not be such a bugaboo.

They often talk about "back to the farm," but nothing has proved to be such a force as this very matter of good roads. It is a fact, demonstrated almost daily, that with better roads, even many men in the city are seeking the country. Good roads have made the country home not only possible but popular. While, with good roads and rapid locomotion the man in the country has had avenues opened up never before dreamed of. Markets have been created that never even existed before; while relations, both commercial and social, are established that are easily seen to be mutually advantageous; living has been made doubly worth while for the man who has to live in the city, and the man who has had the good fortune to call the country his home.

Meridian Road Appeals.

Good roads have another and real important phase: It is the pleasure seeker and the traveler. When he knows that for miles and miles there stretches in a desired direction—the way he wants to go—a perfect road, forthwith he sits up and takes notice. That's the road that appeals—for instance, the Meridian road, from Winnipeg, Canada, in a direct line across the United States, from the northern limit to the city of Laredo, Texas, southern limit, on the banks of the Rio Grande. A road 1906 miles long, while by railroad it is 2175 miles, traveling through six states, touching one state capital, Austin; traversing thirty-eight counties, and touching fifty-one seats. The states traveled are Canada, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, each having a state division, and the state divided into county organizations—thus each and every individual has a direct interest in the greatest national highway in the world.

In the month of June, 1911, the Meridian road was first mooted in an organization, at Salina, Kans.; and from that day the interest grew and expanded until it is in as much favor in the uttermost ends of Texas as it is in Kansas. Further, the different counties along the Meridian road in Texas alone have voted $8,908,000 in road and bridge bonds to boast of an all-year high-gear road, though you cannot joy-ride anywhere on tis entire length; but you recognize the Meridian road in its economic usefulness as a thing of beauty and a joy forever. In verification of this, the plan is to have a no-stop auto run from Winnipeg to Laredo, which will demonstrate the fact that a letter can be carried the entire distance of 1906 miles in seventy-two hours. When the no-stop run is made it will create more excitement than any innovation ever attempted in this country, and will but mark a new era in auto transportation.

Road to Be Marked.

Another distinguishing feature of the Meridian road is that it will be marked with the colors—white, straight ahead and red and white, turn—the entire route from the semi-arcti to the semi-tropic. That's why so much importance attaches to the logging trip through Texas, now being undertaken by D. E. Colp, vice president of the Meridian road, and Lake Robertson and "Yours Truly," who starting out again Friday, March 24, 1916, complete the northern end of the log of Texas, gathering data for descriptive book illustrating scenes along the way, with a brief mention of each and every place visited, which will be issued in conjunction with the official log of the road in the Texas division, and we are presumed to make of the same one of the best boosts the Lone Star state ever had. We are pleased to say that already Texas is enjoying no little publicity from this very trip, for the last letter, written by the publicity representative of the road in Texas, besides being published in sixty newspapers in this state, was, by request, published in 100 newspapers outside of Texas along the Meridian road.

It is very interesting to note that besides this being now the Meridian road it will be also, in Texas, designated the international pavedway, the great road that is to bisect the United States in all its beauty and interest, from the Great Lakes to the river that marks the northern boundary of Mexico. All being in this state under the auspices of the Texas good roads association of Texas division of the national highways association.

And all that remains now to have Texas generally on a par with good roads boosters anywhere and everywhere—remember we went from nothing to third in rank in good roads states—is the passage of a state highway department law, which has been advocated and voted for unanimously at every good roads rally and meet held in the state; and without which our labors are of not much avail. Otherwise, the prospect in Texas for better and more substantial roads was never brighter than today.

CAN'T BEAT "TIZ" WHEN FEET HURT

"TIZ" FOR SORE, TIRED, PUFFED-UP, ACHING, CALLOUSED FEET OR CORNS.

You can be happy-footed in a moment. Use "Tiz" and never suffer with tender, raw, burning, blistered, swollen, tired, aching feet. "Tiz," and only "Tiz," takes the pain and soreness out of corns, callouses and bunions.

As soon as you put your feet in a "Tiz" bath, you just feel the happiness soaking in. How good your poor, old feet feel. They want to dance for joy. "Tiz" is grand. "Tiz" instantly draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause sore, inflamed, aching, sweaty feet.

Get a 25-cent box of "Tiz" at any drug store or department store. Get instant foot relief. Laugh at foot sufferers who complain. Because your feet are never, never going to bother or make you limp any more.

University Must Fix Auditorium to Make It Fireproof

Special to the Morning News.

Austin, Tex., March 18.—Following an inspection today of the auditorium of the University of Texas, State Fire Marshal S. W. Inglish and A. R. Andrews, member of the state fire insurance commission, announced that the situation is extremely dangerous as it now exists. Some material changes for better fire protection and safety of life are to be required of the regents.

As at present constituted the auditorium is pronounced not to have sufficient exits, is without an adequate number of fire escapes and should have more fire extinguishers. In anticipation of the usual crowds for commencement the regents may decide to put in more fire escapes before June with additional escapes and extinguishers.

TAKES THE PLACE OF DANGEROUS CALOMEL

New Discovery! Dodson's Liver Tone Acts Like Calomel But Doesn't Gripe, Salivate or Make You Sick—Don't Lose a Day's Work—Harmless Liver Medicine for Men, Women, Children—Read Guarantee!

Ugh! Calomel makes you sick. It's horrible! Take a dose of the dangerous drug tonight and tomorrow you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with sour bile crashes into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you are sluggish and "all knocked out," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated, or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour, just try a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone tonight.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store and get a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it can not salivate or make you sick.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your bowels of that sour bile and constipated waste which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable. I guarantee that a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone will keep your entire family feeling fine for months. Give it to your children. It is harmless; doesn't gripe and they like its pleasant taste.

Stock Show Draws Many.

Special to the Morning News.

Valley Mills, March 18.—Many from this place were in attendance at the fat stock show held in Fort Worth the last week. A special rate of $1.80 a round trip was given by the Santa Fe railroad. The cheap rate and the train schedule caused many to go who would not have otherwise. A few stockmen and ranchmen in this vicinity had exhibits on there.

Interscholastic Meet Held.

Special to the Morning News.

McGregor, March 18.—The preliminary meeting of the interscholastic league was held here Friday night when pupils were selected to represent McGregor in the county contest to be held next Saturday.

Bryan Cunningham is the Senior Boy in declamation; Leona Crain, the Senior Girl in declamation; Minnie Etta Nance is the Junior Girl and the spellers selected are Ray Stubblefield and Jeanette Poon. By oversight the contestants did not try in spelling, which will necessitate a second spelling contest.

Volunteer Firemen Win Austin Suit

Special to the Morning News.

Austin, Tex., March 18.—Granting the application of the officers of the Austin Volunteer Fire department to restrain Clarence L. Woodward, recently appointed by the city commission as chief of the fire department, with a salary of $100 per month, from exercising the duties as chief, District Judge Charles A. Wilcox today held that the fire department of Austin must remain a volunteer organization until changed by a vote of the people.

Editor Tells How D. D. D. Cured His Eczema

Clergyman and Banker Also Write

H. G. Hotchkiss, Editor Echo, Prophetstown, Ill.: Remember mine was eczema of fifteen years' standing. Now I am completely healed, after 4 bottles of D. D. D. I have seen a case of 25 years' standing cured. I have seen my own doctor cured of barber's itch, which he could not cure himself.

F. K. Tesar, Banker, Hopkinton, Ia.: I treated with three doctors for six months. They did me no good; my face and scalp were full of the disease. I applied D. D. D. Result—my face is as smooth as a baby's.

Rev. L. I. Downing, Pastor 5th Av. Presbyterian Church, Roanoke, Va.: For three years I suffered, intensely so. I have at last found relief in D. D. D. I am no longer tortured—completely cured. I have no hesitancy in acknowledging the great virtues of this specific.

Druggists are glad to recommend this soothing, cooling liquid. 25c, 50c and $1.00. Come to us and we will tell you more about this remarkable remedy. Your money back unless the first bottle relieves you. D. D. D. Soap keeps your skin healthy. Ask about it. Powers-Kelly Drug Co., Austin at 5th St.

TAKES THE PLACE OF DANGEROUS CALOMEL

New Discovery! Dodson's Liver Tone Acts Like Calomel But Doesn't Gripe, Salivate or Make You Sick—Don't Lose a Day's Work—Harmless Liver Medicine for Men, Women, Children—Read Guarantee!

Ugh! Calomel makes you sick. It's horrible! Take a dose of the dangerous drug tonight and tomorrow you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with sour bile crashes into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you are sluggish and "all knocked out," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated, or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour, just try a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone tonight.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store and get a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it can not salivate or make you sick.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your bowels of that sour bile and constipated waste which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable. I guarantee that a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone will keep your entire family feeling fine for months. Give it to your children. It is harmless; doesn't gripe and they like its pleasant taste.

Last of Allen Clan Meets Violent Death

By the Associated Press.

Mount Airy, N. C., March 18.—Jasper Allen, last of the Allen clan which shot up the Hillsville, Va., court house four years ago, killing Judge Thornton H. Massie and several other persons, was shot and killed at a road house near here last night during a fight with William McGraw, alleged blockader. McGraw fled to the mountains nearby, but after a coroner's jury this afternoon had held him responsible for the shooting he was reported to have sent word to the authorities that he would surrender.

According to the authorities, Allen and McGraw were spending the night at the place and Allen resented a statement by McGraw that Wesley Edwards, one of the Allen clan, who is serving a penitentiary sentence for his part in the Hillsville shooting, was not as brave as some persons gave him credit for being.

The dead man was the father of Friel Allen, who is serving fifteen years in the Virginia penitentiary for the Hillsville affair, and a brother of Floyd Allen, who was electrocuted in Virginia after the killing of Judge Massie.

Dallas Shortage Larger.

By the Associated Press.

Dallas, March 18.—An increase in the shortage in Dallas city taxes for which two alleged absconders have been arrested in Montevideo, Uruguay, was discovered by a recheck of the tax books, it was announced today at the city hall. The shortage now stands at $14,719.97, and was recently thought to be not much more than $10,000. An officer is en route to the South American city now to get H. F. Roberts and Clarence K. McGoun, who are charged with the defalcation.

Astonishing Power of Iron to Give Strength to Broken Down Nervous People

Physician Says Ordinary Nuxated Iron Will Increase Strength of Delicate Folk 200 Per cent in Two Weeks' Time in Many Instances.

New York, N. Y.—In a recent discourse Dr. E. Sauer, Specialist, of this city, said: "If you were to make an actual blood test on all people who are ill you would probably be greatly astonished at the exceedingly large number who lack iron and who are ill for no other reason than the lack of iron. The moment iron is supplied all their multitude of dangerous symptoms disappear. Without iron the blood at once loses the power to change food into living tissue, and therefore nothing you eat does you any good; you don't get any strength out of it. Your food merely passes through your system like corn through a mill with the rollers so wide apart that the mill can't grind. As a result of this continuous blood and nerve starvation, people become generally weakened, nervous and all run down, and frequently develop all sorts of conditions. One is too thin; another is burdened with unhealthy fat; some are so weak they can hardly walk; some think they have dyspepsia, kidney or liver trouble; some can't sleep at night; others are sleepy and tired all day; some fussy and irritable; some skinny and bloodless, but all lack physical power and endurance. In such cases it is worse than foolishness to take stimulating medicines or narcotic drugs, which only whip up your lagging vital powers for the moment, maybe at the expense of your life later on. No matter what any one tells you, if you are not strong and well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous run-down people who were ailing all the time double and even triple their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of their symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form, and this, after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. You can talk as you please about all the wonders wrought by new remedies, but when you come down to hard facts there is nothing like good old iron to put color in your cheeks, and good, sound, healthy flesh on your bones. It is also a great nerve and stomach strengthener and the best blood builder in the world. The only trouble was that the old forms of inorganic iron, like tincture of iron, iron acetate, etc., often ruined people's teeth, upset their stomachs and were not assimilated, and for these reasons they frequently did more harm than good. But with the discovery of the newer forms of organic iron all this has been overcome. Nuxated Iron, for example, is pleasant to take, does not injure the teeth and is almost immediately beneficial.

NOTE—The manufacturers of Nuxated Iron have such unbounded confidence in its potency that they authorize the announcement that they will forfeit $100.00 to any Charitable Institution if they cannot take any man or woman under sixty who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent or over in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. Also they will refund your money in any case in which Nuxated Iron does not at least double your strength in ten days' time. It is dispensed in this city by all druggists.

ARMY MOTOR TRUCKS REACH COLUMBUS

EXPEDITIONARY FORCE TAKING PRECAUTIONS AGAINST THE DREADED SMALLPOX.

Weekly Paper Prints Only Legal Notices on Account of Censorship.

By the Associated Press.

Columbus, N. M., March 18.—(Passed by Censor)—Sixty factory mechanics who arrived today from Racine, Wis., to prepare army trucks for field use caused excitement when after being aboard the train several hours without food they jumped to the ground and with a shout started for the leading restaurant. Columbus forthwith became so excited that the military patrol was hurried to the spot.

The arrival of the trainload of motor trucks in Columbus tonight made it certain that the American forces in the field will be amply supplied wherever they may go.

It is known also that the American expeditionary force is taking every precaution against disease which has followed for long years civil warfare in northern Mexico. All along the border, also, medical officers of the immigration service are taking increased care to prevent the introduction into the United States of smallpox, which is rampant in Mexico, particularly in the western part of Sonora.

Additional evidence of the tightening of the censorship was contained in the failure of the local weekly paper to print anything today, its regular press day, except legal notices. There was nothing else which the proprietor considered he had a right to print.

The local telephone company also was warned that only officers or men of the army whose names were included in a list provided should be permitted to use the long distance lines. The only civilians permitted to use the toll lines are residents of Columbus or persons well known to the telephone operators, newspaper correspondents being barred.

Arrest under the national defense law of 1911 will follow violations of the order. All correspondents were obliged to register and present credentials at military headquarters. Major Sample, the censor, frankly informed them that their services would be of little value here and intimated that censorship may be extended to other border towns.

The ruins of the Commercial hotel have been searched for souvenirs. Several sabres presumably dropped by Villa officers have been picked up.

Train after train of food, forage, clothing and other impediments of war have been unloaded here. Occasionally a creaking wagon train makes its dusty day out of the camp southward but its destination is not announced. The enormous business done at the camp is reflected in the amount of material handled by the telegraph office here, it being assured that the receipts here today were heavier than those of the El Paso office of the company, and this exclusive of war department and press telegrams.

Cananea Enrolls More Policemen

By the Associated Press.

Douglas, Ariz., March 18.—Arrivals today said that 100 additional policemen had been enrolled by the city government of Cananea, Mex., and armed with rifles. Uneasiness was reported there by both Mexicans and Americans on account of growing sentiment in favor of miners' strike. In order to combat this the presidente municipal, Luis R. Garcia, issued an order giving unemployed people ten days in which to find work or leave the district with the alternative of being arrested.

The time limit expires Monday. Many Mexicans have left, but others from all parts of Sonora are reaching the town at the average of 500 daily, so that little impression is being made on the floating population. Acting on reports that Villa sentiment is strong among the people, the Carranza authorities say they are watching closely.

The Cananea Consolidated Copper company properties as well as mines in the district continue to operate.

Mamakhatun Falls Into Russian Hands

By the Associated Press.

Petrograd, March 18, via London, 10:15 p. m.—The official communication tonight follows:

"Western (Russian) front: In the vicinity of Mikulischki, north of Lake Dreswiaty, the enemy sprung a mine. By our offensive fire we drove back a considerable body of the enemy which was making a reconnaissance southwest of Lake Boginskoie.

"In the Lipsk region north of Lake Vygonovskoye, the enemy attempted an offensive, which we repulsed.

"Caucasus front: As already reported in our pursuit of the Turks toward Erinjah after some fighting we occupied Mamakhatun. The enemy afterward attempted a counter attack, but we drove him back in a westerly direction with heavy loss."

Infantry Fighting on Izonzo Front

By the Associated Press.

Rome March 18, via London, 10:27 p. m.—The official statement today reads:

"In the mountainous region there has been intense artillery activity. Our guns dispersed enemy columns on the march to Landro in the upper Rienz and again opened fire on the station at Toblach, causing visible damage and starting some fires. The artillery directed its efforts with especial violence against our positions on the height of Santa Maria in the Tolmino district.

"Along the whole of our front yesterday actions by our infantry supported by the artillery continued. Enemy aircraft dropped incendiary bombs in the neighborhood of Sdobba Point in the Bay of Panzano, northwest of Triest, without causing damage."

British Repulse Turks Near Aden

By the Associated Press.

London, March 18.—News of a new engagement between the English and Turkish forces near Aden, in which the British were successful, was given out in an official statement this afternoon as follows:

"A Turkish accompanied by three German officers attacked a British outpost at Imad, about ten miles from Aden, on the 16th, suffered a severe repulse and were pursued four miles. The next day seventeen Turkish dead were found on the field. Our losses were one Indian soldier killed and one British officer and sixteen men injured.

Emperor William Thanks von Tirpitz for His Services

By the Associated Press.

Berlin, by Wireless to Sayville, L. I., March 18.—"Emperor William," says the Overseas News agency, "has written a letter to Grand Admiral von Tirpitz, expressing his regrets at the admiral's resignation and thanking him for the excellent services he had rendered to the country during his long career as creator and organizer of the German navy.

"The emperor at the same time ordered that the name of Admiral von Tirpitz should continue in the navy list and further bestowed upon him the star of Grand Commander of the House of Hohenzollern with swords."

Nebraskan Claims Bryan Not Democrat

By the Associated Press.

Lincoln, Neb., March 18.—Opposition to the nomination of William J. Bryan as a delegate to the national democratic convention on the ground that he is not a democrat was overruled today by the secretary of state of Nebraska. Mr. Bryan's name will remain on the ballot despite the protest which was made by W. C. Whitted of Omaha.

Opposition at the polls to the four names for delegates at large headed by Mr. Bryan appeared today when filings were made for Douglas Cones, W. B. Prince and W. D. Oldham.

Muskogee G. O. P. Convention Ends in Free-for-All

By the Associated Press.

Muskogee, Okla., March 18.—Riotous scenes marked the Muskogee county convention today when factions of James Harris of Wagoner and J. J. McGraw of Ponca City, candidates for national committeeman, tried to hold meetings at the same time in the same hall.

Men fought, scratched and clawed while hoots and jeers resounded through the room and the tumult did not end until J. C. Denton, a McGraw supporter, acting as chairman of one of the conventions, was pulled from the desk upon which he stood and placed under arrest for carrying concealed weapons into a political meeting. The warrant upon which Denton was arrested charges that he drew his revolver and threatened George Pascal, another delegate.

With Denton's arrest the McGraw men withdrew. Part of the delegates remained and signed a statement declaring their presence. On a roll call they named a delegation to the state convention in Oklahoma City, March 27, instructed for James Harris.

Mexican Soldiers Deny Munitions Are on La Providencia

Brownsville, March 18.—Four Mexican soldiers from the three-mast schooner La Providentia, which is aground off the Mexican coast, are held incommunicado at Matamoros today where they were brought yesterday after having made their way ashore from the stranded vessel. They deny the story that the schooner carries a cargo of munitions of war and declare they were taking her to Mexico to sell.

The seas are still so high that it is impossible yet to reach the La Providencia to learn about cargo.

Trainload of Trucks Sent from Chicago

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, March 18.—As an evidence of commercial preparedness it was announced here today that a trainload of motor trucks for army service had reached El Paso yesterday before noon, having left Chicago on Thursday morning.

The average speed for the distance of 1,466 miles, excluding terminal delay, was 30½ miles an hour for the train of fifteen cars. All records were broken in the assembling of the trucks at the factory and in loading them for El Paso.

Man Who Gets Scoop Branded as Criminal

By the Associated Press.

Columbus, N. M., March 18.—New orders were issued here today holding every newspaper correspondent accountable for his dispatches under the national defense act.

"The man who gets a scoop is an arch criminal," said Maj. W. R. Sample, commander of the Columbus camp today, "and I have evidence enough to bring several under the federal law."

Pennsy Runners Win.

By the Associated Press.

Louisville, Ky., March 18.—Pennsylvania finished first in the open intercollegiate relay race at one mile that featured the third annual indoor meet of the Louisville Amateur Athletic federation here tonight, but was disqualified and the decision given to Princeton. Princeton protested that Kaufman ran out of bounds in trying to overtake Wallace. Meredith, Pennsylvania's anchor man, finished fifteen yards in front of Moore of Princeton. The time was 3:22.

When the Easterners failed to enter in any other event than the mile relay the meet virtually was at the mercy of the Cincinnati teams.

Austrians Claim Victory.

By the Associated Press.

Berlin, March 18.—(By wireless to Sayville)—The capture of an Italian position north of the Tolmino bridge-head on the Isonzo front is reported in today's Austro-Hungarian headquarters statement received here from Vienna. The Austrians took prisoner 449 Italians, among whom were 16 officers, besides capturing three machine guns and a mine thrower.

Mexican Suspect Seized.

Funston Would Ship Supplies by Rail

By the Associated Press.

Washington, March 18.—The state department today received from General Funston through the war department a request to arrange with the de facto government of Mexico for permission to ship by rail from El Paso supplied to the expeditionary forces in Mexico.

It is believed that the Mexican government will not object to such an arrangement.

By shipping supplies as far as possible to the south by railroad, General Funston will be able to do away with many of the difficulties attending automobile transportation over the barren country below El Paso.

Illini Win Meet.

By the Associated Press.

Evanston, Ill., March 18.—Mike Mason broke two conference indoor records, helping Illinois win the Big Nine meet tonight. The elongated runner from Urbana won the mile in 4:24, breaking the record set by Leroy Campbell of Chicago last year, and lowered his own mark in the two-mile by doing the distance in 9:43 4-5. Arlie Mucks, Wisconsin's strong man, set a conference meet record in the shot put with a heave of 48 feet 7½ inches.

A large force of German railroad officials has arrived in Serbia to reorganize the railway system of that country.

Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous run-down people who were ailing all the time double and even triple their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of their symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form, and this, after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. You can talk as you please about all the wonders wrought by new remedies, but when you come down to hard facts there is nothing like good old iron to put color in your cheeks, and good, sound, healthy flesh on your bones. It is also a great nerve and stomach strengthener and the best blood builder in the world. The only trouble was that the old forms of inorganic iron, like tincture of iron, iron acetate, etc., often ruined people's teeth, upset their stomachs and were not assimilated, and for these reasons they frequently did more harm than good. But with the discovery of the newer forms of organic iron all this has been overcome. Nuxated Iron, for example, is pleasant to take, does not injure the teeth and is almost immediately beneficial.

NOTE—The manufacturers of Nuxated Iron have such unbounded confidence in its potency that they authorize the announcement that they will forfeit $100.00 to any Charitable Institution if they cannot take any man or woman under sixty who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent or over in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. Also they will refund your money in any case in which Nuxated Iron does not at least double your strength in ten days' time. It is dispensed in this city by all druggists.

ARMY MOTOR TRUCKS REACH COLUMBUS

EXPEDITIONARY FORCE TAKING PRECAUTIONS AGAINST THE DREADED SMALLPOX.

Weekly Paper Prints Only Legal Notices on Account of Censorship.

By the Associated Press.

Columbus, N. M., March 18.—(Passed by Censor)—Sixty factory mechanics who arrived today from Racine, Wis., to prepare army trucks for field use caused excitement when after being aboard the train several hours without food they jumped to the ground and with a shout started for the leading restaurant. Columbus forthwith became so excited that the military patrol was hurried to the spot.

The arrival of the trainload of motor trucks in Columbus tonight made it certain that the American forces in the field will be amply supplied wherever they may go.

It is known also that the American expeditionary force is taking every precaution against disease which has followed for long years civil warfare in northern Mexico. All along the border, also, medical officers of the immigration service are taking increased care to prevent the introduction into the United States of smallpox, which is rampant in Mexico, particularly in the western part of Sonora.

Additional evidence of the tightening of the censorship was contained in the failure of the local weekly paper to print anything today, its regular press day, except legal notices. There was nothing else which the proprietor considered he had a right to print.

The local telephone company also was warned that only officers or men of the army whose names were included in a list provided should be permitted to use the long distance lines. The only civilians permitted to use the toll lines are residents of Columbus or persons well known to the telephone operators, newspaper correspondents being barred.

Arrest under the national defense law of 1911 will follow violations of the order. All correspondents were obliged to register and present credentials at military headquarters. Major Sample, the censor, frankly informed them that their services would be of little value here and intimated that censorship may be extended to other border towns.

The ruins of the Commercial hotel have been searched for souvenirs. Several sabres presumably dropped by Villa officers have been picked up.

Train after train of food, forage, clothing and other impediments of war have been unloaded here. Occasionally a creaking wagon train makes its dusty day out of the camp southward but its destination is not announced. The enormous business done at the camp is reflected in the amount of material handled by the telegraph office here, it being assured that the receipts here today were heavier than those of the El Paso office of the company, and this exclusive of war department and press telegrams.

Cananea Enrolls More Policemen

By the Associated Press.

Douglas, Ariz., March 18.—Arrivals today said that 100 additional policemen had been enrolled by the city government of Cananea, Mex., and armed with rifles. Uneasiness was reported there by both Mexicans and Americans on account of growing sentiment in favor of miners' strike. In order to combat this the presidente municipal, Luis R. Garcia, issued an order giving unemployed people ten days in which to find work or leave the district with the alternative of being arrested.

The time limit expires Monday. Many Mexicans have left, but others from all parts of Sonora are reaching the town at the average of 500 daily, so that little impression is being made on the floating population. Acting on reports that Villa sentiment is strong among the people, the Carranza authorities say they are watching closely.

The Cananea Consolidated Copper company properties as well as mines in the district continue to operate.

Mamakhatun Falls Into Russian Hands

By the Associated Press.

Petrograd, March 18, via London, 10:15 p. m.—The official communication tonight follows:

"Western (Russian) front: In the vicinity of Mikulischki, north of Lake Dreswiaty, the enemy sprung a mine. By our offensive fire we drove back a considerable body of the enemy which was making a reconnaissance southwest of Lake Boginskoie.

"In the Lipsk region north of Lake Vygonovskoye, the enemy attempted an offensive, which we repulsed.

"Caucasus front: As already reported in our pursuit of the Turks toward Erinjah after some fighting we occupied Mamakhatun. The enemy afterward attempted a counter attack, but we drove him back in a westerly direction with heavy loss."

Infantry Fighting on Izonzo Front

By the Associated Press.

Rome, March 18, via London, 10:27 p. m.—The official statement today reads:

"In the mountainous region there has been intense artillery activity. Our guns dispersed enemy columns on the march to Landro in the upper Rienz and again opened fire on the station at Toblach, causing visible damage and starting some fires. The artillery directed its efforts with especial violence against our positions on the height of Santa Maria in the Tolmino district.

"Along the whole of our front yesterday actions by our infantry supported by the artillery continued. Enemy aircraft dropped incendiary bombs in the neighborhood of Sdobba Point in the Bay of Panzano, northwest of Triest, without causing damage."

British Repulse Turks Near Aden

By the Associated Press.

London, March 18.—News of a new engagement between the English and Turkish forces near Aden, in which the British were successful, was given out in an official statement this afternoon as follows:

"A Turkish accompanied by three German officers attacked a British outpost at Imad, about ten miles from Aden, on the 16th, suffered a severe repulse and were pursued four miles. The next day seventeen Turkish dead were found on the field. Our losses were one Indian soldier killed and one British officer and sixteen men injured.

Help to Beautify Waco by a Pretty Home Garden

Emperor William Thanks von Tirpitz for His Services

By the Associated Press.

Berlin, by Wireless to Sayville, L. I., March 18.—"Emperor William," says the Overseas News agency, "has written a letter to Grand Admiral von Tirpitz, expressing his regrets at the admiral's resignation and thanking him for the excellent services he had rendered to the country during his long career as creator and organizer of the German navy.

"The emperor at the same time ordered that the name of Admiral von Tirpitz should continue in the navy list and further bestowed upon him the star of Grand Commander of the House of Hohenzollern with swords."

Nebraskan Claims Bryan Not Democrat

By the Associated Press.

Lincoln, Neb., March 18.—Opposition to the nomination of William J. Bryan as a delegate to the national democratic convention on the ground that he is not a democrat was overruled today by the secretary of state of Nebraska. Mr. Bryan's name will remain on the ballot despite the protest which was made by W. C. Whitted of Omaha.

Opposition at the polls to the four names for delegates at large headed by Mr. Bryan appeared today when filings were made for Douglas Cones, W. B. Prince and W. D. Oldham.

Muskogee G. O. P. Convention Ends in Free-for-All

By the Associated Press.

Muskogee, Okla., March 18.—Riotous scenes marked the Muskogee county convention today when factions of James Harris of Wagoner and J. J. McGraw of Ponca City, candidates for national committeeman, tried to hold meetings at the same time in the same hall.

Men fought, scratched and clawed while hoots and jeers resounded through the room and the tumult did not end until J. C. Denton, a McGraw supporter, acting as chairman of one of the conventions, was pulled from the desk upon which he stood and placed under arrest for carrying concealed weapons into a political meeting. The warrant upon which Denton was arrested charges that he drew his revolver and threatened George Pascal, another delegate.

With Denton's arrest the McGraw men withdrew. Part of the delegates remained and signed a statement declaring their presence. On a roll call they named a delegation to the state convention in Oklahoma City, March 27, instructed for James Harris.

Mexican Soldiers Deny Munitions Are on La Providencia

Brownsville, March 18.—Four Mexican soldiers from the three-mast schooner La Providentia, which is aground off the Mexican coast, are held incommunicado at Matamoros today where they were brought yesterday after having made their way ashore from the stranded vessel. They deny the story that the schooner carries a cargo of munitions of war and declare they were taking her to Mexico to sell.

The seas are still so high that it is impossible yet to reach the La Providencia to learn about cargo.

Trainload of Trucks Sent from Chicago

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, March 18.—As an evidence of commercial preparedness it was announced here today that a trainload of motor trucks for army service had reached El Paso yesterday before noon, having left Chicago on Thursday morning.

The average speed for the distance of 1,456 miles, excluding terminal delay, was 30½ miles an hour for the train of fifteen cars. All records were broken in the assembling of the trucks at the factory and in loading them for El Paso.

Man Who Gets Scoop Branded as Criminal

By the Associated Press.

Columbus, N. M., March 18.—New orders were issued here today holding every newspaper correspondent accountable for his dispatches under the national defense act.

"The man who gets a scoop is an arch criminal," said Maj. W. R. Sample, commander of the Columbus camp today, "and I have evidence enough to bring several under the federal law."

Pennsy Runners Win.

By the Associated Press.

Louisville, Ky., March 18.—Pennsylvania finished first in the open intercollegiate relay race at one mile that featured the third annual indoor meet of the Louisville Amateur Athletic federation here tonight, but was disqualified and the decision given to Princeton. Princeton protested that Kaufman ran out of bounds in trying to overtake Wallace. Meredith, Pennsylvania's anchor man, finished fifteen yards in front of Moore of Princeton. The time was 3:22.

When the Easterners failed to enter in any other event than the mile relay the meet virtually was at the mercy of the Cincinnati teams.

Austrians Claim Victory.

By the Associated Press.

Berlin, March 18.—(By wireless to Sayville)—The capture of an Italian position north of the Tolmino bridge-head on the Isonzo front is reported in today's Austro-Hungarian headquarters statement received here from Vienna. The Austrians took prisoner 449 Italians, among whom were 16 officers, besides capturing three machine guns and a mine thrower.

Mexican Suspect Seized.

Funston Would Ship Supplies by Rail

By the Associated Press.

Washington, March 18.—The state department today received from General Funston through the war department a request to arrange with the de facto government of Mexico for permission to ship by rail from El Paso supplied to the expeditionary forces in Mexico.

It is believed that the Mexican government will not object to such an arrangement.

By shipping supplies as far as possible to the south by railroad, General Funston will be able to do away with many of the difficulties attending automobile transportation over the barren country below El Paso.

Illini Win Meet.

By the Associated Press.

Evanston, Ill., March 18.—Mike Mason broke two conference indoor records, helping Illinois win the Big Nine meet tonight. The elongated runner from Urbana won the mile in 4:24, breaking the record set by Leroy Campbell of Chicago last year, and lowered his own mark in the two-mile by doing the distance in 9:43 4-5. Arlie Mucks, Wisconsin's strong man, set a conference meet record in the shot put with a heave of 48 feet 7½ inches.

A large force of German railroad officials has arrived in Serbia to reorganize the railway system of that country.

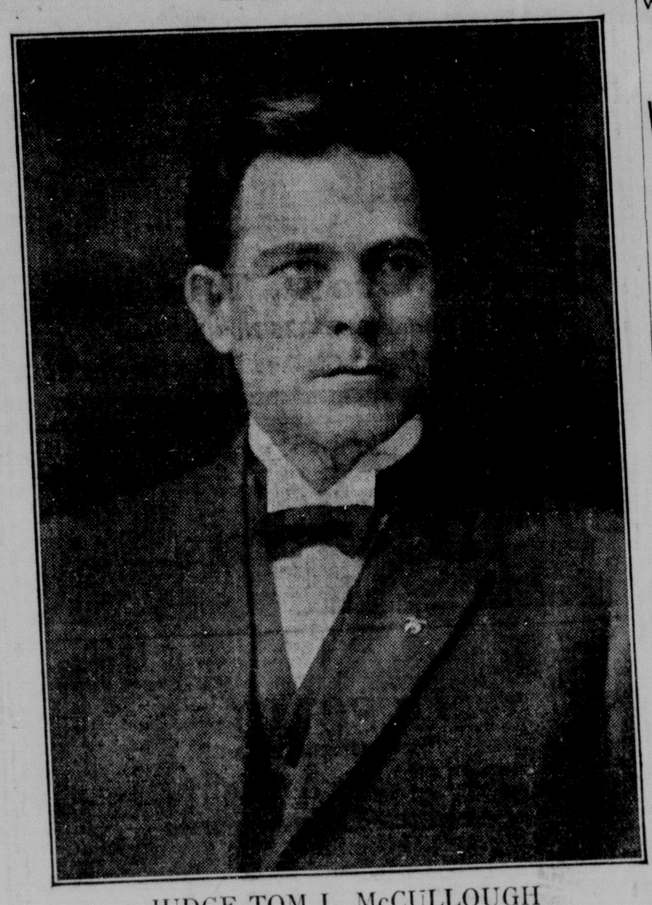
Judge Tom L. McCullough Declares Campaign Should Be Fought on Broad Lines



JUDGE TOM L. McCULLOUGH

To Voters of the Eleventh Congressional District:

So much has been said recently about elimination of candidates for office, with respect to the prohibition issue, and the aspirants for congress have been so plainly admonished on this subject, that I believe it timely for me to state my attitude.

More than a year ago I announced that I would become a candidate for congress, and last October I published a platform of principles for which I should contend, but I did not desire nor believe that the contest should be determined by the single issue of prohibition.

I considered the past year, the most eventful in the world's history, and the present, the most critical in shaping the future destiny of our own country. It occurred to me that there were large questions of vital import that would require skill in statesmanship and patriotism in all the people.

But the question of elimination was given a fresh vigor and a new application by the recent interview of my good friend, Dr. A. J. Barton, state superintendent, Anti-Saloon league, wherein he says:

"Referring to the race in this respect, Dr. Barton said that he hoped the entire pro vote would be centered upon some worthy man, as in all other districts of the state. Continuing his remarks as to the contest in the Eleventh district, Dr. Barton said: 'There are at present no three pros in the district who have horse sense enough to make good congressmen, with little enough sense to spend their money and energy in making the race against one anti.'"

Perhaps I cannot better express my attitude to that proposition than I stated it in correspondence with Dr. A. J. Barton, last November, which is as follows:

"ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE OF TEXAS
"Arthur J. Barton, Superintendent.
"Dallas, Texas, November 11, 1915.

"Honorables,
"Pat M. Neff,
"Tom L. McCullough,
"Waco, Texas:
"Tom Connally,
"Marlin, Texas.

"Dear Sirs and Friends: Knowing me as you do, I am sure you will take this letter in the spirit in which it is written. I am greatly interested in all of our congressional races, especially in the one in the Eleventh district. We have a chance there to elect a prohibitionist if matters are wisely and efficiently handled. I understand that all three of you are expecting to run for the place. Of course, if you do, it means absolutely defeat for all of you and for our cause. You must have a good deal of time and money that you don't especially need if you propose that three of you prohibitionists shall make the race against one anti. You are all my personal friends. I have voted for two of you every time I have had the opportunity and I suppose I would have voted for the other if I had ever had the opportunity. I feel, therefore, that I can come to you frankly and freely about the matter. There ought to be some way by which you could get together and agree that one of you should make the race. In this way we would have a clear show to elect a pro to succeed Mr. Henry. Are you willing to meet with me at my residence in Waco next Monday evening that we may talk the whole matter over?

"Awaiting your immediate reply, I am, with best wishes,
"Very truly yours,
(Signed) "A. J. BARTON."
"Dallas, Texas, Nov. 12, 1915.

"Honorable Tom L. McCullough,
"Waco, Texas.

"My Dear Sir:

"I have replies from the other two gentlemen addressed in my letter of the 11th requesting conferences at my residence in Waco for Monday night, next, acceding to the request. So far I have nothing from you. * * *

"With best wishes, I am,
"Very truly yours,
(Signed) "A. J. BARTON."
"Waco, Texas, Nov. 19, 1915.

"Rev. A. J. Barton,
"Dallas, Texas.

"My Dear Sir and Friend:

"I beg to acknowledge receipt of your two letters relative to a conference with you and Mr. Neff and Mr. Connally looking to an elimination in congressional race, as I understand it. In reply, I am glad to say that I have esteemed you as a good friend of mine, and I appreciate your interest and kindly offers, knowing that it is intended primarily for the good of the cause. Absence from my office caused me to find both letters awaiting my return.

"I shall be very glad to confer with you and the gentlemen named at any time and place that suits your convenience and theirs. However, I should be frank enough to say I should not enter any conference or agreement that could result in my elimination from the race for congress. I should in all good faith make this clear statement in the beginning. I first gave it out authoritatively that I would make the race at this time for congress, and as I am some older than the other honorable gentlemen who aspire, and have experienced equal or longer public service, I do not feel that I should efface myself and abandon the policies for which I shall contend, to gratify the ambition of the other honorable aspirants for the same office.

"While I shall stand clearly and positively for prohibition, statewide and nationwide, yet I cannot get my consent to determine this race by that one issue alone, nor permit it to entirely obscure other vital issues so long neglected in the excitement necessarily incident to prohibition campaign. I have in no sense changed my sentiments in reference to the question of prohibition, unless I have grown more determined and more hopeful, and, as I have the honor and pleasure of your personal acquaintance and friendship, I sincerely trust you will not give any undue construction to this statement of my position.

"In view of the above statement, if you think the proposed conference will be helpful or fruitful, I shall be very glad to meet you as said above. I think my position as herein stated is well known to the honorable gentlemen whom you have invited to the conference. I shall be very glad to hear from you, and shall await your pleasure.

"Wishing you an early recovery and an abundant success in your great work, I am,
"Yours sincerely,
(Signed) "TOM L. McCULLOUGH."

Perhaps further comment is unnecessary, but I want to state in this connection that I am the only candidate for congress in the Eleventh district who has declared unqualifiedly for prohibition of the liquor traffic. My record is known. My platform has been published and circulated over the district for months. Then, why an elimination?

This is no time for a "gum shoe" campaigning, and a candidate for congress should come out in the open before all the people, and not dodge nor straddle the vital issues of the day.

I am in earnest in this race, and I am going to win. I want all my friends to speak out now, and at the polls we shall eliminate according to law.

TOM L. McCULLOUGH.

WILL CELEBRATE SHAKESPEAREAN ANNIVERSARY WITH ADDRESSES AND PLAYS.

WOMEN'S CLUB ASSISTING

Elaborate Program Will Attract Literary Interests of Entire City. Collegiate News.

Great preparations are being made by the English department for the tercentenary celebration of William Shakespeare here on April 21 and 22. Dr. A. J. Armstrong is at the head of the work and under his supervision it is progressing rapidly. Not only is Baylor connected vitally with this movement but the local Shakespeare club of which much has been heard is assisting. It is rated as one of the most progressive literary clubs in the south and through its aid and contribution there will be a double program. The literary feature will be its co-operation with Baylor university in bringing Dr. John M. Manley, head of the department of English in the University of Chicago, and one of the most brilliant scholars in America. Dr. Manley will speak in Carroll Chapel at 10 o'clock on the morning of the celebration. This will be the principal address of the occasion. It is especially pleasing to know that Dr. Manley comes from one of the oldest southern families, and is one long connected with the intellectual growth of the south. He is a son of a grandson of southern college presidents and has brothers and sisters who are prominent educationally in the colleges of the south.

Another brilliant lecturer and scholar who will appear in the near future is Dr. J. Morgan Calloway, Jr., head of the department of English at Texas university. He will be the exchange professor this year from that institution and will lecture here in return for a lecture given there by Dr. Armstrong last term. This plan of exchange professorships brings this year one of the most brilliant scholars in the south, and it is needless to say that the people of Waco and the students of Baylor will welcome the opportunity of hearing such a man. Dr. Calloway's researches have been recognized by all the leading universities and especially in Germany, the seat of universities. He is a man of wide reputation in America and his work in the University of Texas is such that commands the attention of the best scholars over the country.

He will speak on the "Faust Legend" in which he has made exhaustive research. In connection with his work in philology, Dr. Calloway has acquired a wide knowledge of the Teutonic languages and it is in keeping with his studies that he has become a profound student of German literature.

He will speak in Carroll Chapel on April 4, and during his stay he will be entertained by Dr. and Mrs. Armstrong, and after the lecture a big reception will be tendered him by the department of English.

Devereau Company Coming.

The engagement of Clifford Devereau and company at Baylor university April 22, afternoon and evening, will have as a special importance aside from its mere theatrical interest, the fact that a widespread movement has gone out creating a great interest in the celebration of the tercentenary of the great poet-dramatist, William Shakespeare. In the presentation of whose plays the organization has won its distinction.

Since the very beginning of its organization it has been devoted to the presentation of the comedies of Shakespeare which show the great dramatist in his gentler and more humorous moods. This season, they appear in the "Comedy of Errors," the most amusing and laughable farce that was ever based upon the misunderstandings of mistaken identity. In addition to this play and other comedies of Shakespeare, the company has in its repertoire two of the classics of English comedy, Oliver Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," and Robert Cheridan's "The Critic." But it is their appearance in the Shakespearean plays that has created so much interest and on which so much stress has been laid.

The celebration of the tercentenary has aroused a new enthusiasm in Shakespeare's work and in every school, college and university, the study of Shakespeare has assumed a new importance.

Round Table Novelty.

The Round Table has for its reception this week end a Dutch treat Friday night at the Baylor cafeteria. The husbands were invited and after they had assembled Mrs. A. J. Armstrong made a motion that the men be allowed to keep silent during the meal. The motion was carried and the women proceeded to furnish a program, which consisted of Irish jokes, a medley by Mrs. J. M. Evans, piano solo by Mr. Evans, toast to the Silent Partners, by Mrs. J. W. Downs; toast to "Men, Empty and Full," by Mrs. Kendall; toast to the new "Caf" by Mrs. S. P. Brooks. Refreshments followed after which were worked out in the scheme of the occasion and furnished many "green spectacles." It was a very pleasant affair and according to the ladies the only one at which the men did not look bored. It was sufficient that they be allowed to eat and keep silent.

Collegiate Socials.

James Garret, '17, and sister, were at home to the Marchites, Misses Watkins and Sams, and Messrs. Elder, Newton, Fielder, Evans and Garret on Friday evening at their home on South Fifth street. Entertaining stunts and other attractive features went in with the following program, to make it a most pleasant affair for all present:

Piano solo, Miss Mary Belle Pool.
Reading, by Miss Edna Payne.
Reading, by Miss Estelle Coleman.
Vocal solo, by Miss Catherine Faust.

The following were present as guests of those whose birthday happens to come during March, from the junior class at Baylor: Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Claypool, Misses Elder, Porter, Sams, Watkins, Speed, Coleman, Pool, Payne, Reagan, Mostellar, Faust, Wilson, Chesley and Kesler, and the Messrs. Baine, Pool, Fielder, Ellis, Veasey, Ellis, Robertson, Hale, Newton, Elder, Porter, Alexander and Garrett.

Since the examinations are over the students at Baylor are preparing to enter in on the new term's work, beginning Monday. The general run of the work has improved since the last set of finals before Christmas, and the students as a whole are doing much better work, it is declared. The plan of advance classification has alleviated matters considerably and enables the class work to begin promptly with the following week after examinations. Heretofore it has taken three extra days out of a week to do this and in that way the students have lost these days from class work.

TRINITY GLEE CLUB WELL RECEIVED AT UNIVERSITY

Waxahachie Collegians Gave Pleasing Program in Carroll Chapel.

The Trinity University Glee club from Waxahachie, appeared in a most interesting and entertaining program in Carroll Chapel last night. The concert was given under the auspices of the Baylor club and was well attended.

The most attractive numbers were duet cornet and trombone, by Messrs. Weir and Armstrong; "The Copper Moon," from Shelly, rendered by the glee club, and the campus scene where several of the college men on the old chapel steps to while away a few moments in song. In this last number, the Trinitonians did some artistic work, showing the temperament of college men and how their gatherings lead to a few songs to dispel the cares of courses and other college cares.

The "Royal Gypsy Symphnoy Orchestra" under the direction of Tamborroussa Pascalaris, rendered the "Kinder Symphonie," from Romberg, and through the various phases and shades of the work—the shading was most expensive.

The club is under the excellent direction of John Bert Graham, who has charge of the music department at Trinity.

The officers and personnel of the glee club which is making a rather extensive trip over the state, is as follows:

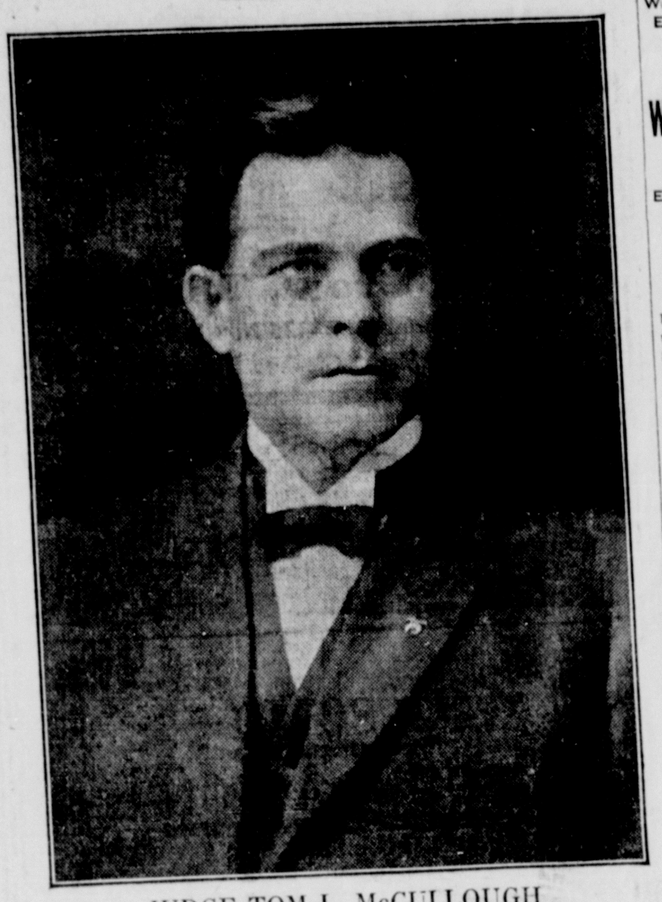
J. I. King, president; J. H. Rugel, secretary; John Mark Rogers, manager; Anna Mae Olson, accompanist; John Bert Graham, director.

First tenors, W. E. Anderson, M. T. Aubrey, Claude Rogers, J. H. Rugel, E. A. Ward; second tenors, A. L. Alexander, A. M. Armstrong, J. I. King, G. W. Newton; first basses, V. K. Aubrey, C. C. Craven, J. E. Kerr, Leroy Moore; second basses, J. B. Graham, C. H. Henderson, C. M. Kennedy, S. H. Weir.

Cotton Receipts Much Below 1915

According to figures furnished by Sem Nix, public weigher, seventy-eight bales of cotton were weighed here yesterday, which brings the total for the year up to 23,430 in comparison with 30,876 of last year, which is a decrease of 7,446 bales. The total figures for the week were 512 bales. Cotton sold yesterday from 11½ to 12 cents a pound, middling 11 7-8 cents.

Judge Tom L. McCullough Declares Campaign Should Be Fought on Broad Lines



JUDGE TOM L. McCULLOUGH

To Voters of the Eleventh Congressional District:

So much has been said recently about elimination of candidates for office, with respect to the prohibition issue, and the aspirants for congress have been so plainly admonished on this subject, that I believe it timely for me to state my attitude.

More than a year ago I announced that I would become a candidate for congress, and last October I published a platform of principles for which I should contend, but I did not desire nor believe that the contest should be determined by the single issue of prohibition.

I considered the past year, the most eventful in the world's history, and the present, the most critical in shaping the future destiny of our own country. It occurred to me that there were large questions of vital import that would require skill in statesmanship and patriotism in all the people.

But the question of elimination was given a fresh vigor and a new application by the recent interview of my good friend, Dr. A. J. Barton, state superintendent, Anti-Saloon league, wherein he says:

"Referring to the race in this respect, Dr. Barton said that he hoped the entire pro vote would be centered upon some worthy man, as in all other districts of the state. Continuing his remarks as to the contest in the Eleventh district, Dr. Barton said: 'There are at present no three pros in the district who have horse sense enough to make good congressmen, with little enough sense to spend their money and energy in making the race against one anti.'"

Perhaps I cannot better express my attitude to that proposition than I stated it in correspondence with Dr. A. J. Barton, last November, which is as follows:

"ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE OF TEXAS
"Arthur J. Barton, Superintendent.
"Dallas, Texas, November 11, 1915.

"Honorables,
"Pat M. Neff,
"Tom L. McCullough,
"Waco, Texas;
"Tom Connally,
"Marlin, Texas.

"Dear Sirs and Friends: Knowing me as you do, I am sure you will take this letter in the spirit in which it is written. I am greatly interested in all of our congressional races, especially in the one in the Eleventh district. We have a chance there to elect a prohibitionist if matters are wisely and efficiently handled. I understand that all three of you are expecting to run for the place. Of course, if you do, it means absolutely defeat for all of you and for our cause. You must have a good deal of time and money that you don't especially need if you propose that three of you prohibitionists shall make the race against one anti. You are all my personal friends. I have voted for two of you every time I have had the opportunity and I suppose I would have voted for the other if I had ever had the opportunity. I feel, therefore, that I can come to you frankly and freely about the matter. There ought to be some way by which you could get together and agree that one of you should make the race. In this way we would have a clear show to elect a pro to succeed Mr. Henry. Are you willing to meet with me at my residence in Waco next Monday evening that we may talk the whole matter over?

"Awaiting your immediate reply, I am, with best wishes,

"Very truly yours,
(Signed) "A. J. BARTON."
"Dallas, Texas, Nov. 12, 1915.

"Honorable Tom L. McCullough,
"Waco, Texas.

"My Dear Sir:

"I have replies from the other two gentlemen addressed in my letter of the 11th requesting conferences at my residence in Waco for Monday night, next, acceding to the request. So far I have nothing from you. * * *

"With best wishes, I am,

"Very truly yours,
(Signed) "A. J. BARTON."
"Waco, Texas, Nov. 19, 1915.

"Rev. A. J. Barton,
"Dallas, Texas.

"My Dear Sir and Friend:

"I beg to acknowledge receipt of your two letters relative to a conference with you and Mr. Neff and Mr. Connally looking to an elimination in congressional race, as I understand it. In reply, I am glad to say that I have esteemed you as a good friend of mine, and I appreciate your interest and kindly offers, knowing that it is intended primarily for the good of the cause. Absence from my office caused me to find both letters awaiting my return.

"I shall be very glad to confer with you and the gentlemen named at any time and place that suits your convenience and theirs. However, I should be frank enough to say I should not enter any conference or agreement that could result in my elimination from the race for congress. I should in all good faith make this clear statement in the beginning. I first gave it out authoritatively that I would make the race at this time for congress, and as I am some older than the other honorable gentlemen who aspire, and have experienced equal or longer public service, I do not feel that I should efface myself and abandon the policies for which I shall contend, to gratify the ambition of the other honorable aspirants for the same office.

"While I shall stand clearly and positively for prohibition, statewide and nationwide, yet I cannot get my consent to determine this race by that one issue alone, nor permit it to entirely obscure other vital issues so long neglected in the excitement necessarily incident to prohibition campaign. I have in no sense changed my sentiments in reference to the question of prohibition, unless I have grown more determined and more hopeful, and, as I have the honor and pleasure of your personal acquaintance and friendship, I sincerely trust you will not give any undue construction to this statement of my position.

"In view of the above statement, if you think the proposed conference will be helpful or fruitful, I shall be very glad to meet you as said above. I think my position as herein stated is well known to the honorable gentlemen whom you have invited to the conference. I shall be very glad to hear from you, and shall await your pleasure.

"Wishing you an early recovery and an abundant success in your great work, I am,

"Yours sincerely,
(Signed) "TOM L. McCULLOUGH."

Perhaps further comment is unnecessary, but I want to state in this connection that I am the only candidate for congress in the Eleventh district who has declared unqualifiedly for prohibition of the liquor traffic. My record is known. My platform has been published and circulated over the district for months. Then, why an elimination?

This is no time for a "gum shoe" campaigning, and a candidate for congress should come out in the open before all the people, and not dodge nor straddle the vital issues of the day.

I am in earnest in this race, and I am going to win. I want all my friends to speak out now, and at the polls we shall eliminate according to law.

TOM L. McCULLOUGH.

WILL CELEBRATE SHAKESPEAREAN ANNIVERSARY WITH ADDRESSES AND PLAYS.

Elaborate Program Will Attract Literary Interests of Entire City. Collegiate News.

Great preparations are being made by the English department for the tercentenary celebration of William Shakespeare here on April 21 and 22. Dr. A. J. Armstrong is at the head of the work and under his supervision it is progressing rapidly. Not only is Baylor connected vitally with this movement but the local Shakespeare club of which much has been heard is assisting. It is rated as one of the most progressive literary clubs in the south and through its aid and contribution there will be a double program. The literary feature will be its co-operation with Baylor university in bringing Dr. John M. Manley, head of the department of English in the University of Chicago, and one of the most brilliant scholars in America. Dr. Manley will speak in Carroll Chapel at 10 o'clock on the morning of the celebration. This will be the principal address of the occasion. It is especially pleasing to know that Dr. Manley comes from one of the oldest southern families, and is one long connected with the intellectual growth of the south. He is a son of a grandson of southern college presidents and has brothers and sisters who are prominent educationally in the colleges of the south.

Another brilliant lecturer and scholar who will appear in the near future is Dr. J. Morgan Calloway, Jr., head of the department of English at Texas university. He will be the exchange professor this year from that institution and will lecture here in return for a lecture given there by Dr. Armstrong last term. This plan of exchange professorships brings this year one of the most brilliant scholars in the south, and it is needless to say that the people of Waco and the students of Baylor will welcome the opportunity of hearing such a man. Dr. Calloway's researches have been recognized by all the leading universities and especially in Germany, the seat of universities. He is a man of wide reputation in America and his work in the University of Texas is such that commands the attention of the best scholars over the country.

He will speak on the "Faust Legend" in which he has made exhaustive research. In connection with his work in philology, Dr. Calloway has acquired a wide knowledge of the Teutonic languages and it is in keeping with his studies that he has become a profound student of German literature.

He will speak in Carroll Chapel on April 4, and during his stay he will be entertained by Dr. and Mrs. Armstrong, and after the lecture a big reception will be tendered him by the department of English.

Devereau Company Coming.

The engagement of Clifford Devereau and company at Baylor university April 22, afternoon and evening, will have as a special importance aside from its mere theatrical interest, the fact that a widespread movement has gone out creating a great interest in the celebration of the tercentenary of the great poet-dramatist, William Shakespeare. In the presentation of whose plays the organization has won its distinction.

Since the very beginning of its organization it has been devoted to the presentation of the comedies of Shakespeare which show the great dramatist in his gentler and more humorous moods. This season, they appear in the "Comedy of Errors," the most amusing and laughable farce that was ever based upon the misunderstandings of mistaken identity. In addition to this play and other comedies of Shakespeare, the company has in its repertoire two of the classics of English comedy, Oliver Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," and Robert Cheridan's "The Critic." But it is their appearance in the Shakespearean plays that has created so much interest and on which so much stress has been laid.

The celebration of the tercentenary has aroused a new enthusiasm in Shakespeare's work and in every school, college and university, the study of Shakespeare has assumed a new importance.

Round Table Novelty.

The Round Table has for its reception this week end a Dutch treat Friday night at the Baylor cafeteria. The husbands were invited and after they had assembled Mrs. A. J. Armstrong made a motion that the men be allowed to keep silent during the meal. The motion was carried and the women proceeded to furnish a program, which consisted of Irish jokes, a medley by Mrs. J. M. Evans, piano solo by Mr. Evans, toast to the Silent Partners, by Mrs. J. W. Downs; toast to "Men, Empty and Full," by Mrs. Kendall; toast to the new "Caf" by Mrs. S. P. Brooks. Refreshments followed after which were worked out in the scheme of the occasion and furnished many "green spectacles." It was a very pleasant affair and according to the ladies the only one at which the men did not look bored. It was sufficient that they be allowed to eat and keep silent.

Collegiate Socials.

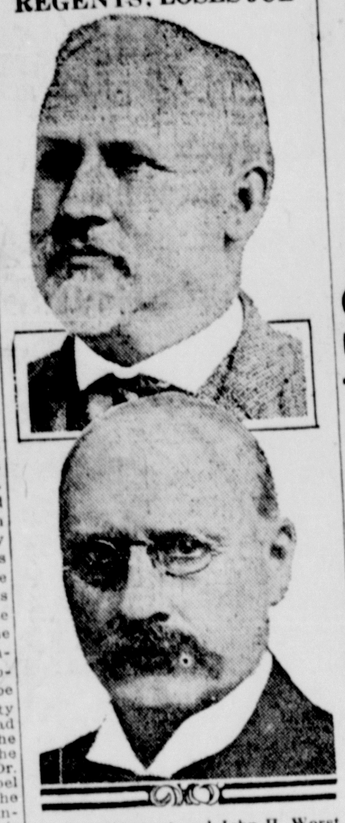
James Garret, '17, and sister, were at home to the Marchites, Misses Watkins and Sams, and Messrs. Elder, Newton, Fielder, Evans and Garret on Friday evening at their home on South Fifth street. Entertaining stunts and other attractive features went in with the following program, to make it a most pleasant affair for all present:

Piano solo, Miss Mary Belle Pool.
Reading, by Miss Edna Payne.
Reading, by Miss Estelle Coleman.
Vocal solo, by Miss Catherine Faust.

The following were present as guests of those whose birthday happens to come during March, from the junior class at Baylor: Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Claypool, Misses Elder, Porter, Sams, Watkins, Speed, Coleman, Pool, Payne, Reagan, Mostellar, Faust, Wilson, Chesley and Kesler, and the Messrs. Baine, Pool, Fielder, Ellis, Veasey, Ellis, Robertson, Hale, Newton, Elder, Porter, Alexander and Garrett.

Since the examinations are over the students at Baylor are preparing to enter in on the new term's work, beginning Monday. The general run of the work has improved since the last set of finals before Christmas, and the students as a whole are doing much better work, it is declared. The plan of advance classification has alleviated matters considerably and enables the class work to begin promptly with the following week after examinations. Heretofore it has taken three extra days out of a week to do this and in that way the students have lost these days from class work.

COLLEGE PRESIDENT IN HOT FIGHT WITH REGENTS; LOSES JOB



E. F. Ladd (top) and John H. Worst.

John H. Worst, former president of the International Dry Farming congress, and president of the North Dakota Agricultural college for the last 21 years, was deposed by the North Dakota board of regents as a climax of a bitter clash between the college executive and the board, and E. F. Ladd, nationally known because of his active work as the head of the North Dakota pure food commission is the new college president.

WACO MILITIA COS' ASK CO-OPERATION OF ALL EMPLOYERS

Enthusiastic over the possibility of being called out for active service on the border before the present Mexican crisis is subdued, the two local companies, K and G, of the Texas National Guards, are holding drills three times a week instead of once a week, as had been the custom. Practically every member of both companies were present at the drills last week. If the number of recruits increases to any extent during the week the companies will be of war strength, is the belief of Captains Weatherred and Torrence. General Cecil A. Lyons, commander of the Texas National Guards, said last night that he expected 150 men to each brigade to be enlisted by Saturday night.

In order to stimulate interest of the local employers in the enlistment movement cards have been sent them including the following questions:

"Are you in favor of 'preparedness?'

"Have you any objections to a reasonable number of your employes belonging to the National Guard?

"Will you permit one out of every four of your employes from each of your departments to belong to the National Guard and to attend the summer camps of instruction for a period of not over twenty days without salary from you and without your deducting the time spent in camp from the employe's regular vacation, if any?"

The following letter accompanies the cards:

"The federalized National Guard will be the basis of the citizen soldiery in the country's preparedness program. Waco has been requested to contribute to this force one full battalion of four companies of infantry, amounting to about 350 men.

"This letter and the inclosed card are sent you to ascertain whether or not your concern will be in position to bear its part of the additional burden that is imposed upon our citizenship by the measures that are being taken for national defense. As it will be necessary to ascertain the attitude of employers throughout the city before further steps are taken and as it is highly desirable that Waco's response be prompt, you are requested to fill in your replies, to the questions asked, upon the inclosed card and to make any suggestions that you might have to offer and to mail the card without delay.

Sanger Bros. Will Help to Entertain

Miss A. Huthmacher, buyer for the Sanger millinery department, left for New York on her second buying trip of the season yesterday. This trip on the part of the Sanger store's millinery buyer is the result of an unusually good season in this department. The store displays only one hat of a style, thereby insuring its patrons of exclusiveness and individuality in style. Miss Huthmacher left the markets about three weeks ago, reaching Waco just in time to direct the important part that her department played in the formal spring opening and fashion show and since that time a feature of the Sanger store has been the daily arrival of new styles and fashions and these have been added to the immense displays that were purchased in advance for the spring season. On this trip Miss Huthmacher will see and talk with the leading style creators concerning the new millinery that is to be brought forth for Easter and she will make extensive purchases of the most recent original creations.

It is possible that other department buyers for the Sanger Store will also visit the markets during the next few days to secure new merchandise for their various departments.

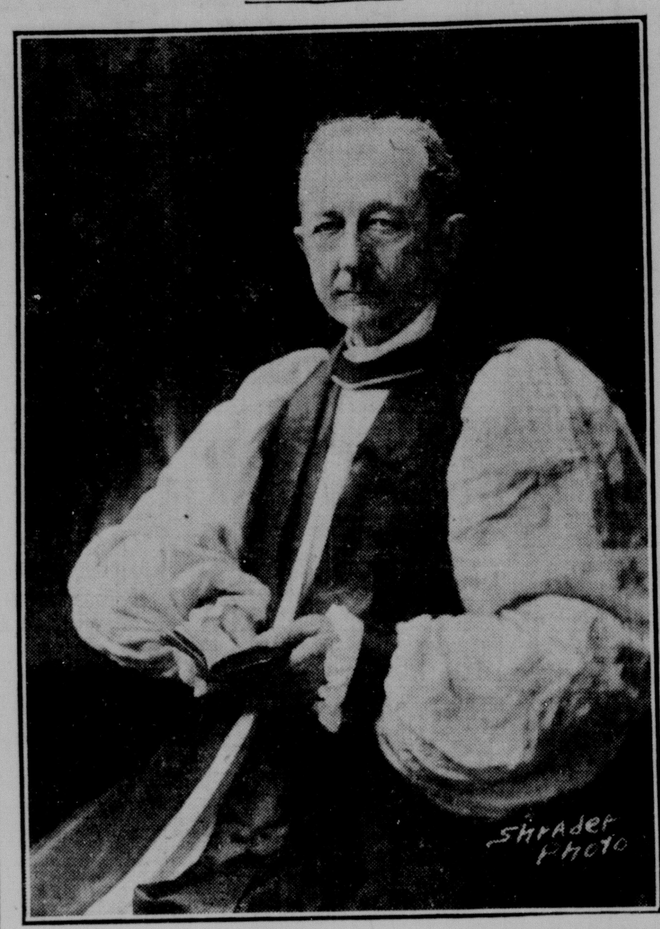
Noted Episcopal Bishop of Arkansas Will Lead Mission at St. Paul's



RT. REV. J. R. WINCHESTER, BISHOP OF ARKANSAS.

Bishop Winchester will conduct the preaching at the St. Paul's Episcopal mission, which begins this morning. The services will be continued through nine days. In addition to the eloquent discourses and other features of the mission, an elaborate program of music has been arranged. Services will be held daily at 7:30 a. m., 3:30 p. m. and 8 p. m.

Bishop Winchester is one of the most loved and admired of the clergy; he is a strong speaker, a man of interesting address, and he has especially prepared himself for the series of services which he will hold in this city.

The "mission," as it is called in the Episcopal church, is not generally understood by the public. This church does not conduct "revivals" or "protracted meetings," as they are called by other denominations, but has "missions," the purpose being a season of daily services, during which the effort is made to reach to the outer precincts of the parish and arouse the interest of every layman to the affairs of the church, to the message of the gospel and to his duty to his church affiliations; it also hopes to bring under influence of the missioner and his words those who are outside the fellowship of the church, to interest them in preparation for proper acceptance of the gospel and to have them come forward to be baptized if they have not before been baptized and to be confirmed into full membership.

Farmers Say That Dryness Is Causing Planting of Grain

W. A. Bryson of Ben Arnold and Finley Dominy of Prairie Hill, well known farmers of these two communities, were in the city yesterday and in discussing jointly farm conditions, came readily to the conclusion that it was "very dry." In spite of the lack of rain, both said that oats are standing the drought exceptionally well. Cotton planting is being delayed until it rains, they said. In many instances, they explained, it was so dry that it had become necessary to replant the corn in order to get a stand.

Because of the condition of the land and the lateness for replanting corn, both of them agreed that much small grain would be planted, such as kaffir corn and milo maize, feterita and sorghum. It was stated by the gentlemen that in some places carloads of cane seed were being received for planting.

"The farmers were caught napping year before last on the feed crop, but they will not be caught again—the end of this year will find the farmer and his animals with plenty to eat from his own farm," said Mr. Dominy. It was the opinion of the two farmers that the cotton acreage in their respective communities would be about the same as that of last year.

Goldstein Speaks Today at Y. M. H. A.

I. A. Goldstein will be the principal speaker this afternoon at the meeting of the Young Men's Hebrew association in the basement of Temple Rodef Sholom. The meeting is called for 3 o'clock and the president urges a full attendance. Other numbers of the program will be the regular paper on current events by Lape Lazarus and a chapter of Jewish history by I. Adelman.

CITY NEWS BRIEFS

An automatic pistol was accidentally discharged in the office of the county jail by some visitors yesterday that proved a fairly close call for one peason in the office. It was not known that the gun was loaded.

The Waco cotton market was crowded yesterday for the first time in quite a while by a liberal supply of the staple being sold on the square. Prices ranged around 11.85 a pound, with a tendency toward 12 cents for middling basis.

T. P. Duncan, Eighteenth and Morrow streets, is having a modern two-story residence erected. The building is constructed in line with the most approved architectural plans and is complete with garage and outbuildings of similar style.

The Bell's Hill gravity line will be inspected this week, probably Tuesday or Wednesday by the officials of the local waterworks department, according to a statement made last night by E. L. Fulkerson, secretary of the waterworks department.

Several trees have been planted to help the work of improvement in the Quay memorial park. The excavations have been made and work will start tomorrow in laying the cement foundation. The walks are being put in, the ground sodded and grass planted. A number of flower beds and other improvements will be added at an early date.

City Detectives Alva Tilley and Sim Sheppard arrested a young man yesterday morning in connection with a recent Corsicana robbery, when $40 was stolen. After being arrested and searched, $38.20 was found on his person. He was carefully questioned by the officers and locked up, awaiting the arrival of City Marshall Knight of Corsicana, who is expected to get here this morning to take him back for trial.

Get Rid of Pimples--Quick

By Using Stuart's Calcium Wafers—Natural Little Blood Purifiers That Work Like a Charm.

Costs Nothing to Try Them

He—"How sweet you look."
She—"It was only removing those horrid pimples. Stuart's Calcium Wafers simply work wonders."

Don't despair if your face is covered with pimples, blotches, liver spots or your body is covered in spots with tetter, rash, boils, tc. Just use Stuart's Calcium Wafers for a short time and see how quickly you will clear up your skin.

Pimples and eruptions of all kinds come from the inside. The blood casts out the impurities it contains and thus pimples, boils, etc., appear. Cleanse the blood, stop the poison from developing in the blood tissues and pimples will vanish as if by magic.

Stuart's Calcium Wafers contain in a natural manner the greatest blood purifier—Calcium Sulphide.

Calcium Sulphide and the other ingredients of these remarkable little wafers are just what impure blood needs. You must know that the blood is rushing through our veins very fast. It takes less than a minute for our blood to cover the entire body.

You can thus readily see that Stuart's Calcium Wafers, when they enter the body, have an almost instant effect upon all impurities, no matter where located, whether it be the tip of the nose or the ends of the toes.

By the use of Stuart's Calcium Wafers your complexion will take on a fresher hue and a more natural series of tints than ever before.

Impure blood is blue or black. Purify it and it becomes ruby red. This color showing beneath the skin is the secret of all beautiful complexions.

Stuart's Calcium Wafers are sold by all druggists everywhere. Price 50 cents a box.

GIRLS! BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR AND STOP DANDRUFF

HAIR BECOMES CHARMING, WAVY, LUSTROUS AND THICK IN FEW MOMENTS.

EVERY BIT OF DANDRUFF DISAPPEARS AND HAIR STOPS COMING OUT.

For 25 cents you can save your hair. In less than ten minutes you can double its beauty. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and charming as a young girl's after applying some Danderine. Also try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair, growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it, surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and just try it.

WACO MILITIA COS' ASK CO-OPERATION OF ALL EMPLOYERS

Enthusiastic over the possibility of being called out for active service on the border before the present Mexican crisis is subdued, the two local companies, K and G, of the Texas National Guards, are holding drills three times a week instead of once a week, as had been the custom. Practically every member of both companies were present at the drills last week. If the number of recruits increases to any extent during the week the companies will be of war strength, is the belief of Captains Weatherred and Torrence. General Cecil A. Lyons, commander of the Texas National Guards, said last night that he expected 150 men to each brigade to be enlisted by Saturday night.

In order to stimulate interest of the local employers in the enlistment movement cards have been sent them including the following questions:

"Are you in favor of 'preparedness?'

"Have you any objections to a reasonable number of your employes belonging to the National Guard?

"Will you permit one out of every four of your employes from each of your departments to belong to the National Guard and to attend the summer camps of instruction for a period of not over twenty days without salary from you and without your deducting the time spent in camp from the employe's regular vacation, if any?"

The following letter accompanies the cards:

"The federalized National Guard will be the basis of the citizen soldiery in the country's preparedness program. Waco has been requested to contribute to this force one full battalion of four companies of infantry, amounting to about 350 men.

"This letter and the inclosed card are sent you to ascertain whether or not your concern will be in position to bear its part of the additional burden that is imposed upon our citizenship by the measures that are being taken for national defense. As it will be necessary to ascertain the attitude of employers throughout the city before further steps are taken and as it is highly desirable that Waco's response be prompt, you are requested to fill in your replies, to the questions asked, upon the inclosed card and to make any suggestions that you might have to offer and to mail the card without delay.

Sanger Bros. Will Help to Entertain

Miss A. Huthmacher, buyer for the Sanger millinery department, left for New York on her second buying trip of the season yesterday. This trip on the part of the Sanger store's millinery buyer is the result of an unusually good season in this department. The store displays only one hat of a style, thereby insuring its patrons of exclusiveness and individuality in style. Miss Huthmacher left the markets about three weeks ago, reaching Waco just in time to direct the important part that her department played in the formal spring opening and fashion show and since that time a feature of the Sanger store has been the daily arrival of new styles and fashions and these have been added to the immense displays that were purchased in advance for the spring season. On this trip Miss Huthmacher will see and talk with the leading style creators concerning the new millinery that is to be brought forth for Easter and she will make extensive purchases of the most recent original creations.

It is possible that other department buyers for the Sanger Store will also visit the markets during the next few days to secure new merchandise for their various departments.

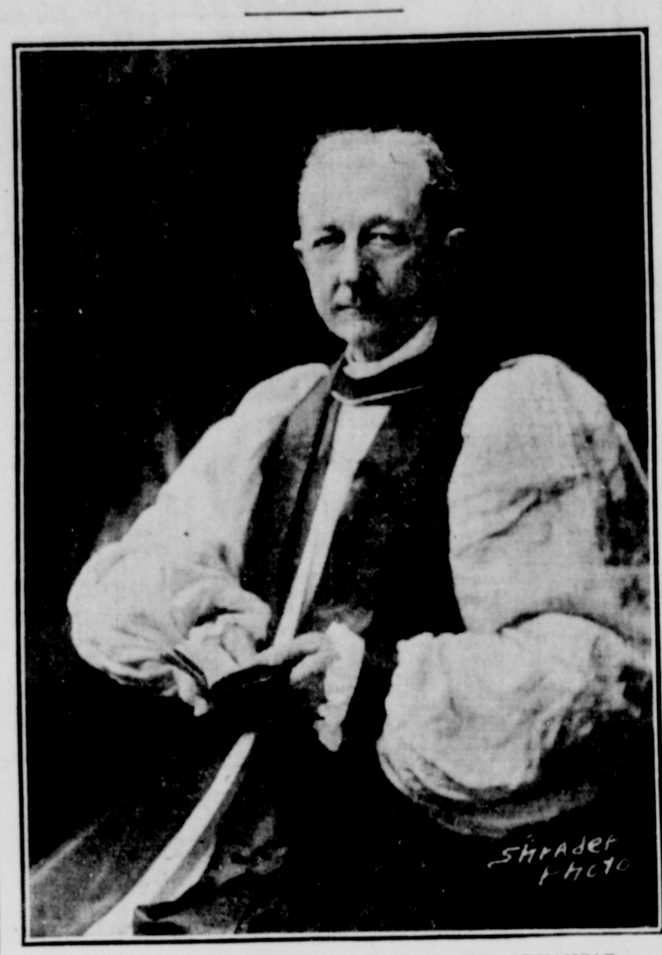
Noted Episcopal Bishop of Arkansas Will Lead Mission at St. Paul's



RT. REV. J. R. WINCHESTER, BISHOP OF ARKANSAS.

Bishop Winchester will conduct the preaching at the St. Paul's Episcopal mission, which begins this morning. The services will be continued through nine days. In addition to the eloquent discourses and other features of the mission, an elaborate program of music has been arranged. Services will be held daily at 7:30 a. m., 3:30 p. m. and 8 p. m.

Bishop Winchester is one of the most loved and admired of the clergy; he is a strong speaker, a man of interesting address, and he has especially prepared himself for the series of services which he will hold in this city.

The "mission," as it is called in the Episcopal church, is not generally understood by the public. This church does not conduct "revivals" or "protracted meetings," as they are called by other denominations, but has "missions," the purpose being a season of daily services, during which the effort is made to reach to the outer precincts of the parish and arouse the interest of every layman to the affairs of the church, to the message of the gospel and to his duty to his church affiliations; it also hopes to bring under influence of the missioner and his words those who are outside the fellowship of the church, to interest them in preparation for proper acceptance of the gospel and to have them come forward to be baptized if they have not before been baptized and to be confirmed into full membership.

Farmers Say That Dryness Is Causing Planting of Grain

W. A. Bryson of Ben Arnold and Finley Dominy of Prairie Hill, well known farmers of these two communities, were in the city yesterday and in discussing jointly farm conditions, came readily to the conclusion that it was "very dry." In spite of the lack of rain, both said that oats are standing the drought exceptionally well. Cotton planting is being delayed until it rains, they said. In many instances, they explained, it was so dry that it had become necessary to replant the corn in order to get a stand.

Because of the condition of the land and the lateness for replanting corn, both of them agreed that much small grain would be planted, such as kaffir corn and milo maize, feterita and sorghum. It was stated by the gentlemen that in some places carloads of cane seed were being received for planting.

"The farmers were caught napping year before last on the feed crop, but they will not be caught again—the end of this year will find the farmer and his animals with plenty to eat from his own farm," said Mr. Dominy. It was the opinion of the two farmers that the cotton acreage in their respective communities would be about the same as that of last year.

Goldstein Speaks Today at Y. M. H. A.

I. A. Goldstein will be the principal speaker this afternoon at the meeting of the Young Men's Hebrew association in the basement of Temple Rodef Sholom. The meeting is called for 3 o'clock and the president urges a full attendance. Other numbers of the program will be the regular paper on current events by Lape Lazarus and a chapter of Jewish history by I. Adelman.

CITY NEWS BRIEFS

An automatic pistol was accidentally discharged in the office of the county jail by some visitors yesterday that proved a fairly close call for one peason in the office. It was not known that the gun was loaded.

The Waco cotton market was crowded yesterday for the first time in quite a while by a liberal supply of the staple being sold on the square. Prices ranged around 11.85 a pound, with a tendency toward 12 cents for middling basis.

T. P. Duncan, Eighteenth and Morrow streets, is having a modern two-story residence erected. The building is constructed in line with the most approved architectural plans and is complete with garage and outbuildings of similar style.

The Bell's Hill gravity line will be inspected this week, probably Tuesday or Wednesday by the officials of the local waterworks department, according to a statement made last night by E. L. Fulkerson, secretary of the waterworks department.

Several trees have been planted to help the work of improvement in the Quay memorial park. The excavations have been made and work will start tomorrow in laying the cement foundation. The walks are being put in, the ground sodded and grass planted. A number of flower beds and other improvements will be added at an early date.

After being arrested and searched, $38.20 was found on his person. He was carefully questioned by the officers and locked up, awaiting the arrival of City Marshall Knight of Corsicana, who is expected to get here this morning to take him back for trial.

Agricultural Agent Would Help Farmers Conserve Hillsides

J. A. Pipkin, Jr., county agricultural demonstrating agent, reported last night that the practical explanation of terracing and drainage work given Friday at the farm of R. McCormick in the South Bosque community was largely attended. Such is the interest in this scientific method of conserving hillside land, that Mr. Pipkin said he would be glad to repeat the demonstration on request at other points. "Just tell the farmers that if they want to be shown how o keep the hillsides from washing away, we will be glad to show them how it can be stopped," said the county demonstration agent to the newspapers last night. He has been assisted by J. C. Olsen of the A. and M. department of extension.

Coming to Waco

The United Doctors

An Association of Prominent American Physician Specialists Giving Free Medical Services to the Sick.

At Hotel Metropole March 20, 21, 22, 23, 24 and 25—One Week Only.

The United Doctors are visiting the principal cities throughout the United States. Licensed by the states for the treatment of diseases, deformities, ailments and maladies of various forms without surgical operation.

Startling disclosures relative to the treatment of consumption, asthma, bronchial catarrh, catarrh, catarrhal deafness and throat and lung diseases by the combination of medicine, diet, clothing, hygiene and exercise.

By their developed system, no more operations for appendicitis, gall stones, kidney stones, enlargement of the liver; stomach ulcers and many other so-called operatable diseases, doing away with the knife, blood and pain in the treatment of dangerous diseases.

Tumors, tubercular glands, piles and growths of a suspicious nature treated with the hypodermic needle injection method, "that recognized great curative plan for disease without surgical operation."

Rheumatism, neuralgia, neuritis, stiffness of the joints, hardening of the arteries, blood poisons, trachoma (eye disease), pellagra, paralysis, a treatment in part, as adopted after years of research work, by the United States government.

Diseases of the nerves and brain, headaches, epilepsy, mental weakness, bed-wetting in children and diseases of the stomach, kidneys, bladder and bowels, and the chronic diseases of men, women and children, treated by experienced methods, as used in thousands of cases with entire success.

Because of their experience and preparedness, in the treatment of such diseases as goiter, eczema, scrofula, heart affections, swelling of the limbs, dropsy, varicose veins, nervous debility in men, etc., they are able to treat scientifically those that have heretofore doctored without benefit.

The United Doctors will give free treatment (except a small charge for medicines) on this particular visit, and this only to those who are interested and really sick.

Those who have been told that an operation is necessary or that their case is incurable, are especially invited to call. Married women must come with their husbands, and children with their parents.

Big Revival at the Austin Avenue Methodist Church

STILL GOING ON—BIG CROWDS!

Dr. Frank P. Culver

Assisted by

REV. D. A. McGUIRE

Will deliver two very strong sermons today

The 11 o'clock hour subject

"The Influence of This Life Upon the Life to Come"

The Choir of Fifty Voices Will Be Led by MR. JAMES W. CHAPMAN, of Jacksonville, Fla., who is a noted Baritone Soloist, who carries a message of deep religious fervor and enthusiasm.

Dr. Culver is An Earnest Exponent of True Christian Faith and His Sermons Should Be Heard By Everybody.

The eight o'clock hour

"What the Bible Says About Hell"

Services next week will be 10:30 a. m. and 8 p. m. Special music. Come and get a good seat.

Dr. Culver, who will do most of the preaching, is justly admitted to be one of the strongest and most forceful pulpit orators in the Southwest. He grips his hearers from the first word and holds their attention to the last syllable. He will interest deeply all who attend. Don't fail to hear him.

PIONEER MERCHANT PASSES TO REWARD

R. H. GRAY, AGED 79 YEARS, SUCCUMBS TO LONG PERIOD OF ILLNESS.

Well Known Grocery Merchant for Many Years—Funeral This Afternoon.

After an illness that had extended over a period of several months, R. H. Gray, 79 years old, and pioneer merchant of the city—being the senior member of the firm of Gray & Smith, grocers—died at his residence, 2009 Washington street, at 4:40 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Gray was born at Salem, Tenn., June 11, 1837, and was educated in that state, where he grew to manhood. At the age of 21 he came to Texas and located at Plantersville, Grimes county, where he was engaged in the lumber business for a number of years. In the spring of 1862 he volunteered his services to the Confederate army and became a member of Company H., Twenty-first Texas cavalry, Parson's brigade, and served through the remainder of the war, sustaining a record as a loyal, faithful, efficient soldier. He saw service in Arkansas, Louisiana, Missouri and Texas and enjoyed the esteem of all his comrades.

While at Plantersville he married Miss Rebecca Quinn of that city, and she survives him, along with a daughter, Mrs. Jessie Gray Smith of this city, Capt. Quinn Gray of the United States army; two grandsons in Waco, Dick and Billy Smith, and three other grandchildren, the sons of Captain Gray. Mr. and Mrs. Gray had been married fifty years June 21 last year, but due to the fact that they were out of the city at the time they did not hold a formal celebration of their golden wedding anniversary.

By both his father and his mother, Mr. Gray was a descendant of the famous Lewis family of Virginia, one member of which was a signer to the Declaration of Independence.

Coming to Waco thirty years ago Mr. Gray soon became identified with the mercantile interests of the city and has long been one of the leading grocers of the city. Up until the time that his health failed him recently he gave himself regular attention to his business in spite of his advanced years.

For many years the deceased had been an active member of the First Baptist church of this city and Rev. J. M. Dawson, pastor of the church, will officiate at the funeral, which will be held from the family residence at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon, assisted by Rev. John G. Kendall and Dr. C. T. Caldwell. Mr. Gray was also a prominent Mason, and a member of R. E. Lee Camp, U. C. V. Both the Masons and the Confederate Veterans will attend the funeral this afternoon. Interment will be made in Oakwood cemetery.

Active pall bearers will be W. B. King, J. R. Davis, J. W. Younts, Dr. Carl Lovelace, B. R. Mason and J. H. Coffield, while the honorary list includes Judge D. A. Kelly, Judge W. H. Jenkins, W. H. Moseley, Sr., J. P. Strother, Dr. W. S. Witte, John Moore, Sr., A. R. McCollum and C. M. Pattillo of Cisco.

Crawford Constable Gets Wanted Negro

Duplicating the clever work of the local sheriff's department in catching a pair of alleged burglars of oats several days ago, Constable Will Anderson of Crawford yesterday caught what is thought to be the other member of the trio. The grain was taken from the farm of C. B. Garrison, who lives near Crawford, after the thieves had broken into the granary. The men held are all negroes.

This Is "Advertising Sunday" in America

Today has been set aside by the International Associated Ad clubs as "Advertising Sunday" and will be observed in some manner throughout the United States. In Waco there will be no special observance with the exception that the various pastors of the city have been requested to announce from the pulpits that the day is "Advertising Day." The reason for the day being proclaimed by the International Associated Ad clubs was in order to promote truth in advertising. Cards have been sent out with pledges to be signed by members of ad clubs, promising they will live up to the "truth in advertising" slogan.

Commissioner of Insurance Sues in Local Courts

J. S. Patterson, state commissioner of insurance and banking, filed a suit for debt and foreclosure against W. E. Erwin in the seventy-fourth district court yesterday afternoon. In the same court the judge gave peremptory instructions for the defendant in the case of Edna Deane vs. Charles Deane, suit for property.

The Early-Foster company filed a suit for debt against the Anderson County Cotton Oil company. The suit of J. J. Futch vs. Charles Sanger, suit for cancellation of certain papers, was on trial during the afternoon.

Baylor Boy Answers Question Asked in Newspaper Headline

After having seen the story about the robbery of the home of Henry Little, 1015 South Fifth street, in yesterday's Morning News, in which Mrs. Little was quoted as saying she thought the person who assisted in the search for the robber might have been a confederate, a Baylor boy told Mr. Little yesterday that he was the person who had helped Mrs. Little to look for the burglar. The student went in search of the robber in the excitement, left without giving his name. The circumstances were such that for the time being it was thought that the young man might have assisted in letting the man escape. This was a natural conclusion from one angle, but is now proven an absolute error, said Mr. Little last night. The Morning News story was headed: "Did he assist Mrs. Little, or assist in the robbery?" The question is answered.

Victim of Pistol Accident Still in Serious Condition

T. S. Nichols, aged 33 years, of McGregor, who was injured Friday afternoon when an automatic pistol he was examining was accidently discharged, was reported at a late hour last night to be getting along as well as could be expected, but still in a very critical condition. One bullet from the automatic struck Mr. Nichols 'thumb and forefinger and another penetrated his right lung.

W. G. Hooper, a representative of the Southern Union Life Insurance company, was on his way to the home of Mr. Nichols when the accident occurred. He arrived and found that his prospect for life insurance was being rushed to a Waco hospital in a very critical condition.

Mr. Nichols has lived near McGregor for the last eight years, having moved there with his wife from San Angelo.

MISSION AT ST. PAUL'S CHURCH BEGINS TODAY

Series in Line With Idea of Episcopal Parish of Intensive Work.

This morning at 7:30 o'clock the first of the services of the mission to be held at St. Paul's church will be held, this series to costinue through next Sunday.

Rt. Rev. J. R. Winchester, D. D., bishop of Arkansas, arrived yesterday to conduct the mission, and throughout the entire time he will be the preacher. This mission is being held in conformity with the action of the caurch more than a year ago which decided that it would be well for every parish to hold such services and that the leading clergy of the church be called on to discuss the doctrine of the denomination and bring more clearly before the people at this time the faith of the church. Bishop Winchester was selected for Waco. He has served here on one other occasion in the past as the preacher for a mission and he is not unknown to the people here. Beside that he has friends here among those who were of his college days, notably among these being the Hon. Joe W. Taylor, who was his classmate.

Bishop Winchester is one of the strongest of the clergy of the south. He is a man of fine address and entertaining in speech. His entire ministry has been in the south, serving quite a number of churches in Alabama and in Tennessee before he was elected bishop of Arkansas.

The services are to be daily at 7:30 a. m., 3:30 p. m. and 8 p. m. Rev. W. P. Witsell, rector of the parish, has arranged for special music for this week. St. Paul's church has one of the finest pipe organs ever brought to Texas and it will be a feature of all the services.

White Way Committee to Dallas This Week

W. W. Naman and W. V. Crawford, representing the white way committee of the Young Men's Business League, in company with members of the city commission, will go to Dallas some day this week in connection with the attempt to get a string of bright lights on Austin avenue. It is proposed by those heading the movement for a Waco white way to secure some forty brilliant arc lights for the main business district of Austin avenue. Through an arrangement with the light company and the city government it is hoped to get the lighting system installed and maintained at a minimum cost.

There is an actor in the Northwest who never tips his hat because he never wears one, braving the rigors of 20 to 30 degrees below zero rather than have his hair fall out, as he feared it would when, after an attack of typhoid fever, he took up the custom which he still retains.

Surprise Wedding at Auditorium Was Staged Last Night

The surprise wedding which had caused considerable discussion as to who the "victims" were to be was given last night at the Auditorium following the presentation of "The Girl He Forgot" by Miss Besse Dainty and her company. The groom was J. W. Fagg and the bride was Miss Gertrude Anderson, both of this city. As soon as the stock company got through with their performance the large audience waited patiently to see who the couple was to be. Rev. Rex Ray performed the ceremony and James Blain was the best man and Miss Dainty the bridesmaid.

Marriage Licenses.

Sebastian Winkler and Miss Lucille Johnson.

R. Odenthal and Miss Sadie Bashers.

Elisha Sparks and Sadie Brown.

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is too valuable; you mustn't injure it with drastic drugs.

Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in giving relief; its harmlessness; its certain unfailing action in regulating sick, sour, gassy stomachs. Its millions of cures in indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis and other stomach trouble has made it famous the world over.

Keep this perfect stomach doctor in your home—keep it handy—get a large fifty-cent case from any drug store and then if anyone should eat something which doesn't agree with them; if what they eat lays like lead, ferments and sours and forms gas; causes headache, dizziness and nausea; eructations of acid and undigested food—remember as soon as Pape's Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. Its promptness, certainty and ease in overcoming the worst stomach disorders is a revelation to those who try it.

YOU'RE BILIOUS! CLEAN LIVER AND BOWELS TONIGHT

DON'T STAY HEADACHY, SICK OR HAVE BAD BREATH AND SOUR STOMACH.

WAKE UP FEELING FINE! BEST LAXATIVE FOR MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

Enjoy life! Remove the liver and bowel poison which is keeping your head dizzy, your tongue coated, breath offensive, and stomach sour. Don't stay bilious, sick, headachy, constipated and full of cold. Why don't you get a box of Cascarets from the drug store and eat one or two tonight and enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you have experienced. You will wake up feeling fit and fine. Cascarets never gripe or sicken like salts, pills and calomel. They act so gently that you hardly realize you have taken a cathartic. Mothers should give cross, sick, bilious or feverish children a whole Cascaret any time—they act thoroughly and are harmless.

Body at End Bloody Trail

Sam Spratt, negro, was found dead with several stab wounds in his chest this morning at 12:15 o'clock by Assistant Chief James and two policemen who answered a call following a disturbance at Seventh and Jefferson streets. The negro was found at this corner and by tracking blood it is believed he came from a house nearby. Negroes in this section give different reports in regard to the killing, some claiming he was killed by another negro man in a crap game while it was stated by others that he was killed by a negro woman. Arthur Erath was arrested in connection with the killing after he was found with his clothing blood-stained.

Arrest Young Man from Abilene on Forgery Charge

A young man from Stamford was arrested here last night at 7:30 o'clock charged with forging a $500 check on W. C. Grant of Abilene. A telegram was received at 5:30 o'clock from G. F. Flournoy, city marshal of Abilene, asking the police to watch for the forger, giving his name and description. Two hours later he was arrested at a local hotel by Detectives Brandon and Craven. He was placed in the city jail, awaiting the arrival of Abilene police authorities. It is alleged that he deposited the check which was on an Abilene bank, with Mr. Grant, securing $200 on it. Upon finding the check was of no value it was reported to the Abilene police.

Meeting Called of County School Board

To take under advisement the defining of certain school districts, County Superintendent R. L. Abbott has called a meeting of the county school board for his office tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. The school boundaries in question are those of the Elm Mott, Ross and Robinson districts.

WACO PLAN OF JEWS FOR COLONY GROWS

GIGANTIC COLONIZATION IDEA HAS ITS BIRTH IN THIS CITY.

Plan Includes Purchase of 30,000 Acres of Land for Many Hundreds of Families.

Just to keep the record straight, attention was called yesterday by prominent Jewish leaders of the movement for a gigantic colony in Texas to the fact that other cities, such as Fort Worth for example, were attempting to get the glory for the inauguration of the movement, whereas it started in Waco they assert. It is often referred to as the "Waco plan," and the individual credit for its inception is said to go to Louey Migel. The plan includes the purchase of some 30,000 acres of land in Texas for the organization of a practicalized Utopia. Interest of the Jews throughout the nation is attracted to the plan because of its large scale. Owing to the fertility of Texas soil, and because the birth of the idea was in this state, it is believed that the colony will be established here. Details for the great undertaking are now being worked out and financial arrangements are in progress.

Half a million dollars will be expended to buy approximately 30,000 acres of land. Jewish farmers will be given from eighty to 100 acres of ground each; in addition to this their homes will be furnished them and farming implements provided for. This will entail an initial outlay of $500 for each colonist, and three per cent interest for the first three years.

A committee composed of Louey Migel and Rabbi I. Warsaw of this city, and Dr. George Fox of Fort Worth has undertaken the task of raising the necessary amount. They will work under the auspices of the B'Nai B'Rith society.

Canvass Six Cities.

Six cities will be canvassed by this committee, Fort Worth, Dallas, Waco, Houston, San Antonio and Galveston. Several men will be approached in each of these cities and at present no contributions of less than $500 will be accepted. These will not be outright gifts, however, as the donators will receive in exchange stock drawing 3 per cent interest.

A total of $14,000 from sixteen persons has already been subscribed. It is the ambition of the committee to be able to report to the convention of B'Nai B'Rith which meets in Little Rock, Ark., the latter part of April, a total of $50,000 subscribed by fifty persons.

It is predicted that $100,000 will be raised on the floor of the convention and that the colony will be a reality by the close of 1916.

52,000 Jewish Farmers.

Some idea of the importance of the proposed movement may be gained from the fact that there are at present more than 52,000 Jewish farmers in the United States from which such a colony could be recruited.

That Jewish farming methods have reached a high state of efficiency is indicated by the fact that Clarence Ousley framed his rural credits bill, at present up in congress, along the same lines as the Jewish rural credit system.

Knight's Auto Book Shows Increase of 780 Cars in County

There are now 3,430 automobiles in McLennan county, an increase of 780 over last May, according to the fifth revised edition of W. B. Knight's auto directory, just issued. A complimentary copy of the directory is mailed by Mr. Knight to each person whose name appears in it and it is then placed on sale at twenty-five cents a copy.

Descriptive routes in all directions out of the city are contained, as are the Texas Automobile law, some "Dont's to Motorists," the motor code and the Waco fire alarm directory. Of especial interest at this season is a baseball schedule for the 1916 season of the Texas league, which also finds its place in the handy little volume.

Mr. Knight is not only the editor of the publication but prints it as well at his shop, 504 Austin avenue.

The 330 officers of the king's justice in England who receive aggregate annual salaries of $3,750,000 make one believe the English law must not be as "common" as text-books would have us think.

ROTARY CLUB CAMPAIGN CALLS FOR DISTRICTING

Nine Sections of City to Compete in a Beautifying Campaign.

Waco will be divided into nine districts for the beautification campaign, which it is hoped by the combined cooperation of literary, social, civic and community clubs, to carry into every nook in the city, according to a decision of the special Rotary city beautiful club yesterday afternoon. The fact that the contest is not a sole Rotary club project was distinctly emphasized by the committee, who attested their faith in the policy of broad co-operation by issuing an invitation for every club in the city who cared to, to make it "their campaign." Prizes will be awarded in the eight residence districts for the most attractive flower garden, yards, pot flowers and general appearance, and in the single business district on the basis of window flower boxes.

Mrs. N. B. Bent, representative of the Waco Welfare league, who is assisting the Rotary committee, presented much information on the beautification campaign that she had secured by personal visits to various cities and through a study of municipal movements in different part of the country along these lines. W. A. Poage was present at the meeting, representing the community civic center formed last week in the Waco Vista neighborhood. Other members of the committee are Mordis Falkner, chairman; Prof. and Mrs. B. B. Cobb, Dr. E. E. Ingram, Dr. R. H. Hodges, R. J. Potts and Tom Wolfe.

The following districts without specific lines which are to be worked out later, were chosen by the city: Bell's Hill South Waco, Baylor, Provident Heights, Ninth street to Brazos, North Waco, East Waco, West End and the business district. Committees will be appointed for each district and the entire campaign systematized. Another meeting of the committee will be held tomorrow in R. J. Potts' office in the Amicable building at 11 a. m.

Boy Scouts Played Ball and Had Great Times Yesterday

Boy Scouts had a great time at their patrol headquarters at the Jim Baker park yesterday. In the morning the boys had a "clean-up campaign," followed by a baseball game and a rally around the punch bowl. Several visitors were out during the afternoon and the boys were busy in their woodcraft and patrol maneuvers.

In a well played game, despite the rough diamond, the Boy Scouts played the boys of the Ninth street neighborhood to a 9-to-9 tie.

Body of Child May Be Held Weeks for Trip to Tennessee

Because of the illness of the mother and the desire to take the remains to Tennessee, the body of Ivan M. Bass, Jr., the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Bass, 612 North Eighteenth street, may be held in the mortuary of L. C. Puckett, undertaker, for several weeks until the mother's health improved so that the sad journey may be made. The child died yesterday morning at 10 o'clock and funeral services were held in the mortuary chapel in the early afternoon. A beautiful and simple service was conducted by Rev. F. S. Groner, pastor of the Columbus Street Baptist church.

Man Picked Up With Expurgated Edition of Civilian Clothes

The identity of a man about middle-aged who was found last night at 8:30 o'clock near the alley on the vacant lot at Eighth and Austin streets, was unable to be established last night. A call came to the police station that there was a crazy man very thinly clad attracting considerable attention in this locality. Policemen Craven and Rutland answered the call and upon advancing toward their prisoner-to-be he fell upon his knees and begged the policemen not to kill him.

They tried to get him to tell them his name and where he lived, but this he seemed unable to do. Examination failed to disclose that he had been struck on the head or was intoxicated. According to one of the policemen, all he wore with the exception of his shirt, sox and shoes could comfortably be carried in a watch case.

Where he came from, his identity or his mission are lost to the police. He was carried to the county jail, where he is being held on investigation.

Circle Degree Team Takes Advanced Work

The drill team of Myrtle Grove Circle No. 44, Woodmen of the World, have been greatly interested in continuing their special degree work with renewed zeal after a very enthusiastic trip to Waxahachie last Thursday for some special work. Members of the team reported that they had a most delightful time while in Waxahachie. Those making the trip from Waco were Mrs. Joseph Wheatley, worthy guardian; Mrs. Conner, captain of the team; Mrs. Miers, advisor; Miss Morris and Mesdames Richard Hays, Merritt, Pierce, Watts, Vaughan and Wallace.

There's Nothing as Good for Corns as G-E-T-S--I-T

REFUSE ALL AND ANY IMITATIONS.

Don't let anyone tell you there is anything else as good for corns as "Gets-It." Some may try to shove an imitation on to you, with a name that sounds like "Gets-It," and meant to deceive you. Reliable druggists won't do it.

"Why, O Why, Did I Do It? 'Gets-It' for Me After This—If I Live!"

"Glad to meat you!" says the razor to the corn. "I'll bleed for you!" says the corn to the razor. Razors and corns love each other. Corns love to be cut, picked, gouged, salved, plastered and jerked out, —the grow faster. Mr. and Mrs. Went-and-Cut-It realize it now—they use "Gets-It" instead—it's the wonderful, simple corn-cure that never fails. Stops pain. You apply it in 2 seconds, it dries at once, the corn is doomed. Nothing to stick to the stocking or press on the corn. It means good-night to plasters, salves, diggers, razors and toe-bundling. You can wear smaller shoes. Your corns will come right off, "clean as a whistle." Never inflames healthy flesh. It's the world's biggest selling corn cure. If you don't get "Gets-It" when you ask for it, it's your own fault and your own loss.

"Gets-It" is sold by druggists everywhere, 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Naman Discusses Damage Suits, and Scouts Endorsed

At the meeting yesterday at the Raleigh hotel at 12:15 of the Lawyers' Luncheon club, a pleasant program was carried out, the lawyers enjoying the meeting greatly. The Boy Scout movement was endorsed by the organization and a highly interesting talk was delivered by Wilford W. Naman on the subject of the damage suit law as it applies to damages in cases of mental anguish through failure to deliver telegrams. Mr. Naman's talk dealt with some fine distinctions, and this naturally resulted in an interested and animated discussion by those present.

The meeting was one of the most pleasant of the many meetings of this character held in the past few months and the gatherings are felt to be most helpful.

Mr. Naman discussed the damage suit law as it applies to the telegraph companies in the matter of failure to deliver telegrams and in cases where mental anguish is the ground of action. Texas is one of the states which permits of the securing of damages for mental anguish in failure to deliver certain classes of telegrams, but in the case in question Mr. Naman raised the question of whether it was a matter of "mental anguish" or simply one of "regret and disappointment," and contending that in the case of simple regret and disappointment the damages would not lie, in which contention he was upheld, the result being that his client, the defendant, was not found liable to pay damages. He read the telegram on which the action was based, and there was interesting discussion on this by the attorneys present.

Mr. Butler of the Boy Scout movement was present and talked of this great and growing organization with enthusiasm. The Lawyers' Lunch club endorsed the movement as one worthy of their best wishes and calculated to do great good. Mr. Butler thanked the organization for its endorsement.

Two Burglaries Claim Attention of Police at Night

Two burglary calls were answered last night by the police. The first one came early in the night from the residence of A. M. Smith, 2017 Franklin street. The occupants of the house had been away for the night and returning found that the house had been entered and a pair of shoes were the only articles reported missing.

The second call came in about 11 o'clock from the residence of Percy R. Swann, 1318 Austin street. Mr. Swann had also been away for several hours, and upon returning to his house he found articles out of place, some clothing missing and a small bank broken into and about $1.50 missing.

Rousing School Meeting Held in Robinson District

A well attended meeting was held at Robinson last night in the interest of the movement which has been on foot some time to construct a new school building at that place. It is planned to obtain $8,000 in bonds for the construction of the building. A committee of five was appointed to further take up and push the project. Edwin Reed, architect, will present the school authorities some time this week with plans for the proposed building. R. L. Abbott, McLennan county superintendent, and Frank Tirey of Waco were the principal speakers at the meeting last night. They spoke on the necessity of having an adequately equipped school building and the benefits of an education.

New Tennis Rule on Amateurs Strict

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 18.—The executive committee of the National Tennis association today made public a proposed new amateur rule to be presented for adoption at the annual meeting of the association in 1917. President G. T. Adee and other officials admitted that the present rule was so ambiguous that it would be impossible under it to disbar Maurice E. McLaughlin, Thomas C. Bundy and W. M. Johnston, the Californians, or F. B. Alexander and Wallace F. Johnston in the east, because of their connection with the sporting goods business.

Two features stand out prominently in the new rule. It aims at the source of violation by prescribing against the payment of expenses to players by clubs giving tournaments unless permission is obtained from the executive committee.

It prohibits a player engaged in the sporting goods business from competing in any open tournament, match or championship while so employed, but does not declare him a professional. Players may be disbarred who permit their names to be used for advertising purposes. These rules are not to become operative until April 1, 1918, if accepted at the annual meeting next year.

President Adee explained that no action whatever was contemplated against players now engaged in the sporting goods business. Ample time was being given men to enter another line of business and it was believed this provision would make it possible to vote a perfect and comprehensive rule into the tennis code, he said.

The executive committee also arranged the schedule of tournaments which will be issued next week. The list contains thirty more tournaments than any previous year.

The newly-created Middle-Atlantic sectional doubles were awarded to the Columbia County club, Chevy Chase, Md.; the Missouri Valley sectional doubles to the St. Louis Amateur Athletic union, the southwestern doubles to the Dallas Lawn Tennis club and the date of June 5 was awarded for the women's championship at the Philadelphia Cricket club.

The National association offered a perpetual trophy for the public parks municipal team championship for competition each year.

New Record Made in Walking Race

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 18.—The feature of the senior indoor championship meet of the Amateur Athletic union here tonight was the winning of the two-mile walk by George H. Goulding of Toronto, who lapped the field and established a new world's record. His time was 13 minutes 37 seconds.

Winners in the senior indoor championships of the Amateur Athletic union:

1000 yard run—John W. Overton, Yale, 2:15 2-5, which equals record.

Sixty-yard dash—Joseph G. Loomis, of Chicago A. A., which equals record.

Standing high jump—William H. Taylor, Irish-American A. C., New York, 5 feet 3 inches.

Two-mile run, Joie W. Ray, Illinois A. A., Chicago, 9:25 4-5.

Putting 16-pound shot: Patrick J. McDonald, Irish-American A. C., 46 feet 7 inches.

70-yard hurdle—John Eller, Irish-American A. C., 9 3-5 seconds.

300-yard run—A. B. Kelley, Holy Cross, 32 2-5.

In 1816 Ephraim Gale Jr. of Guilford, Vt., married Lydia Bullock and set up housekeeping in a two-room dwelling; since then five generations of the Gale family have lived in the same house, which has increased in size until now it is a building of twelve rooms.

Circle Degree Team Takes Advanced Work

The drill team of Myrtle Grove Circle No. 44, Woodmen of the World, have been greatly interested in continuing their special degree work with renewed zeal after a very enthusiastic trip to Waxahachie last Thursday for some special work. Members of the team reported that they had a most delightful time while in Waxahachie. Those making the trip from Waco were Mrs. Joseph Wheatley, worthy guardian; Mrs. Conner, captain of the team; Mrs. Miers, advisor; Miss Morris and Mesdames Richard Hays, Merritt, Pierce, Watts, Vaughan and Wallace.

REFUSE ALL AND ANY IMITATIONS.

Don't let anyone tell you there is anything else as good for corns as "Gets-It." Some may try to shove an imitation on to you, with a name that sounds like "Gets-It," and meant to deceive you. Reliable druggists won't do it.

"Why, O Why, Did I Do It? 'Gets-It' for Me After This—If I Live!"

"Glad to meat you!" says the razor to the corn. "I'll bleed for you!" says the corn to the razor. Razors and corns love each other. Corns love to be cut, picked, gouged, salved, plastered and jerked out. —the grow faster. Mr. and Mrs. Went-and-Cut-It realize it now—they use "Gets-It" instead—it's the wonderful, simple corn-cure that never fails. Stops pain. You apply it in 2 seconds, it dries at once, the corn is doomed. Nothing to stick to the stocking or press on the corn. It means good-night to plasters, salves, diggers, razors and toe-bundling. You can wear smaller shoes. Your corns will come right off, "clean as a whistle." Never inflames healthy flesh. It's the world's biggest selling corn cure. If you don't get "Gets-It" when you ask for it, it's your own fault and your own loss.

Naman Discusses Damage Suits, and Scouts Endorsed

At the meeting yesterday at the Raleigh hotel at 12:15 of the Lawyers' Luncheon club, a pleasant program was carried out, the lawyers enjoying the meeting greatly. The Boy Scout movement was endorsed by the organization and a highly interesting talk was delivered by Wilford W. Naman on the subject of the damage suit law as it applies to damages in cases of mental anguish through failure to deliver telegrams. Mr. Naman's talk dealt with some fine distinctions, and this naturally resulted in an interested and animated discussion by those present.

The meeting was one of the most pleasant of the many meetings of this character held in the past few months and the gatherings are felt to be most helpful.

Mr. Naman discussed the damage suit law as it applies to the telegraph companies in the matter of failure to deliver telegrams and in cases where mental anguish is the ground of action. Texas is one of the states which permits of the securing of damages for mental anguish in failure to deliver certain classes of telegrams, but in the case in question Mr. Naman raised the question of whether it was a matter of "mental anguish" or simply one of "regret and disappointment," and contending that in the case of simple regret and disappointment the damages would not lie, in which contention he was upheld, the result being that his client, the defendant, was not found liable to pay damages. He read the telegram on which the action was based, and there was interesting discussion on this by the attorneys present.

Mr. Butler of the Boy Scout movement was present and talked of this great and growing organization with enthusiasm. The Lawyers' Lunch club endorsed the movement as one worthy of their best wishes and calculated to do great good. Mr. Butler thanked the organization for its endorsement.

Baylor Student Dies at Sanitarium After an Illness

Douglas T. Tatom, student for the ministry at Baylor university, died at 9:30 o'clock last night at a local sanitarium following ten days' sickness. Mr. Tatom had been residing at 1700 South Eighth street. The body will be shipped to Hillsboro at 8 o'clock this morning for burial.

Two Burglaries Claim Attention of Police at Night

Two burglary calls were answered last night by the police. The first one came early in the night from the residence of A. M. Smith, 2017 Franklin street. The occupants of the house had been away for the night and returning found that the house had been entered and a pair of shoes were the only articles reported missing.

The second call came in about 11 o'clock from the residence of Percy R. Swann, 1318 Austin street. Mr. Swann had also been away for several hours, and upon returning to his house he found articles out of place, some clothing missing and a small bank broken into and about $1.50 missing.

Rousing School Meeting Held in Robinson District

A well attended meeting was held at Robinson last night in the interest of the movement which has been on foot some time to construct a new school building at that place. It is planned to obtain $8,000 in bonds for the construction of the building. A committee of five was appointed to further take up and push the project. Edwin Reed, architect, will present the school authorities some time this week with plans for the proposed building. R. L. Abbott, McLennan county superintendent, and Frank Tirey of Waco were the principal speakers at the meeting last night. They spoke on the necessity of having an adequately equipped school building and the benefits of an education.

New Tennis Rule on Amateurs Strict

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 18.—The executive committee of the National Tennis association today made public a proposed new amateur rule to be presented for adoption at the annual meeting of the association in 1917. President G. T. Adee and other officials admitted that the present rule was so ambiguous that it would be impossible under it to disbar Maurice E. McLaughlin, Thomas C. Bundy and W. M. Johnston, the Californians, or F. B. Alexander and Wallace F. Johnston in the east, because of their connection with the sporting goods business.

Two features stand out prominently in the new rule. It aims at the source of violation by prescribing against the payment of expenses to players by clubs giving tournaments unless permission is obtained from the executive committee. It prohibits a player engaged in the sporting goods business from competing in any open tournament, match or championship while so employed, but does not declare him a professional. Players may be disbarred who permit their names to be used for advertising purposes. These rules are not to become operative until April 1, 1918, if accepted at the annual meeting next year.

President Adee explained that no action whatever was contemplated against players now engaged in the sporting goods business. Ample time was being given men to enter another line of business and it was believed this provision would make it possible to vote a perfect and comprehensive rule into the tennis code, he said.

The executive committee also arranged the schedule of tournaments which will be issued next week. The list contains thirty more tournaments than any previous year.

The newly-created Middle-Atlantic sectional doubles were awarded to the Columbia County club, Chevy Chase, Md.; the Missouri Valley sectional doubles to the St. Louis Amateur Athletic union, the southwestern doubles to the Dallas Lawn Tennis club and the date of June 5 was awarded for the women's championship at the Philadelphia Cricket club.

The National association offered a perpetual trophy for the public parks municipal team championship for competition each year.

New Record Made in Walking Race

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 18.—The feature of the senior indoor championship meet of the Amateur Athletic union here tonight was the winning of the two-mile walk by George H. Goulding of Toronto, who lapped the field and established a new world's record. His time was 13 minutes 37 seconds.

Winners in the senior indoor championships of the Amateur Athletic union:

1000 yard run—John W. Overton, Yale, 2:15 2-5, which equals record.

Sixty-yard dash—Joseph G. Loomis, of Chicago A. A., which equals record.

Standing high jump—William H. Taylor, Irish-American A. C., New York, 5 feet 3 inches.

Two-mile run, Joie W. Ray, Illinois A. A., Chicago, 9:25 4-5.

Putting 16-pound shot: Patrick J. McDonald, Irish-American A. C., 46 feet 7 inches.

70-yard hurdle—John Eller, Irish-American A. C., 9 3-5 seconds.

300-yard run—A. B. Kelley, Holy Cross, 32 2-5.

In 1816 Ephraim Gale Jr. of Guilford, Vt., married Lydia Bullock and set up housekeeping in a two-room dwelling; since then five generations of the Gale family have lived in the same house, which has increased in size until now it is a building of twelve rooms.

To the Young Men of This Community Who Will Answer the Country's Call to Arms

¶ Even the most conservative of our citizens are of the opinion that the present Mexican situation is full of not only possibilities, but of probabilities of war. Are you not doing yourself and your country an injustice by waiting until THE CRISIS IS UPON US before you take any steps to prepare yourself for service?

¶ The hardest experience that can come to you is that of being an uninstructed recruit after the breaking out of hostilities. The sudden entering into the new and strenuous military life, the hurried, driving drill to your mind and body, all tax your mental and physical powers to an extent you did not dream to be possible.

¶ Why not PREPARE YOURSELF so that you will be able to put on your uniform and take up the life of the soldier almost as a part of the day's work? Do you realize that there are available to you here at home and without interference with your business a course of instructions that may mean the PRESERVATION OF YOUR OWN LIFE and the lives of your comrades?

¶ Under present conditions, THE DUTY IS CLEARLY UPON YOU TO ENLIST AT ONCE in one of the local companies that are now preparing themselves for service. Recruits are being drilled at the armory every night, and an officer will be present there or at the recruiting station to talk the matter over with you.

¶ Those who have had military service are badly needed to assist with the instruction of the great number of recruits that are coming in. We wish to utilize as non-commissioned officers the best men for the places, and you should take your place in one of the companies before the organization is completed upon a war strength basis.

¶ We are going to put forth every effort this week to recruit to war strength. WE MUST REPORT at the end of the week THAT THE WACO COMPANIES ARE READY.

If you are not going to be a "slacker" when the call comes, FALL IN NOW.

WOODMAN DEGREE TEAM IS TO JOIN MILITIA

Recruiting to Full Company Strength, Is a Preparedness Move.

The military company or degree team of Camp No. 6, W. O. W., Waco, is now recruiting to a full army company, preparatory to joining the National Guard. Seeing the necessity of a possible forcing of peace at some future time the officers of this company have decided to echo the "Battle Cry of Peace" and join the president's move for national preparedness.

The Woodmen of the World have on a special campaign in McLennan county, endeavoring to add one thousand new members to the order during the year 1916. In order to get the 1917 head camp convention of the order in the city of Waco. This will possibly be the largest convention ever secured for Waco and the officers and members are working in close unison for the desired results.

R. M. Hayes, state representative of the order, began the campaign some four months ago and has accomplished wonderful results and the military company has been greatly strengthened and now under the command of Col. F. O. Post promises to grow to full army requirements and muster in as a regular company of the Texas National Guard.

Colonel Post is a thorough military tactician and desires young men who want and need military training and at the same time carry good reliable insurance. This is a new move and has its origin with Colonel Post who commands the regiment of the Waco district, Woodmen of the World.

To join the new company does not necessarily mean that war is eminent or that we are about to face the "firing" line, but simply to qualify young men for an emergency. Any one interested in this new military movement can get any information desired by communicating with Colonel F. O. Post or Recruiting Deputy R. M. Hayes, room 1205 Amicable Life Insurance building.

Horace Pickett to Open University of Higher Accountancy

"A little learning is a dangerous thing—
Drink deep, or touch not the Perian spring."

Waco has deservedly earned her reputation as the most delightful residence city in the state through the enterprise of her various business organizations and enlightened citizenship. Especially does she wear her crown with pride as the "Athens of Texas," owing to her numerous educational institutions, her schools, colleges and universities.

Waco regards education as the most important element of a community, that insures success financially, commercially and socially.

Among the many seats of learning in Waco we notice the "University of Higher Accountancy and Commercial Law," recently established by Mr. Horace Pickett, where those in search of a higher education in the commercial world can obtain a thorough training in the latest methods of business transactions and be prepared to meet the demand for those positions higher up—such as managers, promoters and presidents of large corporations.

In the practice of his profession of auditor and accountant for many years, Mr. Pickett has come in contact with all character of business enterprises, and has noted the need of higher educated men in the management and supervision of commercial firms. He has made a study of the methods of consolidation of large business ventures of late years and the demand for capable and efficient men to handle them.

The University of Higher Accountancy and Commercial Law will open about April 1. In the meantime, those who wish to enroll for a course of auditing, accountancy, commercial law, bookkeeping or stenography can address Mr. Pickett, P. O. Box 236, or call on him at his present office in the Savoy Hotel, North Sixth St.—(Adv.)

Y. M. B. L. Will Elect Permanent Secretary Next Tuesday Night

Committee chairmen will be appointed Tuesday night at the first regular weekly meeting of the newly elected board of directors of the Young Men's Business League, which will start at 8 o'clock. The election of the league's secretary to serve during the next term will also be held. H. Hagedorn, Jr., is the present secretary. The directors will probably take up the proposition of entertaining the Southwestern Waterworks association convention which will be held here May 8, 9 and 10.

At the general league meeting held last Tuesday night announcement was made that Waco had landed the convention and the matter was referred to the board of directors. At this meeting the officers and directors of the league were elected, Perry A. Duncan being chosen to head the organization.

Waco Musicians Have Published New Composition

Fred E. Eggert, who has become well known in Waco for the excellent pupils he has turned out of the voice department of Baylor and who has been the director of St. Paul's Episcopal church choir for four years, has just received word from Thomas J. Donlin company of New York that his new song, "I Dreamed Beloved," will soon be off the press. The words are by Mrs. Edith E. T. Lessing of Waco and in Mr. Eggert's opinion she is the only one in Texas that is capable of writing excellent words for songs. The song is inscribed to Mrs. G. J. Rousseau, one of Waco's most popular artistic singers.

Mr. Eggert has something like a hundred pieces that he has composed, about fifty of which are sacred and are being used in the best churches in the country. On last Sunday the choir at the First Baptist church sang one of his "Te Deum Laudamus," under the direction of Joseph M. Evans, and at the same time the Episcopal choir was rendering a new chant form of the same words, written by him recently.

TWO NEW LECTURES SECURED AT BAYLOR

Dr. Gilchrist, War Surgeon, and Dr. George E. Horr, Theologian, to Lecture.

Baylor has added two more lectures to the course that is given to the students each year. These are one by Dr. E. L. Gilchrist, a surgeon of the Gainesville hospital, and President George E. Horr of the Newton Theological seminary of Boston, Mass.

Dr. Gilcarist was a Red Cross surgeon in the Turko-Balkan war and did quite extensive work in the same line in the present European war. He will lecture here on the observations he made while in this service and will illustrate his lecture with 150 stereopticon slides.

Dr. Gilchrist is a graduate of two of the leading universities and will deliver the lecture complimentary to the student body and the people of Waco. He is on his way to the State University and will deliver the same lecture there on the following day. The day for the lecture here is March 22, at 8 p. m., in the chapel.

The other prominent lecturer is President Horr of the Newton Seminary. He is making a tour of the south in the interest of education along theological lines and is visiting every educational institution in the south on his trip.

He will stop over at Baylor and will deliver a lecture at Baylor during the chapel hour on Monday at 10 a. m. He has wide experience as a lecturer and is widely known as a very bright man. He is a personal friend of Dr. A. H. Newman of the department of history in Baylor and his reputation as a speaker is one to be envied.

Dr. Kesler, the dean of the college, extends an invitation to all the citizens of Waco to attend these lectures free of charge.

Six Papers on Doctors' Program Tuesday Night

Six papers on subjects of vital interest to the doctor will constitute the program for the regular session of the McLennan County Medical association next Tuesday night. The program will be given in the Chamber of Commerce rooms on the seventeenth floor of the Amicable building. The program for this week as announced by President Doyle Eastland and Secretary C. E. Collins is as follows:

"Infantile Paralysis," Dr. Howard L. Prince, Rochester, N. Y.

"Refraction," Dr. Aleck Spencer.

"Trachoma," Dr. J. R. Ferrell.

"Deflected Septum," Dr. E. C. Brannon.

"Acute Otitis Media," Dr. H. T. Aynesworth.

"Sore Throat," Dr. C. P. Schenck.

All of the above papers are written to be of special interest to the general practitioner. Come out.

Dr. J. W. Gidney is chairman April 4. Skin diseases is the general subject.

Judge C. A. Boynton Names Committee on Bull Moose Harmony

Following the harmony meeting of Bull Moose republicans at Dallas last Wednesday for the purpose of setting in motion an effort to bring about harmony among all republicans, past and present, in this state and to extend the harmonizing influence beyond state borders into the national are if possible, Judge C. A. Boynton of this city, former district attorney for the western district of Texas, on yesterday named a committee of seven on ways and means, the Dallas conference naming him ex-officio chairman of the committee and authorizing him to name the other six members.

On this committee he named the following: Dr. E. P. Wilmot, Austin; Judge J. O. Terrell, San Antonio; William T. Atwell, Dallas; J. W. Baas, Waco; Eugene Nolte, Seguin, and Judge R. B. Creager, Brownsville. Judge Boynton also named George Kepple of Houston as secretary of the committee.

First attention will be given to the effort to bring about harmony between all republicans, past and present, in this state, and having completed that task here the Texas example will be called to the attention of the members of the party in other states where divisions exist.

There are sixty-one nations in the world which claim independence, although if put to the actual test several of them would probably be shown to fall a trifle short of that status and others could not defend themselves against the aggressions of even the weaker of their neighbors.

The other prominent lecturer is President Horr of the Newton Seminary. He is making a tour of the south in the interest of education along theological lines and is visiting every educational institution in the south on his trip.

He will stop over at Baylor and will deliver a lecture at Baylor during the chapel hour on Monday at 10 a. m. He has wide experience as a lecturer and is widely known as a very bright man. He is a personal friend of Dr. A. H. Newman of the department of history in Baylor and his reputation as a speaker is one to be envied.

Dr. Kesler, the dean of the college, extends an invitation to all the citizens of Waco to attend these lectures free of charge.

Six Papers on Doctors' Program Tuesday Night

Six papers on subjects of vital interest to the doctor will constitute the program for the regular session of the McLennan County Medical association next Tuesday night. The program will be given in the Chamber of Commerce rooms on the seventeenth floor of the Amicable building. The program for this week as announced by President Doyle Eastland and Secretary C. E. Collins is as follows:

"Infantile Paralysis," Dr. Howard L. Prince, Rochester, N. Y.

"Refraction," Dr. Aleck Spencer.

"Trachoma," Dr. J. R. Ferrell.

"Deflected Septum," Dr. E. C. Brannon.

"Acute Otitis Media," Dr. H. T. Aynesworth.

"Sore Throat," Dr. C. P. Schenck.

All of the above papers are written to be of special interest to the general practitioner. Come out.

Dr. J. W. Gidney is chairman April 4. Skin diseases is the general subject.

Judge C. A. Boynton Names Committee on Bull Moose Harmony

Following the harmony meeting of Bull Moose republicans at Dallas last Wednesday for the purpose of setting in motion an effort to bring about harmony among all republicans, past and present, in this state and to extend the harmonizing influence beyond state borders into the national are if possible, Judge C. A. Boynton of this city, former district attorney for the western district of Texas, on yesterday named a committee of seven on ways and means, the Dallas conference naming him ex-officio chairman of the committee and authorizing him to name the other six members.

On this committee he named the following: Dr. E. P. Wilmot, Austin; Judge J. O. Terrell, San Antonio; William T. Atwell, Dallas; J. W. Bass, Waco; Eugene Nolte, Seguin, and Judge R. B. Creager, Brownsville. Judge Boynton also named George Kepple of Houston as secretary of the committee.

First attention will be given to the effort to bring about harmony between all republicans, past and present, in this state, and having completed that task here the Texas example will be called to the attention of the members of the party in other states where divisions exist.

There are sixty-one nations in the world which claim independence, although if put to the actual test several of them would probably be shown to fall a trifle short of that status and others could not defend themselves against the aggressions of even the weaker of their neighbors.

HOW Harry Reaves hated the idea of playing baseball another season! Then he thought of the little farm he had bought back home and which already was half paid for. A couple of more years and it would be clear of debt, he and Mary could marry and he would be independent. And then if he wanted to stay in baseball he could pile up more money to be laid away in the bank or used in farm improvements.

But traded to the Butchers!

Reaves had been in the big league two years and had done fairly well with the Blues. O'Grady, the Blue manager, was a judge of human nature. He knew that in Reaves he had a good player, the making of a great player. But there was one thing lacking—THE PEP.

There are other players who have been in the big league for years and are sensitive about the pannings to such an extent that it hurts their work. Take "Cosy" Dolan, for instance, one of the greatest players in the game. Last season it was charged there was an organized effort to drive Dolan back to the minors. At any rate, he was unmercifully and often unjustly criticised and his work suffered. He was too conscientious. It hurt him too much when he made an error, and the constant slurs got on his nerves.

"Hub" Perdue was another one. Perdue, one of the best-natured men in the business, and who is still a great pitcher, was the subject of much criticism in St. Louis last season. He made a hard start and the crowd got after him and thereafter he couldn't do much on the St. Louis grounds.

Why?

Well, it takes considerable nerve for a pitcher on his home lot to enter the box and be greeted with yells of derision and jeers of "take him out," and then pitch good ball.

Nine-tenth of the time the crowd doesn't have an exactly hostile feeling toward the player, and nine-tenths of the remarks hurled at the players are more in a spirit of fun, but the player is only a human. The one who can stand this constant "panning" and still play good ball is almost a superhuman.

Suppose when Caruso came out to sing and the crowd began yelling at him, "Cheese," "Take him out," "Bring in a sewing machine?" And then when he reached up and pulled down a high C there were yells of "Kill the cat," "Sounds like a buzz saw was striking a knot," etc. How would Enrico act and how would he sing?

And if Paderewski were greeted with yells of "He couldn't play a pianola," how would he play?

Of course, Caruso and Paderewski are supposed to have temperament it's part of their stock in trade. And an athlete is not supposed to have temperament. Some of them have been accused of having such a thing, though. But, at any rate, the athlete is a human, and even if the remarks hurled at him half the time are more in a "kidding" spirit than in a spirit of malice, still he can't help from feeling them. It's the athlete who can play in spite of such remarks and pretends he doesn't notice them who succeeds.

In spite of adverse criticism Reaves hung on to the team. Along the first of June in his first season, the crack first baseman was hurt and out of the game six weeks. Reaves filled in and made good except that he pulled off no spectacular feats. Then when the regular first baseman came back the shortstop went bad and Reaves took his place. He also made good ot short. But he did not prove a sensation. He fielded well and was improving slowly in his batting, but he lacked the "pep."

As a matter of fact, he had only kindly feelings toward the world, but underneath this quiet exterior was a quick, mean temper, and knowing this and trying to control it, Reaves went to the opposite extreme. He was afraid to turn himself loose. He was afraid to talk back to an umpire because he knew he would go too far. And then he hated the business of playing to the grand stand.

He knew full well, for instance, that the catcher of the Blues was overrated. Sommers, however, was of the spectacular type of player. If he let a ball get by him he would rush out and "bawl" the pitcher, and thus divert attention from his own deficiency. Many a passed ball was scored as a wild pitch simply through these tactics.

The second season Reaves was the regular first baseman of the Blues. One day early in the season he missed a couple of throws. Had he caught them it would have cut off three runs of the opposition. One of them was his own error. But the other, and the more serious, should have been scored as an error of the shortstop. It was a bad throw, but the official scorekeeper counted both against the first baseman. Next day the papers "roasted" him and that afternoon, when he first went up to bat there were yells of "take him out" from the bleachers.

Now, every ballplayer in the land reads what the papers have to say every day. And every "roast," deserved or undeserved, is resented and resented bitterly.

Reaves was sore and he was hurt. And these feelings don't tend to make a man play better ball. O'Grady realized how Reaves felt and he tried to encourage him, but to no avail. At home that season Reaves played miserable ball. On the road it was different.

After the close of the season he was traded to the Butchers.

Now the team of all teams which Reaves hated, collectively and individually, was the Butchers. It was an aggregation of "goat-getters." The manager believed in getting the other fellow's goat and his team had won many a game by these simple tactics. Reaves, early in his first season, had been picked as one to go after and the team rode him heavily. However, there was a change toward the end of the first season and they "laid off him" then, and during the next season, all except Cayvan, the catcher. He kept it up continuously. And many a time when Reaves would go up to bat Cayvan would ride him, and ride him hard. The worst of it was that Reaves felt that Cayvan had robbed him of more than one hit.

But he had wanted to get away from the Blues. The home papers and the home fans had "ridden" him too hard. He told O'Grady, and the latter arranged the deal with the Butchers, although at the time Reaves had thought of that club as the last one to which he would be sent. But, one thing, it was better than playing with the Blues again.

And now he had arrived at the training camp of the Butchers. It was in Texas at a famous health resort. It was only 7 o'clock in the morning when he reached the hotel, and after registering he ate breakfast. None of the other members of the squad were down yet, but when he had finished eating and strolled into the lobby he met McKnight, the manager.

"Hello, Joe," exclaimed the Butcher leader, advancing with outstretched hand. "Mighty glad to see you. We need you to help us cop that flag this year. Feeling all right? That's good. The dressing rooms are over in the bathhouse. See the trainer and have him fix you up with a 'unie.' We started to work yesterday although there are still one or two of the fellows to report," and, nodding pleasantly, McKnight went into the dining room.

Joe took a seat and began reading the morning papers. In the course of the next ten or fifteen minutes other members of the team got off the elevator and went into breakfast. All the regulars knew him and each came to him and gave him a pleasant greeting.

Bill Murphy, an outfielder, went up to him with an unmistakable smile of pleasure.

"I was sure glad when I heard Mc had landed you," he exclaimed, shaking hands. "You'll find him and the rest of the bunch all right. You got a room yet?"

Joe shook his head.

"I've got two beds in my room and nobody with me. Come in with me."

Joe accepted the offer.

A little later Cayvan got off the elevator and, seeing Joe, started toward him. Reaves, however, after a cool nod, turned away and Cayvan, with a flush, entered the dining room.

"That kid's got it in for me because I rode him," the catcher observed to McKnight after breakfast as the two walked toward the bathhouse.

"Can you blame him?" chuckled McKnight. "He's a nice fellow, though, and he'll forget it all pretty quick. Only don't try any of it on him now. He's the kind that won't stand that sort of treatment. You go after those two bushers, Sands and Warner, all you want. They need some riding. They're too fresh and need to be taught their places. But keep off Reaves."

After the morning workout, Reaves felt much better. It was a pleasant bunch of fellows, after all. Every one had given him a cordial welcome.

Harry Brock, who once had been one of his most constant tormentors, patted him on the back.

"You musn't carry any ill feeling, Joe," he said. "We used to ride you until Mc told us to cut it out. It's part of the game, and after you've been with us a while you'll be as bad as any of us, and you'll be trying to 'pan' every decent kid we play against."

By the end of the week Reaves was at home with the team, but he had nothing to do with Cayvan, merely nodding to the catcher whenever it was necessary to speak to him at all.

One night he was undressing to go to bed when Murphy came in.

"Say, why don't you act a little more friendly to Cayvan?" the outfielder inquired, abruptly.

"I don't see any need of acting any different than I do," said Joe, shortly.

"You've sorter got the wrong hunch about him," said Murphy, sitting down on the side of his bed. "Cayvan's not a bad sort at all. I can't blame you much for being sore at him. But this 'panning' business is part of the game. You ought to remember that. Cayvan told me today he was afraid you didn't have any use for him. And he said he was sorry you felt that way about it."

"He hit it right when he said I didn't have any use for him. He rode me and so did the rest of you fellows just like you rode every other player who played against you. But every one except Cayvan cut it out in a few months."

"It was Mc who told us to," interrupted Murphy. "He called us off. Said you were a decent fellow and to cut it out."

"Well, Cayvan didn't. I know it's a part of the game, but he went too far," continued Reaves, and he crawled into bed.

"Well, why don't you settle it with him?" inquired Murphy, beginning to undress. "It's a bad thing for the team to have two fellows at outs that way. Just light into Cayvan and beat him up or let him beat you up. It doesn't make much difference which. A good old fight removes a lot of bad feeling."

After Murphy had climbed into bed, Joe lay thinking of what he had said. His old hatred of Cayvan had almost disappeared, but still there was the bitter feeling against any one who thought he lacked the "pep."

"That's why he rode me all the time, figuring I wouldn't jump him," thought Joe.

For two years he had that "lack-of-pep" reputation saddled to him, and he decided he would shake it and would make a beginning to this end with Cayvan as the instrument.

Next day he started early. The dressing rooms were small affairs, each shared by two men. They opened on a narrow corridor, and in the morning, while Murphy was inside, Reaves was standing in the corridor drawing on his shirt, when Cayvan passed him. Reaves purposely shoved against the catcher.

"Want the whole building to walk in?" he yelled at the astonished Cayvan. "You ought to get out in the stable with the cows, you're about as awkward as they are."

Everyone in the squad heard it and heads were stuck out of a dozen doors.

"You knocked against me," exclaimed Cayvan, in amazement.

"I'll knock your block off if you try running over me that way again," retorted Reaves, vehemently. Cayvan paused a moment, then went on to his dressing room. McKnight, dressing further down the corridor, grinned.

Out on the field there was a practice game. Reaves and Cayvan were on the same side and the catcher followed Joe in the batting order. In the second inning, with two out, Reaves got a lucky triple off a new pitcher and, stationed on third, yelled at Cayvan, "Bring me in! Bring me in! You never got a timely swat in your life. See if you can do it now. This ain't the champion season. Maybe you can hit the pill."

Cayvan ingloriously struck out.

Joe on his way to first, walked past the plate where the catcher was donning his shin guards.

"That's your old stunt," jeered Reaves. "You can't even hit a bush league pitcher. You never got a hit in your life with anybody on base. I'm a little hard of hearing, but I can hear the rattling of cans and they're not for me."

And he sauntered on to first. A dozen players heard the gibes and they all watched Cayvan to see if he resented them. But he said nothing and apparently paid no attention.

All through the game Reaves rode the catcher, loudly and insultingly.

Cayvan failed to stop a wild pitch of a youthful southpaw. "Bet you couldn't catch a cold. You perform like you were at the village sewing society's weekly meeting," yelled Joe.

At luncheon he was more subdued but just as insulting. He sat at the same table with Cayvan and a dozen other players. While they were partaking of the soup, Joe glanced in the direction of Cayvan and made a remark about some folks who ate their soup as if they were taking lessons on the clarinet.

Reaves was enjoying himself. It felt fine to be riding some one instead of being ridden. During the afternoon work-out he kept up his treatment. He handed out to Cayvan numerous of the phrases and remarks that the latter used to hand to him.

Cayvan was grimly amused and a bit resentful, but he thought, "Gee, the kid took those 'pannings' more to heart than I ever dreamed he did."

During the afternoon work-out it was the same. Reaves was in high good-humor with himself and the world, and he found that his old feeling of resentment against Cayvan was rapidly disappearing.

That night after dinner Joe strolled out of the hotel. As he crossed the veranda a figure rose from the darkness and followed him down the walk toward the entrance of the grounds.

"Reaves!" Joe stopped and Cayvan caught up with him.

"What's your game and how long do you intend to keep it up?" said the catcher, quietly. The two men stood face to face.

"I intend to keep it up as long as it suits me," replied the other, pleasantly.

"Well, I'm getting rather tired of it."

"Don't make any difference to me how tired you get," remarked Joe.

"I can stop it, though."

"You're at liberty to try it, any time," retorted Joe, grimly.

"Will you fight?"

"Want to pull it off now?"

The other thought for a few moments.

"No. We don't want to raise any sort of row that the folks in the hotel or the newspapers will get wise to," he said.

"I'll tell you what we'll do," exclaimed Joe. "Tomorrow's Sunday and we won't have any work to do. Let's do it then and we'll get Murphy to arrange it."

"That sounds good. We don't want to let Mc know about it, though. If you want to we'll let the other fellows in on it," said Cayvan, cheerfully.

"That's the way. I'll tell Murphy to fix things up and then let us know about it," replied Reaves.

"That's the thing. Let's go and see him now." And they returned to the hotel. Cayvan called Murphy from the lobby and the matter was explained to him.

He was enthusiastic about it but cautioned them to say nothing to anybody about it.

"I'll fix it up for about 10 o'clock tomorrow morning," he announced.

Next morning at breakfast Murphy passed the word around the squad that there was to be a badger fight in a deserted barn in the thick woods at the back of the hotel.

"We want to keep it quiet, though," he cautioned. "It's against the law down here, and if the old man heard about it—well, keep your traps closed, for this is going to be a real badger fight with frills."

By 10 o'clock the entire squad of nearly fifty men had gathered quietly in the old barn, and, to their surprise found a roped and padded boxing ring arranged.

"Gentlemen," announced Murphy, when all had assembled. "We failed to get the badger, but in order that this large and representative assembly may not be disappointed, we have arranged another little sporting event as a substitute. But I must caution you to make no noise, as we all might get pinched and every man here will be fined by the manager if he ever gets wind of this."

There was a buzz of comment from the athletes, in the midst of which Saunders and Parker appeared, each with a bucket of water, towels and other paraphernalia of the boxers' seconds.

"Gentlemen," announced Murphy again from the center of the ring, "there will be but one bout. Battling Cayvan and Pepper Kid Reaves will be the participants, and again I must caution you to make no noise and restrain your applause."

And Reaves and Cayvan stripped for the fray and escorted by their seconds, made their appearance from the corn bin in a corner of the barn. Some one started to clap, but Murphy sternly announced if any one tried to start anything he would be "summarily ejected from the club."

In opposite corners of the ring the boxers were seated on chairs and their gloves put on, Saunders acting as Reaves' second and Parker officiating for Cayvan. Murphy announced that he would act as referee and Reilly was chosen timekeeper.

The referee gave the fighters their instructions, the ring was cleared save for the three figures who belonged there, Reilly clapped his hands together in lieu of a gong, the fighters lightly touched hands and the bout was on.

The men were about evenly matched, Cayvan being somewhat heavier, while Reaves had the longer reach and a half-dozen years' advantage.

After sparring for an opening a few minutes, Cayvan landed a light tap on Reaves Jaw. Joe countered with a swing to the ribs which glanced off. Each knew something of boxing and each was feeling out his opponent. The two-minute round ended with little damage being done on either side, and after a minute's intermission they went at it again.

In the second, Cayvan landed a wicked left jab under Joe's right eye. The flesh puffed out as Joe rushed at Cayvan. But the latter fought him off. In the third, Reaves, who was playing for the body, planted a stiff punch to the stomach which perceptibly jarred the catcher. But Cayvan came back with a hard swing to the jaw. Until the seventh the bout was about even. Neither man had been damaged much, although both were tiring.

Murphy had difficulty in restraining the enthusiasm of the spectators. But there was considerable betting at even money on the result.

In the seventh, after considerable sparring, Joe suddenly changed his tactics and shot a right to Cayvan's face. It landed on the mouth and a thin stream of blood trickled from the cut lower lip down on to the catcher's chest. Cayvan tried to rush his opponent, but Joe coolly fought him off until Cayvan, who had been swinging wildly, suddenly let loose a right uppercut as Joe swung for his body. The blow landed on the side of the jaw and Joe staggered. Cayvan stepped back and amid a breathless silence Reaves sank to his knees. He tried to rise, but the place was rapidly revolving about him. He heard Murphy slowly counting and at six he placed one hand on the ground to steady himself and attempted to rise. But he couldn't quite make it and sank back on the floor at the count of ten.

Saunders sprang to his side with smelling salts and raised his head, and in a few moments he had revived sufficiently to sit up.

Murphy began driving the crowd out. "Get out quietly and keep your mouths shut," he cautioned. Then he returned to aid in restoring Joe. Cayvan and the seconds were with the defeated boxer and Joe was recovering rapidly.

"Let's pull down this ring," said Murphy, as soon as he saw Reaves was all right.

By the time Joe had taken a bath, with the aid of a couple of buckets of water, he was feeling all right, and as he and Cayvan dressed Murphy and the seconds kept up a running fire of conversation.

"Feeling all right, Joe?" asked Cayvan, coming over to his defeated opponent with outstretched hand.

"Fine," was the hearty response, and the two shook hands. "Hope my eye doesn't look as bad as your lip," he grinned.

"That was a pretty hard punch you landed there," laughed back Cayvan.

"Fine business this," suddenly interrupted a rough voice, and McKnight slowly climbed down a ladder from the hayloft above.

"Thought you'd leave me out in the cold, did you?" he sneered, as he approached them. Murphy and the erstwhile seconds tried to back out of sight, but he turned and saw them. "Pulling off some little private shows, are you?" he demanded. Then turning suddenly on Reaves he roared, "You better cut out your rough stuff, Mr. Pepper Kid Reaves. I'm not gonner stand for any more of that on my team. The Butchers may have a bad name, but you'll have to behave yourself. You're liable to hurt some of my players. Your trouble is you're too full of pep, but I'll work it out of you, and I'll do it before we get away from this camp, too. Whenever you can't restrain your temper you come around and I'll take you on for a half dozen rounds. I'll get some of that pep out of you. If I don't you'll be assaulting Bill Klem and Lord Byron when we get back home." And he turned away with a scowl and left the barn. But Murphy claimed the manager was grinning as he went out the door.

"Gee, I didn't know he was around here," gasped Joe, in astonishment.

"I don't know how he got here," said Murphy, innocently. "We orter looked up in that loft before the show started. I don't reckon he's very mad, though." But let's beat it back to the hotel."

And the five men strolled back toward the hotel, Cayvan and Reaves walking together.

The latter was happy, even if he had been whipped. He had put up a good fight, but it was the words of the manager which pleased him. He felt somehow that he had shaken off that lack-of-pep hoodoo which had clung to him. And he was right.

One of the sport writers with the expedition got wind of the affray that afternoon and wired the story to his paper. In a week every paper in the country had carried some version of the fight between Reaves and Cayvan and in every version Reaves, of course, was the aggressor.

McKnight was interviewed on the subject of Joe's pugnaciousness and said: "He's all right except that he's got a little too much pep and he didn't work it out during the winter. Maybe he took it out on Cayvan. I don't know. Some players don't have enough pep, but Reaves has too much. He'll work it out on the field, though, before the season is over."

Reaves read that and rejoiced.

He had gone through his baptism of fire. He had been "panned" unmercifully and unjustly and he had taken it too much to heart, and then suddenly he had been promoted to the ranks of the "pepper" boys, merely because his resentment had finally reached the point of physical violence.

Thereafter he didn't change his style of play on the field, and he always was the same quiet youngster, but he was known as the "pepper kid." It takes a little thing to change the viewpoint of the public.

But he had wanted to get away from the Blues. The home papers and the home fans had "ridden" him too hard. He told O'Grady, and the latter arranged the deal with the Butchers, although at the time Reaves had thought of that club as the last one to which he would be sent. But, one thing, it was better than playing with the Blues again.

And now he had arrived at the training camp of the Butchers. It was in Texas at a famous health resort. It was only 7 o'clock in the morning when he reached the hotel, and after registering he ate breakfast. None of the other members of the squad were down yet, but when he had finished eating and strolled into the lobby he met McKnight, the manager.

"Hello, Joe," exclaimed the Butcher leader, advancing with outstretched hand. "Mighty glad to see you. We need you to help us cop that flag this year. Feeling all right? That's good. The dressing rooms are over in the bathhouse. See the trainer and have him fix you up with a 'unie.' We started to work yesterday although there are still one or two of the fellows to report," and, nodding pleasantly, McKnight went into the dining room.

Joe took a seat and began reading the morning papers. In the course of the next ten or fifteen minutes other members of the team got off the elevator and went into breakfast. All the regulars knew him and each came to him and gave him a pleasant greeting.

Bill Murphy, an outfielder, went up to him with an unmistakable smile of pleasure.

"I was sure glad when I heard Mc had landed you," he exclaimed, shaking hands. "You'll find him and the rest of the bunch all right. You got a room yet?"

Joe shook his head.

"I've got two beds in my room and nobody with me. Come in with me."

Joe accepted the offer.

A little later Cayvan got off the elevator and, seeing Joe, started toward him. Reaves, however, after a cool nod, turned away and Cayvan, with a flush, entered the dining room.

"That kid's got it in for me because I rode him," the catcher observed to McKnight after breakfast as the two walked toward the bathhouse.

"Can you blame him?" chuckled McKnight. "He's a nice fellow, though, and he'll forget it all pretty quick. Only don't try any of it on him now. He's the kind that won't stand that sort of treatment. You go after those two bushers, Sands and Warner, all you want. They need some riding. They're too fresh and need to be taught their places. But keep off Reaves."

After the morning workout, Reaves felt much better. It was a pleasant bunch of fellows, after all. Every one had given him a cordial welcome.

Harry Brock, who once had been one of his most constant tormentors, patted him on the back.

"You musn't carry any ill feeling, Joe," he said. "We used to ride you until Mc told us to cut it out. It's part of the game, and after you've been with us a while you'll be as bad as any of us, and you'll be trying to 'pan' every decent kid we play against."

By the end of the week Reaves was at home with the team, but he had nothing to do with Cayvan, merely nodding to the catcher whenever it was necessary to speak to him at all.

One night he was undressing to go to bed when Murphy came in.

"Say, why don't you act a little more friendly to Cayvan?" the outfielder inquired, abruptly.

"I don't see any need of acting any different than I do," said Joe, shortly.

"You've sorter got the wrong hunch about him," said Murphy, sitting down on the side of his bed. "Cayvan's not a bad sort at all. I can't blame you much for being sore at him. But this 'panning' business is part of the game. You ought to remember that. Cayvan told me today he was afraid you didn't have any use for him. And he said he was sorry you felt that way about it."

"He hit it right when he said I didn't have any use for him. He rode me and so did the rest of you fellows just like you rode every other player who played against you. But every one except Cayvan cut it out in a few months."

"It was Mc who told us to," interrupted Murphy. "He called us off. Said you were a decent fellow and to cut it out."

"Well, Cayvan didn't. I know it's a part of the game, but he went too far," continued Reaves, and he crawled into bed.

"Well, why don't you settle it with him?" inquired Murphy, beginning to undress. "It's a bad thing for the team to have two fellows at outs that way. Just light into Cayvan and beat him up or let him beat you up. It doesn't make much difference which. A good old fight removes a lot of bad feeling."

After Murphy had climbed into bed, Joe lay thinking of what he had said. His old hatred of Cayvan had almost disappeared, but still there was the bitter feeling against any one who thought he lacked the "pep."

"That's why he rode me all the time, figuring I wouldn't jump him," thought Joe.

For two years he had that "lack-of-pep" reputation saddled to him, and he decided he would shake it and would make a beginning to this end with Cayvan as the instrument.

Next day he started early. The dressing rooms were small affairs, each shared by two men. They opened on a narrow corridor, and in the morning, while Murphy was inside, Reaves was standing in the corridor drawing on his shirt, when Cayvan passed him. Reaves purposely shoved against the catcher.

"Want the whole building to walk in?" he yelled at the astonished Cayvan. "You ought to get out in the stable with the cows, you're about as awkward as they are."

Everyone in the squad heard it and heads were stuck out of a dozen doors.

"You knocked against me," exclaimed Cayvan, in amazement.

"I'll knock your block off if you try running over me that way again," retorted Reaves, vehemently. Cayvan paused a moment, then went on to his dressing room. McKnight, dressing further down the corridor, grinned.

Out on the field there was a practice game. Reaves and Cayvan were on the same side and the catcher followed Joe in the batting order. In the second inning, with two out, Reaves got a lucky triple off a new pitcher and, stationed on third, yelled at Cayvan, "Bring me in! Bring me in! You never got a timely swat in your life. See if you can do it now. This ain't the champion season. Maybe you can hit the pill."

Cayvan ingloriously struck out.

Joe on his way to first, walked past the plate where the catcher was donning his shin guards.

"That's your old stunt," jeered Reaves. "You can't even hit a bush league pitcher. You never got a hit in your life with anybody on base. I'm a little hard of hearing, but I can hear the rattling of cans and they're not for me."

And he sauntered on to first. A dozen players heard the gibes and they all watched Cayvan to see if he resented them. But he said nothing and apparently paid no attention.

All through the game Reaves rode the catcher, loudly and insultingly.

Cayvan failed to stop a wild pitch of a youthful southpaw. "Bet you couldn't catch a cold. You perform like you were at the village sewing society's weekly meeting," yelled Joe.

At luncheon he was more subdued but just as insulting. He sat at the same table with Cayvan and a dozen other players. While they were partaking of the soup, Joe glanced in the direction of Cayvan and made a remark about some folks who ate their soup as if they were taking lessons on the clarinet.

Reaves was enjoying himself. It felt fine to be riding some one instead of being ridden. During the afternoon work-out he kept up his treatment. He handed out to Cayvan numerous of the phrases and remarks that the latter used to hand to him.

Cayvan was grimly amused and a bit resentful, but he thought, "Gee, the kid took those 'pannings' more to heart than I ever dreamed he did."

During the afternoon work-out it was the same. Reaves was in high good-humor with himself and the world, and he found that his old feeling of resentment against Cayvan was rapidly disappearing.

That night after dinner Joe strolled out of the hotel. As he crossed the veranda a figure rose from the darkness and followed him down the walk toward the entrance of the grounds.

"Reaves!" Joe stopped and Cayvan caught up with him.

"What's your game and how long do you intend to keep it up?" said the catcher, quietly. The two men stood face to face.

"I intend to keep it up as long as it suits me," replied the other, pleasantly.

"Well, I'm getting rather tired of it."

"Don't make any difference to me how tired you get," remarked Joe.

"I can stop it, though."

"You're at liberty to try it, any time," retorted Joe, grimly.

"Will you fight?"

"Want to pull it off now?"

The other thought for a few moments.

"No. We don't want to raise any sort of row that the folks in the hotel or the newspapers will get wise to," he said.

"I'll tell you what we'll do," exclaimed Joe. "Tomorrow's Sunday and we won't have any work to do. Let's do it then and we'll get Murphy to arrange it."

"That sounds good. We don't want to let Mc know about it, though. If you want to we'll let the other fellows in on it," said Cayvan, cheerfully.

"That's the way. I'll tell Murphy to fix things up and then let us know about it," replied Reaves.

"That's the thing. Let's go and see him now." And they returned to the hotel. Cayvan called Murphy from the lobby and the matter was explained to him.

He was enthusiastic about it but cautioned them to say nothing to anybody about it.

"I'll fix it up for about 10 o'clock tomorrow morning," he announced.

Next morning at breakfast Murphy passed the word around the squad that there was to be a badger fight in a deserted barn in the thick woods at the back of the hotel.

"We want to keep it quiet, though," he cautioned. "It's against the law down here, and if the old man heard about it—well, keep your traps closed, for this is going to be a real badger fight with frills."

By 10 o'clock the entire squad of nearly fifty men had gathered quietly in the old barn, and, to their surprise found a roped and padded boxing ring arranged.

"Gentlemen," announced Murphy, when all had assembled. "We failed to get the badger, but in order that this large and representative assembly may not be disappointed, we have arranged another little sporting event as a substitute. But I must caution you to make no noise, as we all might get pinched and every man here will be fined by the manager if he ever gets wind of this."

There was a buzz of comment from the athletes, in the midst of which Saunders and Parker appeared, each with a bucket of water, towels and other paraphernalia of the boxers' seconds.

"Gentlemen," announced Murphy again from the center of the ring, "there will be but one bout. Battling Cayvan and Pepper Kid Reaves will be the participants, and again I must caution you to make no noise and restrain your applause."

And Reaves and Cayvan stripped for the fray and escorted by their seconds, made their appearance from the corn bin in a corner of the barn. Some one started to clap, but Murphy sternly announced if any one tried to start anything he would be "summarily ejected from the club."

In opposite corners of the ring the boxers were seated on chairs and their gloves put on, Saunders acting as Reaves' second and Parker officiating for Cayvan. Murphy announced that he would act as referee and Reilly was chosen timekeeper.

The referee gave the fighters their instructions, the ring was cleared save for the three figures who belonged there, Reilly clapped his hands together in lieu of a gong, the fighters lightly touched hands and the bout was on.

The men were about evenly matched, Cayvan being somewhat heavier, while Reaves had the longer reach and a half-dozen years' advantage.

After sparring for an opening a few minutes, Cayvan landed a light tap on Reaves Jaw. Joe countered with a swing to the ribs which glanced off. Each knew something of boxing and each was feeling out his opponent. The two-minute round ended with little damage being done on either side, and after a minute's intermission they went at it again.

In the second, Cayvan landed a wicked left jab under Joe's right eye. The flesh puffed out as Joe rushed at Cayvan. But the latter fought him off. In the third, Reaves, who was playing for the body, planted a stiff punch to the stomach which perceptibly jarred the catcher. But Cayvan came back with a hard swing to the jaw. Until the seventh the bout was about even. Neither man had been damaged much, although both were tiring.

Murphy had difficulty in restraining the enthusiasm of the spectators. But there was considerable betting at even money on the result.

In the seventh, after considerable sparring, Joe suddenly changed his tactics and shot a right to Cayvan's face. It landed on the mouth and a thin stream of blood trickled from the cut lower lip down on to the catcher's chest. Cayvan tried to rush his opponent, but Joe coolly fought him off until Cayvan, who had been swinging wildly, suddenly let loose a right uppercut as Joe swung for his body. The blow landed on the side of the jaw and Joe staggered. Cayvan stepped back and amid a breathless silence Reaves sank to his knees. He tried to rise, but the place was rapidly revolving about him. He heard Murphy slowly counting and at six he placed one hand on the ground to steady himself and attempted to rise. But he couldn't quite make it and sank back on the floor at the count of ten.

Saunders sprang to his side with smelling salts and raised his head, and in a few moments he had revived sufficiently to sit up.

Murphy began driving the crowd out. "Get out quietly and keep your mouths shut," he cautioned. Then he returned to aid in restoring Joe. Cayvan and the seconds were with the defeated boxer and Joe was recovering rapidly.

"Let's pull down this ring," said Murphy, as soon as he saw Reaves was all right.

By the time Joe had taken a bath, with the aid of a couple of buckets of water, he was feeling all right, and as he and Cayvan dressed Murphy and the seconds kept up a running fire of conversation.

"Feeling all right, Joe?" asked Cayvan, coming over to his defeated opponent with outstretched hand.

"Fine," was the hearty response, and the two shook hands. "Hope my eye doesn't look as bad as your lip," he grinned.

"That was a pretty hard punch you landed there," laughed back Cayvan.

"Fine business this," suddenly interrupted a rough voice, and McKnight slowly climbed down a ladder from the hayloft above.

"Thought you'd leave me out in the cold, did you?" he sneered, as he approached them. Murphy and the erstwhile seconds tried to back out of sight, but he turned and saw them. "Pulling off some little private shows, are you?" he demanded. Then turning suddenly on Reaves he roared, "You better cut out your rough stuff, Mr. Pepper Kid Reaves. I'm not gonner stand for any more of that on my team. The Butchers may have a bad name, but you'll have to behave yourself. You're liable to hurt some of my players. Your trouble is you're too full of pep, but I'll work it out of you, and I'll do it before we get away from this camp, too. Whenever you can't restrain your temper you come around and I'll take you on for a half dozen rounds. I'll get some of that pep out of you. If I don't you'll be assaulting Bill Klem and Lord Byron when we get back home." And he turned away with a scowl and left the barn. But Murphy claimed the manager was grinning as he went out the door.

"Gee, I didn't know he was around here," gasped Joe, in astonishment.

"I don't know how he got here," said Murphy, innocently. "We orter looked up in that loft before the show started. I don't reckon he's very mad, though." But let's beat it back to the hotel."

And the five men strolled back toward the hotel, Cayvan and Reaves walking together.

The latter was happy, even if he had been whipped. He had put up a good fight, but it was the words of the manager which pleased him. He felt somehow that he had shaken off that lack-of-pep hoodoo which had clung to him. And he was right.

One of the sport writers with the expedition got wind of the affray that afternoon and wired the story to his paper. In a week every paper in the country had carried some version of the fight between Reaves and Cayvan and in every version Reaves, of course, was the aggressor.

McKnight was interviewed on the subject of Joe's pugnaciousness and said: "He's all right except that he's got a little too much pep and he didn't work it out during the winter. Maybe he took it out on Cayvan. I don't know. Some players don't have enough pep, but Reaves has too much. He'll work it out on the field, though, before the season is over."

Reaves read that and rejoiced.

He had gone through his baptism of fire. He had been "panned" unmercifully and unjustly and he had taken it too much to heart, and then suddenly he had been promoted to the ranks of the "pepper" boys, merely because his resentment had finally reached the point of physical violence.

Thereafter he didn't change his style of play on the field, and he always was the same quiet youngster, but he was known as the "pepper kid." It takes a little thing to change the viewpoint of the public.

Texas League Teams Have Bad Day Against Majors

BATFEST IS STAGED BY TIGER REGULARS

INCIDENTALLY, WACO LOSES THE GAME BY ONE-SIDED SCORE OF 11 TO 2.

BURNS LEADS BOMBARDMENT

Spectacular Plays Abound and Fans Kept Interested—3:30 Is Opening Time Today.

If one may judge from their performances yesterday, the Tigers will make an exercise gallop of the American league race this season. Without the services of their two best bets—Tyrus Cobb and Big Sam Crawford—the Tigers slammed the old baseball to every corner of the lot, played an errorless game and kept on their toes right to the last minute. The score was 11 to 2—and nobody knows what it might have been had Crawford and Cobb been there.

Another thing—the peppery Tiger foreman, Hughie Jennings, wasn't on the spot, either, being confined to quarters in Waxahachie with what the ball players call a "slider." But the team was in good hands, with Coach Billy Sullivan on one line and Assistant Coach Jimmy Burke on the other.

When the big leaguers first picked up their war clubs, Closman, left-hander from Omaha, was facing them. He ran into a bad inning right off the reel—seemingly having trouble locating the plate, and having the ball lost when he did get 'em over. Donie Bush drew a walk to begin with. "Pepper" Young caught one square on the snout and it took a mighty pretty running catch by Jesse James to Spear it. The play was doubly effective because it came on a hit-and run, Bush being well round second when Jesse flagged the ball, and falling an easy victim to a double play. With two gone and nobody on, Closman walked Kavanaugh and Veach. Then one Burns sauntered up and started an afternoon's wild orgie with his bat by clouting a double down in the club-house corner, which gave both Veach and Kavaugh time to score. Sprinkled through the rest of the performance, this same big guy accumulated three singles and another double. Maisel hit a screamer over the third bag that looked like it might have been called either way. Jost called it fair and it went for a double, scoring Burns. Maisel was an easy out.

Waco came back in her half with a little batting fest of its own. Bittle led off with a clean rap to center. Coyle doubled out into the extreme left-field corner. Bittle scored on Malmquist's infield out, but when James hit to Maisel Coyle was caught at the plate.

Closman tightened up after this behind good support and managed to hold the Tigers off the plate during the next four innings. Tanner made a sensational one-handed flag of a grounder back of second and Bittle's quick recovery of Stanage's smash to deep left and his perfect throw to Tanner retired the catcher.

In the third Bittle again started the Navs with a slashing double down the third-base line. Coyle again followed with a smash to right-center that looked like another double. Bittle scored, but George Harper, the ex-Panther center fielder, make a quick recovery of the blow and with a perfect peg to second cut Coyle off. After that Waco didn't even threaten.

In the sixth inning, Donalds and Toland replaced Closman and Reilly. The veteran pitcher wasn't expecting to be called on, as he had been kept warmed up down at Marlin Friday afternoon, but Causey, who was due to round out the box work, developed a sore throat and it was up to Donalds to do his best.

The Tigers liked Donalds. They welcomed him with loud acclaim that took the form of many singles and doubles. They just kept on liking him right up to the finish. But at that he got away behind a couple of boots that started him off bad. On the whole, however, the fielding on both sides was brilliant. Veach robbed Tanner of a possible double when he backed up against the fence and speared a drive with his bare hand. Bittle made a long running catch of Stanage's foul that looked like the old Bobby Clemmons days. It was a great game to watch—if one enjoyed seeing the big guns wallop the ball and run around the bases.

Hill is scheduled to twirl for Waco this afternoon. If any kind of a pitcher can hold the Tigers to decent limits it is a left-hander, for most of them are left-hand hitters, and if Hill tries to put anything on the ball at all he should have fair luck with them. If Hill's arm is not in condition to take a workout, the chances are that Naylor will start the game—or Causey, if the latter's throat is all right. Smithson, a big left-hander, a cousin of Sam Jones, cashier of the Morning News, will do at least a part of the pitching for Detroit.

Sam Crawford is here and probably will play today. He arrived too late for the game yesterday. Ty Cobb may come in this morning, but it is hardly expected he will don a uniform even if he does. The game this afternoon will begin at 3:30. Box seats will be on sale at Herz Brothers from 10 until 2 o'clock.

Not Much Certainty in Buff Camp Yet

Special to the Morning News.

Houston, March 18.—Possibly no club in the Texas league is in more of an unsettled state than the Buffs, sixteen of whom are at present training at West End under the leadership of Boss P. Henry Newnam, the same who managed the club in 1914 and 1915. So much of the future of the team lies on the knees of the gods that it is hard to discuss its outlook with any degree of certainty.

The owners of the local club, for the first time since they took charge in 1909, failed to determine on the make-up of the team during the winter. Instead, they have held off, and have been dickering for players with clubs with whom they are affiliated. It is almost a certainty that the team will have four or five new faces before the season opens.

The cry of Newnam is for pitchers, and it is for pitchers that the club is seeking. The staff bent like a willow wand last season and while it is possible that Criss, Rose, Napier, Edmondson of last season and Wilbur Glenn of the Western Association might be depended upon to play stellar ball and pitch the team to a pennant, the owners do not intend to take any chances. The possibility of securing a flinger is holding up one trade by which the Houston team might secure a hitting outfielder. Should they be able to dicker for a pitcher instead, they will turn down the gardener.

The make-up of the rest of the team is not certain, but the club should start the season with almost its present make-up. The infield, composed of Newnam, Seitz, Tullos and Citrano, looks as fast as any the club has had in years. If Citrano hits up to his figures of last season, the inner defense should bat as well as any Houston infield ever done. Citrano seems to have filled the vacancy at short, though his hands are small.

The club will not lack catchers. Joe Jenkins, who stayed all of 1914 with the Browns and caught most of Atlanta's games last year, is too good a man for the league. And that he will be the first string maskman is a certainty. With the experienced Fletcher Allen, the youthful Querry and Tom Harris, who is not to report until after the season has started, the club can easily pick an assistant.

Frierson and Garner both look good in the gardens. Henry is a bit slow, but Al Lee is yet to come and is expected to cinch his place in one of the fields.

Four of the Colts were released last week. Outfielders Partain and Prestwood, Pitcher Meyers and Shortstop Balshaw heard the rattle of the tinware.

The Buffs are now well into their exhibition schedule and appear as usual to be a hard team to beat in the spring. They broke even with Fielder Jones' two clubs and expect to do as well with the Giants at this week-end.

The training camp has been free from injuries, and the club has been fortunate in the warm weather which has kept the pitchers in condition. With only five to share the burden of practice and exhibition work, there is small wonder that each drop in the mercury brings a prayer for continued warmth to the lips of Newman, Sens and Roberts.

West End, the local stadium, has been remodelled and will be a surprise to visiting teams. The management has forestalled all alibis hitherto allowed batsmen on the variegated character of the color scheme forming the background for the pitcher, by omitting all advertising from a sixty-foot stretch of fence. This is painted a dark green and forms a perfect screen for the pitcher.

Broncs Breaking Even With Cards

Special to the Morning News.

San Antonio, March 18.—Again the umpire's wail will sound forth at league park this afternoon, when the Bronchos and St. Louis Cardinals cross bats for the fifth time in their exhibition series. To date each team has two victories and two defeats chalked against it, each with the other and the two games here today and Sunday will mean an even break or a decided advantage for either one or the other of the two teams.

Manager Miller Huggins, after sending his regulars to scalp the Nags last Saturday and Sunday, was somewnat disguster to think that the Texas leaguers could get an even break with his squad of stars who wear the red hose. To make matters worse, his regular twirlers and his recruits whom he expected to wipe up the earth with the Nags failed ignominious. Before the curtain has rung down on the series, it is the opinion of the fans that Huggins will be tickled to death to get an even break with Cap Leidy's bunch of stellar warriors.

The New York Giants will follow the Cardinals for two exhibition games here Monday and Tuesday, and, according to Manager Muggsy McGraw the celebrated and much-talked of Benny Kauff, the only rival of Ty Cobb, probably will be in the line-up against the local squad.

Harrison J. Benson is pleased with the outlook to date and predicts a banner season for the bucking Bronchos, both financially and in the league standing.

Pennant is the word that is passing from mouth to mouth from the fans and each and every one has the idea that the Nags will be unbeatable with one more good pitcher.

"Higgy" Simmang, the local amateur, has been going great in the outfield for the locals and predictions are free that he will stick to a certainty. And what's more they predict that he will go higher up inside of two years. He is a natural fielder, the most graceful that ever cavorted in the garden for the locals, and he is getting his eye on the ball. Twirlers like Slim Sallee, Bill Doak, Dan Griner, Bob Steel—all major leaguers—have been no puzzle to him and in every exhibition he gets either one or two hits.

The financial end of the game here is due to pick up this season, although San Antonio has been a losing proposition in a baseball way for the past few years. This is due to the fact that there is more interest taken in the game since Harrison J. Benson took hold of the team a year ago.

Another source of income will be the bleachers. It is the idea of President Benson that the little lad of today will be the fan from the grandstand and the boxes in a few more years and in order to induce Young America to see more league battles the admission to the youngsters has been reduced to ten cents—just a thin dime.

Box holders will have their names printed on the boxes and also the names of those who are entitled to seats. This is another good idea and keeps outsiders away from the best positions. Another thing the box always is reserved and one may take his seat at any time during a baseball game without being among those standing in the aisles during many of the Sunday and holiday games.

The line-ups for this afternoon have been announced as follows:

WASHINGTON BEATS VIRGINIA.

By the Associated Press.

Charlottesville, Va., March 18.—The Washington Americans and the University of Virginia played eight innings of baseball today despite the frigid weather, Washington winning 10 to 4.

Kauff Is to Play in Waco Wednesday

Benny Kauff.

A great deal of interest has been aroused in the game to be played here Wednesday between the Giant regulars and the Navigators. Part of this is due to the fact that Bennie Kauff, who led the Federal league batters with .344 last year, will make his initial appearance in Waco. Kauff is probably the greatest question mark in baseball this summer—at any rate he is the most talked-about right at this time. He is said to have erupted certain mutterings as to what he was going to do to Ty Cobb this summer, although at last writings the Peach didn't appear to be shaking on his throne.

Many Trying for Panther Infield

Special to the Morning News.

Fort Worth, March 18.—The biggest development of the week in Pantherdom was the announcement of the signing of Pitcher A. Rankin Johnson, former Boston Red Sox twirler and jumper to the federals. Johnson is in business in San Antonio and is expected to report here immediately.

Who will win the free-for-all scrap among Maurice Dee, Eddie Holloway, Earl Wratten and Manda for infield berths remains yet to be settled. Manager Atz probably will handle the second hack himself again this year, and Fred Hunter will be at first again. This, with Bobby Stow back at shortstop, will leave but one berth to be filled—third. Wratten and Manda are the only regular third basemen in camp. The others are second basemen and shortstoppers.

Roy Fentress, pitcher extraordinary, who used to beat the Navigators any old time he felt to inclined, and Fred Hunter, first baseman, reported during the week. Stow is the only regular to come. Sherer, a likely looking outfielder who is some hitter, also is on hand. This means the outfield will rest between McIver, McCoy, McLaurin and Sherer. Which will go is yet undecided. McIver looks to be in as good shape as ever. His tenth-inning wallop last Sunday, which won the game from the Detroit regulars, put him in good with local fans right off the reel.

In the catching department, Fort Worth seems well taken care of by young Woodall and Red Betts. Woodall is a steady lad from the Asheville club and manages to get his hit in every practice game. Betts is undoubtedly in the best shape he has shown since he has played with Fort Worth.

The Panthers will play the White Sox regulars Sunday and Manager Jakey Atz is hoping to make the same showing with his bunch he did Sunday with the Tigers. Atz has been refereeing the basketball games here for the high school tournament at the fat stock show this week. In fact, most of the sport interest here has been in the big track meets and basketball games in the Coliseum daily, and the Atzmen have been allowed to step out of the limelight.

McGraw's Regulars Defeat Galveston

Galveston, March 18.—The local Texas league club gave McGraw's New York regulars a hard battle here this afternoon, losing by a score of 4 to 3 in a well-played contest. Kelley, the elongated right fielder of the Giants, featured the game with two terrific drives and speedy fielding, throwing out two runners at first base on clean hits to the outfield.

Score—	R.	H.	E.
New York	4	9	0
Galveston	3	3	1

Schupp, Schauer and Dooin; Schmidt, Barfoot and Scott.

CORNELL WRESTLERS WIN.

By the Associated Press

Princeton, N. J., March 18.—Cornell won the intercollegiate wrestling championship here today for the fifth consecutive year with a score of 24 points. Princeton took second place. Dorizas, the Greek strong man of Pennsylvania, disposed of Jewett of Princeton with a body hold in a fraction over 20 seconds.

Sid Smith Thinks Has Real Team Now

Special to the Morning News.

Shreveport, La., March 18.—After two weeks of observation, Manager Sid Smith feels satisfied that he has a ball club that will compare favorably with anything in woolens in the Texas league. Smith has a pretty good line on how his actors can be expected to perform in the coming Texas league campaign, and he is sure that he has patched up whatever weak spots existed at the close of the 1915 campaign. After a crushing 21 to 7 defeat at the hands of Charley Herzog's Cincinnati Reds last Sunday, the Gassers have shown marked improvement in their play during the week and two other games with the Reds have been victories for the local club.

Smith has been working his young pitchers against the major leaguers, and several of them have twirled a brand of baseball that will make them valuable members of the Gasser sharpshooting force. This is especially true of Pat Andrews. Andrews worked six innings of the second game with the Reds and he gave up only two hits and fanned six men. Nor was Andrews pitching against bush material. Killifer, Griffith, Mollwitz, Groh, Wingo and other stars were in the line-up which the youngster had to contend with and he never faltered. Andrews, though barely 20 years old and totally unseasoned in professional baseball, handled himself like a veteran pitcher and his change of pace completely bewildered the Cincinnati sluggers.

If Smith is able to develop one or two of the youngsters to assist his four veteran pitchers, he thinks that the pitching end of the game will be well cared for. The Gassers have shown themselves formidable with the bat during the three exhibition games played thus far. In the three games they hit safely 32 times against the Reds' 29 hits. Of the 29 safeties secured by the National leaguers 18 came in the first game.

Ray Rollings, who was injured last season and forced to retire with a badly sprained arm, is having a touch of his old trouble and was out of the line-up during the early part of the week. Jack Diamond, catcher and utility infielder, is covering second base until Rollings is able to resume the post.

Smith is still carrying a squad of twenty-three men, but the beginning of the present week will find many faces missing, according to Smith, although he will not give the slightest hint as to which of the players is among the danger zone. Several recruits who came highly recommended have not shown the slightest trace of baseball ability and will be separated from their contracts just as soon as their restaurant mileage runs out.

Mostly New Men in Dallas Lineup

Special to the Morning News.

Dallas, March 18.—With the Texas league season opening less than four weeks away, the Dallas team probably is in better condition than at any time during any previous training season. There are twenty-two men in camp and they have been working daily since the latter part of February.

Harry Welchonce, for four years a Southern league player and last year a manager of an independent team in Pennsylvania, will be Joe Gardner's pilot this year. Gardner signed Welchonce on the recommendations of Scout Don Curtis of Waco and the big fellow comes to Dallas with an excellent record. During the last six years his batting has averaged .317. Not only is he a hitter be he is a manager and he handles his men in a manner that is not rough and rowdy.

Bill Thompson of Ohio will officiate at first this year. He is the only man trying for that place and he is all that is needed. He played with Yorktown in the Central league last year and led the league as a first sacker. He played in 116 games and his fielding average was 990.

Bono, left from last year's pitching staff, is looking especially good this year. Mackey, McDonnough and Mace are doing the receiving and two will be kept on the team. Conley and Landry will be among the new pitchers on the team and it looks like Yockey will be the regular shortstop, although he is out of training just now with a crippled foot. Tracy and Bourdeaux are fighting for the third sack job and it seems like Stupp will land the keystone bag. In the outfield it is a scramble with odds a little in favor of Josefson, McCandless and Trainor, all new men.

There are several other men in the training camp and doubtless some of them will be able to make the regular team, but Welchonce is not saying just who will get the pink slips.

It is expected that thousands of North Texas fans will be in Dallas on Saturday and Sunday, March 25 and 26, to see the New York Nationals and the Detroit Americans meet here for the first time. This also will be the initial meeting of Messrs. Benny Kauff of Federal league fame, now with McGraw's camp at Marlin, and one Tyrus Cobb, of Hughie Jennings' tribe. Benny has said that he was going to make the Georgia Peach look like thirty cents when he met the Detroiter and in anticipation that he may have something up his sleeve Jennings has ordered Cobb into camp about a week earlier than usual.

Joe Gardner, owner of the Dallas franchise, said tonight that every box seat for both of the big league games here next week had been sold. Some went as far north as Muskogee, Okla., and as far west as Childress and Abilene. Special excursion rates are being offered on all interurbans and railroads entering Dallas and it is believed that the attendance will be the largest ever assembled in a Texas league park.

The Dallas first string team will leave Dallas on Friday, March 24, for a short abrnstorming tour through North Texas and Oklahoma. The first game will be at Sherman with the Western Association team there. The next stop will be at McAlester, then Muskogee and it is probable that Denison, Fort Smith, Oklahoma City and one or two other towns will be included in the itinerary.

Maisel One of the Tiger Stars

GEORGE MAISEL.

Waco fans have an opportunity today to see one of the best third basemen in captivity. His name is Maisel and he is holding down the third sack for Hughie Jennings. Quick as a flash, he also did some fancy batting yesterday, getting two two-baggers out of three times at bat. Sam Crawford is also here now and is expected to appear in the game this afternoon.

"Farmer Boy" Allen Back With Pirates

Special to the Morning News.

Galveston, March 18.—When the West Indian hurricane came along last year and tore the Texas league schedule to smithereens, the Pirates were well up in the pennant chase. And, although Waco finished with fewer games lost for the season than Galveston had chalked up at that time, many Island City fans believe the result would have been different had the Pirates been able to play it on out.

Manager Paul Sentell is determined to do at least as well this year, if not better. He has let Gene Moore, Jules Watson and Tom Carson go, but he still retains a number of his old stars and has some good new material trying out. Gene Madden has gone on up and his place will be hard to fill.

"Farmer Boy" Roy Allen, the terror of the Navigators for the two last seasons, drifted in this week and announced that he was feeling fine. Henry Chelette, who pitched for Shreveport early last season, also arrived in camp. So did George Bope, infielder secured from Mobile.

Incidentally Bope will try to dislodge Bobby Tarleton at first. In which he has a man-sized job cut out for him. Third Baseman Bill Elwert and Pitcher Heinie Berger, coming from Nashville, are the only two men who have not yet reported.

Tom Wilson is due to perform back of the plate most of the time, with Scott, a youngster, showing up good as second string catcher. Bill Hille is in good shape—in fact, Sentell says he is mighty well pleased with the prospects.

Galveston may not be winning a many practice games as some of 'em, but they don't count in the standings. So who cares? Not Sentell.

Boston Red Sox Are for Preparedness

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 18.—Telegrams received by the National Security league in response to inquiries addressed to prominent members of the baseball fraternity throughout the country indicate that all favor the movement for national defense, it was announced by officials of the security league here tonight.

W. E. Carrigan, manager of the Boston Americans, sent this message:

"We believe in preparedness as far as training is concerned—that's why we are at the springs."

The Cincinnati team, which, according to Manager Charles Herzog, is composed of Irish, English, Scotch, Welsh, German and Italian descent," is unanimous in the belief that the United States "should so arm itself that no nation will venture to insult or attack it."

MERIDIAN 12, HILLSBORO 3.

Special to the Morning News.

Meridian, March 18.—Meridian College defeated Hillsboro Hi here yesterday by a score of 12 to 3. The features of the game a beautiful peg from centerfield by Rizer which cut a man off at the plate and the hitting of Red Wiggins, first baseman for Meridian, who secured three singles, a three-bagger and a home run out of six times up. J. Jones of the Meridian team also got a home run.

Errol Holt, second baseman for Meridian, broke his leg below the knee while sliding home in the seventh inning.

The Meridian team hit at will and was never in danger of losing the game. Loftin, who pitched for Hillsboro, was formerly of the Temple team of the Middle Texas league.

Plans for Big Fight Pronounced O. K.

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 18.—Chairman Wenlick of the New York state athletic commission, stated today that the arrangements made by the management of Madison Square Garden and the promoters of the Willard-Moran bout, which is to be fought next Saturday night are satisfactory in every detail to himself and the other two commissioners.

The sale of tickets has been so brisk that every seat has been disposed of with the exception of the gallery reservations, which will be put on sale next Thursday.

Willard boxed three rounds each with Hemple, Monahan and Rodel today and then wrestled with Rodel for three minutes. The champion worked fast all the way.

Moran celebrated his twenty-ninth birthday by boxing five rounds in all with his three sparring partners. The Pittsburg man never looked in better condition. He is anxious to enter the ring as heavy as possible but declared today he did not think he could reach 205 pounds. He turned the scales today at 201 pounds.

Y. M. C. A. Athletes Having Busy Time

Last Thursday night the senior class organized a volley ball league that will last a month. This indoor game is catching hold of all the classes, and in a short time there will be lots of rivalry as to which class has the best team.

The junior high school class had one more week of their basketball league. The standing:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
McReynolds	5	1	.830
Jennings	5	1	.830
J. Harrison	3	3	.500
Wyche	2	4	.333
Wallace	2	4	.333
Mayfield	2	4	.333

The junior boys have some material that some of the scouts of the big leagues ought to look over. They have a very close league of indoor baseball and they play hard. The standing:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Tigers, F. Rogers, Capt.	4	2	.666
Wolves, Holloway, captain	4	2	.666
Lions, Berkman, captain	3	3	.500

Little Rock Sells Shortstop Downey to Galveston Club

By the Associated Press.

Little Rock, Ark., March 18.—President Robert G. Allen of the Little Rock club of the Southern association announced tonight that he has sold shortstop Tom Downey to the Galveston club of the Texas league.

Downey was purchased by Little Rock from the Kansas City club of the American association last year. President Allen said he was not certain that Downey will consent to play with Galveston.

He said that he had previously secured for Downey the management of the Topeka club of the Western league, but that Downey had insisted he will play on the Pacific coast or nowhere.

Secondary schools: St. John's, Delafield, Wis., 991.

High school, Iowa City 988.

BAYLOR WILL HOLD CLASS TRACK MEET ON SECOND OF APRIL

In order that there may be the regular class track meet at Baylor this year, and also that a number of men may be induced to come out for the sport, a date for the preliminary or class meet has been set for April 2. This meet will include all the various members of all the classes who wish to participate in it, just so they are eligible for work in a T. I. A. A. meet. These men also will have the incentive of winning for a place on the regular team.

The winners of the events will be the ones to make the trip with Captain Isaacks and Manager Porter as the university team. There will then be no doubt but that the very best men in school will represent the Baptists in the state meets and the Southwestern association meet. Up to this time there has been a plan of choosing the team from the material with whom the captain happened to be familiar, and it is the desire of the captain and manager this year to have the best possible team regardless of the personnel. There has been for the past several years growing intrest in track work here and if it were possible to have more meets here doubtless it would grow as rapidly as did soccer.

Porter on the half has been doing some near-record time and Managan on the high jump has been doing record work, and it only remains for him to do that well in a meet to show what Baylor will have in the line of jumpers. Sitton is also doing near record work on the vault. Aside from these there are no others who look like sure first places in their events, but doubtless Baylor can count on a number of seconds in the series of events.

The first meet will be with Southwestern at Georgetown on April 15.

Thorpe Now Bats With Left Hand and Is Showing Up Well

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 19.—Jim Thorpe, the Sac and Fox Indian, Olympic prize winner and one of the greatest football players that ever donned gridiron armor, is making his last stand on the major league baseball diamond.

Without question, one of the world's greatest athletes ever developed in America or any other portion of the world, Thorpe has made a name for himself in track and field sports, lacrosse, football and colleeb baseball. It was not until he undertook to play the latter game in the big leagues that he found a sport wherein he failed to shine with his accustomed brilliancy.

Fresh from his Olympic triupmhs at Stockholm and the subsequent sensational stripping away of these honors by the amateur athletic union on the charge that he was a professional, Thorpe was signed to play with the New York National league club by Manager John J. McGraw. From the very beginning the redskin athlete ran like a deer in the outfield and on the bases, fielded well but was absolutely helpless before the curved pitching of the big league box stars.

Given a straight ball across the heart of the plate, Thorpe with his powerful arms and shoulders could and did lift the ball over the centerfielder's head with great regularity. The trouble was that the pitcher never made such a mistake but once. Thereafter Thorpe got nothing but curved pitching, and the Indian swung on the slants in vain.

Thorpe drifted from the major league to the minors and even there his helplessness at the plate caused him to be cast aside for a less sensational player who could hit in pinches. Through it all McGraw held firm to his belief that eventually Thorpe would master the art of hitting a curved delivery. This spring McGraw determined to give him another chance with the Giants at the training camp at Marlin, Texas.

There the redman was persuaded to try batting left-handed when he went to the plate and at once a decided improvement was noticed in his hitting. In his new position he showed ability to connect with the best of the early-spring curves and his admirers have taken hope. If it is demonstrated that Thorpe, batting left-handed, can land on the ball with his heavy black war club, there is a place for him with the Giants and McGraw's judgment will have been vindicated. If it is proved, however, that it is but a flash of batting ability then Thorpe and the big leagues will part company forever.

Texas League Teams Have Bad Day Against Majors

BATFEST IS STAGED BY TIGER REGULARS

INCIDENTALLY, WACO LOSES THE GAME BY ONE-SIDED SCORE OF 11 TO 2.

BURNS LEADS BOMBARDMENT

Spectacular Plays Abound and Fans Kept Interested—3:30 Is Opening Time Today.

If one may judge from their performances yesterday, the Tigers will make an exercise gallop of the American league race this season. Without the services of their two best bets—Tyrus Cobb and Big Sam Crawford—the Tigers slammed the old baseball to every corner of the lot, played an errorless game and kept on their toes right to the last minute. The score was 11 to 2—and nobody knows what it might have been had Crawford and Cobb been there.

Another thing—the peppery Tiger foreman, Hughie Jennings, wasn't on the spot, either, being confined to quarters in Waxahachie with what the ball players call a "slider." But the team was in good hands, with Coach Billy Sullivan on one line and Assistant Coach Jimmy Burke on the other.

When the big leaguers first picked up their war clubs, Closman, left-hander from Omaha, was facing them. He ran into a bad inning right off the reel—seemingly having trouble locating the plate, and having the ball lost when he did get 'em over. Donie Bush drew a walk to begin with. "Pepper" Young caught one square on the snout and it took a mighty pretty running catch by Jesse James to Spear it. The play was doubly effective because it came on a hit-and run, Bush being well round second when Jesse flagged the ball, and falling an easy victim to a double play. With two gone and nobody on, Closman walked Kavanaugh and Veach. Then one Burns sauntered up and started an afternoon's wild orgie with his bat by clouting a double down in the club-house corner, which gave both Veach and Kavanaugh time to score. Sprinkled through the rest of the performance, this same big guy accumulated three singles and another double. Maisel hit a screamer over the third bag that looked like it might have been called either way. Jost called it fair and it went for a double, scoring Burns. Maisel was an easy out.

Waco came back in her half with a little batting fest of its own. Bittle led off with a clean rap to center. Coyle doubled out into the extreme left-field corner. Bittle scored on Malmquist's infield out, but when James hit to Maisel Coyle was caught at the plate.

Closman tightened up after this behind good support and managed to hold the Tigers off the plate during the next four innings. Tanner made a sensational one-handed flag of a grounder back of second and Bittle's quick recovery of Stanage's smash to deep left and his perfect throw to Tanner retired the catcher.

In the third Bittle again started the Navs with a slashing double down the third-base line. Coyle again followed with a smash to right-center that looked like another double. Bittle scored, but George Harper, the ex-Panther center fielder, make a quick recovery of the blow and with a perfect peg to second cut Coyle off. After that Waco didn't even threaten.

In the sixth inning, Donalds and Toland replaced Closman and Reilly. The veteran pitcher wasn't expecting to be called on, as he had been kept warmed up down at Marlin Friday afternoon, but Causey, who was due to round out the box work, developed a sore throat and it was up to Donalds to do his best.

The Tigers liked Donalds. They welcomed him with loud acclaim that took the form of many singles and doubles. They just kept on liking him right up to the finish. But at that he got away behind a couple of boots that started him off bad. On the whole, however, the fielding on both sides was brilliant. Veach robbed Tanner of a possible double when he backed up against the fence and speared a drive with his bare hand. Bittle made a long running catch of Stanage's foul that looked like the old Bobby Clemmons days. It was a great game to watch—if one enjoyed seeing the big 'uns wallop the ball and run around the bases.

Hill is scheduled to twirl for Waco this afternoon. If any kind of a pitcher can hold the Tigers to decent limits it is a left-hander, for most of them are left-hand hitters, and if Hill tries to put anything on the ball at all he should have fair luck with them. If Hill's arm is not in condition to take a workout, the chances are that Naylor will start the game—or Causey, if the latter's throat is all right. Smithson, a big left-hander, a cousin of Sam Jones, cashier of the Morning News, will do at least a part of the pitching for Detroit.

Sam Crawford is here and probably will play today. He arrived too late for the game yesterday. Ty Cobb may come in this morning, but it is hardly expected he will don a uniform even if he does. The game this afternoon will begin at 3:30. Box seats will be on sale at Herz Brothers from 10 until 2 o'clock.

Not Much Certainty in Buff Camp Yet

Special to the Morning News.

Houston, March 18.—Possibly no club in the Texas league is in more of an unsettled state than the Buffs, sixteen of whom are at present training at West End under the leadership of Boss P. Henry Newnam, the same who managed the club in 1914 and 1915. So much of the future of the team lies on the knees of the gods that it is hard to discuss its outlook with any degree of certainty.

The owners of the local club, for the first time since they took charge in 1909, failed to determine on the make-up of the team during the winter. Instead, they have held off, and have been dickering for players with clubs with whom they are affiliated. It is almost a certainty that the team will have four or five new faces before the season opens.

The cry of Newnam is for pitchers, and it is for pitchers that the club is seeking. The staff bent like a willow wand last season and while it is possible that Criss, Rose, Napier, Edmondson of last season and Wilbur Glenn of the Western Association might be depended upon to play stellar ball and pitch the team to a pennant, the owners do not intend to take any chances. The possibility of securing a flinger is holding up one trade by which the Houston team might secure a hitting outfielder. Should they be able to dicker for a pitcher instead, they will turn down the gardener.

The make-up of the rest of the team is not certain, but the club should start the season with almost its present make-up. The infield, composed of Newnam, Seitz, Tullos and Citrano, looks as fast as any the club has had in years. If Citrano hits up to his figures of last season, the inner defense should bat as well as any Houston infield ever done. Citrano seems to have filled the vacancy at short, though his hands are small.

The club will not lack catchers. Joe Jenkins, who stayed all of 1914 with the Browns and caught most of Atlanta's games last year, is too good a man for the league. And that he will be the first string maskman is a certainty. With the experienced Fletcher Allen, the youthful Querry and Tom Harris, who is not to report until after the season has started, the club can easily pick an assistant.

Frierson and Garner both look good in the gardens. Henry is a bit slow, but Al Lee is yet to come and is expected to cinch his place in one of the fields.

Four of the Colts were released last week. Outfielders Partain and Prestwood, Pitcher Meyers and Shortstop Balshaw heard the rattle of the tinware.

The Buffs are now well into their exhibition schedule and appear as usual to be a hard team to beat in the spring. They broke even with Fielder Jones' two clubs and expect to do as well with the Giants at this week-end.

The training camp has been free from injuries, and the club has been fortunate in the warm weather which has kept the pitchers in condition. With only five to share the burden of practice and exhibition work, there is small wonder that each drop in the mercury brings a prayer for continued warmth to the lips of Newman, Sens and Roberts.

West End, the local stadium, has been remodelled and will be a surprise to visiting teams. The management has forestalled all alibis hitherto allowed batsmen on the variegated character of the color scheme forming the background for the pitcher, by omitting all advertising from a sixty-foot stretch of fence. This is painted a dark green and forms a perfect screen for the pitcher.

Broncs Breaking Even With Cards

Special to the Morning News.

San Antonio, March 18.—Again the umpire's wail will sound forth at league park this afternoon, when the Bronchos and St. Louis Cardinals cross bats for the fifth time in their exhibition series. To date each team has two victories and two defeats chalked against it, each with the other and the two games here today and Sunday will mean an even break or a decided advantage for either one or the other of the two teams.

Manager Miller Huggins, after sending his regulars to scalp the Nags last Saturday and Sunday, was somewhat disguster to think that the Texas leaguers could get an even break with his squad of stars who wear the red hose. To make matters worse, his regular twirlers and his recruits whom he expected to wipe up the earth with the Nags failed ignominious. Before the curtain has rung down on the series, it is the opinion of the fans that Huggins will be tickled to death to get an even break with Cap Leidy's bunch of stellar warriors.

The New York Giants will follow the Cardinals for two exhibition games here Monday and Tuesday, and, according to Manager Muggsy McGraw the celebrated and much-talked of Benny Kauff, the only rival of Ty Cobb, probably will be in the line-up against the local squad.

Harrison J. Benson is pleased with the outlook to date and predicts a banner season for the bucking Bronchos, both financially and in the league standing.

Pennant is the word that is passing from mouth to mouth from the fans and each and every one has the idea that the Nags will be unbeatable with one good pitcher.

"Higgy" Simmang, the local amateur, has been going great in the outfield for the locals and predictions are free that he will stick to a certainty. And what's more they predict that he will go higher up inside of two years. He is a natural fielder, the most graceful that ever cavorted in the garden for the locals, and he is getting his eye on the ball. Twirlers like Slim Sallee, Bill Doak, Dan Griner, Bob Steel—all major leaguers—have been no puzzle to him and in every exhibition he gets either one or two hits.

The financial end of the game here is due to pick up this season, although San Antonio has been a losing proposition in a baseball way for the past few years. This is due to the fact that there is more interest taken in the game since Harrison J. Benson took hold of the team a year ago.

Another source of income will be the bleachers. It is the idea of President Benson that the little lad of today will be the fan from the grandstand and the boxes in a few more years and in order to induce Young America to see more league battles the admission to the youngsters has been reduced to ten cents—just a thin dime.

Box holders will have their names printed on the boxes and also the names of those who are entitled to seats. This is another good idea and keeps outsiders away from the best positions. Another thing the box always is reserved and one may take his seat at any time during a baseball game without being among those standing in the aisles during many of the Sunday and holiday games.

The line-ups for this afternoon have been announced as follows:

Bronchos: Burch and Soper, catchers; Dunckel, first base; Love, second base; Balenti, shortstop; Westerzil, third base; Baggan, left field; Wotell, center field; Simman, right field. Stewart, Harding and Davenport will work three innings each in the box.

WASHINGTON BEATS VIRGINIA.

By the Associated Press.

Charlottesville, Va., March 18.—The Washington Americans and the University of Virginia played eight innings of baseball today despite the frigid weather, Washington winning 10 to 4.

Kauff Is to Play in Waco Wednesday

Benny Kauff.

A great deal of interest has been aroused in the game to be played here Wednesday between the Giant regulars and the Navigators. Part of this is due to the fact that Bennie Kauff, who led the Federal league batters with .344 last year, will make his initial appearance in Waco. Kauff is probably the greatest question mark in baseball this summer—at any rate he is the most talked-about right at this time. He is said to have erupted certain mutterings as to what he was going to do to Ty Cobb this summer, although at last writings the Peach didn't appear to be shaking on his throne.

Many Trying for Panther Infield

Special to the Morning News.

Fort Worth, March 18.—The biggest development of the week in Pantherdom was the announcement of the signing of Pitcher A. Rankin Johnson, former Boston Red Sox twirler and jumper to the federals. Johnson is in business in San Antonio and is expected to report here immediately.

Who will win the free-for-all scrap among Maurice Dee, Eddie Holloway, Earl Wratten and Manda for infield berths remains yet to be settled. Manager Atz probably will handle the second hack himself again this year, and Fred Hunter will be at first again. This, with Bobby Stow back at shortstop, will leave but one berth to be filled—third. Wratten and Manda are the only regular third basemen in camp. The others are second basemen and shortstoppers.

Roy Fentress, pitcher extraordinary, who used to beat the Navigators any old time he felt to inclined, and Fred Hunter, first baseman, reported during the week. Stow is the only regular to come. Sherer, a likely looking outfielder who is some hitter, also is on hand. This means the outfield will rest between McIver, McCoy, McLaurin and Sherer. Which will go is yet undecided. McIver looks to be in as good shape as ever. His tenth-inning wallop last Sunday, which won the game from the Detroit regulars, put him in good with local fans right off the reel.

In the catching department, Fort Worth seems well taken care of by young Woodall and Red Betts. Woodall is a steady lad from the Asheville club and manages to get his hit in every practice game. Betts is undoubtedly in the best shape he has shown since he has played with Fort Worth.

The Panthers will play the White Sox regulars Sunday and Manager Jakey Atz is hoping to make the same showing with his bunch he did Sunday with the Tigers. Atz has been refereeing the basketball games here for the high school tournament at the fat stock show this week. In fact, most of the sport interest here has been in the big track meets and basketball games in the Coliseum daily, and the Aizmen have been allowed to step out of the limelight.

McGraw's Regulars Defeat Galveston

Galveston, March 18.—The local Texas league club gave McGraw's New York regulars a hard battle here this afternoon, losing by a score of 4 to 3 in a well-played contest. Kelley, the elongated right fielder of the Giants, featured the game with two terrific drives and speedy fielding, throwing out two runners at first base on clean hits to the outfield.

Score—	R.	H.	E.
New York	4	9	0
Galveston	3	3	1

Schupp, Schauer and Dooin; Schmidt, Barfoot and Scott.

CORNELL WRESTLERS WIN.

By the Associated Press.

Princeton, N. J., March 18.—Cornell won the intercollegiate wrestling championship here today for the fifth consecutive year with a score of 24 points. Princeton took second place. Dorizas, the Greek strong man of Pennsylvania, disposed of Jewett of Princeton with a body hold in a fraction over 20 seconds.

PHILLIES 7, CUBS 2.

Sid Smith Thinks Has Real Team Now

Special to the Morning News.

Shreveport, La., March 18.—After two weeks of observation, Manager Sid Smith feels satisfied that he has a ball club that will compare favorably with anything in woolens in the Texas league. Smith has a pretty good line on how his actors can be expected to perform in the coming Texas league campaign, and he is sure that he has patched up whatever weak spots existed at the close of the 1915 campaign. After a crushing 21 to 7 defeat at the hands of Charley Herzog's Cincinnati Reds last Sunday, the Gassers have shown marked improvement in their play during the week and two other games with the Reds have been victories for the local club.

Smith has been working his young pitchers against the major leaguers, and several of them have twirled a brand of baseball that will make them valuable members of the Gasser sharpshooting force. This is especially true of Pat Andrews. Andrews worked six innings of the second game with the Reds and he gave up only two hits and fanned six men. Nor was Andrews pitching against bush material. Killifer, Griffith, Mollwitz, Groh, Wingo and other stars were in the line-up which the youngster had to contend with and he never faltered. Andrews, though barely 20 years old and totally unseasoned in professional baseball, handled himself like a veteran pitcher and his change of pace completely bewildered the Cincinnati sluggers.

If Smith is able to develop one or two of the youngsters to assist his four veteran pitchers, he thinks that the pitching end of the game will be well cared for. The Gassers have shown themselves formidable with the bat during the three exhibition games played thus far. In the three games they hit safely 32 times against the Reds' 29 hits. Of the 29 safeties secured by the National leaguers 18 came in the first game.

Ray Rollings, who was injured last season and forced to retire with a badly sprained arm, is having a touch of his old trouble and was out of the line-up during the early part of the week. Jack Diamond, catcher and utility infielder, is covering second base until Rollings is able to resume the post.

Smith is still carrying a squad of twenty-three men, but the beginning of the present week will find many faces missing, according to Smith, although he will not give the slightest hint as to which of the players is among the danger zone. Several recruits who came highly recommended have not shown the slightest trace of baseball ability and will be separated from their contracts just as soon as their restaurant mileage runs out.

Mostly New Men in Dallas Lineup

Special to the Morning News.

Dallas, March 18.—With the Texas league season opening less than four weeks away, the Dallas team probably is in better condition than at any time during any previous training season. There are twenty-two men in camp and they have been working daily since the latter part of February.

Harry Welchonce, for four years a Southern league player and last year a manager of an independent team in Pennsylvania, will be Joe Gardner's pilot this year. Gardner signed Welchonce on the recommendations of Scout Don Curtis of Waco and the big fellow comes to Dallas with an excellent record. During the last six years his batting has averaged .317. Not only is he a hitter he is a manager and he handles his men in a manner that is not rough and rowdy.

Bill Thompson of Ohio will officiate at first this year. He is the only man trying for that place and he is all that is needed. He played with Yorktown in the Central league last year and led the league as a first sacker. He played in 116 games and his fielding average was 990.

Bono, left from last year's pitching staff, is looking especially good this year. Mackey, McDonnough and Mace are doing the receiving and two will be kept on the team. Covey and Landry will be among the new pitchers on the team and it looks like Yockey will be the regular shortstop, although he is out of training just now with a crippled foot. Tracy and Bourdeaux are fighting for the third sack job and it seems like Stupp will land the keystone bag. In the outfield it is a scramble with odds a little in favor of Josefson, McCandless and Trainor, all new men.

There are several other men in the training camp and doubtless some of them will be able to make the regular team, but Welchonce is not saying just who will get the pink slips.

It is expected that thousands of North Texas fans will be in Dallas on Saturday and Sunday, March 25 and 26, to see the New York Nationals and the Detroit Americans meet here for the first time. This also will be the initial meeting of Messrs. Benny Kauff of Federal league fame, now with McGraw's camp at Marlin, and one Tyrus Cobb, of Hughie Jennings' tribe. Benny has said that he was going to make the Georgia Peach look like thirty cents when he met the Detroiter and in anticipation that he may have something up his sleeve Jennings has ordered Cobb into camp about a week earlier than usual.

Joe Gardner, owner of the Dallas franchise, said tonight that every box seat for both of the big league games here next week had been sold. Some went as far north as Muskogee, Okla., and as far west as Childress and Abilene. Special excursion rates are being offered on all interurbans and railroads entering Dallas and it is believed that the attendance will be the largest ever assembled in a Texas league park.

The Dallas first string team will leave Dallas on Friday, March 24, for a short abrnstorming tour through North Texas and Oklahoma. The first game will be at Sherman with the Western Association team there. The next stop will be at McAlester, then Muskogee and it is probable that Denison, Fort Smith, Oklahoma City and one or two other towns will be included in the itinerary.

MICHIGAN WINS RELAY.

By the Associated Press.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 18.—The University of Michigan relay team defeated Cornell in a closely contested two-mile relay race here tonight. The time, 7:56 3-5, is a new intercollegiate mark for the distance on an indoor track.

Maisel One of the Tiger Stars

GEORGE MAISEL.

Waco fans have an opportunity today to see one of the best third basemen in captivity. His name is Maisel and he is holding down the third sack for Hughie Jennings. Quick as a flash, he also did some fancy batting yesterday, getting two two-baggers out of three times at bat. Sam Crawford is also here now and is expected to appear in the game this afternoon.

"Farmer Boy" Allen Back With Pirates

Special to the Morning News.

Galveston, March 18.—When the West Indian hurricane came along last year and tore the Texas league schedule to smithereens, the Pirates were well up in the pennant chase. And, although Waco finished with fewer games lost for the season than Galveston had chalked up at that time, many Island City fans believe the result would have been different had the Pirates been able to play it on out.

Manager Paul Sentell is determined to do at least as well this year, if not better. He has let Gene Moore, Jules Watson and Tom Carson go, but he still retains a number of his old stars and has some good new material trying out. Gene Madden has gone on up and his place will be hard to fill.

"Farmer Boy" Roy Allen, the terror of the Navigators for the two last seasons, drifted in this week and announced that he was feeling fine. Henry Chelette, who pitched for Shreveport early last season, also arrived in camp. So did George Bope, infielder secured from Mobile.

Incidentally Bope will try to dislodge Bobby Tarleton at first. In which he has a man-sized job cut out for him. Third Baseman Bill Elwert and Pitcher Heinie Berger, coming from Nashville, are the only two men who have not yet reported.

Tom Wilson is due to perform back of the plate most of the time, with Scott, a youngster, showing up good as second string catcher. Bill Hille is in good shape—in fact, Sentell says he is mighty well pleased with the prospects.

Galveston may not be winning a many practice games as some of 'em, but they don't count in the standings. So who cares? Not Sentell.

Boston Red Sox Are for Preparedness

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 18.—Telegrams received by the National Security league in response to inquiries addressed to prominent members of the baseball fraternity throughout the country indicate that all favor the movement for national defense, it was announced by officials of the security league here tonight.

W. E. Carrigan, manager of the Boston Americans, sent this message:

"We believe in preparedness as far as training is concerned—that's why we are at the springs."

"The Cincinnati team, which, according to Manager Charles Herzog, is composed of Irish, English, Scotch, Welsh, German and Italian descent," is unanimous in the belief that the United States "should so arm itself that no nation will venture to insult or attack it."

MERIDIAN 12, HILLSBORO 3.

Special to the Morning News.

Meridian, March 18.—Meridian College defeated Hillsboro Hi here yesterday by a score of 12 to 3. The features of the game a beautiful peg from centerfield by Rizer which cut a man off at the plate and the hitting of Red Wiggins, first baseman for Meridian, who secured three singles, a three-bagger and a home run out of six times up. J. Jones of the Meridian team also got a home run.

Errol Holt, second baseman for Meridian, broke his leg below the knee while sliding home in the seventh inning.

The Meridian team hit at will and was never in danger of losing the game. Loftin, who pitched for Hillsboro, was formerly of the Temple team of the Middle Texas league.

Score—	R.	H.
Meridian	12	15
Hillsboro	3	7

Plans for Big Fight Pronounced O. K.

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 18.—Chairman Wenick of the New York state athletic commission, stated today that the arrangements made by the management of Madison Square Garden and the promoters of the Willard-Moran bout, which is to be fought next Saturday night are satisfactory in every detail to himself and the other two commissioners.

The sale of tickets has been so brisk that every seat has been disposed of with the exception of the gallery reservations, which will be put on sale next Thursday.

Willard boxed three rounds each with Hemple, Monahan and Rodel today and then wrestled with Rodel for three minutes. The champion worked fast all the way.

Moran celebrated his twenty-ninth birthday by boxing five rounds in all with his three sparring partners. The Pittsburg man never looked in better condition. He is anxious to enter the ring as heavy as possible but declared today he did not think he could reach 205 pounds. He turned the scales today at 201 pounds.

Y. M. C. A. Athletes Having Busy Time

Last Thursday night the senior class organized a volley ball league that will last a month. This indoor game is catching hold of all the classes, and in a short time there will be lots of rivalry as to which class has the best team.

The junior high school class had one more week of their basketball league. The standing:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
McReynolds	5	1	.820
Jennings	5	1	.820
J. Harrison	3	3	.500
Wolfe	2	4	.333
Wallace	2	4	.333
Mayfield	2	4	.333

The junior boys have some material that some of the scouts of the big leagues ought to look over. They have a very close league of indoor baseball and they play hard. The standing:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Tigers, F. Rogers, Capt.	4	2	.666
Wolves, Holloway, captain	4	2	.666
Lions, Berkman, captain	3	3	.500

Little Rock Sells Shortstop Downey to Galveston Club

By the Associated Press.

Little Rock, Ark., March 18.—President Robert G. Allen of the Little Rock club of the Southern association announced tonight that he has sold Shortstop Tom Downey to the Galveston club of the Texas league.

Downey was purchased by Little Rock from the Kansas City club of the American association last year. President Allen said he was not certain that Downey will consent to play with Galveston.

He said that he had previously secured for Downey the management of the Topeka club of the Western league, but that Downey had insisted he will play on the Pacific coast or nowhere.

RIFLE MATCHES END.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, March 18.—Nine weeks of competition by rifle teams throughout the country under the auspices of the National Rifle association ended today. Final scores will be announced soon. Scores made by leaders in the three divisions during the last week were:

Colleges: Norwich, Washington State, Michigan Agricultural, 1000 each.

Secondary schools: St. John's, Delafield, Wis., 991.

High school, Iowa City 988.

BAYLOR WILL HOLD CLASS TRACK MEET ON SECOND OF APRIL

In order that there may be the regular class track meet at Baylor this year, and also that a number of men may be induced to come out for the sport, a date for the preliminary or class meet has been set for April 2. This meet will include all the various members of all the classes who wish to participate in it, just so they are eligible for work in a T. I. A. A. meet. These men also will have the incentive of winning for a place on the regular team.

The winners of the events will be the ones to make the trip with Captain Isaacks and Manager Porter as the university team. There will then be no doubt but that the very best men in school will represent the Baptists in the state meets and the Southwestern association meet. Up to this time there has been a plan of choosing the team from the material with whom the captain happened to be familiar, and it is the desire of the captain and manager this year to have the best possible team regardless of the personnel. There has been for the past several years growing intrest in track work here and if it were possible to have more meets here doubtless it would grow as rapidly as did soccer.

Porter on the half has been doing some near-record time and Mangum on the high jump has been doing record work, and it only remains for him to do that well in a meet to show what Baylor will have in the line of jumpers. Sitton is also doing near record work on the vault. Aside from these there are no others who look like sure first places in their events, but doubtless Baylor can count on a number of seconds in the series of events.

The first meet will be with Southwestern at Georgetown on April 15.

Thorpe Now Bats With Left Hand and Is Showing Up Well

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 19.—Jim Thorpe, the Sac and Fox Indian, Olympic prize winner and one of the greatest football players that ever donned gridiron armor, is making his last stand on the major league baseball diamond. Without question, one of the world's greatest athletes ever developed in America or any other portion of the world, Thorpe has made a name for himself in track and field sports, lacrosse, football and colleeb baseball. It was not until he undertook to play the latter game in the big leagues that he found a sport wherein he failed to shine with his accustomed brilliancy.

Fresh from his Olympic triupmhs at Stockholm and the subsequent sensational stripping away of these honors by the amateur athletic union on the charge that he was a professional, Thorpe was signed to play with the New York National league club by Manager John J. McGraw.

From the very beginning the redskin athlete ran like a deer in the outfield and on the bases, fielded well but was absolutely helpless before the curved pitching of the big league box stars.

Given a straight ball across the heart of the plate, Thorpe with his powerful arms and shoulders could and did lift the ball over the centerfielder's head with great regularity. The trouble was that the pitcher never made such a mistake but once. Thereafter Thorpe got nothing but curved pitching, and the Indian swung on the slants in vain.

Thorpe drifted from the major league to the minors and even there his helplessness at the plate caused him to be cast aside for a less sensational player who could bat in pinches. Through it all McGraw held firm to his belief that eventually Thorpe would master the art of hitting a curved delivery. This spring McGraw determined to give him another chance with the Giants at the training camp at Marlin, Texas.

There the redman was persuaded to try batting left-handed when he went to the plate and at once a decided improvement was noticed in his hitting. In his new position he showed ability to connect with the best of the early-spring curves and his admirers have taken hope. If it is demonstrated that Thorpe, batting left-handed, can land on the ball with his heavy black war club, there is a place for him with the Giants and McGraw's judgment will have been vindicated. If it is proved, however, that it is but a flash of batting ability then Thorpe and the big leagues will part company forever.

Many Autos in Bosque County.

Special to the Morning News.

Valley Mills, March 18.—Up to date 865 automobiles and motorcycles have been registered in Bosque county. Forty-seven of this number have been purchased this year, three times as many as were bought up to the same date last year. The county clerk states that the registers for 1916 will doubtless exceed that of 1915 as only 149 were purchased during the whole of that year.

MARKET REPORT

COTTON

New York.

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 18.—Press advices tending to strengthen the hope of peace by the end of this year seemed largely responsible for a moderate flurry of buying in the cotton market during today's late trading, with July contracts selling up from 12.07 to 12.18 and closing at 12.13. The general list closed steady at a net advance of 2 to 6 points.

The market was irregular during the early trading. Cables were relatively steady and the opening here was 1 to 3 points higher but prices soon eased off under scattered realizing, with May declining o 11.89 and October to 12.18.

Prices then steadied on the continued bullish character of southern spot news, favorable reports from the goods trade and continued dry weather in the southwest. London press advices to the effect that Lloyd's was asking very high rates for insurance against peace by the end of the year, seemed to make considerable impression on sentiment, but the demand did not become general or aggressive.

Some of the weather map readers thought they saw signs of cloudy weather for Texas by Monday and private forecasts of this nature may have had some influence on the early decline.

Clearances from the Pacific coast to Japan and China drew attention to the fact that exports to Japan are catching up with last year, being now only 47,000 bales behind last year's figures to the same date.

New Orleans.

By the Associated Press.

New Orleans, March 18.—The cotton market here had an easy undertone in the early trading today, but toward the close it firmed up sharply on the rise of 6 points in spots and in dispatches from France stating that high officials were claiming the end of the war was in sight. At the highest of the day the most active months were at a net advance of 9 to 10 points. The close was 8 to 9 up.

Around the opening the market felt selling pressure stimulated by reports of easiness in the price of Egyptian cotton in Liverpool and private forecasts of rain in Texas over Sunday. After the posting of the official forecast of fair weather for Texas, the market met good support, which was increased when the spot market was called higher.

Toward the close, buying was heavy for a short period.

WHEAT

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, March 18.—Possibilities of peace gave a fresh downward swing today to the wheat market. Quotations closed nervous, 1 to 1¼@1⅝c net lower, with May wheat $1.06¾@1.06⅞ and July at $1.05⅝. Corn finished ⅞@1 to 1⅛c down and oats off ⅝ to ⅝@¾c. Provisions wound up unchanged to 15 cents higher.

From start to finish wheat prices were ruled chiefly by selling which resulted from European suggestions that the end of hostilities was perhaps not altogether remote.

Bulls failed to derive any help from the absence of verification that German ships had been seized by Brazil. Dry weather complaints sent out by Texas and Oklahoma were likewise ignored, and so also were serious crop damage reports from Illinois and other central states.

Corn was bearishly affected by the decline in wheat.

Oats weakened with other grain.

Higher prices on hogs tended to lift provisions.

BAGDAD AGAIN IN PERIL AS RUSSIANS PUSH OFFENSIVE

Bridge of boats over Tigris River at Bagdad.

Bagdad, one of the oldest and most historic cities in the world, is again in peril of capture, as the Russians move down from the north to relieve the beleaguered British army at Kut-el-Amara. The ancient city is the most important point on the proposed Bagdad railroad. The unsuccessful offensive of the British aimed at Bagdad last year from a base on the Persian Gulf was designed to capture this city and frustrate all hopes of German interests of developing the country.

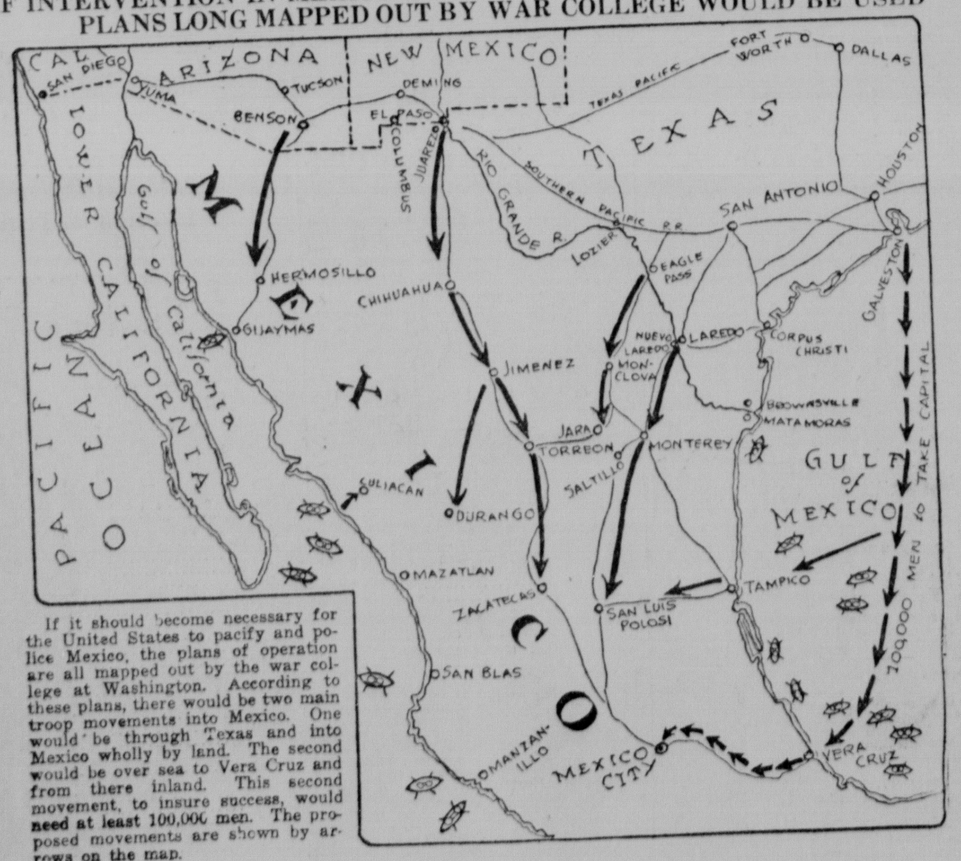
General Petain, who is now in command of the French forces defending Verdun, distinguished himself in the retreat from Charleroi in August, 1914, and became in rapid succession brigadier general, general of a division, general of an army corps and general of an army. He is in his sixtieth year and is active and energetic

IF INTERVENTION IN MEXICO SHOULD BECOME NECESSARY, PLANS LONG MAPPED OUT BY WAR COLLEGE WOULD BE USED



If it should become necessary for the United States to pacify and police Mexico, the plans of operation are all mapped out by the war college at Washington. According to these plans, there would be two main troop movements into Mexico. One would be through Texas and into Mexico wholly by land. The second would be over sea to Vera Cruz and from there inland. This second movement, to insure success, would need at least 100,000 men. The proposed movements are shown by arrows on the map.

Monthly Report of Librarian Is Made to Board Trustees

Following is the report of the Waco public library for the month of February, 1916:

Circulation:	Adult.	Juvenile.	Total.
1916	5,598	3,025	8,623
1915	5,506	2,140	7,646
	92	885	977
Registration:
1916	259	134	393
1915	164	72	236
	95	62	157

The library was open to the public 29 days and for the circulation of books 25 days. The circulation for the month amounted to 10,120. From the library proper there were borrowed 8,623 volumes and 92 pictures. From the collections in the schools were circulated 1,405 books. The largest circulation increase was in the children's department, there being 885 more books circulated than in February, 1915.

Three hundred and ninety-three readers made application for readers' cards during the month, an increase of 157 over February, 1915.

The four story hours of the month were attended by 256 children, 143 hearing the stories of the Niebelungelied told by Mr. Crouch and 113 the fairy tales and myths told by Miss Silbert.

Three hundred and eighty-two readers visited the reading rooms on the Sunday afternoons in February. These were distributed as follows: 202 men, 93 women and 87 children.

Thirty-two volumes have been added to the shelves since the last report. A number of these were purchased for the loan collection and others to supply requests. Donations of books and magazines were made by the following: Mrs. F. L. Bush, A. T. Godshaw, J. L. Hicks and R. A. Hanrick, Frederick Keppel & Son, the Mallander company, N. H. Smith & Co., Waco Transfer company and the Waco Furniture and Hardware company. Wolfe the Florist and J. M. Thompson kindly gave us roses and shrubs for the lawn.

A series of lessons on the use of the library are being given to the eighth grade in the high school. The pupils visit the library in groups and the arrangements of the books on the shelves, the use of the catalog, the reference books and the Reader's Guide to Periodical Literature are explained to them. It is hoped by this method to introduce the library to some who are not using it and to fit others so they may be able to use it to a greater advantage.

The annual inventory was continued and 925 books were cleaned and repaired during the month.

Very respectfully submitted,
PAULINE McCAULEY,
Librarian.

Many Autos in Bosque County.

Special to the Morning News.

Valley Mills, March 18.—Up to date 665 automobiles and motorcycles have been registered in Bosque county. Forty-seven of this number have been purchased this year, three times as many as were bought up to the same date last year. The county clerk states that the registers for 1916 will doubtless exceed that of 1915 as only 349 were purchased during the whole of that year.

MARKET REPORT

COTTON

New York.

By the Associated Press.

New York, March 18.—Press advices tending to strengthen the hope of peace by the end of this year seemed largely responsible for a moderate flurry of buying in the cotton market during today's late trading, with July contracts selling up from 12.07 to 12.18 and closing at 12.13. The general list closed steady at a net advance of 2 to 6 points.

The market was irregular during the early trading. Cables were relatively steady and the opening here was 1 to 3 points higher but prices soon eased off under scattered realizing, with May declining o 11.89 and October to 12.18.

Prices then steadied on the continued bullish character of southern spot news, favorable reports from the goods trade and continued dry weather in the southwest. London press advices to the effect that Lloyd's was asking very high rates for insurance against peace by the end of the year, seemed to make considerable impression on sentiment, but the demand did not become general or aggressive.

Some of the weather map readers thought they saw signs of cloudy weather for Texas by Monday and private forecasts of this nature may have had some influence on the early decline.

Clearances from the Pacific coast to Japan and China drew attention to the fact that exports to Japan are catching up with last year, being now only 47,000 bales behind last year's figures to the same date.

New Orleans.

By the Associated Press.

New Orleans, March 18.—The cotton market here had an easy undertone in the early trading today, but toward the close it firmed up sharply on the rise of 6 points in spots and in dispatches from France stating that high officials were claiming the end of the war was in sight. At the highest of the day the most active months were at a net advance of 9 to 10 points. The close was 8 to 9 up.

Around the opening the market felt selling pressure stimulated by reports of easiness in the price of Egyptian cotton in Liverpool and private forecasts of rain in Texas over Sunday. After the posting of the official forecast of fair weather for Texas, the market met good support, which was increased when the spot market was called higher.

Toward the close, buying was heavy for a short period.

WHEAT

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, March 18.—Possibilities of peace gave a fresh downward swing today to the wheat market. Quotations closed nervous, 1 to 1¼@1⅝c net lower, with May wheat $1.06⅝@1.06⅞ and July at $1.05⅝. Corn finished ⅝@1 to 1¼c down and oats off ⅝ to ⅝@¾c. Provisions wound up unchanged to 15 cents higher.

From start to finish wheat prices were ruled chiefly by selling which resulted from European suggestions that the end of hostilities was perhaps not altogether remote.

Bulls failed to derive any help from the absence of verification that German ships had been seized by Brazil. Dry weather complaints sent out by Texas and Oklahoma were likewise ignored, and so also were serious crop damage reports from Illinois and other central states.

Corn was bearishly affected by the decline in wheat.

Oats weakened with other grain.

Higher prices on hogs tended to lift provisions.

Futures ranged as follows:

Wheat.—	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.
May	1.07¼	1.07½	1.05⅝	1.06¾

BAGDAD AGAIN IN PERIL AS RUSSIANS PUSH OFFENSIVE

Bridge of boats over Tigris River at Bagdad.

Bagdad, one of the oldest and most historic cities in the world, is again in peril of capture, as the Russians move down from the north to relieve the beleaguered British army at Kut-el-Amara. The ancient city is the most important point on the proposed Bagdad railroad. The unsuccessful offensive of the British aimed at Bagdad last year from a base on the Persian Gulf was designed to capture this city and frustrate all hopes of German interests of developing the country.

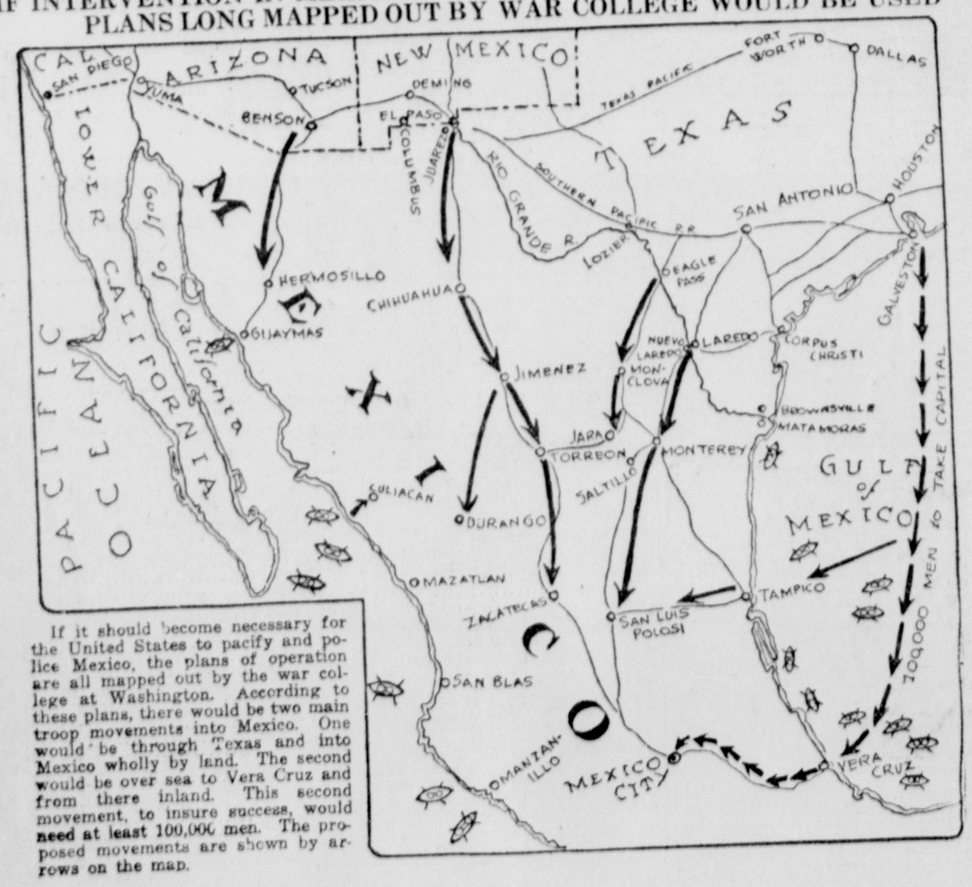
FRENCH GENERAL WHO HAS WON GREAT DISTINCTION IN WAR DEFENDS VERDUN

© by Underwood & Underwood

Gen. Petain (in immediate foreground) consulting with Gen. Baumgarten.

General Petain, who is now in command of the French forces defending Verdun, distinguished himself in the retreat from Charleroi in August, 1914, and became in rapid succession brigadier general, general of a division, general of an army corps and general of an army. He is in his sixtieth year and is active and energetic

IF INTERVENTION IN MEXICO SHOULD BECOME NECESSARY, PLANS LONG MAPPED OUT BY WAR COLLEGE WOULD BE USED



If it should become necessary for the United States to pacify and police Mexico, the plans of operation are all mapped out by the war college at Washington. According to these plans, there would be two main troop movements into Mexico. One would be through Texas and into Mexico wholly by land. The second would be over sea to Vera Cruz and from there inland. This second movement, to insure success, would need at least 100,000 men. The proposed movements are shown by arrows on the map.

Monthly Report of Librarian Is Made to Board Trustees

Following is the report of the Waco public library for the month of February, 1916:

Circulation:

	Adult.	Juvenile.	Total.
1916	5,598	3,025	8,623
1915	5,506	2,140	7,646
	92	885	977
Registration:
1916	259	134	393
1915	164	72	236
	95	62	157

The library was open to the public 29 days and for the circulation of books 25 days. The circulation for the month amounted to 10,120. From the library proper there were borrowed 8,623 volumes and 92 pictures. From the collections in the schools were circulated 1,405 books. The largest circulation increase was in the children's department, there being 885 more books circulated than in February, 1915.

Three hundred and ninety-three readers made application for readers' cards during the month, an increase of 157 over February, 1915.

The four story hours of the month were attended by 256 children, 143 hearing the stories of the Niebelungelied told by Mr. Crouch and 113 the fairy tales and myths told by Miss Silbert.

Three hundred and eighty-two readers visited the reading rooms on the Sunday afternoons in February. These were distributed as follows: 202 men, 93 women and 87 children.

Thirty-two volumes have been added to the shelves since the last report. A number of these were purchased for the loan collection and others to supply requests. Donations of books and magazines were made by the following: Mrs. F. L. Bush, A. T. Godshaw, J. L. Hicks and R. A. Hanrick, Frederick Keppel & Son, the Mallander company, N. H. Smith & Co., Waco Transfer company and the Waco Furniture and Hardware company. Wolfe the Florist and J. M. Thompson kindly gave us roses and shrubs for the lawn.

A series of lessons on the use of the library are being given to the eighth grade in the high school. The pupils visit the library in groups and the arrangements of the books on the shelves, the use of the catalog, the reference books and the Reader's Guide to Periodical Literature are explained to them. It is hoped by this method to introduce the library to some who are not using it and to fit others so they may be able to use it to a greater advantage.

The annual inventory was continued and 925 books were cleaned and repaired during the month.

Very respectfully submitted,

PAULINE McCAULEY,
Librarian.

PURIM FESTIVAL IS TO BE CELEBRATED

PLAYLET WILL BE GIVEN AT TEMPLE RODEF SHOLOM THIS AFTERNOON.

Celebration Is Based on a History Wonderfully Fascinating in Human Annals.

The Purim festival will be celebrated by the entire religious school of Temple Rodef Sholom promptly at 3:30 this afternoon. Practically every pupil will be a participant in the celebration. The exercises will begin with a brief and appropriate service, after which a playlet will be given. It will start with the kindergarten and conclude with a playlet entitled, "The Trial of Mordecai." Owing to the fact that a large attendance will be present, it is requested that parents come early so that there will be no confusion during the exercises.

Meaning of Purim.

Following is an account of what Purim means:

"The festival of Purim is based on the account given in the Book of Esther. This account comprises the romantic career of a Jewish maiden who rises from obscurity to the throne of Persia. Her womanly charms bring her the admiration of a king and her tact and discretion save her kindred in a tragic hour of danger. The story is typical of the persecutions to which Jews have been subjected and of the providential rescues they have had in their eventful history. It has accordingly acquired significance and popularity, not only as a book for reading, but also as a basis for festive edification.

"The Book of Esther describes types of character in strong contrasts, the king dispensing favors and frowns according to his mood; a wily minister of state, conceited, selfish and without conscience to satisfy his greed and ambition; the Jew, humble and true to kindred and people to the utmost limits of self-sacrifice, and, finally, the queen, representative of Jewish womanhood, who combines modesty and grace with the resources and strength of an unperturbed loyalty.

"It happened long ago, when the Jews dwelt in Persia and Artaxerxes was king. Haman was prime minister, and Mordecai the Jew had fostered Esther the orphan girl with the love and ardor of a father. Haman was jealous of Mordecai, whom, because of a timely service he had rendered, the 'king had delighted to honor.' And Haman had contrived a splendid scheme to remove the favorite. He had persuaded the king that it would be a good and profitable policy to extirpate the Jews. But he had forgotten to provide against the influence of a pure woman whose pleadings would be as irresistible as they were genuine. Esther prevails and saves her people. Haman is overwhelmed, swept out of power and loses his life. Justice is vindicated at last.

"It is customary to read the Book of Esther during the evening and following the morning services from a copy written on parchment. Such a scroll-copy is called a Megillah.

"The festival of Purim is celebrated by the Jews in the happiest spirit, as befits the story and its meaning. It might be called the carnival of the Jews. In many communities it is marked by social festivities and masquerades, but it is free from every kind of excess. It is associated, as already the Book of Esther provides, with an interchange of gifts among friends and remembrances to the poor. In our day Purim is joyously observed by children under the auspices of the religious schools."

MONEY TO LOAN TO BUILD HOMES

This company now offers loans on improved Waco residence property, and having operated throughout Texas for over 25 years, has assisted thousands in securing their own homes. The loans of this company are, with a few exceptions, made on homes, either to build or to remove existing incumbrances. Men who have transferred their mortgages into this company find that they are now paying principle and interest as easily as they have heretofore paid the interest alone. The reason is plain: The payments are always the same and are due at fixed intervals. Every mortgage made by this company contains a clause providing for its discharge after a fixed number of payments have been made, unless sooner discharged through maturity. The mortgagor has the option to pay off his mortgage in full, or in part, at any time without having to pay any unearned interest. A loan from this company has to be adjusted but once. There is no annual uneasiness. Each month takes care of itself. The burden is easily distributed throughout the whole time. There is absolutely no delay in furnishing a loan through this company.

ASSETS $3,000,000.00.

MONEY TO LOAN TO BUILD HOMES

This company now offers loans on improved Waco residence property, and having operated throughout Texas for over 25 years, has assisted thousands in securing their own homes. The loans of this company are, with a few exceptions, made on homes, either to build or to remove existing incumbrances. Men who have transferred their mortgages into this company find that they are now paying principle and interest as easily as they have heretofore paid the interest alone. The reason is plain: The payments are always the same and are due at fixed intervals. Every mortgage made by this company contains a clause providing for its discharge after a fixed number of payments have been made, unless sooner discharged through maturity. The mortgagor has the option to pay off his mortgage in full, or in part, at any time without having to pay any unearned interest. A loan from this company has to be adjusted but once. There is no annual uneasiness. Each month takes care of itself. The burden is easily distributed throughout the whole time. There is absolutely no delay in furnishing a loan through this company.

ASSETS $3,000,000.00.
